Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

RUSH SERVICES

Rush Services LLC has been a local heating and air conditioning specialist for more than two decades and is now offering air duct cleaning and a full service metal fabrication shop.

Barry Rush, who has been operating in this line of work for over 35 years, and his wife Gretchen operate the business, which is headquartered on Mosser Road in McHenry. They are also preparing to break ground on a second shop location on Mosser Road.

In addition to these services, Barry and his 16 employees offer sales, installation, and service of heating or air conditioning and commercial refrigeration, and plumbing, electrical, and appliance repair.

"We feel that our business is unique not only because it is family owned and operated, but because of our slow and steady growth that assures our customers that their needs are being met by the most qualified and trained service technicians," said Barry.

"We not only install heating and A/C systems, but we design and manufacture a system that is right for your home or commercial property, based on the needs of the occupants," he added.

Barry added that they plan to continue to offer new products and services to best meet the needs of the community.

The new duct cleaning system the company now uses incorporates a combination of brushes as well as air flow to make the duct work like new.

"Indoor air quality is more than just how cool or warm the air is," said Josh Rush. "Just because air is coming out of the vent doesn't mean your home's heating and air conditioning system is working efficiently. Poor indoor air quality contributes to many health problems, such as allergies, bronchitis, and asthma."

They also now offer a full service metal fabrication shop. Brent Lewis, who has more than 15 years of experience, will custom manufacture materials including sheet metal, copper, and stainless steel to meet the customer's heating, air conditioning, ventilation, or commercial application.

Barry added that customers can request service contracts on a quarterly, semi-annual, or annual basis. "This takes the worry out of remembering to have your heating or air conditioning system serviced," he said.

They can be reached at 301-387-6481. Emergency service is also available.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

The annual Bittinger Picnic will be held Saturday, Aug. 20, beginning at 11 a.m. at the Bittinger fire hall. Barbecued chicken will be available, as well as many other delicious food items. Fun, games, and music will occur throughout the day. Come and join the fun for Bittinger's annual homecoming.

The annual interdenominational vesper service will be held at the Garrett County Fairgrounds on Sunday, Aug. 14, at 6:30 p.m., preceding the Farm Queen Contest.

Something new I spotted in my yard was a deep crack in the soil. In previous years we had rain every few days, but now it has been dry and the rain spotty. If that thunder that I am hearing over Negro Mountain does not develop into rain it will be a big disappointment for me. It was scary for me the other night when we lost our power for some unknown reason. Many in the area lost the power about 6 p.m. Saturday, but others, like my mother, sister, and a few others around, did not lose theirs until 10:30 p.m. Power was off until around 1 a.m. I think quite a few in our area were affected.

I was stupid enough on Sunday afternoon to go to the market in McHenry, as the roads were packed with tourists and locals. Garrett Highway was extremely busy, but I did survive the trip.

If we don't soon get rain even my sunflowers will die, and the blackberries, elderberries, and other crops will suffer. I want those blackberries because I believe that that one staple contributed to my grandfather's (Orval Glotfelty) long life. Grandmother Emma canned many quarts of them for their winter months.

I always enjoyed our trip to the blackberry patch back in the hemlock woods. Of course, I can't get there now. I know that our big, thick blackberry patch must be loaded this year with big, fat, young berries.

The key to a good diet is eating foods of all colors. Red is easy, with tomatoes, strawberries, and apples, and then there is the yellow squash and corn, along with green broccoli, spinach, and beans. Orange is covered by pumpkins, carrots, and squash. Brown is whole grains, with white now out of fashion, but we do have patches of little white strawberries. Of course, we have breads, pastas, and potatoes. The closest to black food are the blackberries. I guess the real goal is to eat as much variety as possible.

With the little shower of rain coming down I can almost hear a big sigh of relief from my maple tree.

A few years ago we had a popular song, "Rainy Days and Mondays Always Get Me Down"; however, yesterday (Monday) was a rainy day, but the rain was so welcome and delightful that it lifted my spirit so much, almost as much as it made our fields and lawns feel. It ended too soon.

I think August is the cruelest month, not April as T. S. Eliot opined. After all, August means that summer is almost over. School is right around the corner. My Meredith is due to start high school already. It is not quite as scary as when I was a kid, as we went to high school in the seventh grade. At least Meredith is 14 going into the ninth grade. Still, Meredith, Emma Bass, and Claire Vallarno are in for a major transition in their lives.

Speaking of transition, our Pastor Pat Pittsnogle has accepted a call to a Christ Lutheran Church in Milton, Pa., and will be leaving the last of August. She will be about 12 miles from Keith's church. Pastor Pat's last service in the parish will be Aug. 28.

The council at a recent meeting agreed to accept the offer of one of our past pastors, Pastor James Mitchell, to serve as our interim pastor until we are able to find a new one. He will be moving in from Colorado, and he and wife Norma will be occupying our parsonage. We can be thankful to have Pastor Mitchell for this transition period. It will be a big job for one person, having to serve three churches, but hopefully Pastor Jim will be up for it again. Pastor Mitchell was here when my father Bob died, and he also married my mother and Dino a few years later. So it will be good to have him back.

The winner of the Rec. League baseball playoffs was our team, Casselman Valley, with players Matthew and Scott Bass, and Tyler Southerly from Bittinger. They clinched the win at Northern High School last Friday evening, winning 10-1, with five of our players hitting home runs. Now I guess it will be time to start soccer and football.

The coming end of summer will mean our college kids going off again to their respective colleges. They all have had a busy summer going to camps and working. The kids in Northern Band are at Camp Hickory this week practicing for their season's music and marching. Among them are Scott Bass, Darryl and Elliot Glotfelty, Caitlin Sussman, and Hannah Hare.

A birthday celebration was held Sunday afternoon at the Bittinger fire hall honoring Lottie Brenneman on her 80th birthday. About 100 family and friends attended. Lottie looked great and is looking forward to many more good years.

New members received at Sunday morning church service at Emmanuel Lutheran Church were Mike and Nancy Ruff and their children Michael, Alex, Nick, and Allison. Also receiving their first communion were Justin McLawhorn, Cameron Newman, Nicholas Ruff, and Allison Yommer.

Pastor Kim Erno, Lutheran missionary in Mexico, will be in the Bittinger Parish on Tuesday, Aug. 16. Pastor Erno will spend the afternoon with Pastor Pat touring our congregations and communities, and attending the Garrett County Fair. That evening a potluck supper will be held at Emmanuel, beginning at 5:30 p.m. Bring your family, friends, and a covered dish to share and meet our partner in ministry in Mexico.

Lea Pochet, Dayton, Ohio, spent part of last week with her family, Sam and Cindy Stanton. While here she attended an 8th birthday celebration for Alayna Wier at the home of her parents, Aaron and Patty Stanton. Others attending were the Poholskys, the Stantons, Ferne Beachy, Dave, Nancy, and Teagen Beachy, and Shiriss, Tony, Shelby, and T.T. Hankins.

Linda Buckel, Ferne Beachy, Mary Simpson, and Barbara Flinn attended the meeting of the Synod Women of the ELCA held Aug. 5 and 6 at St. Timothy's Lutheran Church in Charleston, W.Va.

The fourth annual Walk & Rock fundraiser for the Dove Center was held late last month at the Loch Lynn pavilion. Thirty-nine persons took part in the event, raising $2,695 for domestic violence and sexual assault victims.

"Without the support of all the businesses and individuals listed [below], the Walk & Rock would not have been a success," said a Dove Center spokesperson. "Thank you to everyone who contributed in any way. The Dove Center appreciates the community's support."

The top fundraiser was Phyllis Trickett with $1,235. She received a two-day, two-night ski vacation for two people courtesy of Canaan Valley Resort & Conference center, a bath basket, and a $25 gift certificate from Perkins Restaurant & Bakery.

The second-place fundraiser was Nancy Umbel with $400. She received a certificate for a four-hour pontoon rental courtesy of Deep Creek Marina, a car-care bucket, and a gift certificate from Annie's Kitchen Country Restaurant.

The most mature participant was DeCorsey Bolden, who received a $25 gift certificate from Country Treasures, two passes to the Garrett County Fair courtesy of Dorsey Guard, and a restaurant gift certificate.

Certificates of participation and pens were distributed to all participants, and door prizes were given to some of them. See nearby photo caption for the participants' names.

The following businesses also donated to the event: Buggie Bear Station, Bunny Hop, Cobblestone Alley Gift Shoppe, Cornish Manor Restaurant & Lounge, Estetica Salon & Day Spa, Foodland Fresh, Funland Family Fun Center, Get 'N' Go, Hair Facts, High Mountain Sports, Little Sandy's, Oakland Car Wash, Oakland Golf Club, Sweetwater Grill, Sewickley Spa, Uno's, Wal-Mart, Will O' the Wisp, and the Garrett County Fair Board.

Additionally, Patty Lohr was the photographer for the Walk & Rock, and Tiffany Beck distributed flyers prior to the event.

"Jail N' Bail" Hospice Benefit Set At GC Fair

Hospice of Garrett County will host its annual "Jail N' Bail" fundraiser at the Garrett County Fair beginning Monday, Aug. 15, and continuing throughout the fair week from 6 to 9 p.m. each evening. A warden's list of 29 well-known local "prisoners" will be "jailed," and will be accepting "bail" in the form of donations for Hospice to ensure their releases.

"Donations for these prisoners' releases will help Hospice expand services and continue to serve the terminally ill patients and their families in Garrett County," stated Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice of Garrett County. "Hospice provides care for the terminally ill patients, such as home health care, medications, medical equipment, and medical supplies."

Slated to sit behind bars during the fundraiser are the following prisoners: George "Lucky" Edwards, Lynn "Sour Dough" Patton, John "Dog Face" Braskey, Ed "Rooster" King, Brenda "Bench Warrant Brenda" Dixon, Larry "Throw Away Key" Gnegy, Janet "Giggles" Sisler, Amy "Blondie" Welch, John "Been In Jail" Toston, and Charlie "Chamber Charlie" Ross.

Also hoping to be sprung from the pokey that week are Angela "Barbwire" Blythe, Bob "Bullet Bob" Watson, Rita "Smiley" Watson, Ron "Maytag" Friend, Gayle "Royal Queen Mum" Miller, Randy "Friar of Robin Hood" Narin, Ann "Annie Oakley" Collins, Lou "Stained Glass Man" DiCarlo, Sid and Sandy "Rough Riders" Nazelrod, Cheryl "Elena" and Matt "Zorro" Scheffel, Chris "Aladdin" Miller, Jordan "Jasmine" Zais, and Freda "Ssenippah" Quintero.

Readers of The Republican can get a closer look at these prisoners by consulting the Jail N' Bail advertisement that appears in today's paper.

Deputies for the week will be Linda Patton, Brenda Butscher, Sheryl MacLane, Mary Frazee, Mary Frantz, Cherie Ross, Natalie Newhall, Denise Gerard, Mary Bennett, and Kelley Rinker.

"We greatly appreciate donations of bail money to help provide our services, purchase clinical supplies and medications for our patients," said Butscher. "All donations are tax deductible."

Back-To-School Night Slated At Southern High

Southern High School will host a back-to-school night on Tuesday, Aug. 23, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the school cafetorium.

All parents and students are urged to attend in order to meet with teachers, advisors, counselors, and administrators.

Refreshments will be provided.

Passenger Injured After Falling Out Of Moving Truck

The passenger in a Ford truck fell from the vehicle and hit his head on the ground and the front fender of the vehicle early Friday morning, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Jeffrey Eugene Travis, Oakland, allegedly leaned against the passenger door when it opened, and he fell out, police said. The vehicle was operated by Charles David Knox of Oakland.

Travis was treated at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Thank You

The family of the late William Vernon Bowser wishes to extend our most sincere appreciation to family and friends for their concern during the passing of our loved one.

Our gratitude goes out to the Garrett County Rescue Squad and the doctors & staff of Ruby Memorial Hospital.

We would also like to extend our gratitude to Newman's Funeral Home, Rev. Oren Bender and all the wonderful people who expressed their sympathy through flowers, cards and food.

A special thanks goes out to Julia Sines and Cheryl Maclane for all their hard work in the arranging and serving of the dinner.

Thank you all very much and God Bless.

AAUW Awards Scholarship To W.Va. Resident

The American Association of University Women 's 2005 Garrett College Foundation Scholarship recipient, Heidi Livengood, was introduced to local AAUW members at a picnic this summer. The event was held at the home of Marilyn Moors, Garrett County branch AAUW president.

The daughter of Bill and Wendy Livengood, Heidi is a 2005 graduate of Preston High School. She is a member of the National Honor Society and was an honor roll student every year of her high school career. During this time she was also involved in community service projects with the Ronald McDonald House, active in the Hazelton Church Youth Group, and worked a part-time job.

Heidi has chosen to attend Garrett College to begin working on her life goal. She wants to become an assistance dog trainer, which is a professional who trains companion dogs to help people with limited mobility. The dogs help them accomplish daily tasks, such as pulling wheelchairs, turning lights on and off, and picking items up off the floor.

This has been Heidi's career choice since the eighth grade, when she won the West Virginia Social Studies Fair with her service dog project.

For the past two years, she has volunteered more than 200 hours with the Golden Rule Assistance Dog Program and was nominated by her supervisor for the President's Student Service Award, which she later received.

"I love working with and training dogs, and I love working with people," Heidi said at the picnic. "Training assistance dogs is a great way to combine the two."

Her goal is to earn an associate of science degree from the Assistance Dog Institute (ADI) in California. As a requirement for that program, Heidi must demonstrate her competence by earning 24 general education college credits, which can be transferred to the ADI program. She will complete those credits at Garrett College during the coming academic year.

The AAUW members at the picnic offered her their congratulations and their best wishes for her educational career. The members' volunteer work provided the funds for Heidi's scholarship.

Thank You

I would like to thank everyone who helped make my 94th birthday so special. It was so good to see everyone.

Thank you all for the gifts, cards, and especially your prayers. Also a special thank you to Pastor Nairn for taking time out of his busy schedule to attend. I am blessed to have a wonderful family and loving, caring friends.

Love to each of you,
Mary Margaret Knox

CLASSMATES SOUGHT

The East Preston class of 1981 will observe its 25th anniversary next summer. Classmates are being contacted about the event. Those who have not be contacted yet are asked to contact Carla Strahin at 304-789-6217 or carlams@iceweb.net.

CLUB TO TOUR

All are invited to join members of the Cranberry Garden Club next Thursday, Aug. 18, at 10 a.m. for a tour of Harold Hudnall's moss garden, located near Oakland. Mr. Hudnall has created a unique garden with varieties of mosses, and was featured on the Mt. Laurel Garden Tour several years ago. Participants should bring a bag lunch for a short business meeting in the garden after the tour.

Members interested in carpooling from Terra Alta should meet at the Alpine Lake Lodge parking lot at 9:30 a.m. The club meets on the third Thursday of the month and is open to men and women of all ages. Persons may call Nancy Reger at 304-789-5927 for more information.

NEW PLAYGROUND

Local volunteers will install new playground equipment in Terra Alta Town Park the weekend of Sept. 10-11. A "tot lot," a large play structure for ages 5-12, and new swings will make up the configuration of the new play area. There will also be several benches and a trash receptacle.

The equipment arrives pre-drilled and pre-measured, and with the help of a supervisor from the manufacturer directing them, the volunteers expect to finish the main construction over the weekend.

Residents of Terra Alta, for the past two years, have provided input about their vision for renovating the park through the WVU Community Design Team process and the recently completed park master plan. Working with the engineering firm of E. L. Robinson from Charleston on developing the master plan, the residents determined that a new playground was one of the most important features to update. Terra Alta Betterment Inc. received grant money for the master plan and the playground from Vandalia Heritage Foundation with supplemental funding for the playground from the State of West Virginia, the Terra Alta Civic Club, and individuals. Terra Alta Betterment is currently writing grants to obtain funding for the next proposed project: a paved walking trail through the park that will eventually connect to the East Preston Middle School walking track.

Terra Alta Betterment is currently signing up volunteers for September 10 and 11. Each shift will be four hours. Persons who can spare a morning or an afternoon to help are welcome, along with donating refreshments for the volunteers. Those interested are asked to call Town Hall at 304-789-6664, the Regers at 304-789-5927, or Carol Burdick at 304-789-6864 to sign up to help.

TRAIL MARKED

TABI members Danny Hull and Carol and Larry Burdick marked the Evans Curve section of the West Virginia Scenic Trails Association trail on Sunday. Most of the trail is in good shape for walking, biking, and horse riding.

ATV owners and riders have been keeping this section of the Allegheny trail passable and clean. However, the last mile has been badly eroded by rain storms. This problem and how to deal with it will be discussed at the next TABI meeting, set for August 15. Anyone interested in this project is asked to contact Carol Burdick at 304-789-6864.

Mayor Feather has arranged a meeting with state delegate Debbie Stevens, for Monday, Aug. 22, at 7:30 p.m. at Town Hall (the regular TABI meeting). It is hoped there will be a good turnout for this meeting.

TABI notes its appreciation to William and Mildred Lipscomb for their donations in memory of Harold Sereno, and to Mary Jo Gregg for her donation in memory of William Harriman, to be used for Terra Alta Veterans Memorial Park.

WELLNESS CENTER OPEN

Terra Alta now has a new place in town: Terra Alta Wellness Center. This is a non-profit group located upstairs at the Fit and Fabulous building, room #3. The phone number is 304-789-2205. There will be an open house and health fair on Sept. 17. More information will follow at the open house.

Residents are invited to attend the next meeting and find out some of the plans for the center. The Terra Alta Health Toppers will meet Thursday, Aug. 18, at 6 p.m. upstairs at the Fit & Fabulous building.

LIONS CLUB NEWS

Chelsea Freeland won the Free Easter basket donated by East Preston Floral.

Teresa Ray was awarded the $500 TA Lions PHS Scholarship in May.

Brad Bolyard of High Mountain Contractors will be donating materials and labor for the Route 7 pull-off picnic area. Chas Minor of Homes for All Seasons donated $100 for materials.

The club is currently selling tickets for a Savage bolt action rifle or a 27-inch color TV with DVD player. Tickets are $1 each and six for $5. Persons may contact President Christopher DeLauder for tickets. The drawing will be held during the Sept. 6 meeting.

The club provided dinner for the band members of Phil Dirt and the Dozers during their concert, sponsored by the TAEDC. TAEDC donated $250 to the TA Lions.

The club sold hot dogs, hamburgers and french fries during the Old Fashioned 4th in the park. Club funds are used for eye glasses and community-minded donations.

The club will hold its District Governor's meeting in October, which will be co-sponsored with Mountain Lions of Aurora.

Terra Alta Lions invite others to join the club. Those interested, and those needing an eye glass application, may contact Chris Delauder at 304-789-2139.

PICNIC SLATED

The VFW and Auxiliary picnic will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. this Saturday, Aug. 13, at the Post on Washington Street. Members will be serving roast pork, jalapeno and cheese-stuffed hot dogs, corn, and baked beans. Those attending are asked to bring a covered dish. Everyone is welcome.

POKER RUN SET

The Moose Lodge will have a benefit poker run (mostly motorcycles) this Sunday, Aug. 14, to help Megan Lantz. First prize will be $500 or 25% of the take, whichever is greater.

HISTORIC TOUR

A historic bus tour of Terra Alta will be led by Barbara Beerbower and Joyce Cotter from 1 to 4 p.m. on August 18. Cost of the tour is $5. Participants are to meet at City Hall. Persons may call Joyce at 304-789-6229 or City Hall for reservations.

PANTRY DRIVE SET

Terra Alta Food Pantry is having a back-to-school drive. School supplies are "desperately needed" by Terra Alta children. Boxes have been set up at Gregg's Pharmacy, Fit & Fabulous, and Shop and Save, or persons may drop off goods at the food pantry between 12:30 and 3:30 p.m. The pantry is located behind Dairy Mart.

LIBRARY NEWS

Brenda Sweeting presented a set of five American Girl Series by Valerie Trip for level II reading.

Megan Lantz donated a copy of Gift of Life by Henri Landwirth and Birnbaum's Walt Disney World, edited by Steven Birnbaum. This donation followed Megan's family trip to Disney World.

Footprints, Memories That Last a Lifetime, An Anthology of Prose and Poetry, written by several different authors, was given by Barbara Beerbower, part-time resident of Florida/Terra Alta. This book was composed by Pinawar Writers Group from Pinellas County, Fla., where Barbara is a member. One of her numerous memoirs is included.

Judy Wiles was the reader for Story Hour last week. Judy read about spiders, the children sang about spiders, and then they made edible spiders. Judy has been a volunteer for Story Hour on many occasions.

Donating books, periodicals, pamphlets, and tapes recently have been Cindy Cramer, Linda Testerman, John Taylor, Albert Ossman, Brian Schoolcraft, Gloria McCloud, Mike Hartley and Lily Spamer.

Cathy Nardi from Florida has mailed new audios to the library and has several others on the way.

"OUT OF THIS WORLD -- Air and Space Exploration" was the theme of the summer program for seventh and eighth grade students at Northern Middle School. A total of 14 students came to school daily from 9 a.m. to noon for three weeks to enrich their math and language skills. The program consisted of hands-on activities and small, individual cooperative activities. Students constructed hot air balloons, model rockets, and various types of aircraft while reading, researching, analyzing, and calculating formulas that involved the study of flight. They participated in a Galaxy Quest on the computer to research the history of space travel and hot air balloons. Bruce Taliaferro led the students through a Global Positioning System (GPS) activity at Camp Hickory. The program concluded with a rocket launching from the NMS grounds. Guest speakers included Dave Burgess from the U.S. Air Force and Van Anderson from Fun Aviation Inc. Participating students included Adam Beitzel, Alecia Bender, Greg Blocker, Justin Brant, Kristy Dawson, Ashley Eggleston, Brody Fike, Hannah Fike, Tori Holtschneider, Susan Jedlowski, Terra McKenzie, Justin McLowhorn, Danielle Rickelmann, and William Thatcher. Instructors included Sharon Settle, Rebecca Kenyon, and Mike SanJulian. Participating students are pictured above as they learn about hot air balloon safety and liftoff.

Arthurdale Group To Hold Dance

Arthurdale Heritage Inc. will hold an Old-Time Dance on Friday, Aug. 19, from 7 until 10 p.m. The event will feature square dance music by Dave Dahl.

The cost is $4 per person. For more information, persons may call the AHI office at 304-864-3953.

TA Wesleyan To Hold Fundraiser For New Church

Members of the Terra Alta Wesleyan Church will hold a gospel sing and pig roast dinner on Saturday, Aug. 20, to raise funds for a new church. Their former church was destroyed by arson fire on April 8, 2004.

"We received insurance money for the old church building, but with the increased cost of building materials and labor, we find ourselves in need of raising some funds to complete our new facility," said Rev. Steve White.

Activities will begin at 2 p.m. with a gospel concert by Living Water, followed by various other performers. Tim Raines, a Christian magician, is also scheduled.

The dinner, complete with fixings, will be served at 5 p.m. The cost is $10 per person. Donations will also be appreciated and may be dropped in the church's building-fund bank.

"Please come out and look over our building project, spend the afternoon and evening with our church family, and help us celebrate our church's goal to serve the people of our surrounding area," White said.

Those attending the fundraiser are asked to bring lawn chairs. The church is located at the west end of Terra Alta next to Shop 'N' Save.

For more information about this free event, persons may call 304-789-2205 or 304-789-6585.

LaVerne Tripp To Present Concert At Kingwood Church

Award-winning gospel singer and songwriter LaVerne Tripp and his wife Edith will hold a free concert on Saturday, Aug. 27, at 7 p.m. at Wesley United Methodist Church in Kingwood. A good-will offering will be taken.

Tripp, who was the lead singer for the Blue Ridge Quartet, has traveled throughout the world with his song revival. The couple now travels weekly on their Freedom Tour to churches across America and around the world, sharing their songs and message of hope.

"During the past 29 years of [their] ministry, over 500 souls have been born into the Kingdom of God," said a church spokesperson. The ministry also has built Bible schools, churches, and children's homes, and sponsors 300 adopted children in India, according to the spokesperson.

Tripp has recorded 77 gospel music albums and has been nominated eight times for Christian music's Dove Awards. In 2001, the Christian Country Music Association presented him with the Living Legend Award at the Ryman Auditorium in Nashville, Tenn.

Wesley United Methodist Church is located at 107 West High Street. The minister is Pastor Paul Mateer. For additional information, persons may call 304-329-0707.

Recognized By Preston Memorial

Garrett County native Leslie Williams was named Preston Memorial Hospital's Employee of the Month for July. The registered nurse is employed by the hospital's home health program.

Williams is a graduate of Southern High School, Fairmont State University, and West Virginia University.

Williams resides in Kingwood with her husband Terry and children Dustin and Emily. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Kight of Oakland.

Mtn. Dale Church Schedules Revival

The Mountain Dale Church of the Brethren, Big Bear Lake, will hold revival services Wednesday, Aug. 17, through Saturday, Aug. 20, at 7 p.m. each evening.

The guest speaker will be Michael Fike, and special singing will be presented. The public is welcome.

SANDRA BEACHY

CHAD BEAN

TABITHA BEITZEL

VANESSA LOGAN

The Garrett College Foundation awarded a number of scholarships for the 2005-06 academic year. The following four scholarships were established by Garrett County service organizations to help local students defray the cost of their college education.

Sandra Lynn Beachy, a 2005 graduate of Northern High School, was awarded a Deep Creek Lake Lions Scholarship to pursue a bachelor's degree in teaching. She is majoring in early childhood education at Garrett College and intends to become a preschool or kindergarten teacher.

Sandra volunteered as a tutor for the after school program at the Grantsville Senior Center, and is a Sunday School teacher at the Little Meadows Baptist Church, where she is also a member of the youth group. She is an AYSO soccer player, and likes to read science fiction and fantasy novels, and enjoys hunting, collecting dolls, and working with children.

Sandra is the daughter of Keith and Terry Beachy of Grantsville. Her mother was a past recipient of a scholarship and is now the program coordinator for the Grantsville Outreach Center.

Chad Edward Bean received the MeadWestvaco Scholarship. A 2005 graduate of Southern High School, he plans to attend Garrett College for his first year or two, then transfer to a four-year college to major in electronic engineering.

A winner of the USAA National Band Award, Chad plays alto sax, piano, harmonica, flute, acoustic and electric guitar, and bass. He received Who's Who recognition twice. Chad likes to walk, bike, skateboard, and snowboard, and has worked part-time at Sheetz.

He is the son of Keith and Debbie Bean of Deer Park.

Tabitha Dawn Beitzel, a 2003 NHS graduate, was awarded the Knights of Columbus Oakland Council #1771 Scholarship. She is majoring in elementary education and wants to become a math teacher.

Tabitha was a member of the NHS volleyball team and was vice president of the math committee. She had an opportunity to attend a math committee meeting in Hawaii last summer.

Tabitha's hobbies include scrapbooking and taking pictures. She worked at the local Subway.

Tabitha is the daughter of John Paul and Rena Arlene Beitzel of Accident.

Vanessa Fay Logan, a 2004 SHS graduate, received the Oakland Rotary Scholarship. She is enrolled in the general studies at Garrett, and is pursuing a career goal of becoming a surgeon.

A member of the National Honor Society, Vanessa was recognized by Who's Who. At Southern she was a member of the varsity soccer team, the Sixth Man Club, and served as a staff writer and cartoonist for the school newspaper, The Acorn. She is active in the Appalachian Beekeepers Association.

She was a member of Country Kids 4-H Club, Summer League Softball, and Arsenal Soccer. Her hobbies include snowboarding, reading, shopping, writing, and computer technology.

The daughter of Johnny and Susan Logan, Vanessa is the first person in her immediate family to attend college.

Concert, Camp Planned At Camp Sonrise

"Sonworship," a concert and overnight camp, has been planned for Friday, Aug. 19, at Camp Sonrise Mountain. The campground is located along the Mason-Dixon Line off Rt. 42 between Friendsville and Markleysburg, Pa.

Six regional bands have been scheduled, including the Cherry Glade Praise Band, Uncommon Way, Shannon Good, Solomon's Porch, the John Wyrick Band, and the Oak Dale Worship Band. Jerry W. Rogers of Spirit 101.1 FM will serve as master of ceremonies.

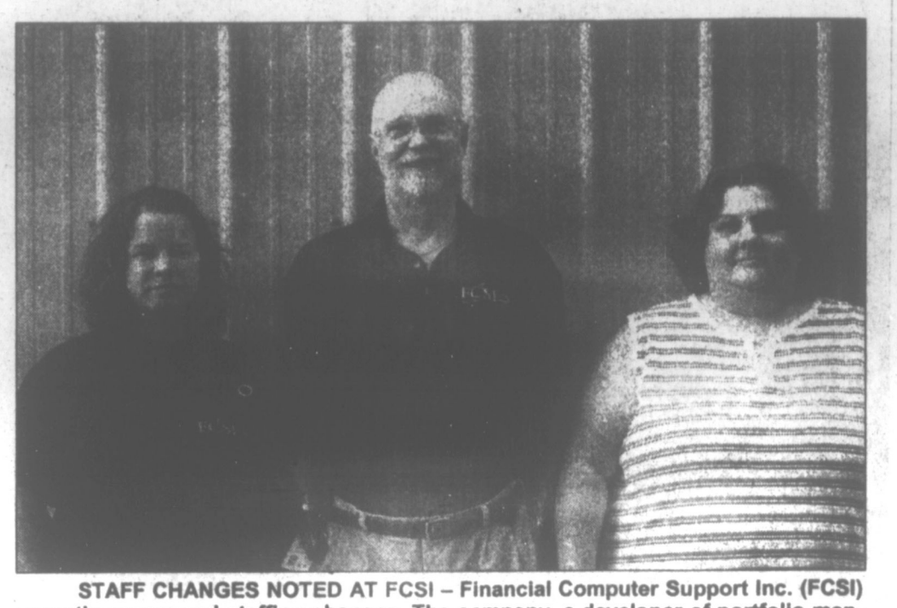
The public is invited to attend. Admission for the concert is $6 at the gate. Those who wish to spend the night may log on to www.MountainPraise.com or call 301-895-5256 for prices and details.

The concert is an outgrowth of the annual Praise in the Park event, and is sponsored by St. John's Church in Grantsville.

"This is not your grandmother's hymn sing," said Pastor Jerry Rogers. "Expect the music to be loud and joyful. We're here to praise God and have a good time."

The pool will be open, and outdoor games have been planned. Rogers noted that those who wish to swim should remember that modest swimming attire is expected.

The concert will be held in the chapel if it is raining.



STAFF CHANGES NOTED AT FCSI – Financial Computer Support Inc. (FCSI) recently announced staffing changes. The company, a developer of portfolio management software since 1981, is located in the Garrett County Southern Industrial Park near Mtn. Lake Park. Pictured, left to right, are Candy Virts, Thomas J. Hudson, and Shelly Cassidy. Virts, of the Oakland area, has been promoted to the position of service bureau supervisor. She has been with FCSI for three years and has held roles in various departments. Virts is involved in the community and serves a president of HART, a local animal rescue group. Hudson, also of the Oakland area, joined FCSI in May. He has held positions with IBM, Computer Associates, and Platinum Technology, and has worked as an independent IT consultant and trainer. A graduate of the University of Tennessee and Mount St. Mary's College, Hudson is pursuing a master's degree from West Virginia University. Cassidy, of Red House, has been employed with FCSI for seven years and was recently promoted to helpdesk supervisor. She has held various positions pertaining to data management services that the company provides for its clients. She earned an associate of arts degree in business administration from Garrett College and a bachelor of science degree in business administration with a concentration in management from Frostburg State University.

A Thank You

The family of Dale L. Simpson would like to thank Clara Fitzwater and Hospice of Garrett Co., Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, Dr. Margaret Kaiser, Garrett Memorial Hospital, Durst Funeral Home, and all our friends and relatives who were there for us in so many kind ways.

Sincerely,
Dorothy, Ronald, Earl, Cynthia, and Family

LOCH LYNN GEARING UP FOR HOMECOMING – Plans are being finalized for the annual town picnic and community homecoming for Loch Lynn Heights, slated Friday and Saturday, Aug. 26 and 27. Notices have been mailed to current and former town residents. They, as well as the general public, are urged to take part in the activities, renew old friendships, and meet new visitors. Historical photos will also be displayed during the celebration. A highlight of the event will be recognition of "Citizen of the Year" by the mayor and town council. The town picnic will be held on Friday at 5 p.m. Those attending are asked to bring a covered dish and lawn chair. Corn, hot dogs, and sodas will be provided. Saturday's schedule includes a car cruise-in sponsored by Stop N Go U-Haul, donkey cart rides, live musical entertainment, food vendors, a Civil War encampment, carriage rides by Pleasant Valley Dream Rides, demonstrations, and games for all ages. A detailed schedule of activities will be published at a later date. Pictured above is the Civil War encampment from last year's homecoming. Left to right are Brandon Wolf, Evan Paugh, and John Arnold. Also pictured is Nancy Troutman's donkey Comedy. Photos by Carolyn Corley.

Town Hall

LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS

•There will be a town council meeting on Aug. 16 at 6 p.m. to open bids for guard rails for the parking lot at the athletic field.

•The Homecoming celebration will be held Aug. 26 and 27. Persons are asked to bring a covered dish on Friday evening and get reacquainted with each other. There are numerous events planned for Saturday. A schedule of events will appear in an upcoming article in The Republican.

•The Planning Commission meeting will be held on Aug. 22 at 7 p.m.

ACCIDENT

The regular monthly meeting of the mayor and town council was held on Wednesday, Aug. 3, at the town hall.

•The council discussed whether to keep the brush pile located in Town Park West or to eliminate it. People have been using it as a trash pile instead of for just brush and limbs. The council will discuss this matter again next month.

•The new swing set has been installed at Town Park East. This set was purchased through Program Open Space.

•The council discussed the estimate received to paint the roof on the pavilion at Town Park West. The painting job will be advertised for bids.

The next town meeting will be held on Thursday, Sept. 1, at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall.

AURORA/EGLON

Attending the wedding were her parents; her sister, Carla Fint of New York City, who served as maid of honor; her uncle, aunt, and cousin, Kenneth Mullenax of Virginia, Mary Aliman of Eglon, and Beth Mullenax; and Wesley Rumer of Morgantown. Also attending were Joe, Stacy, Courtney Rebecca and Joey Fint, with the girls serving as bridesmaids.

REUNIONS

The descendants of Godfrey Stemple will hold their annual reunion on Saturday, Aug. 27, at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Aurora. The meal will begin at 1 p.m. Friends and family are invited to attend and are welcome to bring a covered dish or dessert.

HARSH BIRTH

Doyle and Cathy Harsh became parents of a daughter August 3. She weighed seven pounds, 10.5 ounces and was born at Preston Memorial Hospital. Sabrina Ruth's older siblings are Tim and Samantha Blossom and Sidney Harsh.

Grandparents are Brian and Gloria Breedlove of Oakland and the late Ernest and Grace Harsh.

EGLON MOUNTAINEER 4-H

Members and family of the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club met Monday for their annual picnic/project exhibit meeting at the Farmers' Wildlife Park. Following the meal, the group traveled to the John Lipscomb farm to view his wild animals. A short business meeting was conducted back at the park. Devotions on "daring to be different" were read by Trevor Spaid.

Debbie Collins reported on County Older 4-H Camp, and Jonathan Blamble on Younger camp. Kaitlyn Schalker won the gold ribbon in the public speaking category at State 4-H Day on June 4. Information for pre-registration of project exhibits for the upcoming Buckwheat Festival was taken. The club will serve the Mt. Lions On Oct. 6.

Cody Hardesty presented a talk on the wholesale parts of pork, and a demonstration on the parts of a hog. Caitlin Norwish demonstrated how to make horse cookies using feed and molasses, and gave an illustrated talk on the different types of horse sheets and blankets.

Prospective new members are invited to the next meeting on September 12, at 7 p.m. at the Eglon Memorial Building.

PERSONAL MENTION

Terry Vandevender of Amboy has been a patient in a Pittsburgh hospital in an attempt to find a diagnosis and treatment for an ailment of about a month's duration.

About 40 area citizens went last week, Aug. 3 and 4, to Lancaster, Pa., where they attended the showing of The Story of Ruth and Songs of David at the Sight and Sound Theater, and also a play, A Perfect Marriage, at a dinner theater. The tour was organized by Bernadine Bachtel and the bus provided by Schrock's Tours.

Visiting with Hancel and Mildred Teets on Wednesday of last week were Doyle and Gladys Wiles and daughter Barbara Roth of Weirton, and on Friday, Pat Queen and her mother of Buckhannon were visitors. Their daughter, Sharon Teets, of Jefferson City, Tenn., was a weekend visitor while en route to Wheeling where she will be spending the week caring for her nephew's children.

Harley Donham of Grafton was hospitalized last week at United Hospital Center in Clarksburg as a result of complications from medication.

SSgt. Melvin R. Frantz remains a patient at Trippler Army Medical Center in Hawaii where he underwent lung surgery and faces a long recovery. His address is: Trippler Army Medical Center, 1 Jarret White Rd., Unit 6B1, Room 14A, Honolulu, Hawaii 96859-5000. He is the son of Don and Neva Frantz, Eglon.

Stanley, Leah, and Melvin Harsh were returning from a business trip to Elkins last Friday, when Stanley fell asleep. Their car struck a pole, but no one suffered serious injury, and they were able to return to their home at Eglon later that evening.

Fifty-five descendants of Amos and Lillie Wotring Stemple met for a reunion at Blackwater Lodge, Davis, on Sunday, with those attending being from Arizona, Colorado, Washington, New Jersey, New York, Michigan, Virginia, Maryland, and Delaware. Kathryn Harvey of Clarksburg is the only surviving child of Amos Stemple.

Rod McWilliams was able to be home, but had to return to Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown.

Julie Lantz Adams of Oakland has been ill and made a trip to Charleston on Tuesday of this week in order to seek help.

Viola McWilliams continues to recuperate from a fractured hip surgery at the home of her daughter, Lenora Flowers, but says she is anxious to return to her Aurora home.

PERSONAL NOTE

Your writer, Jean Winters, my husband Claude, and daughter, Linda Lewis, returned Aug. 1 to Eglon after I spent a week at the home of our son and daughter-in-law, Carl and Nancy Winters, Manassas, Va. Recuperation from this hip revision is seeming slow but continuing. A bare "thank-you" seems woefully inadequate for all of the thoughts, the caring, cards, phone calls, and especially prayers. But from the bottom of my heart, that is what I wish to extend to each of you and I am hoping to be able to do the news from now on. Please call 304-735-5763 when you have something you wish to go into the column.

I would like to thank everyone for the great response from the card shower for my 70th birthday. I received close to 200 birthday wishes from all of my friends and family.

I am continuing to take chemotherapy for my illness and I have appreciated all of the get well cards and wishes as well. I appreciate everyone for their concern and love.

Schochs To Celebrate 50th Year

Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Schoch Jr. will celebrate their 50th anniversary with their family next Saturday, Aug. 20. The couple were married Aug. 14, 1955, by Rev. Paul Parker at the Deep Creek Baptist Church.

Rolland was a lifelong employee and is retired from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. He was also a volunteer fire fighter with the Deer Park Community Fire Department.

Mrs. Schoch, a homemaker, is the former Laura Rodeheaver.

They have seven grandchildren, one of whom is deceased, and are expecting their eighth in February. The couple also have five great-grandchildren and are expecting their sixth in the spring.

Cards can be sent to the couple at 343 Deer Park Hotel Road, Oakland, MD 21550.

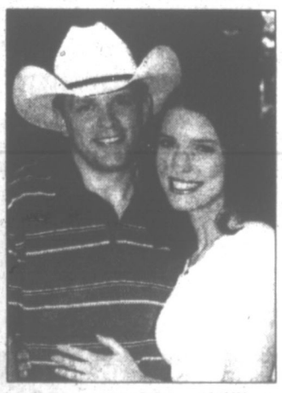
Miss Slaubaugh To Marry Mr. McGee

Ruby Slaubaugh has announced the engagement and forthcoming marriage of her daughter, Danelle Renee Slaubaugh (also the daughter of the late Victor Slaubaugh), to Joshua Darnell McGee, son of Odie and Annetta McGee of Elkins, W.Va.

The wedding will take place at 3 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 3, at the Mtn. Lake Independent Baptist Church in Mtn. Lake Park. The reception will immediately follow at the Pleasant Valley Community Center.

All friends and family are invited to attend.

Miss Kessler To Wed Mr. Smith



Mr. and Mrs. William Kessler of Victor, W.Va., announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter Elizabeth Grace to Randy Scott Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Smith of Terra Alta, W.Va. Beth is the granddaughter of Elizabeth Kessler of Ansted, W.Va., and Scott is the grandson of Iola Clem of Terra Alta.

Beth is a graduate of Midland and Trail High School, class of 2000. She attended Alderson-Broaddus College, where she earned a bachelor of science in accounting in 2004, and West Virginia University, where she earned a master's of professional accountancy in 2005. She is currently employed by Rodeheaver & Associates, CPAs, in Oakland.

Scott is a graduate of Preston High School, class of 2000. He also attended Alderson-Broaddus College, where he earned a bachelor of science in business administration in 2004. He is currently employed by First United Bank & Trust in Oakland.

Their wedding will take place on Sept. 17 at the Preston County 4-H Camp. The couple will reside in Terra Alta.

to the college a professional instructor in political science."

From 2003 to his acceptance of Garrett's offer, Rivera was associate dean of academic affairs at Palm Beach (Fla.) Community College, which consists of four major campuses and several satellite campuses.

From 2001 to 2003 Rivera directed the international education program at at Salt Lake City Community College. He also was on that college's strategic action teams dealing with international education and the governance of information technology.

Previously he served as director of international education at St. Louis Community College in Missouri from 1999 to 2001, and was professor of political science at Lincoln Land Community College (Illinois) from 1970 to 1999. There he was responsible for developing and managing and overseeing study-abroad programs as a member of the faculty to Argentina, Cuba, Egypt, France, Greece, Israel, Italy, Hungary, Jordan, Lebanon, Netherlands, South Africa, Spain, Switzerland, USSR, and Vietnam. He also administered study-abroad programs for China, Costa Rica, England, Mexico, Morocco, India, Macedonia, Senegal, Sweden, Brazil, Taiwan, Nigeria, and Japan.

Garrett's new associate dean lived for more than a year in Liberia and a year in Greece. He also was stationed in Japan and Okinawa while in the Marine Corps.

Rivera received a Master Teacher and Teaching in Excellence Medal, was included in the Hispanic Who's Who in America, was a Taft Fellow in political science at the University of Cincinnati, and was on a United Nations Committee panel of Middle East Experts.

Rivera and his wife Lynn, a registered nurse, have a son, Erik, who will be a senior at Southern High School in the fall.

Rivera said that in his research about the position, he learned to have a high regard for the college and Herman and other staff members. He said he was impressed with the college's programs and the community, and having worked in some large colleges, he prefers the size of Garrett College and the rural nature of the county.

"It is a pleasure to work in this type of environment," Rivera commented. said. "It's wonderful to be here."

Special Guests Lined Up For Fair's Vespers

The Garrett County Agriculture Fair's annual vesper service will take place in the 4-H building at the fairgrounds on Sunday, Aug. 14, beginning at 6:30 p.m. The service is the traditional opening event of the week-long fair.

The Savage Family, a gospel bluegrass group, will perform during the service. The speaker for the event will be Duane Frederick, president of the Mountaintop Ministerial Association Inc., a local ecumenical group of pastors.

Amanda Bowers, the 2004 farm queen, will give a reading from the Bible. Lillian Reckner will play the keyboard and Helen Cain will sing a solo.

A free-will offering will be collected to support the ministerial association's fair booth.

Guests should note that the vesper service this year is starting 30 minutes earlier than in other years.

Those persons wishing to only attend the crowning of the 2005 farm queen are asked to enter the building only after 7:30 p.m.

Livestock Sale Set For Aug. 20 At County Fair

The annual livestock sale at the 49th annual Garrett County Fair will be held on Saturday, Aug. 20, starting at 5 p.m. This time is one hour earlier than in the past, noted a spokesperson.

See complete schedule of the week's events in this issue of The Republican.

Admission to the fair is $8 per person, ages 1 and up. This includes gate admission, parking, demolition derby, entertainment, all events at the racetrack, and rides in the carnival. Advance tickets may also be purchased.

Persons may call 301-387-5408 (evenings only) or 301-334-3917 for additional information.

one who lived in or visited Garrett County," Beitzel said.

He has been appointed by Governor Robert Ehrlich to serve on several commissions. Beitzel was appointed in 2003 to District 5 (Allegany-Garrett) Judicial Nominating Commission and currently serves as chairman of the Commission. He is the citizen's representative to the Deep Creek Lake Advisory and Review Board and was the Garrett County commissioner representative on the board from 1998 to 2002. He was appointed a member of the Governor's Commission on the Structure and Efficiency of State Government (Mandel Commission), appointed to serve on the Upper Potomac River Tributary Strategy Team, Garrett County representative on the North Branch Task Force for the Upper Potomac River, and represents Garrett County on the Upper Potomac River Commission.

"Wendell Beitzel has my full support as a candidate for the Maryland House of Delegates," Ehrlich said. "I am confident he will represent District 1A with integrity and fairness. He shares my commitment to fiscal responsibility in Annapolis and making Maryland a safer and more prosperous place to live."

In addition to his service in the public sector, Beitzel has business experience and involvement in the business community. He and his wife Ruth previously owned the Starlite Motel in Oakland and the Point View Inn at Deep Creek Lake. They currently operate the Chalet Restaurant in the German Village at Fantasy Valley and own the Accident Bakery in Accident. He also is the president of Beitzel Enterprises Inc., the corporate operating entity of the Chalet Restaurant, the Accident Bakery, and other related properties.

Beitzel is a U.S. Army veteran, having served during the Vietnam War. He also worked for the National Cancer Institute at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda.

Beitzel was born in Garrett County and reared on the family farm. He said his love of this area has led him in the direction of public life.

"Growing up, I worked for a neighboring farmer, milking cows when in high school," Beitzel said. "I now own and work a small farm near Bittinger. As a member of the Garrett County Farm Bureau, I have a very good understanding of the problems facing small family farmers in today's competitive economic environment."

He attended public schools in Garrett County, and graduated from Northern High School. He received a bachelor of science degree in biology from Fairmont State University, and a master's degree in management and in business administration from Frostburg State University. Beitzel has taken courses at Johns Hopkins University, the University of Maryland, American University, and Garrett College. He has also attended the American Water Works Utility Management Institute at Virginia Tech in Blacksburg, Va., and the West Virginia Mon-Valley Leadership Academy.

Beitzel has been active in professional, charitable, and civic organizations throughout his adult life. He served as the Garrett County commissioner representative on the Legislative Committee of the Maryland Association of Counties (MACO) and was elected by the MACO members to its board of directors. He served on the board of directors of American Trust Bank, WM-Bankcorp, and the Garrett National Bank, and was chairman of the American Trust Bank audit committee.

The candidate said that these positions provided him with "valuable insight to understanding financial statements and accounting principals that are essential to fulfill the fiduciary responsibilities of a state delegate."

Other professional organization committees or boards that Beitzel serves on include the Garrett County Economic Development Corporation, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, and the University of Maryland Western Maryland 4-H Center Advisory Board. He has previously served on the board of directors and was a founding member of the Deep Creek Business Association, was past president and member of the Garrett County/Deep Creek Lake Promotion Council, and a member of the Water Environment Federation and the Chesapeake Water Environment Association.

Additionally, the list of charitable and civic organizations to which he currently has, or had in the past, an affiliation include American Legion Post 71, board member of the Upper Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross, past board member of the Garrett County Chapter of the American Heart Association, board member of and past president of Garrett Woods Chapter of Whitetails Unlimited, member of the National Rifle Association, sustaining member of GLAF, Habitat for Humanity, and Hospice of Garrett County. He is also a former member of the Oakland/Mountain Lake Park and Deep Creek Lake Lions clubs.

Charitable foundations he supports include the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation, Garrett College Foundation, Fairmont State University Foundation, and Frostburg State University Foundation.

Beitzel said the church and religious faith have always been an important part of his life. As a life-long member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Accident, he has served in various capacities, including on the church council and as church treasurer. He is currently vice chairman of the council.

Politically, Beitzel was elected Garrett County commissioner in 1998 and served a full term until 2002. He was elected and served on the Garrett County Republican Central Committee prior to becoming a commissioner. He is a sustaining member of the Republican National Committee, the National Republican Congressional Committee, the Maryland Republican Party, and the Garrett County Central Committee. He served as the county coordinator for the Ehrlich campaign in 2002, is a sustaining member of "Bob Ehrlich for Governor" campaign, and served as Congressman Roscoe Bartlett's campaign coordinator for Garrett County in 1994.

"I seek to get elected to the Maryland House of Delegates to continue to give service in return for the many blessings that my family and I have enjoyed as citizens of western Maryland," Beitzel said. "My education, experience, and journey through life have prepared me for this challenge. Entering this campaign, I pledge to place the interests of all the people in District 1A above my own in every official act and duty as a member of the Maryland House of Delegates."

He and his wife live along Rock Lodge Road, Accident. They have two children and a grandchild.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

ICE AGES

by Dr. Thomas P. Sheahen

Q. What caused the ice ages? Will there be another one soon?

On a hot day in August, "soon" can't be soon enough. But I'm afraid it will be a long wait.

In the past 2 million years, there have been about 17 ice ages. So they tend to come along about once every 100,000 years on average; except that "average" doesn't mean much for the very irregular pattern of ice ages.

Geologists also speak of "major ice ages" (where it gets a whole lot colder) going back billions of years. Those "major" ones tend to last 50-100 million years or so each. As the continental plates drift around the globe, the places that get icy change. Actually, we are probably out in the middle of an ice age that began about 40 million years ago, but we just so happen to find ourselves in a "warm period" within it. This is called an interglacial period, and it's been going on for the last 10,000 years.

But I'll just deal with the short ice ages of "recent" times, too short for the continental plates to have moved significantly.

The theory of why ice ages occur is not settled at all, but it seems to depend heavily on the way Earth wobbles as it orbits the sun. The distance away from the sun changes, because the orbit is eccentric, not a perfect circle. Moreover, the tilt of Earth's axis of rotation changes, so that the amount of sunlight falling on various parts of Earth changes, too – by as much as 25%. This goes under the name of Milankovic forcing, after the theorist who studied the phenomenon. The composition of the atmosphere also matters: When methane and carbon dioxide change, the sunlight absorbed by the atmosphere changes too. (Long before the industrial revolution, methane and CO_2 were changing.)

The angle of tilt of Earth's axis varies back and forth on a cycle lasting about 41,000 years, which doesn't match the observed 100,000-year colder/warmer cycle of the last million years. But there are ways to fix up the theory. Subtle changes in the inclination of Earth's orbit can cause the net sunlight to change; also, as Earth travels through dust bands in space, sunlight is partially blockaded from reaching Earth. And once there is a substantial glacial cover, the amount of sunlight reflected back into space (the albedo of Earth) increases, thereby allowing it to remain cold even longer. Several factors, not just the tilt of Earth's axis, have to come together to set off an ice age.

It is worth remembering that virtually all of recorded human history happened in the last 10,000 years, since our present interglacial period began. In North America, the countless northern lakes (notably the five Great Lakes) were made as the ice sheet melted and retreated. A big lake being "only" 10,000 years old may seem surprising, but it's perfectly ordinary when a glacier retreats thousands of miles. Other parts of the world, like Siberia, are still being studied to discern the effects of the changing ice cover.

When will the next ice age come along? Perhaps we should ask the question this way: When will the present interglacial period end? Theory is not refined enough to say with any confidence, and so guesses vary from 30,000 to 100,000 years. When you're talking about a geological time scale in millions of years, that's "soon."

Dr. Sheahen is a physicist who was educated at MIT. He lives at Deep Creek Lake and has taught physics at Garrett College. Persons wishing to submit questions for this column may e-mail them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

ST. PAUL'S ROLLS OUT RED CARPET – St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland has been recognized as an official "Welcoming Congregation" by the United Methodist Communication (UMC), the denomination's communications agency. Welcoming Congregations are selected on criteria that include embracing newcomers and providing opportunities in leadership. Helen Earles, left, St. Paul's lay representative to the annual conference and president of the United Methodist Women, is shown presenting the recognition to St. Paul's pastor, Rev. T. Patrick Kerr. FRIENDSVILLE

Cold Country performed until 10 p.m. and were well received.

Saturday's events were also well received. The parade was sponsored by the Friendsville Vol. Fire and Rescue Dept. Inc and featured Miss Maryland Rachael Ellsworth as the grand marshal. Her appearance was sponsored by Friendsville Pharmacy. The candy drop was a huge success thanks to Interstate Hardwoods for the use of their helicopter. The candy was generously donated by Friendsville Community Watch, Mt. Communications/ProCom, Wal-Mart, and Rusty and Heidi Leonard.

The Gorgeous Gals Softball Game was also a huge success, with the "Gals" arriving in style on a fire truck with sirens blazing. What a way to make an entrance! People flocked to the ball field to see what was going on and were highly entertained. I think the highlight of the event was when first baseman Randy Humbertson fell on his chest and had a "wardrobe malfunction" requiring "mouth-to-mouth" by EMT Mary Friend. With each "mouth-to-mouth" experience the poor "gal" threw "her" legs up in the air. It could not have been planned any better than that! Many thanks to Ken Sines for coordinating the game and to all the participants who graciously put away their pride and manliness to help make it a great success. People are still laughing about it today!

I also have to say that I am very proud of my daughter Alison, who did a great job on the stage singing. We would like to thank Spencer Schlosnagle, Burton and Linda Lytle, Sines Lumber Company, and a gracious donor who wished to remain anonymous, for sponsoring her performance. We would also like to thank all of the helpers in the baked potato booth and all who were customers. She will be on her way to making her demo hopefully this fall.

The Crazy Cowboy Band was also a huge success for the evening entertainment. If you missed out, hopefully you can catch them next year! They were first-rate entertainment! People said that was the best band we have had since the Morning Star Band way back in the beginning of Friendsville Days. That was good to hear.

Plans will definitely be made sooner this year to coordinate an even better event for 2006. Any suggestions would be greatly appreciated and can be made to me at 301-746-5933.

The fireworks were a great finale again this year. Sorry that I cannot recognize those who sponsored the fireworks, but I don't have the list at the time of this publication.

Many thanks also go out to Gene Humbert for all of his help on Friday and Saturday and for announcing the parade. You helped us out a great deal.

I hope that everyone will attend Friendsville Days 2006 and have patience with those coordinating it because we are working very hard to make it the success it used to be.

PRICING YOUR BIGGEST ASSET!

Listings on the New York Stock Exchange illustrate a powerful point if you're planning to sell your home. Peek at the Wall Street Journal listings for the NYSE: two columns are titled "bid" and "sell." "Bid" is what buyers are offering for a particular stock – say $45 1/8 per share. "Sell" is what sellers are willing to accept - say $45 3/8.

It's the same in real estate, where there are many buyers and sellers creating a measurable "market value" for homes. This market value is inevitably a price somewhere between what buyers are willing to pay and what sellers are asking.

The third column in the stock listings, "close," is the final sales price for the day. If "bid" was 45 1/8 and "sell" was 45 3/8, the "close" could be either of the two, or a compromise like 45 2/8.

When selling, the most important decision you can make is to price your home at or near "bid." Buyers who believe that your "sell" price is inflated are unlikely to even "bid" on your property.

Since you can't check the paper for bid prices on your home, you need a real estate professional to provide details about the prices buyers are paying for homes like yours. Then make an informed decision, pricing your home at fair market value and inviting a quicker sale.

If you'd like to sell your home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call today!

All other persons having or claiming to have any interest in all that lot, piece or parcel of land situate in Election District No. 14, containing 4.031 acres, more or less, known and designated as Lot No. 36, TangleWood Subdivision, and described in a deed conveyed from Appalachian Land Services, Inc., to Gregory Todd Lang and Colleen Anne Lang, dated November 2, 1996, and recorded on November 6, 1996, in Liber No. 693, folio 895, one of Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.
DEFENDANTS

NOTICE AND ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in the following property situate in Election District 14, Garrett County, Maryland, sold by the Collector of Taxes for Garrett County and State of Maryland to Larry Hoover.

All that parcel of land situate in Election District No. 14, containing 4.031 acres, more or less, known and designated as Lot 36, TangleWood Subdivision and described in a deed from Appalachian Land Services, Inc., to Gregory Todd Lang and Colleen Anne Lang, dated November 2, 1996, and recorded on November 6, 1996, in Liber No. 693, folio 895, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The complaint states, among other things, that the amounts for redemption have not been paid, although more than six (6) months and one day from the date of the sale has expired.

It is thereupon, this 27th day of July 2005, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland,

ORDERED that the notice be given in accordance with Rule 2-121 by certified mail requesting: "Restricted Delivery - show to whom, date, address of delivery" on the defendant named in the complaint, warning the Defendants to be and appear in this Court by the 26th day of September 2005, and redeem the property and answer the complaint, or thereafter a final decree will be rendered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property, and vesting in the Plaintiff a title free and clear of all encumbrances.

ORDERED that the notice be given by the insertion of a copy of this Order in some newspaper having a general circulation in Garrett County, once a week for three successive weeks before the 19th day of August 2005, warning all persons interested in the said property to be and appear in this Court by the 26th day of September 2005, and redeem the property and answer the complaint, or thereafter a final decree will be rendered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property, and vesting in the Plaintiff a title free and clear of all encumbrances.

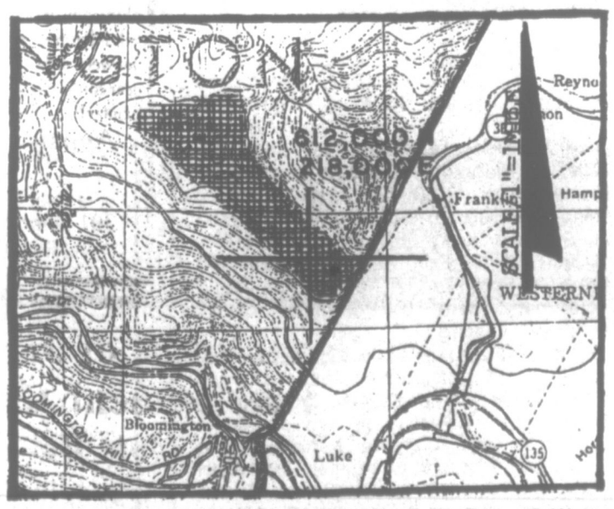
NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR STRIP MINE PERMIT



Notice is given that MORAN COAL COMPANY, INC., P.O. drawer E, Westernport, Maryland 21562 has submitted an application to the Maryland Bureau of Mines for a surface mine operations permit. The operation is to be located near Westernport. Maryland. The proposed operation occupies a 257 acre tract on the north side of Aaron Run, 1.2 miles northwest of Westernport, Election District 4, Garrett County; 612,000N/218,000E. Access to the site is from Westernport Road, 0.4 mile northwest of the Allegany/Garrett County line.

Surface and mineral of the area to be mined is owned by Moran Coal Company, Inc., P.O. Drawer E, Westernport, Maryland 21562. The permit area is located within the US Geologic Barton and Westernport, MD 7.5 minute quadrangles, the boundaries being as shown on the attached sketch.

The application includes plans to construct 6 ponds to control sediment and storm water on the mining area. In addition to a surface coal mining permit the construction of the pond will require a separate small pond approval from the Bureau of mines.

A copy of the application, which includes the pond plans for the small pond approval, is available for public review at the Maryland Department of the Environment (Bureau of Mines) Office, 160 South Water Street, Frostburg, Maryland 21532 during normal office hours. Questions concerning any aspect of the application may be directed to: Robert L. Dugan Jr., DUGAN ASSOCIATES, 301-689-1568 or the Maryland Bureau of Mines, Permit Section, 301-689-6405. A public hearing will not be held on this activity unless requested. Written comments, requests for a public hearing, and requests to be included on the interested persons list regarding this application, will be received until September 17, 2005 by the Director, Maryland Bureau of Mines, 160 South Water Street, Frostburg, Maryland 21532. Attention: OPA-05-31. Future notices about this application will be provided by mail to those persons that submit comments, request a public hearing or request to be included on the list of interested persons.

BLASTING NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that Keystone Lime Co., Inc. of P.O. Box 278, Springs, PA 15562, phone # 301-387-9390, will be conducting blasting operations under Mining Permit No. 77-SP-0131-2 at the Deep Creek Quarry located 2 miles West of U.S. Route 219 off Sang Run Road on Crabtree Bottom Road in Garrett County in accordance with all applicable state and federal laws.

Such activities will commence and continue in accordance with the following schedule of dates and approximate times, as approved by the Md. Dept. of the Environment:

Dates: August 1, 2005 to August 1, 2006, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. No blasting will be conducted on Sundays.

At least ten minutes prior to each blasting activity, all accesses to the area will be controlled to prevent unauthorized entry, and a warning signal will be audibly indicated by three 5-second blasts with an air horn at 2-second intervals. After the blast, the all-clear signal shall be indicated by one 20-second blast with an air horn. These signals are in accordance with applicable state and federal laws.

Also, unless approved by the regulatory authority, blasting activities will not be conducted at times other than those announced without prior notification, or, in the event of an emergency situation where rain, lightning, or other atmospheric conditions, operator or public safety considerations dictate an unscheduled detonation.

Any questions concerning the mining operations should be directed to the Md. Dept. of the Environment, Mineral, Oil & Gas Division at 410-537-3557.

Location, Time Changes Noted For Bloodmobile

A visit by the American Red Cross bloodmobile to Oakland is scheduled for next Tuesday, Aug. 16; however, both the location and the hours for that visit have been changed, according to a release from the ARC.

Instead of being hosted by St. Paul's United Methodist Church, it will be held at the American Legion hall along Memorial Drive. The hours for the visit were originally to be 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.; however, the new hours are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. This will be a drive particularly for type-O blood; however, other types will also be accepted.

Persons desiring more information about the visit or about the ARC's blood services program may telephone the Garrett County ARC office at 301-334-3810, or the Western Potomac Chapter headquarters in Cumberland at 1-800-361-9481 (toll-free).

Money Raised For 4-H Camp Scholarships

The Mountain Fresh Produce Association's third annual Ice Cream Social, held last Friday, brought in over $280 for the 4-H Camp Scholarship Program.

The social featured Lakeside Creamery ice cream, entertainment, and games.

"We really appreciate the Mountain Fresh Produce Association for their generous donation," said Arlene Lantz, a 4-H volunteer. "The money will help needy youth attend 4-H camp, where they can participate in a variety of enrichment activities."

LITTLE KIDS 'N' LITTLE PIGS – Well, the pigs really weren't all that little, but the 5-year-olds handling them sure seemed small. The pig judging at the Garrett County Agriculture Fair in McHenry took place on Wednesday, featuring several age groups. These tykes were good at managing the excited porkers, who squealed and cavorted around the corral until the youngsters reined them in with their crooks. Judging of local youth's farm animals is happening all week at the fair, with the final livestock sale set for Saturday. The entire process represents at least a year of very hard work on the part of the kids who participate. This year the show will begin earlier than in the past, starting at 5 p.m. Those desiring more information about the sale may call the Fair office at 301-387-5400. Photo by John McEwen.

RR Crossing In Oakland To Be Closed, Repaired

The town council of Oakland has announced that the railroad crossing on Second Street will be repaired over the next few weeks, and will consequently be closed, beginning Aug. 22.

Jay Moyer, council member, said the work is supposed to last for two weeks. During that time, traffic will be rerouted. Second Street will be closed off at Alder Street going south, and at Oak Street going north. Drivers will have to use the Oak/Third street intersection, or go by way of the Oakland-Rosedale Road to get into or out of town.

Persons should note that the Oakland Town Parking Lot and pavilion area will be accessible only by way of the Oak and First Street entry. Also affected by the work will be the alley behind the Southern Rescue Squad building, which will be blocked off in the vicinity of the squad hall's back door.

CSX Railroad will be repairing the crossing area, replacing ties and putting down new macadam.

Gov. Ehrlich To Visit Town Of Oakland

Gov. Robert Ehrlich Jr. will visit the town of Oakland on Wednesday, Aug. 24. He will arrive at the upper end of Second Street at approximately 2:15 p.m. and travel into town in Ray Miller's Pleasant Valley Dream Rides horse and carriage. Southern High School's marching band will join the procession, and students from Brenda's Body Shop will perform at the box car stage.

Ehrlich will address the audience from the box car stage. The visit is scheduled to conclude by 3 p.m.

"We encourage everyone to attend, and show Maryland's governor some true Garrett County hospitality," said Oakland mayor Asa McCain.

Anti-Wind Proposal Meeting Draws Small Crowd To Pleasant Valley Cntr.

PSC Hearing On Synergics Proposal Set For Sept. In Garrett

The issue of proposed industrial-size windpower facilities was the topic of heated discussion during a recent meeting at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, which one day could be dwarfed by dozens of huge wind turbines, each taller than a football field, tentatively slated to march along the ridgeline of nearby Backbone Mountain. Although the hall was only half filled – with about 75 persons in attendance – many of those expressed strong agreement with the Friends of Backbone Mountain (FOB) speakers' views against such proposals.

The evening included a screening of the FOB-produced documentary, Life Under a Windplant, which gives the group's own analysis of the impact the existing wind facility in nearby Meyersdale, Pa., has had on residents there. Three of those residents were on hand to speak with those in attendance at the Thursday meeting.

It was also announced at the meeting that representatives of the Maryland Public Service Commission, the state agency with authority to approve or deny any power plant proposal (including those powered by wind), will be in Garrett County in the middle of next month to accept public input on a proposal by the Annapolis-based Synergics Corporation to place turbines along Backbone Mtn. in the area of Roth Rock.

The PSC is slated to spend a three full days hearing testimony on that proposal in Baltimore from Wednesday through Friday, Sept. 14-16, then PSC reps will be here at for two public sessions on Thursday, Sept. 22, beginning at 2 and 7 p.m. The exact location of the local hearings is yet to be announced.

A Synergics spokesman introduced himself at the conclusion of Thursday's meeting, and distributed literature touting the industry's claims. He declined an invitation from Jon Boone to debate the literature's assertion before the gathered audience.

By way of background, over two years ago California-based Clipper Windpower gained approval from the Maryland Public Service Commission, after garnering the written support of the county's board of commissioners, to erect 67 wind turbines along the mountain's ridgeline. (Clipper has since gained approval to reduce the number to 40 larger turbines.)

Synergics Corporation still seeks PSC approval to place 19 large turbines (down from its original proposal of 24 small units) along the same ridgeline

Community Action Receives $50,000 From CDBG Prog.

Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) Secretary Victor L. Hoskins recently announced that the department has awarded more than $6.9 million in the latest round of Community Development Block Grant Program (CDBG) funding. The $6,958,850 in award funds will support 23 projects in local jurisdictions throughout Maryland.

Locally, Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. will receive $50,000 to continue its housing rehabilitation program for low and moderate income homeowners.

The CDBG program was created by the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 and is administered by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). The program provides annual grants on a formula basis to entitled cities, counties, and states to assist in the development of viable urban communities that provide decent housing, promote suitable living environments, and expand economic opportunities that predominantly benefit low- and moderate-income persons.

DHCD also collaborates with the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development (DBED) to administer an economic development component of the CDBG program that awards funds on a rolling basis.

"The Community Development Block Grant Program is one of the department's most versatile tools available to address a wide variety of housing, community development, and infra-

Work To Begin This Week On The First Of Two Downtown Murals

The first of two outdoor mural art projects in Oakland is now "under construction" this week, according to Cherie Ross, Main Street manager.

"Heritage, history, and art have created a community working together combining businesses, property owners, the art community. and the town in a project that will reflect our heritage and history while providing a beautiful enhancement to currently blank downtown building walls," said Ross

Intended to be the first in a series of mural projects, the two currently planned for this year are historic in content, she added.

"Through the graciousness of First United Bank and Appalachian Crossroads, the cooperative spirit of Sincell Publishing, and the great contributions of our local Sherwin-Williams Paints and Underwood Rentals, the walls that surround Front Page Stage will have historic murals," said Ross.

On the back of the Littman Building, Mark Stutzman will be producing a mural that honors the B&O Railroad and its founder, and the county's namesake, John Work Garrett. The old Oakland Hotel will also be part of that mural.

On the Appalachian Crossroads wall directly across from it, Dave Diehl will produce a mural that depicts a sampling of the many famous persons who frequented the Oakland area throughout history and who came here because of the access to the area provided by John Work Garrett's railway system. People to be looking for in that mural include Ulysses S. Grant, Albert Einstein, Henry Ford, and Buffalo Bill Cody. Work on the Appalachian Crossroads wall was to begin this week, weather permitting.

"Next year, our goal is to produce possibly six more murals simultaneously in a HeArt (heritage and art) of Oakland event," said Ross. Other themes being considered for next year's projects include native Americans of Garrett County, farming/agricul-ture, coal mining, forestry/lumber, nature and wildlife, and the Amish/Mennonite community.

A fundraising event will be held at the mural site at Front Page Stage on Sept. 2 from 5 until 6:30 p.m., just before the Little Yough concert featuring The Remedy. DJ Jonny Rock will host this event.

"The Design Committee, GOBA (Greater Oakland Business Association) and the town of Oakland wish to thank First United Bank and Appalachian Crossroads for allowing us to paint their walls," said Ross. "We also thank Don Sincell and Sincell Publishing for the help with the parking lot logistics, the power source, and allowing us to use the parking lot and Front Page Stage for the fundraiser.

"Thanks also go to the crew at Sherwin-Williams, Karin Burner, Toni Boscaino, Vince McCallister, and Harry Minnick, for partnering with us on this project for paint and supplies and to Mike and Connie Trickett at Underwood Rentals for the loan donation of the scaffolding. These murals would not happen without all of these community segments working together."

Partial funding has been provided by the Maryland State Arts Council, the Garrett County Arts Council, and the Maryland Main Street Program. Sponsorship levels are available and are at the following levels: the John Work Garrett Sponsorship: $2,500 and up; the B&O Sponsorship:

Swanton Man Charged After Traffic Stop

A traffic stop on a Nissan driving erratically on Deep Creek Drive early Saturday morning resulted in several charges against the operator, Kalon V. Sherwood, 25, Swanton.

A check through the MVA revealed Sherwood's driver's license had been revoked in Maryland. He was arrested and charged with driving while impaired (DWI), negligent driving, violation of a license restriction, and driving a vehicle with expired tags.

He was released from the Garrett County Detention Center on $5,000 bond.

In a separate incident, Erica E. Yutzy, 30, Friendsville, was charged with DWI after police observed her vehicle on Accident Friendsville Road early Sunday morning with its hazard lights blinking.

She was arrested and transported to the Maryland State Police barrack in McHenry. She was released on her own recognizance.

In other police news, Shannon Winebrenner was charged for failure to yield the right of way when she pulled her vehicle onto Rt. 495 from Sky Valley Spur Saturday morning into the path of a southbound vehicle operated by Lewis Engle, 48.

No injuries were reported.

Police Seek Info On Friendsville Pharmacy Burglary

For the third consecutive week, a burglary on the northern end of the county has been reported to the Maryland State Police, and troopers are seeking the public's assistance in apprehending the perpetrator(s) in this latest incident as well as the previous ones.

At approximately 4 p.m. last Thursday, Aug. 11, the front glass door of the Friendsville Pharmacy was discovered to have been shattered. The suspect(s) stole medication from the business before fleeing. Any persons with information on this incident are asked to contact investigating trooper K. Whitaker at the McHenry barrack by calling 301-895-1101 or 301-387-1101, or the Garrett Bureau of Investigation at 301-334-1909.

Information is also sought regarding a rash of residential and business burglaries that have occurred in and around Accident and Friendsville within the past three weeks. The anonymity of callers is guaranteed.

Man Hospitalized, Another Jailed After Wed. Fight

An altercation between two men in Grantsville last night resulted in one man's arrest by Maryland State Police troopers for allegedly using his pickup truck to knock another man to the ground. The victim required hospitalization for head injuries.

Ronald Wayne Reckner II, 19, Accident, faces a first-degree assault charge filed after the 11 p.m. incident at the Grantsville Mobil Station. Police reported that Reckner was operating a 1990 Chevrolet pickup truck in the gas station's parking lot as Franklin Cornelius Davis, 49, Grantsville was attempting to get Reckner out of the truck.

Reckner allegedly pushed

County Initiates New Recycling Rewards Program

The Garrett County Solid Waste & Recycling Division, General Services Department, has launched a residential recycling rewards program. Both children and adults are encouraged to recycle every month.

"With each recycling drop-off made to the landfill or any of our refuse and recycling sites, the recycler's name will be entered for a random monthly drawing," said Kim Madigan, recycling coordinator. "One winner will be chosen from each site. Winners will have the opportunity to use certificates at fine restaurants and receive free merchandise from participating local businesses."

Those participating in this special rewards program are Bear Creek Traders, Book Mark'et & Antique Mezzanine, Casselman Inn, Cornish Manor, Garrett 8 Cinemas, Long Branch Saloon, Pine Lodge Steakhouse, Red Run Lodge, Santa Fe Grille, Smiley's Fun Zone, Smiley's Pizzeria, and Visable Changes.

"Recycling has its rewards!" Madigan stressed.

Garrett County Solid Waste & Recycling Division, General Services Department, employees and the families of employees will not be eligible to win prizes in the Residential Recycling Rewards program.

For more information on this program or any free recycling program offered in Garrett County, persons may call 301-387- 0322.

"EAGLE WOODS" GLIDING DOWN THE FAIRWAY? – Golfers always hope to "eagle," but this summer duffers at the Oakland Golf Club have been treated to the actual sight of one of the majestic birds along the fairway. This young bald eagle, who will acquire its white head and tail feathers in its fourth or fifth year, has made its home at the course over recent weeks, where it feeds on fish and other plentiful food sources. The fact that it is an immature bird may make it a big find, according to noted area birder Fran Pope, who added that there is one confirmed active eagle nest in the county and rumors of two other nesting sites. "Reports of bald eagles in the county increase every year, during both the summer and winter," she said. "We have been looking to confirm nesting sites around Deep Creek Lake, and this guy may be from one of those." Pope, who is compiling information for the ongoing Maryland Breeding Bird Atlas project, asks that anyone with information about active or possible eagle nesting sites in the county contact her at 301-334-4908 or via e-mail at fpope@gcnetmail.net. Unconfirmed accounts report that this eagle has been dive-bombing golf balls at the driving range, which would make for a most acrobatic display. The photos were taken by Rita Miske during the Oakland Golf Club's recent Parent-Child Tournament.

Durst Completes Internship With Sheriff's Office

Jeremy Durst, a senior at Frostburg State University, recently completed an internship program with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and the Detention Center, according to Sheriff Dick Sanders.

Durst participated in the full-time, 12-week internship program, which resulted in the award of 15 college credits to be applied toward his graduation this month.

During the course of this program, Durst participated in a number of duties and assignments with both the Sheriff's Office and the Detention Center. Duties and assignments with the Sheriff's Office included learning dispatch procedures, accompanying deputies on patrol, traffic stop procedures, paper service procedures, responses to traffic accidents, and responses to residences for disturbances. In regard to the Detention Center, he observed and participated in everyday jail operations, performed security checks on incoming inmate mail, filled out necessary data sheets and jail activity logs, helped book new inmates, and along with correctional staff accompanied inmates to District Court.

He also participated in the fingerprinting programs for area children, completed a three-day suicide prevention training course, developed weekly inmate population reports, and assisted with the writing and submission of electronic grants that the Sheriff's Office uses for funding. His on-site program was supervised by Capt. Larry Gnegy.

In addition to the work with these two offices, Durst also had to complete numerous assignments for the academic component of the internship program. These assignments were all related directly to the duties he performed during the internship, and all were submitted to the internship director, Dr. Joan Andorfer, at FSU.

The culmination of the internship is a research paper written on school shootings, which Durst said he hopes will be beneficial to the Sheriff's Office in preventing school shootings and other forms of school violence in Garrett County.

After completing this internship, Durst has amassed enough credit to graduate from FSU in three years with a bachelor's degree in political science. After graduation, he said he plans to enter the field of criminal justice in either law enforcement or a correctional officer's position.

Grantsville Man Charged With DUI After Hit And Run

A Grantsville motorist who fled from the scene of a hit and run accident early Friday morning was apprehended shortly afterward by Maryland State Police troopers, who filed charges including driving while under the influence.

Jonathan Lee Shelley, 30, was traveling on the exit ramp from westbound Interstate 68 to Chestnut Ridge Road at approximately 2:30 a.m. when his 1996 Ford F-250 truck reportedly rear-ended a 1992 Dodge Spirit that was stopped at the stop sign at Chestnut Ridge Road. Shelley allegedly fled back onto the westbound interstate, but a trooper discovered a license plate that had fallen from the striking vehicle during the collision and was able to locate the suspect's truck a short distance away.

Shelley was identified as the operator and was arrested on charges of DUI, hit and run, leaving the scene of an accident, and failure to control speed to avoid a collision. He was released on his own recognizance pending a court date.

The driver of the Dodge sedan, Ralph William Jenkins, 49, Grantsville, was not injured.

In other state police news, a Saturday afternoon accident near McHenry slightly injured both motorists, who were each transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital and treated and released.

At approximately 3:46 p.m., David Moore, 51, Maysville, W.Va., was stopped in the southbound lane of Garrett Highway south of Hoyes Road waiting to make a left turn into a business. A second southbound vehicle, a 2000 Geo Tracker operated by Gloria Burns, 52, Mtn. Lake Park, struck Moore's 1991 Buick Century from behind.

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad made the transport, and the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company assisted at the scene.

Burns was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

A local woman was severely injured Friday afternoon in an Allegany County crash, according to the MSP LaVale barrack. Her three children and the other motorist each also required medical treatment as a result of the 3:10 p.m. collision on Route 135 in Westernport.

Emily Knotts, 30, of Mtn. Lake Park, was traveling west when she attempted to turn into a business lot and was struck by an eastbound vehicle driven by Stewart Twyman, 58, of Keyser, W.Va.

Knotts was flown by Maryland State Police medevac helicopter Trooper 5 to Cumberland Memorial Hospital. Her three children were taken to the hospital by ambulance, and Twyman was also was transported by ambulance to a hospital.

The Potomac and Bloomington volunteer fire departments, and the units from the Tri-Towns, Keyser, and Valley Medical EMS were summoned to the scene.

Charges are pending.

A CANDY TOSS is great, but a candy drop from a helicopter is the best, which is what young (and not so young) people in Friendsville enjoyed during the recent annual Friendsville Days celebration. More than 100 children were on the grounds of Friendsville Town Park eagerly awaiting the falling sweets, as well as coloring books, stickers, and toothbrushes that were dropped from an Interstate Hardwoods chopper. The candy drop was sponsored by the Friendsville Community Watch group, and also providing donations were Rusty and Heidi Leonard, Mountain Communications/ProCom, and the Oakland Wal-Mart.

Spruce Forest Summer Festival Winners Noted

The 28th annual Spruce Forest Artisan Village Summer Festival was held last month in Grantsville, and numerous prizes were given.

"We would like to thank everyone who participated in any way, especially the artisans, the volunteers, and the staff," said a spokesperson for the Spruce Forest Artisan Village board of directors. "Summerfest had many visiting artisans this year, and the musicians performing for Mountain Music were wonderful."

Two prizes were awarded for the juried craft show. Best in Show for 2005 went to Julie Turrentine for a unique glass design. This contest is judged by resident artisans.

The best booth award went to Cyndee Merashoff, Scenic Hill, Pa., for her Swedish weaving booth, and her demonstration and discussion of her craft.

Each winner received a blue ribbon and a monetary gift.

Other winners were Ruth Romsburg, Jane Hill, Mary Lou Dawson, Amanda Maust, Maggie Vaughn, and Peggy Koby Larz.

Three items were raffled this year, with all proceeds benefiting the ongoing work of Spruce Forest Artisan Village.

A birdhouse quilt made and donated by Jane Benson of Four Seasons Stitchery was won by local resident Judy Broadwater.

A basket of artisan crafts donated by the artisans in residence at the Village was won by Sue Rudd. The basket contained a table runner by weaver Ann Jones, two coffee mugs by potter Lynn Lais, a stained glass candle holder made by Jim and Maryann Cummings, a slate painting and note cards by painter Peggy Nixon, an herb-filled massage therapy neck or body warmer by herbist and teddy bear maker Connie Star, and a hand-woven basket made by resident basket-maker Meriam Brode.

The final raffle was for a hand-carved chickadee among pussy willows donated by world champion bird carver and artisan in residence Gary Yoder. It was won by Virginia resident Mike Jackman.

The Mountain Music Showcase was held on both Friday and Saturday, with six performers participating. They included Franki Moran, Steve Warner, the Halftime String Band, Uncle Abe and Rachel Eddy, Jim Truman, and Lisa and Galen.

Summerfest is held each year on the weekend after the 4th of July. Next year's festival is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, July 7 and 8, 2006, and will again provide a variety of both artisans and musicians.

At Spruce Forest, artisans will be demonstrating their crafts in their studios through the month of October.

In addition, Christmas in the Village is planned for Dec. 2 and 3.

"This special event lets us forget for a few minutes the hectic pace of the holiday season and remember a slower time as we stroll among the log cabins and spruce trees of the village," a spokesperson said. "The luminaries, Christmas music, and food and drink shared with the artisans and visitors remind us of the true meaning of the season. Christmas in the Village is our gift to the community in which we live and work."

Individuals Must Act...

The price of gasoline in Maryland on August 8 averaged a little more than $2.36 per gallon. The average price on Tuesday of this week, just eight days later, was just over $2.60 per gallon. According to AAA Mid-Atlantic, there appears to be "no end in sight" for this alarming escalation, and in some states drivers are already paying in excess of $3 per gallon.

Rapidly rising oil prices is the single, major thorn right now in the side of what is an otherwise a strong U.S. economy. Unemployment figures are down and the stock market has been showing renewed growth over recent months, with a price spike on a barrel of oil being about the only thing of late that causes a down day on Wall Street.

There are many ideas and opinions about what is causing the rapid rise in oil prices and what must be done in order to turn things around. The most obvious solution seems to be less dependency on foreign oil, the achievement of which is complicated and multi-faceted. Improving and expanding our own network of refineries, creating alternative fuels and more efficient vehicles, and, yes, increasing our own drilling operations for oil would be steps that would help.

However, we also need a massive, nationwide effort by individuals to conserve. It's fascinating that, despite the fact that gasoline prices are setting record highs almost daily, there has been virtually no decrease in driving and the number of automobiles on the nation's roadways. In fact, traffic records were also set on both Memorial Day and July 4 weekends this year. The sale of SUVs and various other gas guzzlers does not seem to have declined much. Yes, we are complaining about gas prices, but we don't seem to be doing much in our day-to-day lives to help ease the situation. As in so many other areas of life, we Americans are spoiled, and we really need to change our gluttonous attitudes.

We, as individuals, need to pull out all the stops to use less gasoline. We need to car pool, we need to do a better job in planning our trips to town, we need to make sure our tires are properly inflated, we need to slow down by 5 or 10 miles per hour, we need to buy cars that get better mileage, we need to walk more (for more reasons than the price of gas), we need to don an extra layer of clothing in the winter and turn back our thermostats,...

The law of supply and demand is an absolute about 99% of the time. Why in the world would the suppliers of a product ever reduce their price if there is no reduction in demand?

I'm wondering what genius decided to turn the mail boxes in front of the Oakland Post Office around. Now you must get out of your car or drive on the sidewalk to deposit mail.

To the Editor:

Thank you for several recent articles that you published. In the August 4 issue, Mary McEwen's tribute to her uncle, Alex Wagoner, was an inspiring piece, reminding all of us that truly beautiful people may inhabit less than perfect bodies. Glenn Tolbert's story last week on the pressure for farmers to sell their land for development should give us pause for thought. This theme was reiterated in the editorial which pointed out that the loss of farmland will profoundly affect us all. Thank you for the fine job you do helping us to keep our heads on straight.

To the Editor:

My wife and I have been Backbone Mountain property owners for more than 32 years, and unfortunately have not been able to reside on the property as we live in Montgomery County. This property has been maintained as a certified tree farm for around 25 years. We have enjoyed this property by camping, hunting, hiking, and maintaining it. My children grew up roaming the mountain on foot and on horseback. Needless to say, my family has a very deep feeling for Backbone Mountain.

We feel that the addition of wind turbines to this area would be a definite plus. We all see the results of acid rain on plants, and even our vehicles as they corrode away. I would much rather see a few wind turbines on the mountain top than see it turned into a condo development, or war zone by either a mining or lumber operation.

Everyone need friends–even mountains–but I feel that the Friends of Backbone Mountain group should concentrate its efforts on keeping the mountain healthy and productive rather than issues with something new in the area. We should all be trying to improve our world, rather than to just let it run amuck and eventually smog us all to death.

We hope that our property is chosen for one or two of these wind machines, as this would definitely help to keep the mountain healthy, and in this way possibly help our neighbors and the rest of the world breath easier. We have enough people in this world trying to harm us; let's not do it to ourselves.

To the Editor:

Wind power. Has anyone fully researched the full impact? How can the construction of huge wind towers and the destruction of trees reduce electric bills? We will not be able to afford to take the windmills down when we realize the windmills are a mistake and we have lost thousands of beautiful trees.

We have the most beautiful mountains in Maryland and people want to ruin it by placing atrocious towers on top of them. Downstate residents are reaping the benefit of the windmills and do not deal with the loss of trees or the loss of scenery. They would not appreciate windmills on top of the Washington Monument or the Jefferson Memorial.

The towers will spread over 15 miles of land, but will be a complete eyesore for at least a 20-mile radius! Most residents of Garrett County will be able to walk five minutes and see the towers. Why should we destroy the beauty of Backbone Mountain, the most beautiful monument in Maryland!? As a native and resident of Garrett County, I want to show my kids and grandkids the natural beauty that Garrett County offers, not wind towers!

Global warming is an interesting issue, but there is no solid evidence it is happening. Throughout history there have been many fluctuations in temperature. There is support to this being a hot point in Earth's history. Suppose global warming does exist. Hybrid cars, hydrogen cars, solar paneling, and alternative sources of energy show great potential of being more efficient than wind power without being an eyesore.

I am not against wind power. It might be an excellent alternative source of energy, but windmills must be placed in multiple rows to be effective. They have to be clustered together like cornfields instead of spread out across the county. Midwest fields are a great place because people cannot see these windmills for miles, and they can be installed in multiple rows. We will produce little energy from the windmills in Garrett County. Why put them in?

Please don't ruin this beautiful county with windmills. If everyone conserves more energy by riding bikes, turning off unnecessary lights, using Energy Star approved products, and not buying SUVs when there is no use for them, then the world will not have to worry about global warming. Please don't destroy Backbone Mountain, our most beautiful monument.

Sincerely,
Ann Johnson

To the Editor:

Much confusion exists on the subject of stem cell research. Stem cells are the basic building blocks of the human body. Stem-cell research is a term for research involving stem cells from any number of sources. When humans are first developing as embryos, these cells become the 200 or so distinct cell types in the body. As adults, our stem cells act to repair and replenish existing cells when they wear out or are destroyed. Many media reports do not distinguish between the different sources of stem cells and give the impression that all stem-cell research involves the embryonic form. The use of embryonic stem cells requires the destruction of the human embryo, while adult stem cell research requires no such loss of life.

Stem-cell research is legal and is funded privately and publicly. States have the liberty to fund any form of stem-cell research. Some people object on moral grounds to the use of embryos for research because such use always destroys a young human life. Objectors know that all scientific research must include moral limits in order to avoid atrocities and human rights violations.

Adult stem cells, gathered from skin tissue and other ordinary sources, show great potential in the fight against incurable diseases and permanent injuries. Embryonic stem cells have not shown such promise. Recent developments, using adult stem cells include a few insulin-dependent diabetic patients who are now living insulin-free. Paraplegics and quadriplegics have regained partial use of their limbs. Many other exciting developments occur every day with the use of adult stem cells. This should give hope to patients everywhere.

Thank you,
Teresa L. Domenick

To the Editor:

It's good to have open discourse regarding issues that will impact so many of us. The Oakland bypass is a blessing for some and a potential disaster for others. The wind turbines will negatively impact many, but be economic windfall for others, including Clipper and their investors. It begs the question – would these turbine projects be remotely feasible without the huge tax credits granted by our Congress?

In my opinion the wind turbines are just the latest example of outside exploitation of the Appalachian people. Harry M. Caudill first chronicled the practice in his book Night Comes to the Cumberlands written in 1962. It details the economic, social, and ecological impact first of the outside timber interests, then of coal companies in eastern Kentucky from early settlement through the mid 20th century. Perhaps wind turbines are the latest installment. The people of the Appalachians are an individualistic, tenacious (do I dare mention stubborn [myself included]) group of people, many of whom are of Scotch-Irish descent, so they come by it naturally. This is probably the main reason we do not have zoning.

In the case of the wind turbines, our independent spirit will impact us all. As for the former Sanitary District Commission entering into an agreement to allow turbines, I am at a loss for words as to the logic of their decision. What potential revenue was the commission promised that would compel them to sign such an agreement; a decision that might potentially put at risk our drinking water? Were the long-term consequences taken into consideration? This parcel of county-owned property is the source of drinking water for approximately 3,300 Mtn. Lake Park and Loch Lynn residents and customers. It is safe to say that it is irreplaceable. There should be no development (other than that which is related to capacity and facility development, etc.) of any kind ever allowed on such a vital piece of property held in the public trust. Its existence should never be compromised in any manner. In addition, will we one day have to pay a tax for the removal of these turbines if they are abandoned by Clipper similarly to the "flush tax" we pay for the bay or for the creation of a landfill?

I implore the commissioners to work toward nullifying this agreement with Clipper. And I implore Clipper, as a show of good faith toward our community, a community that they want to be a part of, to act accordingly and nullify all binding commitments regarding this agreement.

Sincerely,
Gregan Crawford

View from My Window

FAREWELL

Did I mention that the French are serious about bread? And about vacations too? When these two fixtures of French life converge, then "serious" no longer suffices.

On my return to Paris I wandered by my favorite boulangerie to find an official notice from the Prefecture of Police informing the public that this particular boulangerie belonged to "Group I" and would, therefore, be closed for the month of July. Neighborhood boulangeries that remained open during that period were duly noted.

The reason that "Bread" was not included with the values of "Liberty, Equality, and Fraternity" is that it wasn't necessary. This is a country where daily fresh bread is a fundamental right to be protected by the law as carefully as speech and perhaps more carefully than religion.

Thus my time ends in Paris as it began, and as it continued, in a state of amused wonder at this extraordinary nation.

My regard for France and the French has not prevented me, however, from experiencing fits of irritation. Today while strolling along the sidewalk in the rain I saw a woman approaching in the company of her mother and two infants, one in a stroller and the other in her arms. I stepped off the sidewalk into the street to let them by. They passed without saying a word.

"You're welcome!" I said to them in French. It was to no avail. Such understated reminders of their rudeness are like shooting arrows at a Sherman tank. The weapon is simply not commensurate with the target.

I am not the first visitor to have expressed some frustration with the French on leaving Paris. In A.D. 1762 Jean-Jacques Rousseau wrote:

"Adieu then, Paris, famous city, city of noise, of smoke and mud, where the women no more believe in honor than the men in virtue. Adieu, Paris: we look for love, happiness and innocence; to find them we can never get far enough away from you."

Thus he waxed eloquent frequently in the pages of Emile, and it is a very long book. The French Parliament returned the compliment by ordering the book to be shredded and burned and its author to be arrested. Monsieur Rousseau promptly left town. My own departure takes place on happier terms.

These final days have given me an opportunity to do something which I have meant to do since my arrival.

Someone had told me about an exquisite house museum called Jacquemart-André. I discovered that the formal dining room had been turned into a restaurant. So I enjoyed one of those classic French salads (with bread from the neighborhood boulangerie which is open this month) surrounded by tapestries depicting scenes from Homer's Iliad, a work of more than passing interest to me. The Tiepolo on the ceiling wasn't bad either.

While I could easily fill pages about the magnificent artwork in this collection, the real story is about how persecuted Protestants have made good in Catholic France. The formula was simple: Deprive bright, energetic and ambitious people of access to the military, university and civil service, and they do what is left, namely make money. That was the state of affairs in France for most of 300 years.

Edouard André was a 19th century multi-millionaire and scion of a Protestant financial dynasty. When the Prussians besieged Paris in A.D. 1871, it was the Rothschilds and Andrés who brokered the deal to get them out of town. You get the picture.

Thus this final cultural expedition also provided unexpected assurance to a visiting Presbyterian pastor. Even with the royalists praying daily for the restoration of the monarchy, we Calvinists can continue to prosper in Paris.

These last few days also gave me the chance to do one more time something which has sustained me from beginning to end, namely taking walks.

I began on the steps of the Madeleine and then walked down the Rue Royale toward the Place de la Concorde where stands the 3,000 year-old Egyptian obelisk.

Behind the obelisk is the National Assembly across the Seine, and behind that the golden dome of St. Louis' Cathedral under which lies Napoleon's tomb. Entering the Place de la Concorde one sees the Eiffel Tower. Turning to the right there are the Champs-Elysées and the Arch of Triumph. To the left are the Tuileries Gardens and the Louvre.

It is at such moments that one understands the exclamation by one of my cousins, "Why would someone live anywhere else if he could live here?"

The Luxembourg Gardens make a less breathtaking walk, but a more comforting one. There are still magnificent sights enough: the Sacré-Cœur far in the distance and at the bottom of the Gardens is the Luxembourg Palace, which houses the French Senate. There is the Medici Fountain and numerous superb sculptures.

In a shaded grove of the Gardens is one of my favorite things in this splendid town, the original bronze model for Frédéric-Auguste Bartholdi's Statue of Liberty. Beside Lady Liberty is an oak tree, planted as a living memorial shortly after Sept. 11, 2001.

I paused; I prayed; I headed toward the house that, for most of a year, has been home.

I linger over this city, musing as a reader does over a well-loved book not wanting to find himself reading the last page.

What's Happening at the Drane House . . .

by Becky Aiken and Sherry Georg

Has anyone ever told you to "sleep tight and don't let the bed bugs bite"? Did you wonder why? Those of you who have visited the Drane House and Museum Garden in Accident will know.

Pictured above is the rope bed in the Drane House. In order to sleep in this bed, one had to tie a rope around small pegs on the frame. This would support the material bag that you would stuff to make your mattress. If you didn't tie your rope tightly, you might find yourself on the floor.

It was also imperative that you used clean hay or straw for your bedding. It could be very uncomfortable to have a bed filled with bugs.

If you haven't had an opportunity to take a tour of the Drane House, this would be a good weekend to stop by. The Drane House will be open this Saturday, Aug. 20, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

This year's theme is "Connecting With the Past Through Arts and Crafts." The art activity for this Saturday is sleigh painting. Class size is limited to 10 people, and it is available on a first-come, first-served basis. All materials will be provided. The fee for the class is $5 to help cover the cost of materials.

Funding for this year's art projects has been provided through a grant from the Garrett County and Maryland State arts councils.

You may reserve a space in the class, and/or obtain more information by calling Becky Aiken at 301-746-8427.

Oakland Parking Meter Decoration Contests Slated

The third annual "Adopt a Parking Meter" fundraiser is slated in Oakland, with an October contest scheduled to coincide with the Autumn Glory Festival, and a December contest set to highlight the Christmas season. Proceeds of this year's contest will benefit the House of Hope.

For a $50 donation, any business, organization, church, youth group, or individual can adopt a parking meter and decorate it for both contests. Contest applications, which are available at the Oakland town hall, must be received by Thursday, Sept. 15.

Requests for specific meters will be honored on a first-come basis. To claim a specific meter, entrants are asked to forward $50 and a completed contest application to Oakland city hall, and write the name of the business, organization, etc., claiming the meter on a piece of yellow ribbon approximately two feet long and tie it to their meter.

Donors can decorate in any way of their choosing, but are asked to keep with seasonal themes and in good taste, and decorations cannot extend over the curb.

Decorations for the Autumn Glory portion of the contest can go up beginning Saturday, Oct. 8, and must be completed by Tuesday, Oct. 11. Those decorations must come down between Tuesday and Thursday, Nov. 1-3.

Decorations for the Christmas contest can go up beginning Monday, Nov. 21, and must be completed by Wednesday, Nov. 30. Those decorations must come down by Saturday, Jan. 7.

Votes for favorite meters will be tallied during each decorating session.

Past beneficiaries of the event have been the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad and the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department.

For further information, persons may contact the Oakland city hall at 301-334-2691.

To the Editor:

A recent Synergics Wind flyer, "WindPower: Facts and Myths," lists six claims for the wind industry. However, all are factually misleading, perfectly illustrative of this industry's propaganda. Consider one example: "Wind Plants bring Jobs and Tax Revenues," the flyer touts, adding windplants represent "an investment of more than $100 million" in our county. Well, sort of. Here's the truth. Both windplants targeting Garrett County will have a capital cost of about $140 million. For a normal industry, this would create many jobs and much new taxes. But…

Garrett County has no ordinance for taxing windplants commensurate with their capital value. For those operating in Somerset County, the average tax payment in 2003 for each turbine was only $528, a combined property tax payment of $7,388 on machines that cost $50 million to install. Moreover, Mountaineer Wind near Thomas has purportedly just paid $93,000 over several years after a capital outlay of $70 million–and this after much delay and negative press. These companies had promised much more. Synergics will not be taxed as a public utility. Indeed, it is not clear what taxes it would be obliged to pay. What penalties apply if Garrett County does not receive promised revenues? None.

Few permanent jobs will be created- perhaps a couple of maintenance employees. The national average is one maintenance employee for every 12-15 turbines. A 20-turbine wind plant in Meyersdale now employs only two maintenance employees.

During construction, some local security guards and earth movers may be hired for a few months, although the bulk of construction will be completed by non-locals, since many turbines are manufactured in Europe (often as subcontracts to US firms like GE) with warranties likely serviced by the manufacturer and its employees. A recent study by the Iowa Department of Natural Resources showed that, of 200 total wind plant construction jobs, only 20 were local–and all disappeared within six months.

Synergics overstates local economic benefits by counting the full price of goods and services, rather than value added. The only portion of the price paid by the wind plants that should be tallied is the difference between the local supplier's cost and the price he charges–that is, the value-added portion–which would be extremely small in Garrett County, as most goods will be purchased elsewhere for these wind facilities.

Not much from a $140-million "investment. Positively Enronesque.

To the Editor:

As early as August 22, thousands of Maryland students will begin heading back to school. Emerging onto streets and sidewalks will be a new crop of children excited about their first day of school and focused on everything around them–except traffic.

It is often difficult for small children to see motorists and for motorists to see them, especially around parked cars or buses. We ask parents to teach kids how to cross a street safely.

Judging a car's speed and distance can be difficult for young children. They often believe that if they can see a car, the motorist can see them. Many children also believe that cars can stop instantly, but as adults, we know that is not true.

The first day of school is a hectic time for everyone. Parents are trying to get to work while getting their children to school on time. Remember the rules of the road, particularly those related to school buses and school zones. According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, automated photo enforcement found that 82% of drivers were passing a school bus and 78% were speeding in a school zone in 2003.

To raise the public's awareness of safety concerns, AAA Mid-Atlantic is launching its 72nd annual School's Open–Drive Carefully campaign. AAA school safety patrollers with their familiar neon lime green belts will be on full alert for dangerous situations.

We implore all drivers to be alert and aware of their surroundings and to obey the traffic laws. According to the National Safe Kids Campaign, a recent survey of speeding in school zones found that two-thirds of drivers exceed the posted speed limit during the 30-minute period before and after school. Please slow down and be careful as our children begin a new school year.

Sincerely,
Ragina C. Averella
Manager,
Public & Government Affairs
AAA Mid-Atlantic

To the Editor:

I thoroughly enjoyed reading Bill Detrick's letter in the paper this past week. Oakland is a hateful place to drive through, and the prices are outrageous for those of us who work 40 hours a week. Maybe the prices are reasonable for the wealthy tourists, but give us local people a break! After all, we are the ones who make this county businesses run.

Back to those "dreadful" windmills. Like I have said before, I'd rather see them than condos all over the place. I don't really give a monkey's behind if the electric goes to South America. How many planes hit wind towers every year? How many human lives are lost due to these despicable things? These precious birds and bats are obviously more important than some person like me who can barely afford to pay my electric bill every month!

And Mrs. Willetta Russell, I agree that we do use quite a lot of fossil fuel and waste our resources. We could all do a better job of conserving what we have. We do need to work as a whole to take care of our home and the plants, animals, and places entrusted to us. Our world won't be here forever. Eventually we will have a new heaven and earth, but for now we should take care of our home. We can all enjoy our rolling fields, tall mountains, strong trees, wild animals, and clean rivers–even windmills. Just think of all those trees they cut down for condos.

"I firmly believe that before many centuries more science will be the master of man. The engines he will have invented will be beyond his strength to control. Some day science shall have the existence of mankind in its power and the human race commit suicide by blowing up the world." Henry Adams, April 11, 1862.

As far as the government is concerned, it is a great beast that devours what it will in its path, leaving only what it desires, and those in its way stand helpless. Maybe reform is a diet.

Sincerely,
Brenda E. Glotfelty

Longtime Local Market Owner Dies At Age 75

Chester Roy McFarland, 75, Grantsville, died Thursday, Aug. 11, 2005, at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland.

Born Dec. 7, 1929, in Hopwood, Pa., he was the son of the late Carl and Elizabeth (Hopwood) McFarland. He was also preceded in death by one son, Ronald Chester McFarland; and one daughter, Lois Pope.

Chester began his lifetime journey in produce at the age of 15 at Monheim Produce in Uniontown. In 1953, he started his own produce route, delivering to Frostburg and Cumberland from Pittsburgh and Baltimore. In 1958, he started the roadside market now known as Hill Top Fruit Market in Grantsville. In 1961, he purchased the Farmer's Market in Oakland and the Fruit Bowl in the Narrows in 1970.

He also owned and operated Hill Top Trucking. In 1966, he started Candyland at his stores, starting something that is known across the country. He and his business are known locally and nationally. Despite his attending school only to the 10th grade at Uniontown Senior High School, his self-made education and experience-based learning resulted in a life full of intelligence and business sense that was most impressive.

He taught his children many things, most importantly the meaning of hard work and sacrifice through his example. He gave selflessly to many causes, never expecting recognition. He was a dedicated husband, father, grandfather, brother, friend, employer, and businessman. He will be sadly missed by his family, friends, and business acquaintances. A new journey begins.

Surviving are his wife of 55 years, Shirley L. (LaClair) McFarland; two sons, Kenneth "Pete" and wife Denise McFarland of Grantsville, and Jim and wife Melanie McFarland of Frostburg; eight daughters, Ambra Kay and husband Bob Dolan of Accident, Mary Louise and husband Dalton Paul, Grantsville, Joyce Lynn and husband Gregg Kamp, Lonaconing, Linda Sue and husband Verlyn (Dutch) Carr, Accident, Barbara Jean and husband Roger Parrill, Paw Paw, W.Va., Terri Lee and husband Chuck Wiley, Frostburg, Peggy Jo and husband Mervin Kamp, Grantsville, and Ellen Sondra (Sandi) and husband Darin Carey, Frostburg; two sisters, Dorothy King, Warren, Ohio, and Janice Roebuck, Uniontown, Pa.; 26 grandchildren; and 11 great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Newman Funeral Home, Grantsville, where a service was held on Tuesday, Aug. 16, with the Rev. William Ferguson officiating.

Interment was in Hopwood Cemetery.

Expressions of sympathy may be directed to the American Diabetes Association or the American Cancer Society.

Condolences may be sent to the family at www.newmanfuneralhomes.com.

GERALDINE R. TITCHENELL

Geraldine R. Titchenell, 73, Rawlings, died Tuesday, Aug. 16, 2005, at Lions Manor Nursing Home.

Born Aug. 28, 1931, in Terra Alta, W.Va., she was a daughter of the late Harry and Goldie (Davis) DeWitt. She was also preceded in death by one son, Stephen L. Titchenell Sr.; four brothers, Wilbert, Junior, Charles, and Kenny DeWitt; one granddaughter; and one great-granddaughter.

She had worked in the dietary department at Hopemont Hospital. She held church membership in Clarksburg, W.Va.

Survivors include her former husband, Walter Titchenell, Hedgesville, W.Va.; one son, James W. Titchenell, Frostburg; three daughters, Nancy Carol Logan, Cumberland, Lois Genene Updike, Oldtown, and Marianna Pearl Bucy, Bel Air; one brother, Rodger DeWitt, Terra Alta; two sisters, Evaline DeStefani, Vienna, Va., and Dorothy Knotts, Terra Alta; 13 grandchildren; and 13 great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Upchurch Funeral Home, Cumberland, today, Thursday, Aug. 18, from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

A service will be conducted at the funeral home on Friday at 1 p.m., with Pastor Jerry Eisenhour officiating.

Interment will be in Restlawn Memorial Gardens, Cumberland.

Memorial contributions may be made to the family, c/o Upchurch Funeral Home, 202 Greene St., Cumberland, MD 21502.

Adorable Adoptables

ALL STRAYS WITH NO TAGS, AGAIN – The female black Lab/blue tick hound mix, left, was found along Mayhew Inn Road, and is described as a nice little dog. Also housed at the Garrett County Animal Shelter and looking for a home is a female shepherd/Lab mix, center. She is said to be very shy and acts as if she has been mistreated, but she loves attention. She was picked up near Spring Glade Road. Pictured at right is a very friendly male border collie mix that was found last week near Herrington Manor State Park. He still hasn't been reclaimed so he is up for adoption. "As usual none of these three dogs had on collars or ID tags, and all apparently didn't have dog licenses, which would have enabled the shelter to contact the owners right away," said a Garrett County Humane Society spokesperson. Dog licenses are required and can be purchased at the Animal Shelter or the county courthouse. Last week's long-haired black cat was reclaimed by his owner. The white cat, however, is still available, as well as a few kittens. "Thankfully, several dozen kittens were also rescued by HART of Garrett County and taken downstate, where they will be adopted into good homes, as there are more kittens than homes for them here in our county, so please spay or neuter your pets!" the spokesperson said. For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553.

REMEMBERING V-J DAY

For those of us who have lived through the past seven decades, 2005 has been a year of remembering the war that defined the 20th century and changed our world forever. It began in February with the Super Bowl halftime tribute to our World War II generation. As I watched Marine veterans of Guadalcanal, Tuskegee Airmen, and even some Navy WAVES step onto the field, 60 years sped by. All year we have seen reminders of islands taken, battles won over a half century ago. Now we have just observed the culminating event of that war — August 1945.

The war did not come into our living rooms then, as there was no home television. Families huddled around their radios at 7:30 p.m. each evening to hear Gabriel Heater or H.V. Kaltenborn report news of battles in far away places — Aachen, Bastogne, Iwo Jima, Okinawa. I listened to those broadcasts in my room at the women officers' quarters in the Norfolk Navy Yard where I was a WAVE disbursing officer. Women did not serve aboard ship or in combat in 1945. We performed our duties stateside, wrote V-mails to boy friends and family members overseas at APOs and FPOs, and read the weekly casualty lists with prayers in our hearts, just as thousands of American families are doing today.

Our quarters were in a park-like area of the yard near the Elizabeth River, with gardenia bushes, magnolia trees, and a few Civil War artillery pieces cemented around a flag pole. Towering over the park stood the giant hammerhead crane used to install radar gear atop our battleships and carriers. Between the long square fingers of piers, red brick office buildings and black windowed shops stretched endlessly. These shops worked 24/7, and we learned to sleep with chipping hammers pounding and cutting torches screaming through the night. We felt close to the fighting navy in that busy place.

Early in 1945, ships from the Atlantic fleet began coming into the yard to be repaired before they would sail to the Pacific for the invasion of Japan planned for September. Every day as we walked past the piers where these ships were berthed, we saw some of them leave and others take their place. We met their officers at the "O" Club and in offices where they had business, and sometimes we went to dinner with them or danced to "Big Band" music on the jukebox. Among them was the man who would later become my husband. Relationships were transient then, limited to the weeks of a ship's availability, but even in that unlikely place, romance found a way.

In April our war-time leader President Franklin Roosevelt died and was succeeded by Harry Truman. Hitler committed suicide, and the fighting in Italy ceased. On May 8, the day that would become known as V-E Day, I was waiting for an airport shuttle in Norfolk on my way to Pittsburgh and a five-day leave when I heard Winston Churchill's voice over the PA system of the Monticello Hotel announcing that the Germans had surrendered in Berlin.

As the war in Europe came to an end, the war in the Pacific raged on. The Japanese seemed determined to fight to the last man, woman, and child. All during that spring we kept seeing evidence of Japan's desperation in ships that had been hit by the enemy's newest weapon, the kamikaze. Flown by fanatical pilots with mindsets similar to today's suicide bombers, these planes took their toll on our aircraft carriers in the Pacific.

At the end of July we received the terrible news that the cruiser Indianapolis, on its way to Guam, had been torpedoed and sunk by a Japanese submarine, with a loss of 900 men. We knew that the Japanese were not ready to quit, and there was much talk of the coming invasion. Then in early August, President Harry Truman made the decision that was to avoid an estimated one million American casualties. On August 6 the Enola Gay, a B-29 flying from Saipan, dropped an atomic bomb on Hiroshima. Three days later another B-29, the Bocks Car, dropped a second atomic bomb on Nagasaki. We all hoped and prayed that the Japanese leaders were finally getting the message.

Days passed, and then on the beautiful evening of August 14 in the Norfolk Navy yard, time stood still. A group of us were having dinner in the officers' club when we heard a commotion back in the manager's office. At precisely 19:10, the manager burst through his door, jumping over chairs, waving his arms and shouting, "The Japs just surrendered! The Japs surrendered!"

Instantly we were on our feet, hugging, kissing, shouting, crying. We heard later that for the first time ever, Emperor Hirohito addressed his people by radio, accepting the Allies' joint declaration for unconditional surrender. The war was over.

Every town, city, and village in America went immediately into a celebration mode, but nowhere could there have been more joy than in the Norfolk Navy Yard. Ships cut loose with searchlights and sirens. Horns on Navy vehicles honked. The hammerhead crane swung around on its tower, 360 degrees. Now there would be no invasion. These ships would not go to the Pacific. The men we knew would not face the enemy again. The lights had come on all over the world.

They tell us that our numbers are diminishing by about 1,500 per day, so each year there will be fewer of us to remember; but for those of us who are here, that day, August 14, 1945 — V-J Day — will always be the greatest event of our lives.

Cardin's $1 Million Campaign "War Chest" Won't Be Enough

by Chris Yakaitis
Capital News Service

COLLEGE PARK — Rep. Benjamin Cardin has raised more than $1 million for his Senate bid, four times more than his nearest competitor and enough, he said, to campaign across the state and win over "persuadable voters."

"We're going to be in every area -- red areas, blue areas and purple areas," Cardin said recently at a Greater Laurel/Beltsville Democratic Club gathering at Famous Dave's Bar-B-Que in Laurel.

But analysts said an early lead in fundraising is no guarantee of success in the race to succeed retiring Sen. Paul Sarbanes, D-Md., who is stepping down next year.

While former Democratic Rep. Kweisi Mfume had raised only $238,196, according to his most recent report with the Federal Election Commission, "Mfume knows how to do more with less," said Herb Smith, professor of political science at McDaniel College.

"He's very efficient on the stump," Smith said.

And the winner of the Democratic primary could well face a general election against Lt. Gov. Michael L. Steele, who has established an exploratory committee, but has yet to officially enter the Senate race.

Even though Steele reported a fundraising total of just $100, most expect he will get a great deal of financial support if and when he announces his candidacy.

"Republicans are talking about a $15 million Senate campaign," Cardin said last week in Laurel.

Cardin raised the bulk of his money in the last quarter, according to his June 30 filing with the FEC. He would not cite a specific fundraising goal, but said a successful campaign would require more than the nearly $6 million raised by Democratic Sen. Barbara Mikulski in her successful 2004 re-election campaign.

Patrick Gonzales, president of Gonzales Research & Marketing Strategies, said Steele's highly visible elected office makes him a "more viable candidate than other Republican candidates over the past 20 years."

In the meantime, the Maryland Republican Party is "absolutely not" concerned about Steele falling behind in fundraising, said Audra Miller, communications director for the state GOP.

"If he does enter the race he will have the full support of the White House, of the Republican National Committee, and we hope all the Republican Party members throughout the state, as well as the country," she said.

Maryland Democratic Party officials, too, are not concerned. They said that any financial boon Steele gets from associating with national Republican figures — such as President Bush, Vice President Dick Cheney and senior White House adviser Karl Rove — could prove to be a political liability for his campaign.

"The president and [Republican] Congress enjoy a remarkably low approval rating among Americans, and especially among voters in Maryland," said Derek Walker, communications director for the Maryland Democratic Party.

"We welcome George Bush and Karl Rove and Dick Cheney and anybody else who wants to prove to a greater degree how closely Governor [Robert] Ehrlich and Lieutenant Governor Steele are aligned with the [Bush] administration," Walker said.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Funds Available For Grassland Reserve Program

Landowners still have time to submit applications for the Grassland Reserve Program (GRP), administered by jointly by the USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA) and the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS). Aug. 26 is the deadline to submit GRP offers and have them considered for funding in September. This year, Maryland has $133,200 available for qualifying applicants.

"The voluntary Grassland Reserve Program provides an excellent opportunity for landowners to preserve and conserve our nation's grasslands," said Elizabeth Anderson, state executive director for the Maryland State Farm Service Agency. "GRP provides annual rental payments, typically in the range of $9 to $14 per acre, for a period of 10, 15, 20, or 30 years."

Offers for participation in GRP must include 40 or more acres of eligible land. Enrolled land must be maintained in at least the same level of grassland quality as now exists, and cannot be used for production of annually planted crops.

Grasslands eligible for enrollment in this program include pasture and permanent hayland. Other acreage which may qualify for enrollment includes incidental areas such as land containing shrubs, or land located in an area historically dominated by grassland.

The NRCS will evaluate each offer and rate the eligibility of the land according to specific criteria, including

IT'S ALL ABOUT THE HARD WORK – When a kid decides to raise an animal for the Garrett County Agriculture Fair, he is deciding to take on a lot of hard work. Kelsey Skipper, a member of the Red House 4-H Club, is pictured here as he takes care of one of the many tasks required in the maintenance of his pig. The pigs were judged yesterday, and the culminating Livestock Sale will be held on Saturday, beginning at 5 p.m. "This week represents the end of a project cycle," said Terri Rodeheaver, a member of the Garrett County Livestock Association and of the Fair board. "These kids have put in a tremendous amount of work, and look forward to generous support from the community at Saturday's sale, which is their reward for all of that labor." For more information about the event, persons may call the Fair office at 301-387-5400. Kelsey, who is the son of Frank and Lisa Skipper, fared well with his pig, but did even better with his own molasses cookies, for which he earned a blue ribbon. Photo by Lisa Broadwater.

Eastern Shore Effort May Show Way To Protect Working Lands

by Dr. Russell Brinsfield

Something is happening on the upper Eastern Shore that may bode well for Maryland. A number of individual enterprises are coming together to protect the region's sense of place while improving its economy and quality of life. This is good news for Maryland, because the multi-pronged approach under way here may provide a model for how to protect the state's immensely valuable resource lands.

Here, the sense of place grows from the fields, forests, waterways, and marshes that create the landscape and from the towns, many with a distinct character of their own. Together, the towns and surrounding working lands form a system that is a vital part of the state's cultural and economic life.

Increasing pressures threaten the system's vitality, however. Farming, forestry, and fishing face threats such as rising land prices, global competition and pressure to be environmentally sensitive. As an example of these pressures, consider a farmer who grows corn and soybeans. If he wants to expand production he must compete for land in a market where demand for suburban housing drives up the cost. He must sell his crops in a market where the price, set by global competition, has been falling, as have federal price supports. He must meet environmental standards to protect the region's water quality. In addition, he must deal with new neighbors who object to the noise, smell, and dust of his operations, and grow impatient with his slow pace when he moves large equipment over the roads. All these factors add to the cost of production and make it tougher to survive.

Unraveling such a tangled net of pressures is difficult. However, on the upper shore (Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's, Caroline, Talbot, and Dorchester counties) several key players are working on a set of ideas. Their approach is to help make resource-based industries profitable; improve government systems that support these industries, including economic development policies and the availability of capital; and reduce the pressure to develop working lands with better regional transportation planning, land use planning, zoning, and preservation programs.

Key players in this unfolding work include the Chesapeake Fields Institute, the Eastern Shore Land Conservancy, the Maryland Center for Agro-Ecology Inc., philanthropic organizations and the state and county governments.

The Chesapeake Fields Institute's motto is "preservation through profitability." It and its offshoot, Chesapeake Fields Farms LLC, explore new crops and markets, and look for ways farmers can capture more of their crops' value.

For example, Chesapeake Fields Farms, which is a current vegetative cover, susceptibility to urban sprawl, and the potential for conversion to cropland. Landowners whose applications are selected for enrollment in GRP will receive technical assistance to support grazing operation and to increase and maintain plant diversity.

"Grasslands provide critical ecological benefits and play a key role in environmental and water quality protection, as well as contributing to the economics of many rural areas," said Virginia (Ginger) Murphy, state conservationist for the NRCS. "When properly managed, grasslands can result in cleaner water supplies, healthier riparian areas, and reduced sediment loadings in streams and other water bodies. These lands are vital for the production of forage for domestic livestock and can also provide habitat for wildlife," said Murphy.

Landowners interested in filing an application for GRP funding should contact their local FSA or NRCS Field Service Center.

For additional information, persons may visit the Maryland NRCS website at www.md.nrcs.usda.gov/programs/grp/grp.html.

"I DON'T KNOW ABOUT YOU, BUT I FEEL LIKE I'M ON DISPLAY," says the goat to the other goat. Indeed, hundreds of animals are being exhibited this week at the Garrett County Agriculture Fair in McHenry. Guests may view animals such as these close up, and may even touch their knobby heads. In addition to the goats, pigs, cows, rabbits, chickens, ducks, horses, and other creatures, fair-goers may look at hundreds of judged items, such as grains, vegetables, flowers, crafts, school projects, handmade clothing and quilts, and much more. The fair is open through Saturday from early morning until late at night. Photo by John McEwen.

Eastern Shore Effort

partially farmer-owned organization, has been investigating varieties of soybeans grown for human consumption, rather than for oil or animal feed. And they have created a line of snack foods, popcorn, and soybeans from the grains grown by participating farmers.

The Eastern Shore Land Conservancy has helped permanently protect more than 36,000 acres of working lands through conservation easements. In addition, ESLC developed Eastern Shore 2010, an agreement signed by the six county governments of the upper shore that set regional goals for transportation, land protection, growth management, and economic development. With funding from the Maryland Center for Agro-Ecology Inc., ESLC contracted the American Farmland Trust to develop a regional economic development strategy for the upper shore. This study reported that slightly more than $1 of every $5 of economic output in the six upper Eastern Shore counties comes from resource-based industries. Most of the dollars come from farming, but a portion also comes from fishing and forestry. The resource-based output varies from 14 percent of total economic output in Cecil County to 50 percent in Dorchester County.

As a statewide organization, the Maryland Center for Agro-Ecology Inc. supports the basic scientific research needed to identify and develop profitable new crops, new markets, and pollution reduction techniques. The center also studies land use policy. It has researched how to simplify conservation easements and whether or not reducing allowable density on working lands through down-zoning decreases the value of the land. It has worked with the Maryland Department of Planning to assess the effectiveness of the state's land preservation efforts. That study found better coordination between state efforts, local zoning, and land-use policies is needed to meet state land preservation goals.

These efforts are important to all Marylanders because rural communities, their working lands, and the industries they support are critical to Maryland's economy. No matter where we live, the economic circulation binds us and we share the heritage rooted in these working lands. Imagine Maryland as a living being and the Upper Eastern Shore as one of its limbs. If that limb withers as its economic base declines, the state will be weaker.

The upper shore is not alone in this struggle. Farmers, foresters, and fishermen in the state's other rural areas face many of the same problems. If the working lands disappear, those regions, and ultimately the entire state, will be poorer for it. So let us hope that what is emerging on the upper shore produces the promise it holds.

Russell Brinsfield is executive director of the Maryland Center for Agro-Ecology Inc., and director of the University of Maryland College of Agriculture and Natural Resources Wye Research and Education Center. As a scientist, Brinsfield has co-authored numerous publications focusing on ways to minimize the environmental impacts of agriculture on our natural resources. He manages the Brinsfield family farms, is mayor of Vienna (Md.), and is a co-founder and current board of directors member of the Eastern Shore Land Conservancy.

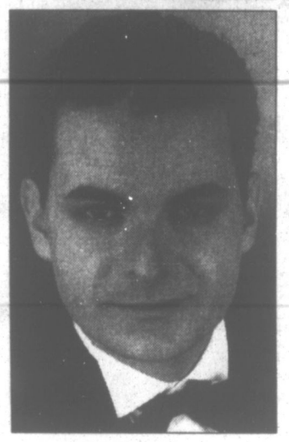
Music At Penn Alps Presenting Violin-Piano Duo

Violinist Jonathan Carney will join pianist Enrico Elisi for a concert of classical music in the Penn Alps Great Hall on Saturday, Aug. 20, at 7:30 p.m. Featured composers will include Beethoven, Schubert, Brahms, and Jorge Grossman in this performance, which is sponsored by Music at Penn Alps.

JONATHAN CARNEY



ENRICO ELISI

Carney, the concertmaster of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, made his debut in 1991 with the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra at the invitation of Vladimir Ashkenazy. A graduate of the Juilliard School of Music and the Royal College of Music, he has toured South America with Yehudi Menuhin. Elisi returns as an accompanist after presenting a solo concert at Penn Alps previously this season. A graduate of the Peabody Conservatory and former assistant of Leon Fleisher, he teaches at the University of Nevada and directs the Piano Institute of the Las Vegas Music Festival.

Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by season and corporate sponsors and by the support of individuals. The 2005 season sponsor is the Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop. Frostburg State University is the sponsor for this concert.

For information on Music at Penn Alps, reservations, ticket prices, and locations for advance ticket sales, persons may contact Julyen Norman at 301-895-4250. Guests ages 18 and younger are admitted to the concerts free of charge.

Tickets will be available at the door. There are no reserved seats. Ticket holders should arrive no later than 7:20 p.m. to guarantee seating. Penn Alps is located east of Grantsville along Old Route 40 between exits 19 and 22 of Interstate 68.

More information is available at the web site: www.musicatpennalps.org.

Acoustic Concert At The Dip To Benefit Museum

Local musicians will perform on the outside deck of The Dip Homemade Ice Cream Parlor in Grantsville on Sunday, Aug. 28, from 2 to 5 p.m. Twenty percent of all ice cream sales during the event will be donated to the Grantsville Community Museum.

The event will be held rain or shine, and music will include acoustic rock, blues, folk, and bluegrass. Admission is free.

Local artists will include Jody Mosser of Frostburg and Grover Broadwater of LaVale. Mosser is a young local artist who will be performing an array of blues and acoustic guitar music. Broadwater is a seasoned fiddle player who plays bluegrass and country music.

The Dip is located inside Little Crossing Country Store, about half a mile east of Grantsville on Route 40.

For more information, persons may call 301-895-4476.

Chamber Slates Art & Wine Fest At Fairgrounds

Plans are shaping up for Garrett County's first Art and Wine Festival, scheduled for Friday through Sunday, Sept. 9-11, in McHenry and throughout the county. The event, which is supported by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, will benefit Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross.

The Art and Wine Festival will begin Friday, when area restaurants and gourmet shops will offer special "Pre-Fest" wine pairing dinners, art demonstrations, and other special evening events. More information will be available closer to the event.

Saturday's activities will take place from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. The activities will include demonstrations and displays by local artists and artisans, children's games, and the opportunity to sample a variety of wines from Maryland and national wineries. The day's slate of live entertainment will include performances by Jimmy Flanigan, Dmitry Kubin, Wolf Creek Session, and Smith and Roberts.

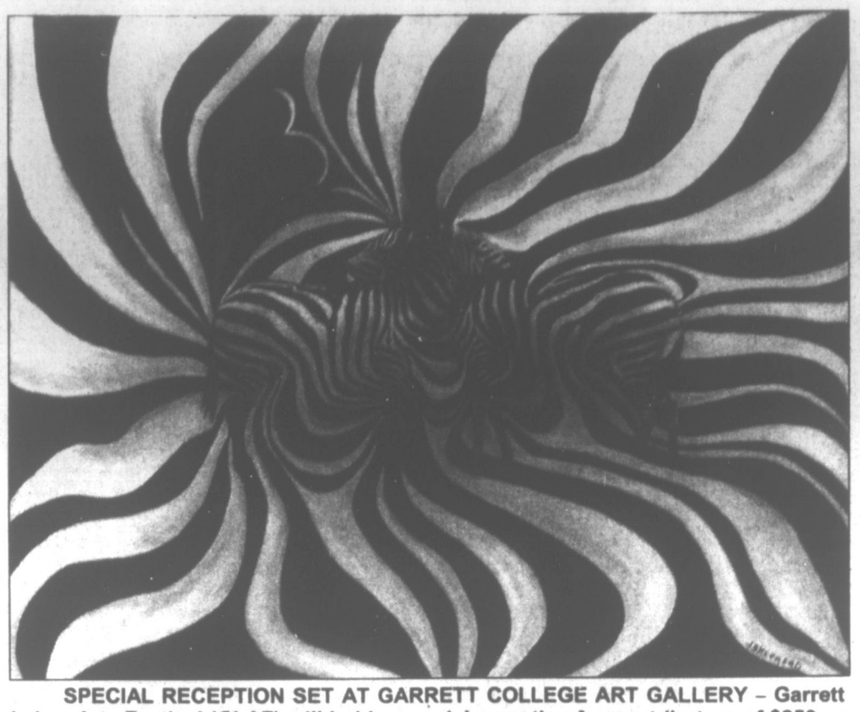
Sunday brunch will be offered at Wisp, and the Savage River Lodge will feature Maryland wines with its brunch set to begin at 1 p.m. Other area restaurants will also offer special brunches.

"This is one art and wine festival the whole family can enjoy," says Paula Yudelevit, co-chair. "Children will have the opportunity to become their own artists by helping other young people paint a giant paint-by-number canvas, make special ornaments, take a hayride, and more."

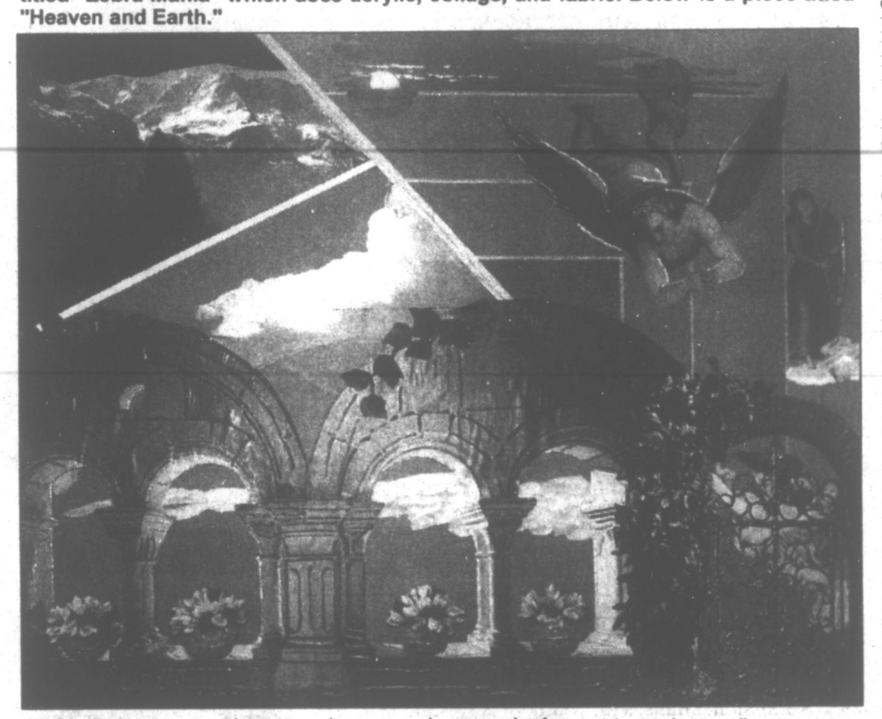
Participating hotels, bed-and-breakfasts, and rental agencies are offering Art and Wine Festival packages that cover the festival entrance and attraction tickets, Friday night dinner gift certificates, and discounted lodging rates.

Tickets for Saturday's festival are $20 for adults age 21 and over, which includes the entry fee, 10 wine tastings, a commemorative wine glass, and the free entertainment. For guests under 21, entry fee tickets are $5, while children 5 and under will be admitted at no charge.

For more information, persons may call the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce at 888-387-5237, or visit the chamber's web site at www.garrettchamber.com.



SPECIAL RECEPTION SET AT GARRETT COLLEGE ART GALLERY – Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) will hold a special reception for contributors of $250 or more during the 2005 season in the Garrett College Art Gallery from 6:30 until 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 20. In addition to honoring donors, artworks by visiting artist Joyce Shepherd will be featured. GLAF's reception will be followed by the first concert of the "Music on the Mountain" festival, which will begin in the college auditorium at 8 p.m. The public is welcome to enjoy the art exhibition and continued artist reception throughout the evening. For information about the reception or to order tickets for the Music on the Mountain concerts, persons may contact the GLAF office toll-free at 866-345-9738. Pictured above is one of Shepherd's pieces titled "Zebra Mania" which uses acrylic, collage, and fabric. Below is a piece titled "Heaven and Earth."



State "Arts In Communities" Grants Available

The Maryland State Arts Council has grant funding available for community-based organizations interested in producing and presenting arts activities in their communities. The council is an agency of the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development (DBED).

Under the Arts in Communities Program, arts activities like senior art exhibits, afternoon concerts, special after-school programs, theatre projects, and poetry readings are eligible for up to $1,000 grants. The program was created to extend Arts Council funding to a broader range of organizations than weren't previously being served and to better reach underserved audiences.

The Arts in Communities Program is open to not-for-profit organizations such as civic groups, libraries, museums, religious organizations, schools, social clubs, or other community-based groups that present arts programs which are open to the public and accessible to persons with disabilities. Grants can be used to pay artists, technicians

Getty Has Role In Peterborough Players Show

Abigail Getty, daughter of Dr. Abe and Gayle Getty, Oakland, will be appearing this weekend in the Peterborough Players Second Company's production of Little Women, the well-known story by Louisa May Alcott adapted for the stage by Gus Kaikkonen.

Getty will portray the role of Aunt March in the show. The theatre is located in Peterborough, N.H.

The show times for Little Women are as follows: Aug. 20, 2 p.m., Aug. 22, 7 p.m.; and Aug. 24, 26, and 27, 2 p.m. Ticket information and other details may be obtained from the company's web site, located at www.peterboroughplayers.org, or by calling 603-924-9344.

Getty is a graduate of Southern High School and is a theatre student at Messiah College in Grantham, Pa. She has been involved in a number of productions since she was very young, beginning many years ago with the former Ecumenical Youth Group's local stage shows. She also has performed at Our Town Theatre in Oakland, and with the Garrett Choral Society, playing the title role in Annie, Get Your Gun!

Getty has studied voice for several years under the tutelage of Larry Carey and Kathryn Sincell-Corwell.

The Second Company of the Peterborough Players is a selected group of 15 individuals who serve as interns and apprentices. They work alongside the actors in the main stage branch of the company, helping with sets, props, and serving as ensemble players in various shows. The company offers an Equity membership candidate program as well, allowing interns and apprentices to earn hours toward membership with the Actors' Equity Association.

Previously this season, Getty played the role of the giant's mother in the Second Company's production of Jack and the Beanstalk.

Oakland Edged By Parkersburg In Pen Mar Series Final-Game Thriller

The defending playoff champion Oakland Oaks stretched this year's Pen Mar League championship series to the limit, but finally fell to the Parkersburg Ohio Valley Venom Sunday when an RBI double in the bottom of the final inning broke a tie ballgame and gave the crown to Parkersburg in a 7-6 Oakland loss. The Venom struck the Pen Mar circuit twice this season, taking the both the regular and post-season crowns.

Oakland had gotten off to a blazing start Saturday with a 7-1 win behind a sterling pitching performance by Tobi Stoner, but the Oaks stumbled in the series' second game on Sunday, losing 8-4. Finally, after scoring twice in the sixth stanza to knot Game 3's score at 6-all, a seventh-inning, two-out RBI venom double stung Oakland with the 7-6 loss.

The Oaks have a chance to rise again this weekend, as they open play at home in the eight-team Maryland State Semi-Pro Tournament against the Westminster Falcons at 3 p.m. at Garrett College.

The Oaks got off on the right foot Saturday as Stoner whiffed 20 Venom batters in a nine-inning, complete-game victory. The righthander gave up six hits and walked just two batters. "Tobi was just outstanding," Oakland coach Craig Bosley commented. "He dominated a team that was loaded with some excellent college-level hitters."

After three innings of a scoreless deadlock, the Oaks' Tyler Daniel belted a three-run homer to put the hosts on top 3-0. Oakland added a run in the fifth, and Parkersburg's only response was a lone sixth-inning run. The Oaks scored three more runs in the bottom of the sixth, which was highlighted by a two-run blast by Josh Bosley.

Daniel and Bosley each added a double to their longball output, while Bryan Lenhart went 2-for-4 and scored once, and Jamie Clark stroked an RBI single and scored twice. Oakland's offense had 10 hits overall.

With Oakland in the driver's seat, the series moved to Parkersburg on Sunday.

The Oaks let an opportunity to clinch the series get away in Sunday's first meeting. Oakland led 2-1 after one inning and 4-3 after 3½ innings before Parkersburg took the lead for good with a four-run fourth sparked by a two-run double and a two-run single.

Oakland loaded the bases in the seventh inning with just one out on the board, but a strikeout and a groundout brought the game to a close.

Daniel launched a two-run home run for the Oaks, Bosley ripped a pair of singles, and Jeremy Fitzwater stroked an RBI double.

Starter Josh Kuykendall, who was relieved by Fitzwater in the fifth inning, was tagged with the loss.

"We hit the ball hard and often, and knocked out their best pitcher early in the game," Coach Bosley said, "but the ball just seemed to keep finding its way straight to one of their fielders."

With the series knotted at 1-1, the final showdown followed later that same afternoon.

Oakland jumped out of the box early by taking a 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning. Greg Whittemore started things off with an RBI single, then soon scampered home when Billy Reams swatted an RBI double. The Oaks scored again in the second stanza when a Bosley double was followed by a run-scoring single by Whittemore.

Oakland hurler Josh Kuykendall held Parkersburg scoreless for the first three innings, but Parkersburg finally mustered a response with one run in the fourth. The Venom stung Oakland for five runs in the following stanza – a tally that included a two-run double and a two-run single – to go up 6-3.

Oakland began to rally back in the sixth when Bryan Lenhart cracked an RBI single to pull the Oaks within two, 6-4.

With their backs to the wall in the top of the seventh, the Oaks put two runs across the plate to knot the score at 6-all. After loading the bases on consecutive singles by Jamie Clark, Ryan Hess, and Bosley, Whittemore stroked a run-scoring single up the middle that brought Clark across the plate, and Hess sped home with the tying run on the same play as the center-fielder misplayed the ball.

With two runners on and no outs, Oakland looked to have an excellent chance of scoring a go-ahead run, but Parkersburg slammed the door shut with a strikeout and a double play.

Kuykendall struck out the first two Parkersburg batters he faced in the bottom half of the stanza before giving up a dink single. The Venom's Andrew Lore then ripped a long double to right-center that Oakland outfielder Tyler Daniel gamely tried to snag with a diving attempt; however, the ball ricocheted off his glove and the baserunner scampered home from first to end the game.

Oakland's 13-hit tally at the plate was paced by Whittemore, who turned in three hits and four RBI, while Bosley ripped three doubles, Reams doubled and singled, and Clark singled twice.

Dan Vagnetti started the game on the mound for the Oaks. Whittemore was summoned for relief duty in the fifth, and Fitzwater took to the mound in turn before that stanza ended. Kuykendall came on to work at the start of the seventh inning, and was handed the loss. Parkersburg had nine hits in the contest.

"That was an especially tough one to lose, considering we drew six walks and left 14 men on base in a seven-inning game," observed Coach Bosley. "We hit into two double plays with one out, which squelched two of the seven innings right there."

Parkersburg went 4-1 in the playoffs, with its only loss coming at the Oaks' hands in the championship series opener. The Venom claimed the regular season title with a 23-7 record, and finished up with an overall 27-8.

After a slow start, the Oaks came on strong through the rest of their season to finish its Pen Mar run with a 22-12 overall mark. Oakland turned in a 3-2 playoff tally, despite batting .350 as a team through the post-season.

"We're disappointed in the loss, but I'm really proud of what these guys have accomplished over the season," Coach Bosley said. "After a rough start they began to get things together; it was really important to get all our guys suited up for the games and expose them to live pitching. They are all really good athletes, and just needed some time the first few weeks of the season to develop their hitting eye at the plate. Once they did, they really hit their stride."

For the regular season, the Oaks were paced at the plate by Whittemore's .366 batting average, with James Altobello just off the mark at .359. Josh Bosley was third with .333. Billy Reams and Tyler Daniel had the most home runs during the regular campaign, with four apiece, and Daniel added a pair of round trippers in post-season play. Daniel also led the squad with 24 regular-season RBI, and Josh Bosley recorded a team-high eight stolen bases.

Stoner turned in a 3-1 record on the mound during the regular season, with 29 strikeouts in 27 innings and a 1.82 ERA. He tore through opposition lineups when in counted the most – in the playoffs – by going 2-0, whiffing 33 batters in just 16 innings, and giving up just one earned run.

"Our guys never gave up, and we're counting on that determination to take us a long way in the state tournament," concluded Coach Bosley.

At the bottom of the column are Men's 55 Doubles champions Steve Dauses and Terry Jones, and finalists William Tritt and Dave DeGrafft.

Western Md. Tennis Tourney Draws 100 Competitors From Wide Region

The 84th annual Western Maryland Tennis Championships was played recently under excellent weather conditions on the historic red clay courts of the Mountain Lake Park Tennis Club.

The event drew 100 participants from across a wide region, according to referee Dave DeGrafft, including states such as Texas, Louisiana, Florida, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and Maryland. The four-day tournament featured play in 12 divisions.

Both the Men's and Women's Open matches were hard fought excellent matches. Past champion Sarah Tritt, former Mtn. Lake Park resident, now of New Tripoli, Pa., returned to claim the Women's Open by besting Marina Getz, Cumberland, in a hard-fought 2½-hour match, 6-4, 5-7,6-4.

In the Men's Open, defending champion Cohn Parker, Olney, was bested by newcomer Mark O'Neill, Martinsburg, W.Va., 6-4, 6-4.

In another hotly contested match, defending Men's 35 Singles champion Chris Stambaugh, Frederick, edged William Moldoch, Annapolis, 6-4, 6-7 (2), 6-2.

Returning to the tournament after an extended absence, Ken Barnas, LaPlata, took the crown in Men's 45 Singles by besting Steve Dustin, Gambrills, 6-2, 6-4.

In Men's 55 Singles, James Spivey, Baton Rouge, La., was declared champion over Dave Simmons, Elkins, W.Va., 6-4, 6-4.

An all-West Virginia final in Men's 65 Singles ended with Terry Jones, Clarksburg, prevailing over Kent Parker, Morgantown, 6-1, 6-0.

In Men's 75 Singles, Jack Dorsey, Wheeling, W.Va., prevailed in a round robin which also included Glenn Workman, Cumberland, and George Resh, Westminster.

Stambaugh and Gene Cutter, Saddlebrook, Fla., the previous champions in Men's Open Doubles, topped the duo of Brandon Simmons, Elkins, W.Va., and Fred Yost, Ridgeley, W.Va., 6-2, 6-3.

Defending champions in the Men's 45 Doubles, Ken Howard, Bethesda, and Harvey Ratner, Silver Spring, were declared winners over Steve Dauses, McHenry, and Yost, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

In the Men's 55 Doubles final, Dauses and Jones captured the title by defeating Dave DeGrafft, Mtn. Lake Park, and William Tritt, New Tripoli, Pa, 6-4, 6-2.

The Men's 70 Doubles team of Jack Barnes and Ron Peterson, both of Lutherville, were declared champions after a 6-4, 6-2 win over DeGrafft and Resh.

The Mixed Open Doubles title went to the team of Getz and Cutter, who downed Sarah Tritt and Rich Young, Bethlehem, Pa., by a score of 6-4, 6-0.

In the Mixed 45 Doubles final, defending champions Howard and Zimmerman topped the challenge of William Moldoch and Sharon Wooten, Annapolis, 6-4, 6-3.

In addition to DeGrafft, the tournament committee consisted of William Tritt, tournament director; Kathie Smith, secretary; and Barbara Chesley, Kathleen Gibbs, and Nan Gangler, assistant secretaries. Cathy Johnson obtained the prizes, and Patrice Tritt was responsible for presentation of the prizes.

"The officers of the Mountain Lake Park Tennis Club officers appreciate the continuing support that the Western Maryland Tennis Tournament receives from Pepsi-Cola and the Stewart Funeral Home," DeGrafft said.

"The excellent cooperation of the mayor, town council, and residents of Mountain Lake Park, and the numerous volunteers who assisted with preparations and/or hosted various social events throughout the event was also vital to the tournament's success," added DeGrafft.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

THE SANDY DOUGLASS MEMORIAL FLYING SCOT INVITATIONAL REGATTA

by Dan Muss

This is our biggest sailing event of the year, and the headline says it all. It's a regatta that reminds us of the man who designed and built the Flying Scot (and also the Thistle and the Highlander), and sailors from off our lake are invited to participate. (It is said that Sandy set up his Flying Scot factory here in Garrett County because it was like his ancestral home, Scotland.) This past weekend we had a total of 52 Scots competing, including 17 boats from off the lake. There were 30 boats sailing in the Championship Fleet, and that led to some interesting mark roundings when many of them arrived at a mark together.

Participating in an event like this was just so much fun; it's not only the exciting sailing, but also the off-the-water interaction with one's fellow sailors both from Deep Creek and elsewhere. And we have the regatta chairs, Frank and Sheila Vandall, to thank for it all. They did a remarkable job in organizing the event; it went off like clockwork.

The forecast for Saturday was mostly sunny, quite warm, with a breeze 2-4 knots SW. That was pretty much what we got, except that the wind was more like 2-7. So we were up on the gunnel once in a while, but mostly on the lee side trying to keep the sails full against the motorboat wakes.

We had a good start in the first race and traded tacks with Rissell for the first weather leg, but then we got a lucky shaft of air and led around the first mark. Going downwind we were halfway to the jibe mark when the wind died and then seemed ready to come up again from the opposite direction. We took down our spinnaker, dropped the centerboard, and prepared to beat. But the breeze came up again out of the west. We jibed around the second mark and decided to sail without the spinnaker, with the wind mostly on our beam. The boats behind put theirs up, but we opened the lead and held it to win.

At one point Rissell was in last place, but he managed to creep up on the fleet and nose out Meehan on the last leg to get second. Our race lasted about 1 hour and 40 minutes, and then we were done. The other two fleets went out again after lunch to sail the day's second race. At the party that night there were some pretty tired-looking sailors.

But the party was wonderful, with plenty of good food; some of those tired sailors even had enough energy left to dance to the music of the VFW String Band playing country and mountain music. Vice-Commodore Jeanette Dodd and her committee did a great job in providing us with a lovely evening.

Sunday was a bit cooler with more cloud cover and a very nice breeze, still from the SW, but more like 4-8 knots. We again got a good start, but after the first leg found ourselves in 4th place until the last downwind leg. Meehan seemed to get lost at the last leeward mark, and we had him by almost 100 yards on the final windward leg. But he kept getting closer and closer as we tried to cover him in an all-out tacking duel... which he was winning! He took us at the finish by inches! Thagard was leading most of the race, but Rissell was ahead nearing the finish line. But then his crew, Carol Muss, misread the finish line and Thagard won.

Ned Holloway and his crew, Ted Gibbs, have been sailing at the back of the Challenger Fleet for the past two summers, but practice will tell; they came away with their first trophy — ever — winning 5th place.

Over the past couple of decades a local tradition has grown up, in which the Flying Scot in the Championship-Gold Fleet at this regatta that finishes just below the "money," i.e. the last trophy, gets the "Monkey." Each recipient is required to add something to the "Monkey," so that, over the years, it had become a veritable chimera. This year it had sprouted wings!

In Loving Memory of

BARRY E. BEACHY

It is just a cluster of memories,
Sprayed with a million tears.
Wishing God could have spared you
For many, many more years.

We often sit and think of you,
And think of how you died.
To think you could not say goodbye,
Before you closed your eyes.

Sometimes it's hard to understand
Why some things have to be.
But in His wisdom God has planned
Beyond our power to see.

So looking back in tenderness
Along the path we trod,
We cherish the years we had with you
And leave the rest to God.

No one knows how much we miss you.
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you
Life has never been the same.

A million times we've needed you
A million times we've cried.
If love alone could have saved you
You never would have died.

In life we loved you dearly.
In death we love you still.
In our hearts you hold a place
No one can ever fill.

Sadly Missed By,
Mom & Dad,
Sharon, Tammy,

Golf Tournament Set For Oct. 1 To Benefit YFC

A golf tournament to benefit the Mtn. Top Youth for Christ has been planned for Saturday, Oct. 1, at Middle Creek Golf Course in New Centerville, Pa.

Proceeds will assist YFC in their various efforts, which include campus life, Bible quizzing, special events, and abroad mission outreach endeavors such as Project Serve Jamaica.

All teams must register by Saturday, Sept. 24, and a cost of $50 per person or $200 per team must be included.

The format for the tournament will be a four-person scrambler, and rules will be announced at the tournament.

The tournament will include a putting contest, and prizes will be given for closest to the pin, longest drive, first place for three flights, and second place for three flights.

Middle Creek Golf Course is located nine miles south of Somerset, Pa., on Route 281.

Hole and tee sponsorships for the tournament are also available for a $50 donation.

For more information, persons may call Duane Frederick at 301-387-2900 or 800-455-1103, or email mttyfc@iceweb.net.

COMMISSIONERS COMMEND MANTA RAYS – The Garrett County commissioners on Tuesday recognized members of the 2005 Garrett County Swim Team, the Manta Rays, on completing a successful competitive swimming season. Led by head coach Nan Gangler, this year's team had approximately 60 members, ranging in age from 5 to 18 years, from throughout Garrett County and nearby areas of West Virginia. Gangler said the swimmers were an "extremely dedicated and talented group of young people." Collectively, the team won 18 trophies this season. The Manta Rays were established in 1982, and since then approximately 1,500 local youths have participated with the team. "Each year the Manta Ray members have excelled in their individual performances and dedication while positively representing Garrett County," the commissioners said. The swim team trains at Alpine Lake Resort, W.Va. For members at the northern end of the county, this means an hour drive to practice, sometimes in adverse weather conditions. Commissioner Dave Beard said Garrett was the only county in the state without a community pool, indoor or out. The commissioners noted, however, that if the proposed Garrett College Athletic and Community Recreation Center proceeded as planned, the county will have at least one public pool for residents. Pictured in the front row, left to right, are Kurt Gangler, David Vitez, Michaela Vitez, Garrett Yoder, Sam Jones, Zach Thomas, and Jillian Yant. In the middle row are Logan Jenkins Andy Clark, Commissioner Ernie Gregg, Megan Fitzwater, Corinne Weaver, Beard, Lindsey Crabtree, Sara Jones, and Commissioner Fred Holliday. In the back row are Coach Amy Azzi, Gangler, Rachael Beeman, Kelly Bean, Kristen Yant, Stephanie Weaver, Samantha Thayer, and Chelsea Miller. Photo by John McEwen.

Donations To Be Accepted At Ram Scrimmages

The varsity football team of Southern High School will be accepting donations upon admission to home scrimmage games this season, with all monies collected donated to the Christopher Reeve Paralysis Foundation, one of the leading organizations in paralysis research.

According to Coach Fred Gregg, the Rams are scheduled to host Meyersdale in a scrimmage this Saturday, Aug. 20, and Allegany on Saturday, Sept. 3. Both scrimmages will begin at 10 a.m.

Persons wishing to contribute to this effort may also send donations to Southern High School, 345 Oakland Drive, Oakland, MD 21550; Attention: Fred Gregg. Checks should be made payable to Southern High School or the Christopher Reeve Paralysis Foundation.

Diane Winter carded a 103 for low gross in Flight Three, while Betsy Polce had a 67 for low net. Flight Four's Debbie Weissgerber scored a 109 for low gross, and Ruth Kight won low net with a 66.

Garrett County Fishing Contest Winners Named

The Garrett County Fishing Contest is sponsored by Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

Results for the week ending August 13 are as follows:

Largemouth bass: 1 lb. 12 ozs., 15¼ ins., caught by Heather Davidson, Somerset, Pa.

Weekly winners receive a certificate, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. To enter the contest, anglers must take their catches to Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House, 32 Outfitters Way, McHenry. The fishing contest runs from the first weekend in May through the first weekend in October.

Cory Bosley Caps Year With All-Area Kudos In Three Sports

SCOTT WILDESEN

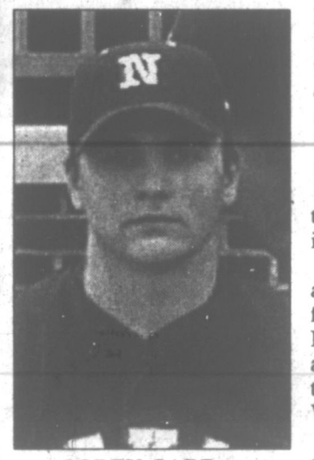
BOSLEY WMIL PLAYER OF YEAR — Cory Bosley, a 2005 graduate of Southern High School (pictured above right and below), concluded his high school athletic career by being named baseball's Western Maryland Interscholastic League Player of the Year by a vote of area coaches. The Ram shortstop batted .469 this past season with 30 hits in helping to lead the Rams to a 15-4 overall record. He struck out only four times in the 2005 campaign and had an on-base average of .575. He was also named to the All-Area first team. Bosley, son of Ram head coach Jim Bosley, joined an elite group of area athletes who were named first-team All-Area in three sports — football, basketball, and baseball. Fellow Ram Chad Panther, who graduated in 2002, was also named to the six-member group, along with Brent Metheny and Tyler Sherman of Moorefield, Aaron Stonebreaker of Frankfort, and Bobby Alkire of Westmar. Bosley will continue his academic and athletic career at Garrett College this fall.

The 2005 All-Area and All-Western Maryland Interscholastic League baseball teams were announced recently, and Garrett County was well represented on both honorary lists. Six of the 13 members of the All-Area First Team played ball this spring for either Southern or Northern High School, and nine of the 16 slots on the All-WMIL First Team squad went to local student-athletes.



COREY CARR

The announcements marked a huge accomplishment for Southern shortstop Cory Bosley, who completed his final year of high school by capturing All-Area First Team recognition. The senior is only the sixth area player ever to be named First Team All-Area in three sports in the same season: baseball, basketball, and football. Bosley also garnered the WMIL's highest honor as the league's Player of the Year.

Joining Bosley on the All-Area First Team list were fellow Rams Scott Wildesen at pitcher, catcher Tyler Graham, and outfielder Aaron Louden. Huskies who made the First Team grade were pitcher Greg Beachy and designated hitter Corey Carr.

The First Team was rounded out by East Hardy's Alex Foltz, Frankfort's Nathan Metz, Pendleton County's Brandon Arbogast, and Hampshire's Trey Stewart. The 2005 Area Player of the year was Frankfort slugger Corey Dolley, who just missed a triple crown by leading the circuit with a .616 batting average, tying for first in home runs with seven round-trippers (NHS senior Eric Johnson had the same tally), and finishing second in RBI with 46.

Second Team All-Area accolades went to SHS outfielder Brad Reese, and NHS players Eric Johnson at catcher, Preston Sisler in the infield, and Michael Wolf in the outfield.

Southern notched a 15-4 overall record and earned the WMIL title with a 9-1 mark, while Northern set a school record for wins in a 16-6 season.

Bosley, a two-time All-Area first-teamer, helped the Rams charge to their sixth straight league crown this spring. His senior SHS season featured a .468 batting average, 13th in the area, 25 runs scored, five doubles, one triple, two homers, 17 RBI, and a .575 on-base percentage. A superlative performer at the plate and in the field, the sure handed-shortstop is on his way to Garrett College to play baseball for the Lakers next spring.

Righthander hurler Wildesen, a first-team All-Area infielder last year, dominated opposing lineups in going 5-1 with a 1.53 ERA, giving up just 12 runs in 55 innings. His strikeout-to-walk ratio was superb, as he whiffed 72 batters for an average of 9.1 per game, and walked just 21. At the plate, Wildesen batted .344, scored 16 runs and had four doubles, two home runs and 19 RBI. His performance in the regional all-star game earned the senior a trip to this year's Brooks Robinson All-Star Classic at Oriole Park at Camden Yards.

Beachy, a junior pitcher, paced the Huskies' mound staff in just about every category, and also contributed a .333 average at the plate. He tied second in the area for most victories, notching 7 triumphs to 1 defeat, recorded a 2.04 ERA, and averaged just under a strikeout per inning. In 58 1/3 innings, Beachy allowed 44 hits, walked 20 batters and struck out 53. He scored 17 runs, smacked two doubles and two home runs, and accounted for 19 RBI.

SHS backstop Graham, the Rams' co-MVP along with Bosley, turned in some superb numbers despite the squad's limited number of outings in comparison to other schools. He batted .486, was ninth in doubles and runs batted in, and fourth in triples despite playing in only 19 games. Every West Virginia team, by comparison, played at least 22. Pendleton played 32 and Frankfort 31. Graham scored 25 runs, ripped 11 doubles, four triples and two home runs, and drove in 29 runs. He also had a .546 on-base percentage and an .863 slugging percentage.

Louden turned in a multi-faceted year for the Rams, batting .339, with 21 RBI, scoring 13 runs, and belting eight doubles and two home runs. His glove prowess made him one of the most respected outfielders in the area. As a pitcher, he paced the Southern squad with a team-high seven wins against a single defeat, the second-highest win tally in the area. He put together a 3.85 ERA, and in 40 innings, he allowed 38 hits, walked 19, and struck out 45.

The only sophomore on this year's All-Area First Team, Northern's Carr helped the Huskies to their best year ever by batting .472, 12th in the area. NHS pelted opposing pitchers for a .347 team batting average. Carr's tally was the highest in school history, and he also set the pace for most hits by a Husky in a single season with 34, and led this year's NHS unit with 28 RBI. He cranked out seven doubles and three round trippers.

All-WMIL

Bosley, Wildesen, Graham, Beachy, and Carr were also named first-team All-WMIL, along with Brad Reese of Southern, and Eric Johnson, Preston Sisler, and Michael Wolf of Northern.

Reese, a senior outfielder, finished the 2005 season with a .355 batting average, going 22 for 62, and scoring 30 runs for the Rams. He drove in 13 runs and provided seven doubles, a triple, and three homers for a .645 slugging percentage. With 18 bases on balls, he had a .500 on-base percentage. He also recorded nine steals.

Some Drugs Can Cause Dizziness and Falls

A fall may damage more than a person's pride. We may know someone who's been injured, disabled or even killed by a fall. As one ages, time takes its toll on the organs and systems in our bodies. Age-related conditions that may affect our balance include diabetes, hardening of the arteries (atherosclerosis), memory loss and confusion (dementia), Parkinson's disease, stroke and numerous conditions affecting the nervous system and thyroid. Eye diseases such as glaucoma and cataracts, and joint diseases such as arthritis may severely restrict mobility. Since osteoporosis weakens bones, it increases the risk of serious injuries from a fall, and may even cause a fall if the bones are so thin that one breaks spontaneously.

Many medications have side effects that can affect brain function and lead to dizziness or lightheadedness. Examples include some medications for high blood pressure, heart disease, allergy, insomnia, excess stomach acid and depression. Taking multiple medications or combining prescription drugs with alcohol or with over-the-counter antihistamines, sleeping medications, painkillers or cough suppressants magnifies the risk. Pharmacists can help explain the medications that tend to carry the most risk.

THE BALANCED BODY STUDIO AND WELLNESS CENTER

The Balanced Body Studio and Wellness Center offers a wide variety of classes and products to allow area residents and visitors to reach their best health, both inside and out.

Located at the Dry Dock Plaza in McHenry, the studio is owned and operated by Jennifer and Daniel Christophel. They offer a variety of fitness classes for all ages and levels. Additional services offered include massage, herbal supplementation, and preventative medicine.

"We want to help everyone on their quest for optimal balance and well-being on a holistic level," Jennifer said. "We don't want to just try to patch a problem area, but encourage lifestyle changes."

Jennifer's background includes both studying and teaching ballet. She has been comprehensively certified (in all levels of the pilates apparatus and matwork) in the Stott method of pilates as well as core dynamics pilates, run by one of Joseph Pilates's descendants.

She is also certified to teach Balletone fitness classes and the Vaganova method of classical ballet.

In addition, Jennifer is trained in holistic health and iridology, the study of the iris of the eye.

Pilates class offerings at the Balanced Body Studio include personal training for one-on-one instruction, semi-private classes, cardio pilates, group pilates mat classes, pre– and postnatal pilates, and pilates for both children and seniors.

In addition, Jennifer teaches ballet, pointe, and tap classes for children ages 3 and up. She employs several other teachers for exercise classes, cardio kickboxing with Jen Sober, and Feldendrais classes with Cathy Paine. These classes in learning to move without pain are designed for those with various problems that may otherwise prevent them from exercising.

Jennifer taught classes at her home in Springs, Pa., for several years, then moved her studio to Deep Creek Lake. This summer, just one year later, she moved to her current location, which offers additional square footage.

With the added space, the Christophels noted that they plan to expand their holistic approach to healing by offering massage therapy and nutritional counseling.

The Balanced Body Studio and Wellness Center offers Nature's Sunshine herbal supplements, aromatherapy products, dance supplies and shoes, and active wear. They also carry a full line of earth-friendly home and beauty products, including soy candles made by Dan.

The studio is open Monday and Wednesday from noon to 8 p.m., Tuesday evenings, Thursday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Friday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. The phone number is 301-387-7585.

Meeting Draws

southwest of the Clipper facility.

Several other windpower concerns are reportedly investigating the potential for location projects in the county, but no details have been finalized.

While intended to produce electricity in a renewable and non-polluting manner, the huge size of wind turbines, which are visible from miles away, the noise they produce, the economics behind their construction and operation, and the specifics of exactly how much impact they have on America's insatiable appetite for electricity have made them a source of controversy here and around the world.

"Politicians need to understand that this is something that will transform the very nature of this county in the same way Deep Creek Lake did beginning in the 1920s," said speaker Jon Boone of the Friends of Backbone Mountain, the citizens' coalition formed two years ago to express opposition to the wind industry's proposals for Garrett County.

"The commissioners can rescind their approval and say 'We represent the people and we don't approve of this.' While the Synergics proposal can possibly be stopped by the people and the commissioners working together – and if we can convince potential investors that it's not a good project, the Clipper project, which is farther along, can likely only be stopped by legal action."

Boone and several other speakers, including his wife Barbara, real estate agent and Backbone Mountain area property owner Russell Bounds, fellow Backbone property owner Eric Tribbey, and local bat biologist Liz McDowell, marshaled arguments against wind facilities on a variety of fronts.

Perhaps the strongest audience reaction came as the Boones highlighted the chronology of the Clipper project. "Normally it takes 2-3 years for a power plant application to gain PSC approval, after a lengthy and detailed analysis of the project's pros and cons" Barbara Boone said. "Clipper made its initial application to the PSC on Aug. 26, 2002, and the PSC approved the project on March 14, 2003. Do the math – that's just over six months."

After informing the audience that neither he nor any members of his family have any financial stake in whether or not any wind facility locates in Garrett County – "My sole interest is in appropriate and responsible public policy" – Jon Boone provided a background on the PSC, which he said was originally formed to protect citizens from public utility monopolies. "Now the agency is funded by the very industry it is charged with regulating," he stated.

"The PSC – which is housed in one of only two buildings in the state taller than the wind turbines proposed for Garrett County – usually handles coal, gas, and nuclear power plant applications, which usually involves a 2- to 4-year process," Booned continued. "As Barbara said, Clipper's proposal was approved in six months, without comprehensive public input and scientific study, with the reasoning that it had to get in under the wire before federal tax credits expired. What does this indicate about whose interests the PSC actually has in mind?"

The Boones and other speakers also shared their views that local entities, public and private, may have wittingly or unwittingly played a role in the potential erection of windpower facilities on area ridges.

"One week after a public hearing about the Clipper project at the Courthouse, where no public officials spoke in support of the project, the Garrett County Sanitary District entered into an easement agreement with Clipper giving the company control of land that the district owned.

"It's very difficult for me to believe that in the months leading up to the transfer of the Sanitary District to county control that March, there was no knowledge of that board's activities. Either the county did know, or it did not know, which is just as bad.

"The term of the easement is for a total of 36 years, with a $500 flat fee for a 4-5 year evaluation period, and a $1,000 per turbine fee for the operation period. This comes at the cost of control of the property; neither the county, which now possesses that parcel, nor any private landowner who leases his or her land to Clipper, will be able to have control over their own property once a lease is signed."

Boone went on to point out that a landowner who had signed a lease with Clipper would be forbidden by the lease agreement from attempting to deal with wind turbine noise, flickering shadows, and nighttime lighting by planting a buffer of evergreen trees. "You would have to get permission from the wind company to plant trees on your own land, and if the company claims that the trees would interfere with the free flow of wind across the property, you wouldn't be allowed to do it."

Boone also gave an example of the easement's stipulation regarding hunting activities, pointing out that the wind company will have the right to restrict or rescind hunting rights if the company deems that hunting poses any kind of hazard or interference to wind generation.

"People who say 'You can't tell me what to do with my property' are in actuality signing away the control of their property to wind companies in signing these leases," she claimed.

"There's also a clause in the easement signed by the Sanitary District, which the county commissioners are now beholden to, which requires the easement gran-

COUNTRY CHEF

A nice change of pace from fast food can be found at the Country Chef restaurant on 110 Ord Street in Salisbury, Pa.

Owned by Jeffrey Maust, the restaurant has been open for about a year. Cindy Maust serves as the dining room and banquet manager, and there are a total of 20 employees.

Jeffrey holds a degree in culinary arts from Drexel University in Philadelphia. Cindy has experience in local catering operations and restaurant experience both locally and in Philadelphia.

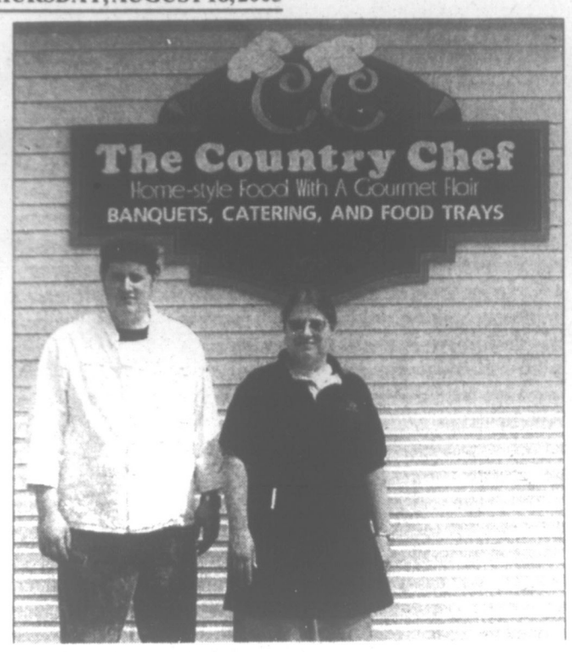
"We are a full service restaurant with ethnic/specialty buffets on Thursdays from 4:30 to 8 p.m.," Jeffrey said.

In addition, the restaurant can handle banquets for up to 85 people and offers catering for any size group. They also provide deli trays and other food trays, and create homemade baked goods, including specialty cakes and desserts.

"We can do almost anything food-related, from backyard barbecues to gourmet dinners," Jeffrey said.

He noted that the Country Chef is unique in that nearly everything is homemade, and all baked goods are made in-house.

"We have a dedication to customer satisfaction," he said, "and offer a wide variety of services with flexibility for accommodation."



In the future, Jeffrey plans to increase his product offerings and open a separate bakery with a storefront. He also plans to pursue more catering possibilities.

The Country Chef can be reached at 814-662-2463.

Meeting Draws

tor to support the developer's project," Boone said. "I'll remember that when it comes time to vote, and hope you will too."

Tribbey addressed that sentiment when he took to the podium to say, "The Friends of Backbone Mountain was formed out of frustration; by living here for 25 years I thought we could take our concerns to the commissioners and they would listen and act. But nothing has been done, and they are saying 'It's a done deal.' The Sanitary District signed the agreement, and now they claim they are tied into it." FOB disputes that assertion, he said.

"We don't oppose renewable energy, but we want scientifically conducted studies. When I look at the mountain, I see the natural view; when I look at wind turbines, I see the hand of man. I prefer the natural view," Tribbey concluded.

Addressing one topic of scientific study that the FOB group claims has not been investigated fully, speaker Liz McDowell pointed out, "Studies have found that the Tucker County (W.Va.) and Meyersdale (Pa.) facilities are killing up to 4,000 bats per year per turbine. Now the plant owners there are refusing to allow additional studies. Bats are important because of the huge amount of insects, including mosquitoes, they consume every night." A possible degradation of the region's bat population would have enormous adverse impacts for farmers and all citizens, she claimed.

"The county has been promised a lot of money by these companies, but those claims are not borne out by past experience," Jon Boone told the audience. "The Florida Power and Light (FPL) wind plant near Thomas (W.Va.), which has been operating for several years, promised to pay $300,000 to $400,000 in taxes to Tucker County. FPL only recently made its first payment to the county, a $90,000 payment that it made kicking and screaming. The Meyersdale plant is a $30 million facility, and it pays taxes of $500 per turbine."

"These projects are backed by big corporations, such as General Electric and FPL, that need tax shelters," Barbara Boone remarked. "They buy into wind as a tax shelter, and because of Renewable Energy Tax credits and other schemes that governments have bought into, pay basically no federal income tax. These tax shelters help lead to billions of dollar for the corporations."

"If a wind company comes in next door to you, and makes a huge profit while devaluing your property, who compensates you for your loss?" Jon Boone asked. "It's the old story of colonialism, with an outside entity coming in, taking the profits, and the locals get hurt.

"Clipper has had approval for 2½ years, but is not building yet; that could possibly be because they are supposed to tell investors that there are no legal hurdles in the way.

"We need people to tell the commissioners that they can and must rescind the agreement with Clipper, which they did not sign themselves," Boone said. "We also really need to get people behind the Synergics hearing coming up in September."

A Synergics spokesman introduced himself at the conclusion of Thursday's meeting, and distributed literature touting the industry's claims. He declined an invitation from Jon Boone to debate the literature's assertion before the gathered audience.

Copies of the Life Under a Windplant DVD are available from any FOB member, and are also in the circulating holdings of the Ruth Enlow Library locations in Oakland, Accident, and Grantsville.

Rams, Huskies

For the Huskies, Johnson, senior catcher, broke Northern's single-season home run mark with seven round-trippers. He hit .394 for the season with 26 hits in 66 at-bats. He scored 16 runs and drove in 22 more.

To go with seven homers, he also had six doubles, giving him a slugging percentage of a sizzling .803. He had a .588 on-base average, and from the defensive side behind the plate he recorded 18 assists.

Sisler, a senior outfielder, also recorded a NHS single-season record by hitting 10 doubles. He finished with 30 hits, going .361 (30 for 83), he scored a team-high 31 runs, and hit three homers and a triple. He was responsible for 26 RBIs and had five steals.

From the mound, Sisler was 1-1 with a 3.08 ERA.

Wolf, also a senior outfielder, set a school record in steals, recording 13 for the season. He batted .400, going 22 for 55, with two homers and two triples. He finished with 16 RBIs and also scored 16 times.

With his glove, he did not commit a single error in the '05 campaign.

Federal Grant Awarded To Accident VFD

Senators Barbara Mikulski and Paul Sarbanes announced today that five western Maryland fire departments have been awarded a total $577,195 in federal funding through the U.S. Department of Homeland Security's Assistance to Firefighters Grant Program.

Locally, the Accident Volunteer Fire Department received $83,934 to purchase 16 self-contained breathing apparatus air masks and necessary hoses.

Mikulski is on the Homeland Security Appropriations Subcommittee that funds the Firefighters Grant Program.

"I'm so proud of Maryland's firefighters, risking their lives to protect others," she said. "But we need to protect our protectors with the best equipment, training, and resources. I will keep fighting for a federal investment in the safety of our first responders and western Maryland communities. Congratulations to these departments on being awarded this well-deserved money."

"As was demonstrated during the 9/11 tragedies and during other emergencies across Maryland and the Nation on an almost daily basis, the heroism and diligence of America's firefighters and first responders is crucial to the health and safety of our communities," said Sarbanes. "These hard-working firefighters deserve the most-up-to-date equipment, and I am pleased that this funding is being awarded to assist them in their efforts to protect their respective communities."

The Assistance to Firefighters Grant Program is a competitive program that awards one-year grants directly to fire departments nationwide. Fire departments can apply for federal assistance for training and equipment, fire education and awareness programs, or firefighting vehicles. This year, approximately 20,400 departments nationwide applied for funding, totaling more than $2.6 billion in requests. Grants will be awarded on a weekly basis until all funds are disbursed, according to Mikulski.

In 2004, Mikulski introduced an amendment to the FY 2005 Homeland Security appropriations bill that would have increased federal funding for the Fire Grant Program to its authorized level of $900 million. Her amendment failed by a vote of 50-45, with 60 votes needed for passage.

The birth of one baby was announced this week.

A son, Dylan Cole, was born to Shaun and Sindy Savage, Grantsville, on July 27 at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland.

structure needs throughout Maryland," said Hoskins. "With the unwavering support of the Ehrlich-Steele Administration, DHCD will continue to use CDBG to improve the health of Maryland's communities and the quality of life for their residents."

To be eligible for CDBG funds, a project must meet at least one of three criteria mandated by the federal government. The project must principally benefit persons of low to moderate income; eliminate slum and blight; and/or meet an urgent need of recent origin that threatens public health and safety.

The state notifies local jurisdictions about the availability of funds and also conducts training sessions on proper application development. DHCD accepts CDBG applications annually on a competitive basis. Over a three-year period, the state must use 70 percent of its cumulative allocation to benefit persons of low to moderate income.

The Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development is dedicated to improving the quality of life for Marylanders by working with its partners to revitalize communities, expand homeownership and affordable housing opportunities, and preserve historic sites and traditions.

Burkey Appointed To First United's Board Of Directors

M. KATHRYN BURKEY

William B. Grant, president and CEO of First United Bank & Trust, announced this week the appointment of M. Kathryn Burkey to the board of directors at First United. She was previously a member of its Advisory Council.

Burkey is a self-employed certified public accountant with an office in Cumberland, specializing in accounting and tax services for individuals and growing businesses.

She resides in La Vale with her husband John.

Burkey also serves as the chairman of the board of directors for the Western Maryland Health System and as a member of Memorial Hospital's board of directors in Cumberland. She is also a member of the Judicial Nominations Committee for District 5.

"Mrs. Burkey is a great complement to our board of directors," Grant said. "Her experience and expertise has always been seen as a tremendous asset within our Advisory Council and will continue to be relied upon in her role as a director."

Formerly, Burkey was a member of the boards of directors for the League for Crippled Children Inc., St. John Neumann School, Crossroads Venture Center, Memorial Hospital and Medical Center of Cumberland Inc., the Maryland Healthcare Education Institute, Maryland Hospital Association, and Associated Catholic Charities Inc. Archdiocese of Baltimore.

Burkey was also formerly the vice chairman of the Canal Place Preservation and Development Authority from 1993 to 2000, as well as a member of the FSU College of Business Advisory Board and a member of the Western Maryland Economic Development Taskforce. Burkey has also acted as a contributing member of the governing council of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

Burkey served as the president of the Maryland Association of Certified Public Accountants from 1992 to 1993. She has also been of service to MACPA in the form of treasurer, secretary, and president-elect, as well as treasurer of the original Western Maryland Chapter and chairman of the committee to organize the current chapter. She was also the first president of the Western Maryland Chapter for Allegany and Garrett counties, and has also served as a member of the MACPA board of directors.

Burkey was recognized as the Cumberland Business and Professional Women's Woman of the Year in 1999 and was a contributing author for the book Our Past, Our Future 100 Years of CPAs in Maryland.

Yough Glades To Hold Back-To-School Night

Yough Glades Elementary School will hold its back-to-school night on Tuesday, Aug. 23, from 5 to 6:30 p.m. for parents and students.

Families will meet their child's teachers and receive important materials about the school year. Refreshments will be provided.

Teachers will hold three 20-minute sessions: 5, 5:30, and 6 p.m.

All are encouraged to attend.

"Unequal Partners" Workshop Slated At GC Health Dept.

A workshop titled "Unequal Partners" will be offered on Tuesday, Aug. 23, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Garrett County Health Department Conference Room, 1025 Memorial Drive, Oakland. This is a free event, and lunch will be provided.

The workshop is for service providers who work with teens and young adults, and is intended to provide them with tools to address issues of power and consent in adult-teen relationships.

"Some of the objectives of the workshop are to understand the concept of consent and problems with consent in adult-teen relationships, and to obtain knowledge regarding state laws and age-related sexual offenses," said workshop coordinator Kendra Todd of the Health Department. "This workshop is being offered because service providers from many agencies and organizations are being faced with the issues that arise when a younger female dates an older male and vice versa. We want to be able to address those issues in a helpful and informed manner."

The trainer for the workshop will be Deborah Chilcoat, a health education and training specialist for Planned Parenthood of Maryland. She facilitates workshops for youth, parents, and youth-serving professionals to increase awareness about healthy relationships and adolescent pregnancy prevention. Chilcoat holds a bachelor of science degree in psychology and women's studies from Towson University.

Seven slots remain open for the workshop. To register, persons can call the Health Department at 301-334-7730.

Funding for this event is provided by a grant from the Health Department's Improved Pregnancy Outcome Program.

Lawyers Provide Free Service To Local Residents

Two Garrett County lawyers, Donald S. Goldbloom and Linda Sherbin, have provided free or reduced-fee services to residents through the Maryland Volunteer Lawyers Service (MVLS) in the past 12 months.

MVLS is a nonprofit organization that provides free and low-cost legal assistance to low-income people throughout Maryland. It handles cases involving income tax disputes, landlord/tenant disputes, consumer rights, denial of public benefits, wills, deed changes, and name changes.

To apply for representation in these cases, persons may call MVLS at 410-547-6537 or 800-510-0050 Mondays through Fridays 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Since MVLS's creation in 1981, 2,500 private attorneys have taken more than 16,000 pro bono cases, donating legal services valued at more than $17 million, according to the service.

Heart Disease To Be Discussed In Crellin, Kitzmiller

Garrett County Memorial Hospital will offer a program on cholesterol, stress, and coronary artery disease at the Swanton Senior Center on Monday, Aug. 22, and at the Kitzmiller Senior Center on Wednesday, Aug. 31. Both presentations are set to begin at 11:30 a.m.

The programs are part of the GCMH Speakers Bureau program, and hospital Wellness coordinator Judy Simson, RN, will be the presenter. The presentation will focus on risk factors, nutrition, and lifestyle. "It's important for people to understand the correlation between their stress and cholesterol levels and the development of coronary artery disease," explained Simson.

Groups interested in reserving a speaker for this or another health-related topic can contact Kearstin Hinebaugh in the GCMH public relations office at 301-533-4041.

Area Students Earn GC Scholarships

MARTHA JOHNSON

STEVEN BRANT

ASHLEY KAHL

KARA PAUGH

AMANDA SISLER

MEGAN SHAFFER

The Garrett College Foundation announced that eight Garrett College students were awarded scholarships recently.

A grandmother, Martha "Christine" Johnson, is continuing her education with assistance from the Dorothy Brock Leighton Scholarship. Johnson graduated from Southern Garrett High School in 1975 and started college last year. Majoring in business administration, she hopes to go for her degree in order to become an accountant and work in a financial aid office. She has been the bakery manager at Foodland Fresh for five years, and has decorated cakes for over 20 years.

Johnson is a member of St. Peter's Catholic Church, and her two younger children are attending Garrett and Frostburg colleges. She is the wife of Howard Ray Johnson; mother of Amy Hook, and Laura and Jessica Johnson; and daughter of Leo and Virginia Kreuenbuhl.

Steven Allen Brant received the Cortney and Marie Tasker Scholarship. Majoring in radiology and X-ray technology, he plans to complete the pre-radiology program at Garrett College and then transfer to Allegany College of Maryland to complete his degree. He hopes to eventually work at Garrett Memorial Hospital. Volunteering and job shadowing in the radiology department of the hospital showed him what he wanted to do with his life, he said.

Brant is a member of the Bible Baptist Church, and is the son of Ronald Ray and Carol Ann Brant of McHenry.

Andrew Evan Hady, a 2004 graduate of Northern High School, was awarded the Ronald Hugh Sisler Memorial Scholarship and the Hazel Fratz Wright Scholarship. Majoring in general studies, he is interested in architecture and construction.

Hady was on the Husky golf and track teams for four years, and was a member of the Northern Letterman's Club. He attends Emmanuel Lutheran Church and volunteers with the Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department. The son of William and Jennifer Hady of Bittinger, Hady was on the honor roll and distinguished honor roll during his high school career.

Southern High School graduates Carol Ann James, Ashley Dawn Kahl, Kara Elizabeth Paugh and Amanda Christine Sisler each received the Amy Mildred Sharpless Scholarship.

James was president of her sophomore class and the International Business Leaders organization. Actively involved in the Future Business Leaders of America, she hopes to be a Business Woman of the Year by age 35.

Planning to major in psychology, James rode 36 hours in a van to North Dakota to minister to the Indians of the Belcourt reservation. She is the daughter of Larry and Marsha James of Mtn. Lake Park.

Kahl, who will major in early childhood education, intends to eventually transfer to Frostburg State University to complete her degree. She plans to teach kindergarten, and assists for three hours each day in a kindergarten class at Yough Glades Elementary School.

Kahl is the daughter of Ricky and Shirley Kahl of Oakland.

Paugh, who graduated in 2004, was active in cross country, cheerleading, prom committee, and yearbook. She was junior class treasurer, and vice president of Future Business Leaders of America. With teacher education as her college major, Paugh plans to become an elementary school teacher and teach students in kindergarten through second grade.

Active in the Kitzmiller Lions Club and Heaven Bound Youth Ministry, Paugh also is president of the Kitzmiller Assembly of God Youth Group. She is a volunteer in the first grade at Elk Garden Elementary School. She is the daughter of Daniel and Diane Paugh of Kitzmiller.

Sisler, another 2004 SHS graduate, is interested in advertising and would like to have her own business or be a business teacher. She has been active in Relay for Life, United Way Garrett County Day of Caring and Sharing, the Sixth Annual Joy of Christ Celebration, Holy Fire Drama Team, and Perpetual Flow Youth Ministries.

In high school she was involved in cross country, track, and the Model United Nations. She also was a peer counselor and was parliamentarian and treasurer in student government. At Garrett College she is a member of the Music Club.

She is the daughter of Steven and Christine Sisler of Oakland.

Megan Rae Shaffer was awarded the William Henry Schmidt Memorial Scholarship. Physical therapy is her major. She was a coach at Garrett's basketball camp; was part of the Best Buddies program; and was in the School to Careers program. In high school she was Student Council parliamentarian, Girls' Varsity Club secretary and played Girls' varsity soccer for four years.

The 2005 graduate of Northern Garrett High School is the daughter of Robert and Elizabeth Shaffer of McHenry.

Local Church To Host Free Block Party For Youth

The Oak Park Church of the Brethren will host a Youth Explosion Block Party on Saturday, Aug. 20, from 5 until 11 p.m. There will be free food, free live entertainment, and door-prize drawings throughout the evening.

Among those scheduled to perform are Visions Human Video Team from Loch Lynn Church of God, Solomon's Porch from Mtn. Lake Park, and Amy Piper-McConnell and Alexis Brenneman from Oak Park Church.

The event is open to the public and will be chaperoned.

The church is located at 110 Church Lane across from Southern High School. For directions or more information, persons may call James and Regina Burns at 301-334-2821 or Ed and Yvette Nutter at 301-387-6787.

Jonas Hetrick Reunion Set For Aug. 21

The 23rd annual Jonas Hetrick reunion will be held on Sunday, Aug. 21, at the Oak Grove Mennonite Church pavilion. The church is located along Zehner Road, three miles west of Grantsville off old Route 40.

A covered dish meal will be served starting at 1 p.m. Entertainment will be provided throughout the day by the Maple City Bluegrass Band.

A white elephant sale will be held in the afternoon, and each person is asked to bring a gift to be auctioned. Gifts should be marked for a man, woman, boy, or girl.

Non-perishable food items will also be collected for two food baskets, which will also be auctioned.

This year's door prize and the "pig-in-the-poke" will be donated by the persons who won them last year.

Paper plates, napkins, cups, and silverware will be furnished.

A spokesperson noted that all family and friends are invited to attend. Persons with questions may call 301-895-5684 or 814-662-2521.

ROAD WARRIOR

Tony Stewart wins again at Watkins Glen

Cox News Service

Tony Stewart, Nextel Cup's hottest driver, continued his streak of strong performances Sunday. He dominated the Sirius Satellite Radio at The Glen to claim his 24th victory of his career and become a repeat winner at the road course at Watkins Glen.

Stewart started the race at the pole position (qualifying was rained out on Saturday), then proved himself the class of the field, leading for 83 of 92 laps.

The driver of the No. 20 suffered a broken alternator late in the race, but managed to outwit the competition after a late-race caution flag forced two extra laps. He was able to distance himself from Robby Gordon on the final restart.

Sunday's victory came a week after Stewart won for the first time at his beloved Indianapolis Motor Speedway. The Indiana native has enjoyed a midseason surge, winning five of the past seven races. He has also finished in the top 10 in the past eight races.

His strong performance Sunday increased his lead in the Nextel Cup standings. He now has a 105-point lead on Jimmie Johnson, who finished fifth on Sunday.

Jeff Gordon, whose hopes to make the Chase are fading, challenged Stewart early, but he faded midway through the race after a tire went flat. He finished 14th.

Dale Jarrett fell out of the top 10 on Sunday after a 22nd-place finish dropped him to 12th place in the standings, one ahead of Jeff Gordon.

Jamie McMurray moved from 11th to ninth in the standings after finishing 13th on Sunday. Elliott Sadler is now 11th in the standings after finishing 12th in the race.

Sorenson signs contract to compete in Cup Series

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Atlanta

There seems to be no stopping Reed Sorenson's meteoric rise in NASCAR racing.

After less than a full season in NASCAR's Busch Series, the 19-year-old has signed a deal to race full time in the elite Nextel Cup series next year.

He's also expected to make several starts in Cup this season, including the Bass Pro Shops MBNA 500 at his home track, Atlanta Motor Speedway, where he made his superspeedway debut in the Busch Series last fall.

SORENSON

Members of Sorenson's team say he'll likely take over the No. 41 Target-sponsored Dodge for the Chip Ganassi-owned team for which he now drives. He'll join Casey Mears and Jamie McMurray, who already race in Cup for Ganassi, and David Stremme, who, like Sorenson, is moving up from Busch next season.

Mears, who now drives the No. 41, will move to a fourth Ganassi car with mortgage lender Home 123 as sponsor.

Ganassi's lineup will feature relatively young drivers — McMurray is the oldest at 29 — who have only one Cup win, McMurray's at Lowe's Motor Speedway in 2002, between them.

Ganassi's veteran driver Sterling Marlin, a 10-time winner on the Cup circuit, is leaving the team at the end of this season.

McMurray also plans to leave Ganassi's team and move to Roush Racing, where he will replace the retiring Mark Martin. But McMurray's contract with Ganassi requires that he stay in his current ride, the No. 42 Dodge, through the end of 2006.

Sorenson began racing Quarter Midgets at age 6 and has been on the fast track ever since. He's won two Busch races this season and is third in Busch points and has a legitimate chance to win both the championship and rookie of the year honors.

Daytona Beach takes shot at Atlanta

Community boosters in Daytona Beach, Fla., the beach town known for ocean breezes and tattooed bikers, tried to spin NASCAR officials last week that their city should host a shrine to stock-car racing.

And like any officials in any town famous for motorcycle enthusiasts, they did some trash talking about their rivals, too — specifically, Atlanta.

"What's Georgia known for?" mocked Daytona International Speedway President Robin Braig at a track-side rally in support of Daytona's bid. "Peaches?"

Daytona, host of the Daytona 500 race, is the smallest of the five bid cities and a dark horse in the race for the hall, according to most observers.

NASCAR is expected to narrow the list to two or three cities this fall and pick a home for the hall of fame by December. About a dozen racing officials are spending much of August touring the five bid communities, Daytona; Atlanta; Charlotte, N.C.; Kansas City, Kan.; and Richmond, Va.

'Coo Coo' ran with big boys of NASCAR

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Atlanta

For years, Clifton "Coo Coo" Marlin toiled in the tobacco fields and cow pastures on the family farm during the week and raced on weekends. He started on the short tracks of his native Tennessee and moved on to the superspeedways of NASCAR.

Underfinanced and mostly unsponsored throughout his 15-year career on the circuit now known as Nextel Cup, Marlin took cars prepared in a tobacco barn and on occasion ran door-to-door with the sport's biggest names.

Marlin, the father of current NASCAR driver Sterling Marlin, died at the age of 73 Sunday after battling lung cancer. Sterling Marlin skipped the weekend events at Watkins Glen; Scott Pruett finished fourth Sunday in his No. 40 Dodge.

Marlin never won a points race in 165 starts, but he often was a front-runner, especially at the sport's premier track, Daytona International Speedway. He won a 125-mile qualifier there in 1973 and finished fourth in the Daytona 500 in 1974 and 1977. In his career, he posted nine top-five and 51 top-10 finishes.

When Marlin retired and went back to the family farm, Sterling took over the family car and went on to become one of the sport's biggest stars.

NASCAR veteran Bobby Hamilton said Marlin brought color, character and a strong work ethic to the sport.

"There's going to be a day when we wish we had those type people back in this business," Hamilton said. "The thing I remember is that drivers of [Marlin's] generation had to do so much on their own, and he accomplished so much by owning his own cars and working out of a barn.

"They had some decent showings against the factory-backed teams," he said.

Nextel Cup regular Ryan Newman held on during an exciting three-lap dash to the finish Saturday to win the Busch Zippo 200 at Watkins Glen.

Newman beat a hard-charging Robby Gordon to the finish line by 0.846 seconds for the first road-course victory of his Cup career and only his second Busch win.

Brian Vickers was third, followed by pole-sitter Tony Stewart and Martin Truex Jr.

Truex increased his series lead to 122 points over Clint Bowyer, who finished 15th.

COMMENTARY

Busch proves that anyone in NASCAR can be bought

By JEFF GLUCK
Cox News Service

WANTED: One, possibly two, drivers to fill seats at two-time defending NASCAR championship team. Must be at least 18, more photogenic than Greg Biffle and willing to travel on weekends. Valid driver's license required. Crew chief and top Nextel Cup team provided.

Can you believe this? Roush Racing, the top team in NASCAR, is looking for yet another driver after Kurt Busch jumped ship last week.

The ship isn't exactly sinking, either. It has been cruising along just fine, a luxury yacht that made others envious.

So why would Busch leave his championship team? Money, money, money. Driving the Miller Lite car, one of the coveted beer cars, brings prestige and money — but not necessarily victories.

The lesson here: anyone in NASCAR can be bought, and apparently at any time. Especially if Busch gets what he wants.

BUSCH

Busch wasn't even in the discussion to fill Rusty Wallace's seat next year. His contract with Roush, after all, runs through 2006. So theoretically, Busch wouldn't be available to drive the No. 2 car until 2007.

But last month, Jack Roush started what seems like a terrible trend for owners by signing Jamie McMurray to drive Mark Martin's No. 6 car while McMurray was still under contract with Chip Ganassi. Roush hoped McMurray would be released once he signed with another team. However, Ganassi declined, and McMurray has to spend a lame-duck season with his current car while Martin is being coaxed out of his retirement decision.

Now, Roush is getting a taste of his own medicine. Will he release Busch one year early, as he wanted Ganassi to do?

To this point, contracts still mean something in NASCAR, since drivers can't just escape them like college football coaches and go wherever they please. But those pacts may start to lose some of their meaning if Roush grants Busch his release.

If Busch is allowed to go to Penske and void the remainder of his contract, other owners and drivers may repeat the practice. For example, if raiding other teams is an accepted method at getting drivers, why not just go after Jeff Gordon or Dale Earnhardt Jr.?

In the short-term picture, releasing Busch would make Roush look like somewhat of a good guy, while Ganassi would look like a jerk. If Busch is forced to stay, Roush looks like a hypocrite.

This doesn't happen in other sports, mainly because professional sports leagues have rules that prohibit tampering. Coaches and general managers can't talk to, or about, potential free agents or trade prospects.

For example, the New York Yankees can't call up Barry Bonds and ask, "Hey Barry, what if we paid you $50 million a year? Would you come here?"

But there are no tampering rules in NASCAR, because NASCAR isn't a sports league. Team owners are on their own.

As a result, we have Silly Season, when drivers are constantly switching rides. And it's getting crazier than ever.

Is this a bad thing? Not for the fans and the media. Busch heading to Penske is one of the juiciest news items of the year. It was totally unexpected, a jaw-dropper.

"I'm guessing rumors have been around the sport forever," Craftsman Truck Series driver Brandon Whitt said recently. "I don't doubt for a second that right after somebody built the first car, there were rumors somebody else was going to drive it."

Memoir Writing Course Set At Garrett College

A course titled "Writing Your Memoirs" will be offered over five consecutive Fridays beginning Sept. 9, from 10 to 11:30 a.m., at the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland. The course, which is offered by the Center for Lifelong Learning at Garrett College, will be taught by Joan Crawford, former professor of English at the college.

The course is designed to encourage students to remember significant experiences and people from their lives, and provide effective ways to write about them. It is not necessary for students to have any previous writing experience, and no textbook will be needed. Samples of memoirs by professional writers will be introduced for instructional purposes.

"Although memoir writing is often associated with telling a family's story and leaving a legacy for future generations, it is also beneficial to the writer," Crawford explained. "To write a memoir we must remember and then reflect. It helps us put our experiences and our lives into perspective."

Writing can be therapeutic, according to Crawford. "When we have lost a loved one, or have had some other traumatic experience, it is often difficult to speak of it, but we can put our feelings on paper. Writing about it helps us to regain our emotional equilibrium."

Since her retirement from the college, Crawford has taught writing courses for adult groups in the community. A freelance writer, she authors the monthly "Been There" column that appears in The Republican, and coordinates the annual "Write Away" writers' conference held at Garrett College each spring.

THE SCIENCE OF COMMON SENSE.

TV PIPELINE

By Jay Bobbin

Q: Our family loved "Dancing With the Stars." Will there be another one? –Ann Beever, Alpharetta, Ga.

A: Oh, you bet there will. With the surprisingly strong ratings the show earned for ABC this summer, it was no shock when the network announced a second season for it shortly after the first one ended. There's no debut date set as of yet ("midseason" is a specific as it gets right now), and also no word on whether first-season celebrity winner Kelly Monaco ("General Hospital") will return. ABC certainly won't be shy about promoting the premiere, though, so you'll likely know about it in plenty of time.

Kelly Monaco

Q: Was there a prime-time cartoon show in the late '60s or early '70s that was about a football team? Sometimes I think I'm crazy, because I'm the only one who remembers this show. –Jan Williams, Anchorage, Ala.

A: You're not. Produced by the Hanna-Barbera animation shop, "Where's Huddles" aired in the summer of 1970 on CBS (and was repeated the next summer). The show was about a gridiron team called the Rhinos, and veteran sportscaster Dick Enberg "announced" the games. Paul Lynde and cartoon staple Mel Blanc also were in the voice cast, as were Alan Reed and Jean VanderPyl ... who also worked for Hanna-Barbera as Fred and Wilma Flintstone.

Q: I just watched a PBS special about Bob Newhart and was reminded how much I enjoyed all of his series. Will either of his series ever be distributed on DVD? –Ruth Spyker, Tucson, Ariz.

A: Actually, there were more than two ... but the 1960s "Bob Newhart Show" (a comedy-variety offering), "Bob" and "George & Leo" aren't remembered as much as the others. No DVD plans have been announced as of yet for "Newhart," the star's 1982-90 show about a Vermont inn, but the first season of the 1970s "Bob Newhart Show" already is available on disc. And we're told that the second season of it is coming either later this year or early next year, with a major "extra" that the first set is missing: audio commentary by Newhart.

Q: We just heard that "Summerland" aired its series finale. Why did the producers decide to end the show? –Laurie Hainley, Seattle.

A: The producers, including star Lori Loughlin, would have been quite content to keep going with the series, but WB Network executives made the decision to pull the plug. It was based on what turned out to be declining ratings following the show's promising start last summer.

Results Noted For County Tobacco Compliance Checks

For the past three years, staff from the Garrett County Health Department, members of the Northern and Southern High STEAM (Student Tobacco Elimination Among Minors) groups, and local law enforcement agencies have partnered to conduct tobacco compliance checks with county merchants. This enforcement effort is funded by the health department's Cigarette Restitution Fund Program (CRFP).

The compliance checks are designed to test the Maryland Sales to Minors Statute that makes it unlawful to sell tobacco products to individuals under the age of 18. The enforcement operations involved underage individuals from the STEAM groups, under the supervision of a law enforcement officer and health department staff.

"The goal of the enforcement program is to promote compliance with the law so that fewer minors have access to tobacco," said Mike Wilburn, health educator at the health department. "Most of the local merchants have been compliant, with 81% of compliance visits ending in no sale, but our goal is to reach 100% compliance."

The results for fiscal year 2005 are as follows:

•44 different merchants visited for a total of 86 compliance checks (most were visited more than once);

•16 violations of Maryland Sales to Minors Statute (i.e., merchants sold tobacco to a minor);

•13 warning letters issued by law enforcement; and

•3 merchants charged under the state statute (Merchants that are non-compliant twice within a year are charged. First time violators receive a warning letter.)

Compliance check operations are ongoing and will continue in Garrett County for Fiscal Year 2006.

To further efforts to limit sales to minors, the General Assembly of Maryland during the previous term passed a new law, "Display of Tobacco Products, Carroll and Garrett Counties," The new law states that no store may "store or display" any tobacco product which is "immediately accessible to the consumer." The law will have two positive effects for store owners and consumers, Wilburn explained.

First, store customers must ask for the products, making it harder, if not impossible, to shoplift tobacco products. Second, the clerk is more likely to ask for proof of age before selling to a minor. This law will take effect Oct. 1.

To assist in compliance with the Sales to Minors statute and the Display of Tobacco Products law, a Technical Assistance Workshop will be offered for merchants on Sept. 22 at the Deep Creek Discovery Center from 6 to 8 p.m. Dinner will be provided. Staff from the health department, as well as Garrett County's state's attorney Lisa Thayer Welch, will conduct the free workshop.

For more information about the workshop or the enforcement program, persons may call 301-334-7730.

Mike Adkins To Speak At Area Church's Banquet

Author, singer, songwriter, and evangelist Mike Adkins will be the featured speaker at the God's Ark of Safety annual banquet on Saturday, Sept. 10, at 6:30 p.m. at Frostburg State University.

Adkins is a frequent guest on such programs as Focus on the Family with Dr. James Dobson, Trinity Broadcasting Network, and the Gaither Homecoming Series.

Adkins is perhaps best known for his book A Man Called Norman and its movie version. He also wrote "Adoration," a worship song that has appeared on more than 400 television programs nationwide, according to a church spokesperson.

Persons may call 301-689-3551 for the cost of the event and to make reservations.

Back-To-School Night Slated At Broad Ford Elem.

Broad Ford Elementary School will hold its back-to school night on Thursday, Aug. 25, between 5 and 7 p.m. Teachers will present their classrooms to parents during these hours.

There will be three different sessions for parents who have more than one child attending Broad Ford. The three sessions begin at 5:15, 5:40, and 6:05 p.m. Teachers will also hand out classroom supply lists and student planners.

Parents may purchase Bobcat/PTO group memberships and place money in the student's meal accounts at 5 and 6:30 p.m. A welcome by the new principal, Suzanne Sincell, via the closed circuit TV in the classrooms will be held at 5:05 p.m. only.

4-H Club News

OAKLAND OAK LEAVES

by Catlin Carrico, reporter

The regular monthly meeting of the Oakland Oak Leaves 4-H Club was held last Thursday at WKHJ radio station in Loch Lynn Heights. The meeting was called to order at 6:30 p.m. by club president William Taylor.

Other members present were Catlin Carrico and Lexi Trickett. Catlin led the American pledge, and Lexi led the 4-H pledge. Catlin gave the treasurer's report.

The only topic of business discussed was the theme for the club's fair booth.

Catlin gave a report on a computer contest in which she placed first. She will be competing in the contest again at the state level at the state fair later this month. Catlin also gave a demonstration on her harlequin rabbit.

The members were given a tour of the radio station by Pam Trickett, club leader. They also cut public service announcements for the 49th annual Garrett County Fair.

Refreshments were provided by the Carrico family.

The club's next meeting will be held on Sept. 15 at the Extension office.

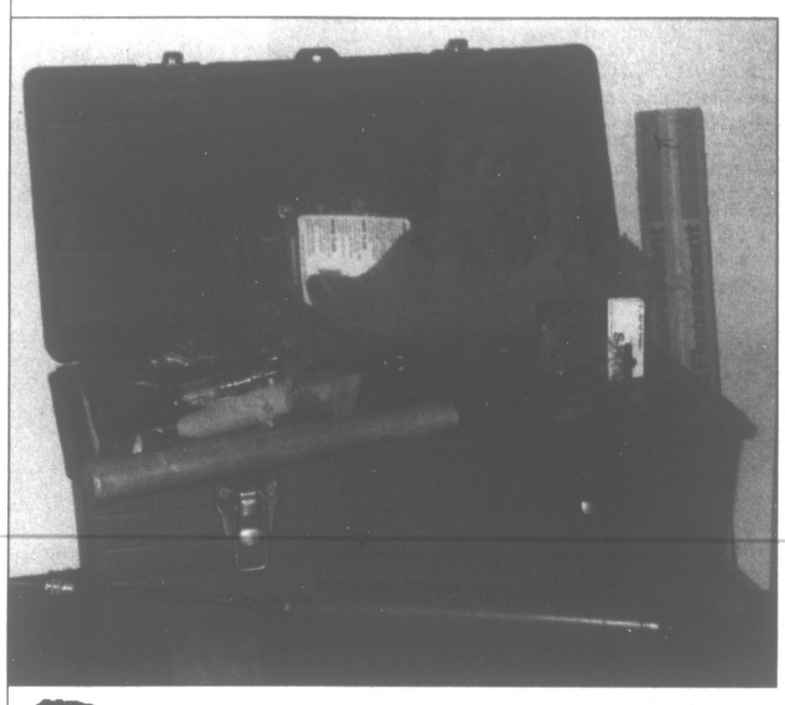
If you have ever attempted to build or repair something, you know that without the proper tools, your enthusiasm can quickly turn into frustration. You need tools that you can depend on.

In a sense, God needs dependable tools also. Aren't we His tools? He can work through us to build and repair His kingdom. He can depend on us if we open our hearts and have faith in Him. Faith is the foundation of God's house, a strong foundation to build upon. Love and forgiveness are important building blocks; reflecting God's perfect love and forgiveness to others can bring them hope. When we shine with the love of God, it is reflected onto everyone we meet. "Don't you know that you yourselves are God's temple and that God's Spirit lives in you?" (1 Corinthians 3:16)



Invite a friend to church this week. As His tools, we can build His house, the church, by bringing others to Him, that they may experience the peace and hope and love that is found there. With the Spirit of God dwelling in us, we can build and repair God's kingdom on earth ...one soul at a time.

Putting Gratitude In Our Lives

It is probably impossible to overestimate the value of gratitude. We all know how nice it is to be thanked for some small kindness or good deed which we have done for another. And of course, someone who is truly thankful is likely to make us feel so good about ourselves that we can't wait to perform another act of kindness for that person. But perhaps more important than the warm feeling that we get when someone expresses their gratitude to us, is the positive outlook that gratitude usually engenders in the person who is grateful. That is, the feeling of being grateful helps to keep us focused on the positive. Instead of harping on how bad things are, or regretting the past, gratitude looks for the positive aspect and the silver lining. And although we all may occasionally feel sorry for ourselves, we can alleviate some of these feelings by getting into the habit of reminding ourselves of how much we have to be thankful for. Our good health, having friends and family who care about us, and even something as mundane as going to work, are truly things for which we ought to be grateful. We should spend some time each day counting our blessings. We might be pleasantly surprised to find that this exercise itself will make our lives better.

Give thanks to the Lord, for He is good;
His love endures forever.

Vitamin/Mineral Combo May Lower PMS Risk

Vitamin D is a fat soluble vitamin whose major function is to maintain normal blood levels of calcium and phosphorus. Calcium is a mineral that is necessary to maintain strong, healthy bones. It is also necessary for many bodily functions including muscle contraction, blood vessel contraction and relaxation, transmitting signals through the nervous system, and producing chemicals called enzymes and hormones. Calcium supplementation has also been shown to be effective in the treatment of premenstrual syndrome (PMS). PMS is a disorder charac-terized by physical and mental symptoms that interfere with normal life activities and interpersonal relationships.

A recent study reported that high dietary calcium and vitamin D intake may lower the risk of developing PMS. Women who reported an intake of approximately 1200mg/day of calcium and 400 IU/day of vitamin D from their diet had a significantly lower risk of developing PMS compared to women with lower intakes. However, large prospective trials are needed to fully eval-uate the effects of calcium and vitamin D supplements in the prevention of PMS.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Jean de la Fontaine was a 17th-century French poet; he was also a very wise man. It was he who observed, "It is a double pleasure to deceive the deceiver" and "It is impossible to please all the world and one's father."

• The world's most venomous creature isn't a snake or a spider or a scorpion — it's a jellyfish. Unlike others of its species, box jellyfish don't drift with the tide; they're able to move at speeds of up to two knots in pursuit of prey. They have 24 eyes and four brains, and the largest, Chironex fleckeri, is so deadly that its venom can kill an adult human within the space of a single minute.

• Ever wonder why America's most important election is held in early November? That time of year was chosen to make it easier for farmers to vote — the harvest is over by then, but the heavy winter snows haven't yet set in.

• "The Catcher in the Rye" by J.D. Salinger was published 54 years ago, in 1951. Since its publication, the novel has sold more than 60 million copies in many different languages around the world. It was not without controversy, though; by the early 1980s, while the book was ranked as the second most-frequently taught book in the American public school system, it was also the country's most-banned book.

• You might be surprised to learn that the mango is a relative of the cashew and the pistachio.

• Coal mining is known to be a fairly dangerous occupation: There's always the chance of a cave-in or some other underground catastrophe. It's certainly ironic, then, that a retired coal miner who had never had an accident during his working years was killed when tons of coal buried him in his own back yard.

Moments in time

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Aug. 24, 79 A.D., after centuries of dormancy, Mount Vesuvius erupts in southern Italy, burying Pompeii and killing thousands. The city, rediscovered in the 18th century, provided an archaeological record of the everyday life of an ancient civilization.

• On Aug. 25, 1819, fabled crime fighter Allan Pinkerton is born in Glasgow, Scotland. Pinkerton founded a detective agency in Chicago that originally gained fame for solving a series of train robberies and later became known for helping management break strikes by the new labor unions.

• On Aug. 22, 1864, the International Red Cross is founded by signed agreement among 12 nations. A red cross on a white background — the Swiss flag in reverse — was chosen as the international emblem in honor of Swiss humanitarian Jean-Henri Dunant.

• On Aug. 23, 1926, the death of silent-screen idol Rudolph Valentino at the age of 31 sends his fans into a hysterical state of mass mourning. In his brief film career, the Italian-born actor established a reputation as the archetypal screen lover.

• On Aug. 27, 1941, Prince Fumimaro Konoye, prime minister of Japan, announces that he would like to enter into negotiations with President Roosevelt to prevent the Japanese conflict with China from expanding into world war. At war's end, he was served with an arrest warrant by U.S. occupying forces for suspicion of war crimes.

• On Aug. 28, 1955, 14-year-old Emmett Till, an African-American from Chicago, is brutally murdered in Mississippi for flirting with a white woman. An all-white jury deliberated for less than an hour before issuing a verdict of "not guilty," explaining that they believed the state had failed to prove the identity of the body.

• On Aug. 26, 1979, Charles Boyer, the handsome hero of French and American films, takes his own life with an overdose of sleeping pills. His wife of 25 years, Pat Paterson, had died only two days earlier.

Resolving a Scratchy Situation

DEAR PAWS CORNER:
I'm writing in response to the woman having problems with her cats scratching the furniture. My cat is 8 months old; I got her from the Humane Society. They gave me all kinds of goodies to take home along with my cute lil' kitty. One of these was a coupon for a Cat Claws scratching pad. It's a flat pad made of cardboard with some catnip on top.

Although she didn't use it at first (probably because she was still so young) and enjoyed the legs of the couch more, I moved it right in front of the place she scratched the most. Every time she scratched the couch I put her on the pad. Well, she finally got the idea, and now she loves it! She prefers scratching it to anything else. She also sits on it and sleeps on it. It's become her own special little spot (well, one of many special little spots!). Every time she uses it, I praise her. It's so important to let them know when they're doing something right.

I think Cat Claws scratching pads are around $5 each, although I got mine for $2 with a coupon from the Humane Society. Just another perk of adopting an animal from the pound! — Lauren M., Longmont, Colo.

DEAR LAUREN:
Thanks so much for the tip! I don't know if a Cat Claws coupon is available at all Humane Society shelters, but it's true that many companies, foundations and groups often donate items that will help ease a cat's transition into a new home.

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q. I have a set of postcards depicting the James-Younger raid, which occurred during the autumn of 1876 in Northfield, Minn. There are 13 in the series and were all copyrighted by A.J. Drake in 1910. Where can I obtain a valuation of these interesting cards? — M.G.I., Nelson, B.C., Canada

A. There has always been a sentimental soft spot in most American hearts for thugs, outlaws and crooks. Jesse James is, of course, an icon, and as such is extremely collectible. Bill Makin is a Western Americana expert and the author of Cowboy and Gunfighter Collectibles. He might be able to help you determine the value of your cards. Write to him at 1137 Washington St., Craig, CO 81625. Another excellent source is the National Association for Outlaw & Lawmen History, P.O. Box 812, Waterford, CA 95386.

Q. I have a harmonica that my husband purchased in Germany in 1948. It is a 64 Chromatic octaves professional model. Where can I find out the value of it? — Eleanore, Fairfield Glade, Tenn.

A. Rick Nielsen is a dealer/collector who is knowledgeable about harmonicas. His address is Fleur-De-Lis Appraisals, 1132 Westmoor Place, Saint Louis, MO 63131.

Q. I have a small soldier doll that stands approximately 6 inches high. He has movable eyes and a uniform that is complete. — Dean, Derwood, Md.

A. Dolls are one of America's most popular collectibles. Judith Katz-Schwartz is an appraiser who specializes in dolls and might be able to tell you more about the one you have. Her address is P.O. Box 6572, New York, NY 10128.

Two dealers who might also be helpful are Judith Armistead, The Doll Works, P.O. Box 195, Lynnefield, MA 01940; and Bonnie J. Cook, P.O. Box 134, East Greenbush, NY 12061.

College Courses In Health Care Set In Grantsville

Garrett College's Grantsville Outreach Center will host three courses in the field of health care beginning next month. The courses are intended to supplement the knowledge of those working in any type of medical setting such as physician offices, nursing homes, clinics, or other facilities where health services are rendered.

The first course, Medical Coding Advanced, is slated from 6 to 9:15 p.m. on Wednesdays, Sept. 7 through Nov. 30, and 8 to 3:30 p.m. on the Saturdays of Sept. 10 and Oct. 22.

The course is designed to prepare students to challenge medical coding examinations. Topics include coding guidelines, identifying barriers to reimbursement, implementing knowledge and tools to ensure accurate code submission, and improving overall code awareness. Legal issues and laboratory testing will also be discussed.

Medical Insurance Billing is scheduled for 6 to 9:15 p.m. on Tuesdays, Sept. 20 through Dec. 6, and from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on the Saturdays of Oct. 29 and Nov. 12.

Instruction will focus on learning to complete the universal claim form accepted by all insurance carriers. Topics include intake of patient, preauthorization, insurance terminology, claim forms, billing software, claims adjudication and appeals, and common insurance carriers. Prerequisites are Medical Terminology, Introduction to Anatomy and Physiology, and Medical Coding Specialist I & II, or permission granted by instructor.

Study of Disease Process is scheduled from 6 to 9:15 p.m. on Mondays, Oct. 3 through Dec. 6.

The course is designed to teach students certain elements of human diseases according to organ and body system, manifestations, and pathological processes. Frequency and significance of diagnostic and therapeutic approach, and multi-system diseases are also reviewed.

"With the changes in health care, the onset of managed care, and the explosion of knowledge and technology in medicine, physicians' office as well as health care agencies are looking for employees that have a variety of skills," a college spokesperson said.

For more information about these health care courses, persons may contact Grantsville Outreach Center coordinator Terry Beachy at 301-895-3368 or via e-mail at tbeachy@garrettcollege.edu.

DEER PARK VFW RAFFLE WINNER – The Veterans of Foreign Wars Post #10077 in Deer Park and its Ladies Auxiliary recently raffled off a Hasavana lawn tractor. Among the uses of the funds generated by the benefit event will be to purchase needed personal supplies for veterans living in area nursing homes and troops serving in Iraq. Pictured is raffle winner Teresa Feather (who won along with her husband Kenneth), flanked by post commander Paul Graham and auxiliary president Janice Judy. A cash prize of $100 went to Mike Flanagan, and a $50 prize was claimed by Eugene Dixon.

Day Of Caring And Sharing Set By United Way

The United Way of Garrett County is planning its second annual Day of Caring and Sharing for Saturday, Oct. 22. The event, which will begin at 9 a.m. and conclude around 3:30 p.m., corresponds with the National Make a Difference Day sponsored by the nationwide USA Weekend newspaper supplement.

"The Day of Caring and Sharing is an opportunity for neighbors to help neighbors by participating in projects that benefit the community," explained local United Way spokesperson Bob Stephens. "Many participating United Way agencies will have projects available where volunteers can assist by providing 'sweat and elbow grease' to their favorite projects. Other United Way agencies will provide labor in the form of volunteers.

"Our dream is for every able person in Garrett County to come out and volunteer on that day. It truly is an opportunity to recognize both agencies and volunteers," stated Stephens.

The Day of Caring and Sharing planning committee is working to ensure that projects will be available at various locations around the county to make it easier for volunteers to participate, and is seeking project suggestions. Currently United Way agencies that have a physical presence in the county are identifying projects that range from landscaping at Salem Children's Trust and the Mtn. Glade Adult Day Care Center to finishing work on a Habitat for Humanity home. Among the participants are organizations such as the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

For further information, persons may call 301-359-9697 or visit the agency's web site at garrettunitedway.org.

Contributions may be mailed to the United Way of Garrett County, P.O. Box 394, Oakland, MD 21550. More information about Make a Difference Day can be obtained at www.usaweekend.com/diffday.

"Senior Surfer" Internet Course Set At Garrett

A course titled Senior Surfers; the Internet and Web Literacy will be offered 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. for three consecutive Fridays beginning Sept. 9 at Garrett College's Grantsville Outreach Center. The course has a prerequisite of Introduction to Computers.

Students will use an Internet browser to discover how it all fits together to help find information on the Internet. Topics include finding information using search engines; shopping online; reading newspapers; and looking up phone numbers. Information on joining discussion groups and the use of related on-line services will also be provided.

For additional information or to register for this course, persons may contact Grantsville Center coordinator Terry Beachy at 301-895-3368 or via e-mail at tbeachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Crellin Church Sets Special Revival Svcs.

Local Health Officer Warns Residents About Dangers Of Secondhand Smoke

from the GC Health Department

Last April, the Centers for Disease Control for the first time ever issued a health advisory on secondhand smoke, warning that as little as 30 minutes of exposure could cause those individuals with heart disease to be at greater risk of a heart attack. Numerous other studies have shown that secondhand smoke can trigger acute asthma attacks, some of which can be life-threatening and require emergency medical treatment.

"As health officer of Garrett County, I have a responsibility to the public to warn them of health hazards when it is necessary," said Rodney Glotfelty, R.S., M.P.H. "Exposure to secondhand smoke and other such environmental toxins can cause existing health problems to be exaggerated, especially as they relate to heart disease and asthma. I want to make sure every Garrett County resident knows what the effects of being exposed to cigarette smoke are so that they can make the best choice to protect their health."

In Garrett County, almost 8 out of 10 residents are nonsmokers. The Garrett County Health Department, along with the Garrett County Tobacco-Free Coalition, will be kicking off a campaign to educated county residents about the health benefits of 100 percent smoke-free bars and restaurants.

Any persons interested in being part of or learning more about a Clean Indoor Air campaign are invited to attend the next meeting of the Tobacco-Free Coalition on Wednesday, Aug. 24, at noon in the Health Department's Conference Room. The department is located along Memorial Drive near Oakland.

Staff from SmokeFree MD will be in attendance to update the coalition about statewide efforts to promote the passage of a Clean Indoor Air bill. Although a similar bill failed to make it through the Maryland General Assembly in the previous two legislative sessions, it will be reintroduced in 2006 with renewed effort on the part of advocates to pass such legislation.

The Clean Indoor Air Act would require all work sites to be smoke free, including bars and restaurants. Seven states, including New York and California, and more than 160 local jurisdictions are now 100 percent smoke free, meaning that legislation prohibits smoking in all workplaces, including bars and restaurants. In light of increasing evidence about the harms caused by secondhand smoke, a global trend has begun with seven countries also now smoke free, including Ireland, Italy, Sweden, and Norway.

For more information about the Tobacco-Free Coalition meeting or about the consequences of secondhand smoke and how to protect one's family and personal health, persons can call the Health Department at 301-334-7730.

FREE COSMETIC KITS will be provided to the participants of a "Look Good, Feel Better" workshop that will be held at Garrett County Memorial Hospital next Monday. The workshop is designed for women who are undergoing treatment for cancer. See story for details.

"Look Good, Feel Better" Workshop Slated At GCMH

Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the American Cancer Society have scheduled a free "Look Good... Feel Better" workshop for women undergoing treatment for cancer. The free workshop will be offered from 5 to 7 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 22, in the GCMH boardroom. Any woman who has recently completed or is currently undergoing treatment is welcome to attend.

The Look Good...Feel Better program was developed by the Cosmetic, Toiletry, and Fragrance Association in 1989 with one patient. It is a free national public service program created from the concept that if someone with cancer can be helped to look good, her improved self-esteem will help her to approach her disease and treatment with greater confidence.

The program is dedicated to teaching women and teen-age cancer patients beauty techniques to help restore their appearance and self-image, as well as how to deal with the sociological side effects they experience during treatment. "This workshop is conducted by volunteer cosmetologists," explained GCMH Wellness coordinator Lisa Schad.

Participants learn techniques in skin, hair, and nail care, and the use of makeup, in this hands-on class using actual products. Demonstrations in the use of wigs, hats, turbans and scarf-tying techniques are also given. Participants receive a take-home instructional booklet and a complimentary kit of cosmetics containing a variety of cosmetic products.

Cosmetics for the classes and the take-home packets are provided free of charge courtesy of the American Cancer Society, the Cosmetics, Toiletry, and Fragrance Association Foundation and the National Cosmetics Association.

The program is offered at no charge; however, preregistration is required. To register or obtain more information on the program, persons may contact Schad at 301-533-4295.

Books On Display For Approval At Board Of Educ.

The social studies program of studies for prekindergarten through 12th grade and recommended textbooks being considered for approval by the Garrett County Board of Education have been placed on display at the Board of Education office in Oakland.

The Men's Fellowship banquet will be held at the church on Saturday, Aug. 27, at 6 p.m.

GRACE LUTHERAN CHURCH

Communion will be given during the morning worship service at 9:45 a.m. on Sunday, Aug. 21.

Grace Lutheran will hold its annual Fall Fair on Saturday, Sept. 3, beginning at 9 a.m. The fair consists of a variety of homemade soups and sandwiches, as well as baked items and yard sale items. Funds from this event will be matched with Thrivent. Grace Lutheran is located at 251 Maple Street in Friendsville. The public is invited to attend. There will also be free sign-ups for door prizes.

RUSH BAPTIST CHURCH

Rush Baptist will be having its annual homecoming on Sunday, Aug. 28. It will begin with Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. and worship service at 11 a.m. There will be a covered-dish dinner at the pavilion behind the church after worship services. Later in the afternoon there will be a hymn sing. Anyone wishing to provide special music is welcome to do so. All former pastors, friends, members and neighbors of Rush Baptist are invited to attend.

REVIVAL SERVICES

The Mt. Dale Church of the Brethren will be holding revival now through this Saturday, Aug. 20, at 7 p.m. each evening. There will be special singing each night. Guest speaker will be Michael Fike. The public is invited.

RAFFLE WINNER

BAKE SALE

The Friendsville PTO will be holding a bake sale on Saturday, Aug. 27, in front of S&S Market beginning at 9 a.m. Proceeds from the sale will benefit new gym mats for the school.

BACK TO SCHOOL

Back-to-School Night at the Friendsville Elementary School will be held next Wednesday, Aug. 24, from 4 to 6 p.m.

KAYAK RAFFLE

A new kayak was recently donated to the town council to be raffled off. The kayak is sufficient for oceans, lakes, or streams, and so stable that one can fish from it. No paddling experience is required to use it. Tickets are available by contacting council person Agnes Lichtner at 301-746-5253. Tickets sell for $3 apiece or 2 for $5. Proceeds from the raffle will benefit improvement of the town park. The winning ticket will be drawn Tuesday, Sept. 6, at 6 p.m. at the town hall.

TOWN NEWS

Anyone wishing to rent a pavilion at the town park is asked to contact Alice Spear at 301-746-5639.

Anyone wishing to have curbside pickup is asked to call Town Hall at 301-746-5919. Garbage is picked up each Thursday beginning at 8 a.m. Recycling day is the first Friday of the month.

The next scheduled mayor and town meeting will be held Monday, Sept. 12 at 7 p.m. (delayed one week because of Labor Day). The Legacy Task Force meeting will be held Sept. 8 at 7:30 p.m.

LIBRARY NEWS

Beginning Sept. 1, the hours for the Friendsville Library will be Monday and Wednesday, 2-8, Tuesday and Thursday 1:30-5:30, and Saturday 9-2. It will be closed on Friday and Sunday.

The library will continue to be open during renovations. All are invited to stop in and see the quilt fiction display of adult and children's books.

SINES REUNION

The family of Chris and Orpha Sines will hold their annual homecoming this Sunday, Aug. 20, at the Friendsville Elementary School, beginning at 1 p.m.

FRAZEE PICNIC

The annual Frazee picnic will be held this Sunday, Aug. 21, at Friendsville Town Park. Lunch will begin at 1:30 p.m. All are invited to bring a covered dish and join friends, neighbors, and family. The picnic will feature entertainment by a blue grass group from Cumberland known as the Cornerstone Gospel Pals and Gals. Lisa Frazee Humbertson is one of the singers. This may be the last year for the Frazee picnic, so a big turnout is requested.

NASHVILLE TRIP

Seats are available for the Circle of Friends trip to Nashville scheduled for October 7-10. The package covers Grand Ole Opry, General Jackson luncheon cruise and entertainment, Country Music Hall of Fame, Music City tour, the Hermitage, Nashville Nitelife Theater, Opryland Resort Tour, and Opry Mills, plus three nights' lodging, three continental breakfasts, and two dinners. Pick-ups are planned for Friendsville and Grantsville. Reservation deadline is September 1. For a detailed itinerary or additional information, persons may call Louise Brenneman at 301-895-5697.

PERSONALS

Edna (Dolly) Livengood attended her 70-year high school class reunion along with grandson Joshua, held at the Hilltop Restaurant on Saturday. Seven classmates attended. Edna (Swauger) Livengood was one of 32 graduates of the class of '32 from Grantsville High School.

A birthday supper was shared by the family of Ralph Sines to celebrate his 85th birthday last Thursday, at the Hen House on Rt. 40. Those attending were Ralph and Edna Sines, Brenda Sines, Ethel and Richard Artice, Doug Sines, Gene and Lois Sines, Ken, Lucretia, Alison, and Chris Sines, and Tim and Sue Artice.

Thank you!

The Housing Department of Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc. (GCCAC) would like to thank Our Savior Lutheran Church for all their hard work during their Lutheran Servant Event this past July. This event, coordinated by GCCAC, provides eligible homeowners with necessary repairs to their homes at no cost.

We also need to thank Greg Shockey of Team One for his assistance and support and Ed Chalkley for volunteering numerous hours delivering materials to the project sites.

Many thanks to Del Cosner of OC Cluss Lumber for assistance in preparing work write-ups, Brenda Roszell of GCCAC , OC Cluss Lumber and Underwood Rentals for their discounts on materials with this project.

Without the support of these individuals and businesses the Lutheran Servant Event would not have been as successful.

Friendsville Turns Out To "Walk The Walk" Vs. Cancer

The Friendsville Community Watch organization sponsored a "Walk the Walk for Cancer Awareness" at the town's park during the recent Friendsville Days celebration. The walk, which was undertaken in conjunction with the Garrett County Health Department, raised $2,822.63 for Cindy's Fund, a local nonprofit organization that designates all of its funds to support cancer screening in Garrett County.

Forty-one walkers participated in the event, which was held at dusk and lit by tiki torches. Oversized ribbons were displayed around the walking trail in memory or in honor of 155 persons who had or are currently have cancer.

"The Friendsville community really pulled together for this event, and I am so pleased with all the generous support from our community," said Community Watch member Brenda Frazee. "Because of the pledges that we collected in honor or in memory of cancer victims, we may be able to help other Garrett County residents prevent this disease, or at least detect it in an early stage."

The top individual fundraiser for the event was Mary Ann Umbel of Friendsville, who collected $961 in pledges. Friend family reunion participants donated the proceeds from a 50/50 raffle, which amounted to $116. Prizes for the top money raisers were donated by Uno Restaurant, First United Bank, and the Christmas Chalet.

The Friendsville Rescue Squad donated all $504 in proceeds from its community picnic, which took place the night of the walk.

BEATING FEET TO BEAT CANCER – The Friendsville Crime Watch group organized a "Walk the Walk for Cancer Awareness" during the recent Friendsville Days celebration, raising $2,822.63 for Cindy's Fund. The fund dedicates all donations to cancer screening programs for income-eligible Garrett County residents. Pictured above is town mayor Spencer Schlosnagle as he steps off along the course in the company of fellow Friendsville residents. Shown below are Friendsville Community Watch members and some of the top fundraisers. From the left are Community Watch vice president Brandi Folk, Top Individual Fundraiser Mary Ann Umbel, Carol Wakefield, Community Watch president Sharol Coddington, Christy Thomas, Cathy Williams, and Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad assistant chief Ken Sines. See story.

The squad made the donation in memory of Bob Humberson.

The Health Department offered a "Mini-Health Fair" during the event, where staffers provided blood pressure checks, carbon monoxide testing, skin analysis, and flexibility testing. Information about upcoming health-related programs that will be offered in Friendsville was also provided, including smoking cessation classes and "Dare To Be You" parenting classes in Friendsville.

For further information on those upcoming classes, persons may call Health Education and Outreach at the Health Department at 301-334-7730. For information about cancer screening programs, persons may call Personal Health at the Health Department at 301-334-7770.

Bloodmobile To Visit Grantsville

An additional local visit of the American Red Cross bloodmobile for August has been scheduled for Monday, Aug. 29, at the Grantsville fire hall. Donors will be welcomed there from 12:30 to 6:30 p.m.

The need for blood in the region continues to be great, according to the ARC. Persons who are at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 105 pounds, and are in generally good health may typically donate a unit of blood every 56 days.

Persons desiring more information about the ARC blood services program may contact the Garrett County ARC office at 301-334-3810.

REGISTRATION INFORMATION

Noncredit registration will be taken on a first-come, first-serve basis and should be completed at least one week prior to the starting date of class. Courses listed in this schedule are subject to change. Provisions included are not to be regarded as an irrevocable contract between the student and the College. Payment may be made by mail or in person at our office. We accept VISA or MasterCard. Please call us at 301-387-3069 or 301-895-4310, ext. 3069.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Course fees listed include tuition, fees, and out-of-county/out-of-state differentials (where applicable). Costs listed for Maryland Senior Citizens (persons 60 years of age or older) include a tuition waiver (where applicable) and fees. All students are responsible for any materials or texts that may be required for all classes.

REFUND POLICY

In order to withdraw from a Noncredit course the student must complete a withdrawal form at the Continuing Education & Training Office. Refunds will be made in full if you withdraw from a course prior to its first session. If you withdraw prior to the second class meeting, you are entitled to a 75% refund. There will be no refund after the second class session. Any requests for exceptions to this policy must be made in writing and should be submitted to the Dean of Continuing Education & Training.

Garrett College does not discriminate on the basis of race, sex, color, religion, national origin, ethnic origin or handicapping conditions. This non-discrimination policy includes equal treatment for students in regard to admissions, programs/activities, financial assistance and equal treatment of faculty and staff in employment.

COURSE OFFERINGS

Camp Horseshoe To Host Its First Knitting Retreat

The first ever Knitting Retreat at Camp Horseshoe will be held Sept. 23 and 24, beginning with registration at 9 a.m. on Friday and ending around 5 p.m. on Saturday afternoon near Leadmine in Tucker County's Monongahela National Forest.

This overnight retreat is sponsored by the HI-Y Leadership Center, a program of the Ohio-West Virginia YMCA, and will feature mini workshops for knitters of all ages and levels.

Subjects to be discussed include "Learning How to Fix a Mistake," "Reading Yarn Labels & Patterns," and "Determining Gauge." Participants will also have the opportunity to make a dish cloth, novelty-yarn scarf, seed-stitch book mark, and felt hat.

For more information on the cost or to receive a brochure about the retreat, persons may contact Mary Smith at 304-478-2481 or e-mail Mary@hi-y.org. Information is also available online at hi-y.org/knittingretreat.pdf.

Activities Set In Arthurdale Next Weekend

Arthurdale Heritage Inc. will hold several activities next weekend. A flea market and farmers' market will be held on the museum grounds on Saturday, Aug, 27, and Sunday, Aug. 28, beginning at 7 a.m.

The cost to reserve a space to sell items is $5. AHI, however, does not provide tables or chairs. Concessions will also be sold.

AHI will also hold a rummage sale on both days. Donations will be accepted for the sale beginning on Monday, Aug. 22. Proceeds benefit the AHI.

An old-fashioned ice cream social will also be held on the AHI Center Hall lawn on Saturday from 4 until 8 p.m. Activities will include an ice cream eating contest, cake walk, kids' games, and live musical entertainment.

A lawn mower and bicycle decorating parade and contest is also scheduled. Concessions will be sold, featuring homemade pies, Italian sausage sandwiches, hot dogs, hamburgers, and ice cream treats.

A community block party will begin at 8 p.m.

For more information, persons may call AHI at 304-864-3959 or visit online at arthurdaleheritage.org.

Alpine Lake To Host Bluegrass Fest, PC Day

The Alpine Lake Property Association will host a Bluegrass Festival and Preston County Day on Saturday, Aug. 27, from 1 until 10 p.m. at the Boathouse.

The Bluegrass on the Lake show will feature From the Hip from 2 to 4 p.m., the Still Kickin' Cloggers from 4 to 4:30 p.m., Farm Use from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m., and the Hillbilly Gypsies at 7 p.m.

The cost is $10 for adults and $5 for children 12 and younger. Those attending are asked to bring lawn chairs or blankets.

Also during the day, Preston County residents can enjoy free miniature golf, fishing, and swimming at the pool and beach. Green fees and cart rentals will be half price.

Crafts, food, and drinks will also be available for purchase during the day.

For more information, persons may call 304-789-2481 or 800-752-7179 or visit online at alpinelake.com.

TABI ACTIVTIES

Mayor Charles Feather has arranged a meeting with Delegate Debbie Stevens for Monday, Aug. 22, at Town Hall during the regular Terra Alta Betterment Inc. (TABI) meeting. Members will take her on a tour of the town and TABI projects. Members hope for a good turnout, and estimate being back at Town Hall by 8 p.m.

TABI is currently signing up volunteers for September 10 and 11 to help with the installation of the playground and tot lot. This is a $50,000 project that TABI has been working on. Each shift will be four hours. Volunteers are needed, as well as donated refreshments. Persons are asked to call Town Hall at 304-789-6664, the Regers at 304-789-5927, or Carol Burdick at 304-789-6864 to sign up.

TABI's next project will be the Veterans Memorial Park. Anyone with ideas or wishing to help is asked to contact Joyce Cotter at 304-789-6229 or Carol Burdick, or attend the meetings, which are held the first and third Mondays of each month, plus the meeting with State Delegate Debbie Stevens on Aug. 22.

PANTRY DRIVE

Terra Alta Food Pantry is having a back-to-school drive. School supplies are "desperately needed" by many Terra Alta children. Boxes are located at Gregg's Pharmacy, Fit and Fabulous, and Shop and Save, or items can be dropped off at the Food Pantry, located behind Dairy Mart, between 12:30 and 3:30 p.m. Thursdays.

LIBRARY NEWS

Terra Alta Public Library recently received several donations. Copies of High Plains Tango by Robert James Waller and Being Mrs. Albert by Nancy Geary were given in memory of Oda Mae Kyle Vandeavender by Steve, Donna, Stephanie, and Stacy Sypolt.

Patrons donating other reading materials are Linda Testerman, Lawrence Sypolt, Charles Trembly, and Hildegard May.

Mayor Feather presented the library with a piece of the original depot that was torn down in 1999. This is on display at the Terra Alta section of the library.

Stacie Upole was the storybook reader this week. Twelve reading club participants read about sheep, made sheep figures with construction paper plus glue and marshmallows, and made edible sheep with marshmallows and pretzels.

The library is planning to teach a class on genealogy if there is sufficient interest. Those interested are asked to contact the library.

Library hours are: Monday, 4-8 p.m., and Tuesday through Friday, 8:30 a.m.—5:30 p.m. The telephone number is 304-789-2724.

HEALTH TOPPERS

The Terra Alta Health Toppers will meet Thursday, Aug. 18, at 6 p.m. at the Fit & Fabulous building, located along Rt. 7. For more information about this free event, persons may call 304-789-2205 or 304-789-6585.

FUNDRAISER SET

The property owners of Alpine Lake are having a fund-raising garage sale at the boathouse this Friday, 1-6 p.m., and Saturday, 8 a.m.—1 p.m. The goal is to raise funds for a defibrulator.

ASI Schedules Orienteering Prep. At New Germany

The Adventuresports Institute (ASI) of Garrett College will mark National Orienteering Day by hosting two major orienteering events in western Maryland.

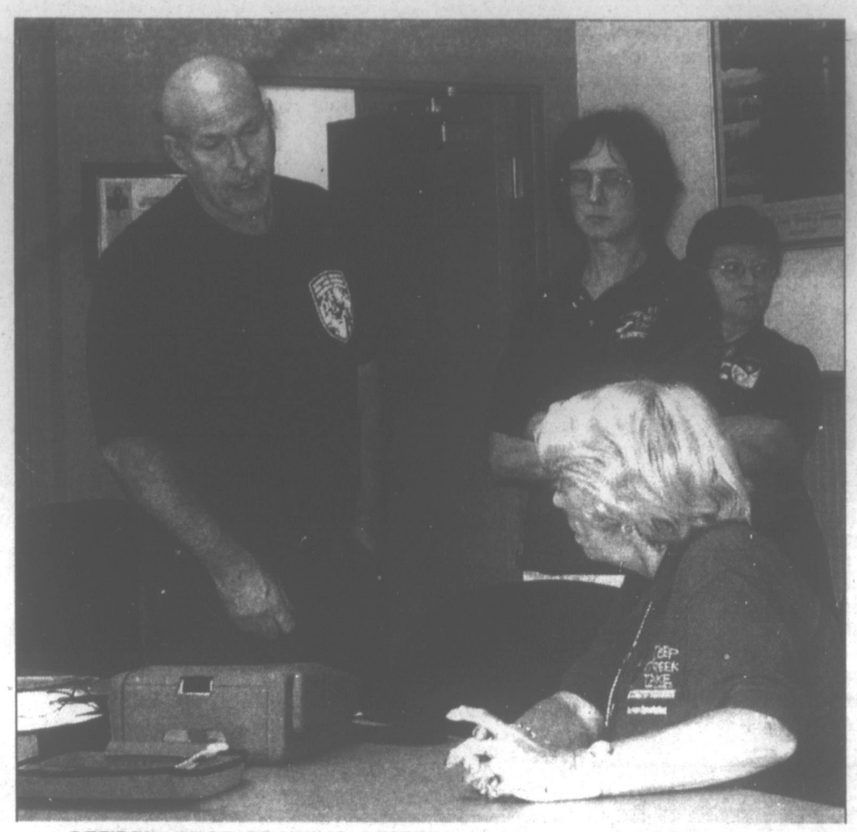
ASI is offering a "Learning About Orienteering" activity from 2 to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 10, at the New Germany State Park lakehouse. That event will introduce the sport to anyone interested, as well as prepare those persons who may be interested in participating in an upcoming "ROGAINE" (Rugged Outdoor Group Activity Involving Navigation and Endurance) event in Green Ridge State Park on Sunday, Sept. 18.

"Orienteering, a sport that is enjoyed around the world, is essentially an activity in which participants use a detailed map and a magnetic compass to navigate a pre-planned course in an effort to find marked locations," explained ASI director and Garrett College Adventuresports professor Mike Logsdon. "Based on the locations found and the time taken to find them, a point score is determined.

"ROGAINE is a newly developed sport originating in Australia, and even more recently introduced into the United States. Basically a hybrid between conventional orienteering and distance running events, it has been rapidly gaining popularity. The Green Ridge event will feature a number of entry options, including events scaled for beginner through expert participants," said Logsdon.

The cost of the New Germany activity is $5. Maps and compasses will be available and bottled water will be supplied to all participants.

Interested persons must pre-register by calling ASI at 301-387-3330 or e-mailing avs@garrettcollege.edu.



DEFIBRILLATOR TRAINING OFFERED AT VISITORS CENTER – The Garrett County Visitors Center is now home to a LifePak 500 automated external defibrillator (AED), a small piece of rescue equipment that can "jumpstart" a stopped heart in the event of a coronary arrest caused by a heart attack. The office of Garrett County Emergency Management is placing the equipment at various locations throughout the county, and Emergency Management assistant director Phil Rook recently instructed 13 Garrett County Chamber of Commerce and county staff members how to use the lifesaving equipment. "Quick response during a heart attack can mean the difference between life and death," Rook stated. "The small machines have proven their effectiveness often during the past few years." Pictured from the left are Rook, Billie Durham, Dorothee Bittinger, and Melva Hauser. The AED was obtained through a partnership with Garrett County Emergency Management and the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services "Rural Access to an AED" Grant.

JRL Beach To Close As Water Level Drops

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at Jennings Randolph Lake has announced that the Shaw Beach recreation area will be closed to swimmers for the season once the water level falls to an elevation of 1,455 feet mean sea level. The beach will close because of safety concerns generated by low water conditions at the beach.

"At this elevation, the designated swim area is no longer usable, and will remain so until next spring," a spokesperson said. "The beach area will reopen to the public for other day uses, including picnicking and fishing, once its waters reach a safe elevation level.

"Depending on the amount of rainfall the watershed receives, the lake elevation could increase, which would delay the beach's closing date."

Shaw Beach is located next to the West Virginia overlook, just off West Virginia state Route 46, five miles north of Elk Garden, W.Va. For updates on the beach and other JRL facilities, persons may call the Corps' park office at 304-355-2346 or 301-359-3861.

STEMPLE RIDGE FEST

The fall festival is planned for Sept. 3, from 5 until 7 p.m. at the Stemple Ridge Church pavilion. There will be barbecue pork and sloppy joe sandwiches, steak hoagies, chili dogs, hot dogs, homemade ice cream, pies, cakes, cookies, and pastries of all kinds. There will also be cakewalks and games for kids. A corner cabinet and quilts will be given away, and comforters and baby quilts will be for sale.

PERSONAL MENTION

Terry Vandevender and his wife Phyllis returned from Montifiore Hospital in Pittsburgh to their home in Amboy last Thursday evening after having found a cause and treatment for his illness.

Julie Lantz Adams of Oakland went Tuesday to Charleston for a medical appointment, which resulted in spinal surgery that afternoon and a return home on Wednesday. She is now recuperating from the surgery, reportedly being able to again walk.

Linda and Sara Lewis of Eglon visited Thursday in Martinsburg with the other Lewis daughters: Emily, Chuck and Noah Young, and Julie, Grayson and Madison Baker of Virginia Beach, Va., who were visiting the Youngs. Tom Lewis spent last week at Camp Dawson with the WVARNG.

Exhibiting their Angus cattle at the state fair this week are Chuck and Krista Hayes, Arvin and Rita Harsh, and Sue Corbin.

Rod McWilliams of Mtn. Lake Park reportedly remains critically ill at Ruby Memorial Hospital.

Ron and Judy Kepple of Shepherdstown were weekend visitors with her parents, Hancell and Mildred Teets, Aurora.

Mark and LaDeana Teets of Amboy visited recently with their son, Lindsey Teets, in Savannah, Ga.

Bonnie and Charles Douglas, also Charles Lee Douglas and wife of Ashland, Ky., were weekend visitors at Aurora.

MT. OLIVET HOMECOMING SET

The annual homecoming at Mt. Olivet Lutheran Church, Lantz Ridge, is set for Sunday, Aug. 28. There will be services at 3 p.m. at the church, followed by a covered dish dinner at the Lantz Ridge Community Building. Everyone is welcome.

Those who wish to pay their taxes locally may do so at the Aurora fire hall on Monday, Aug. 22, from 1 until 2 p.m. for that purpose. Personnel will also be in Eglon on the same day from 2:30 until 3 p.m. at the post office.

CLASS OF '60 REUNITES

The 45th anniversary reunion of the class of 1960, of Aurora High School was held July 16 at the Aurora Methodist Memorial Building.

Those attending were James and Deloris Slawter, Stephen and Susan Hauser, Thomas Wotring, Terry and Phyllis Vandevender, Bernard and Carolyn Ball, and Frank and Wilda Harsh Blamble, all local; Carolyn Shaffer Spencer, Hubert, N.C.; Mary Wotring Delaney, Horse Shoe Run; Jerry and Barbara Hauser, and Ronald and Patricia Martin Stemple, all of Oakland; Linda Sisler Terrant, Terra Alta; Lowell and Georgia Parsons, Belmont; Lawrence and Kim Hauser, Blissfield, Mich.; and teachers Virginia Martin and Martha Bolyard, both of Aurora.

"Smiley Faces" was the theme for the reunion. Patricia Stemple had the lucky plate and won a handmade doily. Lawrence Hauser traveled the farthest to attend. Guessing games and other questions about smiley faces were asked, and the winners were awarded prizes. The teachers received a special key chain.

The class had a moment of slience in memory of deceased classmates Betty Martin Baker and Ralph (Junior) Bolyard.

Those who were unable to attend may plan now for the next reunion on July 21, 2007, at Thomas Wotring's farm.

THE FINE PRINT!

Have you ever read one of those travel agency ads that offer seven days/six nights in Paradise for a package price of $399? You may have also noticed the fine print in the ad: Airport transfers, taxes, tips, and departure tax not included. Although the basic cost of the trip is $399, there are other charges that must also be paid.

Buying a home also includes many out-of-pocket expenses beyond the agreed purchase price. While the down payment may be the largest expense attached to a home purchase, ask the real estate agent to provide an itemized list of other fees and expenses required to consummate the transaction, so that you don't experience any surprises.

Depending on the mortgage plan chosen, other charges may include: 1) loan origination fees, 2) advance deposits for taxes and insurance, 3) mortgage insurance fees, 4) recording fees, 5) fees for credit reports and appraisals required upon loan application, and 6) discount points. Some fees are figured as a percentage of the purchase price or loan amount, while others are a flat amount.

Only the closing attorney can calculate the exact amount needed to complete the transaction, but buyers should expect to receive an estimate of those costs for planning purposes from the real estate agent. Armed in advance with the necessary figures, buyers can plan their purchase with confidence.

If you'd like to buy a home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call today!

DONATING HER HAIR TO BENEFIT OTHERS – Victoria Stevens, 12, a student at Southern Middle School, recently donated 10 inches of her hair to Locks of Love, which is a not-for-profit organization that provides hairpieces to financially disadvantaged children under the age of 18 with medical hair loss. These custom-fitted hair prosthetics are provided free of charge or on a sliding scale to children whose families meet the Locks of Love board of directors guidelines. Victoria did not get her hair cut between grades 4 and 7 so she would have enough hair to donate. She is the daughter of Richard and Angie Stevens, Oakland.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

PICNIC, BARBECUE

The annual Bittinger picnic will be held this Saturday beginning at 11:30 at the Bittinger fire hall. Barbecued chicken dinners will be available, plus the other usual picnic sandwiches, french fries, and desserts. Come and enjoy seeing your relatives and friends.

EMMANUEL LUTHERAN PARISH

Our joint-parish service of celebration on Aug. 28 will be held at Emmanuel at 10 a.m. This will be the only worship service in the parish that day. Come and worship the Lord as we give thanks for the ministry we have shared with Pastor Pat these past five years. It will be her last Sunday service with us. Pastor Jim Mitchell will begin serving as our interim pastor on Sept. 4.

All parish members are invited to St. John's, Meadow Mountain, this Sunday, Aug. 21, at 1:30 p.m. for a farewell dinner for Pastor Pat. Please bring a covered dish to share as we honor Pastor Pat for the gifts she has given us.

I am trying to socialize an abandoned adult cat. "Callie" is a beautiful black calico. For years she searched along Rock Lodge Road, and then someone put her in our barn, but she was able to slip into my house. Then she hid as best as she could, even hiding in the ceiling in the back room. She had several litters of kittens in the attic and pushed the unwanted ones into the wall. We rescued several and fed them with eye droppers. Two of them now are spoiled rotten house cats belonging to my daughters. Tigger and Mr. Big Mac are their given names. Their mother is still too wild to catch and she is too shy to share the cat food with her son, so consequently she is pretty skinny. I could not stand it any longer so now she is dining on canned cat food, but still only wants to eat inside. I don't want another house cat, but I am afraid I am stuck with her.

This nightmare weather will not relinquish to our usual cool and green mountaintop home. It is just too hot and dry to get much energy to do much at all. The only year with conditions close to this summer's weather was in 1988. There still is no sign of water coming from Rock Lodge spring, and just across the road, Cherry Creek, a minor white water stream in the spring, is now pretty much a dry stream bed with lots of rocks. Already some leaves are falling off our trees. Now we can feel like a real part of Maryland. I am sure it is even worse downstate. I saw some pretty brown fields down there in a dry year. It seems sunny Florida is getting all the rain. However, the Southwest is boiling–over 100 degrees with not so much humidity. That is standard for that region, and everyone must have air conditioning.

My Caitlin and her cousins, Darryl and Elliot Glotfelty and Scott Bass, had a long, hot, hard week at Northern High Marching Band camp, working to put together this year's new show. Of course, they came home completely worn out. A week of marching in the very hot sun and socializing with their friends took a lot out of them. Personally, even though I don't do much of anything, the heat sucks every ounce of energy out of me. But I do not have youth on my side. It always amazed me how much energy I used to have.

Chris and Sherry Weaver and kids joined eight families from Glade Mennonite Church camping out at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Glade's worship service was held at the pavilion. They enjoyed camping on the Lake.

Lesa Whittemore and Maddy took a trip to a different lake. When people from Las Vegas refer to "The Lake" they mean Lake Tahoe. Lesa and Maddy spent about a week with the Whittemore clan there, including attending a wedding. They came back to Bittinger to near-desert conditions, hot and dry just like Las Vegas. Lesa had one piece of big news, which is that her son Greg is engaged to a girl from Kentucky who is a member of the women's volleyball team at their Florida college. They plan to tie the knot next summer after they graduate.

Last Sunday was a day filled with signs of drought. My sunflowers completely dropped and all their petals were shriveled. With a cracked lawn, the few flowers–mainly bachelor buttons–looked like dried flowers. No sign of anyone working to enter items in the fair. In past years I put much effort in my garden watering my carrots, beets, and beans so their fruit would be fresh and filled so they would be in top condition to enter in the fair. But this miserable year I don't even have a single example of any vegetables or garden flowers. So I will just ignore the fair. This is the first year that I didn't have anything to enter since I was in elementary school. It is sad, but necessary.

Oh, the bliss to hear the distant rumbling of thunder late Sunday afternoon. I pray so hard that the storm will not pass over us. This is one of my prayers that received a positive answer. Our world is cool and refreshing this Monday morning. We didn't get a long, soaking rain, but just enough to renew life to our plants and refresh the atmosphere. In fact, this morning we have the normal early morning chill in the air. Thank God it is normal in August.

Another sad note on the fair is that only the Glotfelty twins, Darryl and Elliot, have entries in the market hog competition. On the bright side, I don't need to go through the stress of the trip to the fair for the show and sale, involving hauling my big heavy wheelchair out and trying to maneuver it through the crowd. But for the other eight cousins it is bad news for their savings accounts. However, if my girls would have had pigs they would have had a major hitch, as they had to rush downstate with their father for a major health crisis of their "Pop" Sussman. Luckily his condition returned to stable, so they will be back with me today. Nothing is all right for me when they go away.

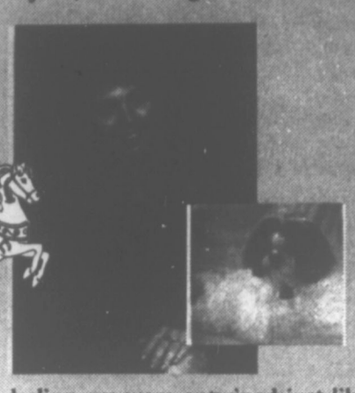
CONNIE HUMBERSON
January 30, 1947 - August 23, 2004



Connie, darling, we were entwined just like the Bible said we would be. Connie, you were A-B-C- and D. You loved A - angels, B - butterflies, C - carousels and D were your dogs and you cannot forget your grandkids. The day Jehovah God took you he took you very kindly, gently and sweetly. I have thanked Him for that, darling. You were always here for me. You would always make everything OK. Now without you I am lost forever. Darling, I still have the memories. Connie, darling, the tears won't stop. How do I find the courage to say Happy 42nd Anniversary to you "Golden Lady" "Earth Angel."

Love you. Hurry home.

Love Always,
Richard

AMONG THE MANY CIVIC GROUPS that sponsor fundraising booths at the Garrett County Fair are the Knights of Columbus, Oakland Council #1771, which provides pit beef sandwiches and other food and refreshments for famished fairgoers who fund charities while feeding their stomachs. Assisting the Knights in their efforts are the Catholic Daughters of America, Oakland Court #2209, which provides a breakfast menu. Funds raised by the KOC booth go to support many local activities and projects, including Appalachian Crossroads, House of Hope, the Mtn. Top Pregnancy Center, and the Cross on the Hill overlooking Oakland. The Knights and Catholic Daughters also fund two $1,000 scholarships each for two Garrett County Catholic students.

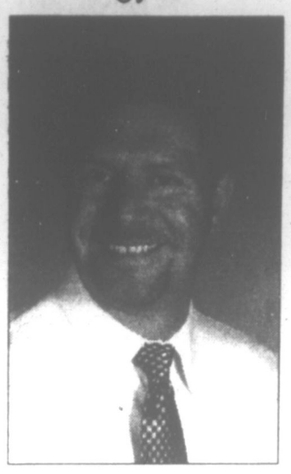
Watkins Named WMHS Radiation Oncology Director



Dr. Scott Victor Watkins has joined the Western Maryland Health System's (WMHS) Regional Cancer Center as the medical director of radiation oncology services. The center is located on the first floor of the Sacred Heart Medical Building in Cumberland.

"Dr. Watkins brings with him a wealth of knowledge in the specialty of radiation oncology," said a WMHS spokesperson. "He has special training with gamma knife radiosurgery, stereotactic radiosurgery, and training in intensity modulated radiation therapy (IMRT), which is considered the most advanced radiation available to destroy cancer cells without damaging normal tissue."

A native of Grantsville and a graduate of Northern High School, Watkins most recently was the section chief of radiation oncology at the West Virginia University Hospitals in Morgantown, W.Va., where he also was the medical director for the Radiation Therapist Education Program.

For the past two years, Watkins also served as medical director of radiation oncology at the Davis Cancer Care Center at Davis Memorial Hospital in Elkins, W.Va., and was on the medical staff at Monongalia General Hospital in Morgantown.

He has been a consulting physician at several hospital cancer programs in West Virginia, including the Fairmont Regional Cancer Center and Clarksburg's United Hospital Center Cancer Program, as well as the Mary Babb Randolph Cancer Center at WVU.

Watkins did his radiation oncology residency at Albert Einstein Medical Center/Temple University Hospital in Philadelphia, Pa., and completed an internship in family medicine at West Virginia University Hospitals.

He received his medical degree at the West Virginia University School of Medicine, and got his undergraduate degree from McDaniel (Western Maryland) College in Westminister.

Watkins is board-certified in radiation oncology by the American Board of Radiology. He is a member of the American Society of Clinical Oncology, the American Society of Therapeutic Radiology and Oncology, and the Radiation Therapy Oncology Group.

This summer is fast disappearing, meaning I will not enjoy my daughters' presence every day. Especially painful is that my Caitlin is a senor in high school, so she will go away to college next year. Probably she will follow her beloved big sister to West Virginia University. Morgantown is not too far away, but too far for me. The weekend college life attractions keep them from coming home every weekend.

Although "Pop" Sussman's condition was scary, he pulled through. That was another of my prayers that was answered in the last few days, along with the welcome rain and my girls' returning home to me safe and sound.

As welcome as the rain is, the change to cooler weather and the contrast from the last few weeks has made it feel almost cold. It is a scary situation, with rumors of heating oil hitting $3 per gallon. If we get a cold winter it is unclear how I can afford to heat my house. It is only a few months until that issue will be front and center for me.

But now it is wonderful to see a real rain, which is the kind soaking into the ground. I don't know whether it is too late to do much good for the field crops and grasslands. Usually fair week brings the rain. I guess you call it a mixed blessing. It is a big relief for me, as I was afraid to water anything because my water pressure was not as it should be. Let it rain and fill up my wetlands and our springs. The glades have looked the driest ever for many years. Maybe Rock Lodge spring will flow again soon. I think I hear my trees sighing with relief. I am relieved it is not accompanied by thunder and lightning, but just a soft steady water from Heaven. Thank God!

If my memory serves me correctly, an ordinary summer here in the Bittinger area brought us this kind of rain at least once per week. That is why we have prime wetland areas and enjoy the lush green. Luckily our geography does not put us at risk of flooding.

The Grantsville Business and Professional Women enjoyed a dinner at Ruby Tuesday restaurant and attended the play Pippin at the Cumberland Theatre last Wednesday evening. Attending from Bittinger were Linda Buckel and Ruth DiPaolo. Others attending from Grantsville were Betty Jo Swauger, Ruth Newman, Dottie George, Kathleen Yommer, and Rosalee Folk.

RAFFLE WINNER NOTED – Letha Hanlin of Oakland recently won the 50-50 drawing which was held by the League of Women Voters of Garrett County. This drawing and several yard sales are the major fundraisers of the group. The next event planned by the League is the annual picnic, which will be held on Monday, Aug. 22, at Broadford Park's pavilion No. 1. The covered dish picnic, which is open to the public, begins at 5:30 p.m. House minority leader George Edwards will be the featured guest speaker for this event. Other invited guests include Sen. John Hafer, Garrett County commissioners Dave Beard, Ernie Gregg, and Fred Holliday, Superintendent of Schools Dr. Wendell Teets, and USDA representative Mike Kozler. Pictured above, on the left, is Hanlin receiving a check from Henrietta Lease, League president.

Local Church To Host Friday Night Youth Gathering

The Loch Lynn Church of God will host a Friday Night Alive Youth Gathering on Aug. 26 at 7 p.m.

"It will be filled with high energy youth-led music, drama, skits, and a short message," said a church spokesperson. The event will also include giveaways, door prizes, food, fellowship, and activities.

The church is located along First Avenue in Loch Lynn. For more information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-3221.

Masons Schedule Noon Luncheon

Oakland Lodge #192, Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons, will hold its monthly high noon luncheon on Wednesday, Aug. 31, at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple, First Street. All members of the lodge and members of the Eastern Star Chapter are invited, along with their guests. There will be no business meeting conducted.

REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS
INTERIM FINANCING

The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, will accept sealed proposals from financial institutions for interim financing relating to the construction of the Deep Creek Lake Wastewater Treatment Plant. The County is requesting that this note be in the form of a line of credit for an amount up to, but not exceeding, $12.5 million for a term up to, but not exceeding, two (2) years. Financial institutions are required to disclose any costs or fees associated with this line of credit either in the rate of the note or separately. Financial institutions shall be advised that the County has a $10 million limit per year for bank qualified tax exempt financing.

Sealed proposals must be submitted to the Garrett County Procurement Office, Courthouse Room 105, 313 East Alder Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550, on or before Tuesday, August 30, 2005, at 2:00 p.m. (local time). An original and two (2) copies of the proposal should be submitted enclosed in a sealed envelope and should be clearly marked "Request for Proposals–Interim Financing" on the outside of the envelope. Any proposals received after the time due will not be considered and shall be retained as documentation for the proposal file. Any questions regarding the interim financing should be directed to Scott Weeks, Assistant Director of Finance, at 301-334-8989.

The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, reserves the right to accept or reject any or all proposals, to cancel this request and to waive technicalities in any part thereof deemed to be in the best interest of Garrett County.

An initial deposit of $5,000 required using funds not already on deposit with us, and a minimum balance of $5,000 must be maintained to obtain APY and to avoid a $21 monthly service fee. Promotional interest rate is guaranteed for 90 days from the date account is opened. At the end of the guaranteed interest rate period, the interest rate will be the 13 Week T-Bill minus 0.75% adjusted weekly. This is a variable interest rate account and the interest rate may vary. This is a limited-time offer and can be changed or withdrawn at any time. As of 08/11/05, non-promotional balance tiers and corresponding APYs are: $.01-$999.99 – 2.74%, $1,000-$4,999.99 – 2.74%, $5,000-$9,999.99 – 2.74%, $10,000-$24,999.99 – 2.74%, $25,000-$49,999.99 – 2.74%, $50,000+ – 2.74%. Fees could reduce earnings. Federal regulation limits total transactions paid (including unlimited "over the counter" withdrawals) to six per statement cycle, of which three may be by check, draft or debit card. Excess transactions will result in a per-transaction fee and if repeated could cause the account to be changed to a non-interest bearing account. Susquehanna Bank, Member FDIC.

DEFENDANTS

NOTICE AND ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in the following property situate in Election District 14, Garrett County, Maryland, sold by the Collector of Taxes for Garrett County and State of Maryland to Larry Hoover.

All that parcel of land situate in Election District No. 14, containing 4.031 acres, more or less, known and designated as Lot 36, TangleWood Subdivision and described in a deed from Appalachian Land Services, Inc., to Gregory Todd Lang and Colleen Anne Lang, dated November 2, 1996, and recorded on November 6, 1996, in Liber No. 693, folio 895, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The complaint states, among other things, that the amounts for redemption have not been paid, although more than six (6) months and one day from the date of the sale has expired.

It is thereupon, this 27th day of July 2005, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland,

ORDERED that the notice be given in accordance with Rule 2-121 by certified mail requesting: "Restricted Delivery - show to whom, date, address of delivery" on the defendant named in the complaint, warning the Defendants to be and appear in this Court by the 26th day of September 2005, and redeem the property and answer the complaint, or thereafter a final decree will be rendered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property, and vesting in the Plaintiff a title free and clear of all encumbrances.

ORDERED that the notice be given by the insertion of a copy of this Order in some newspaper having a general circulation in Garrett County, once a week for three successive weeks before the 19th day of August 2005, warning all persons interested in the said property to be and appear in this Court by the 26th day of September 2005, and redeem the property and answer the complaint, or thereafter a final decree will be rendered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property, and vesting in the Plaintiff a title free and clear of all encumbrances.

IT'S SCHOOL TIME AGAIN – Garrett County students headed back to the classrooms this morning for another year of learning. New clothes, fresh school supplies, and eager faces exited "big yellow" and headed back to get reacquainted with old friends and make new ones. Sometimes the first day starts with a mix of nervousness and excitement, but soon, the students (and parents, too) will get back into the swing of things. Drivers should remember to be alert for slowing and stopping school buses. Have a great year. Photo by John McEwen.

LOOKIN' FOR FAIR NEWS? Well, we're rooting for it as fast as we can! As many local farm families try to catch their breath after last week's Garrett County Fair, news and contest results are being compiled, and will appear in a special section in next week's edition of The Republican. This peekin' porker was most likely one of many farm animals sold on Saturday at the annual Livestock Sale, which brought a record total in sales this year. More than $300,000 in total was earned by the young participants, who presented their market beef, hogs, lambs, goats, chickens, and rabbits at the annual event. The special section will include the judging results, as well as photos, special features, and other items. Photo by Brenda Ruggiero.

GC Nets Total Of $20K For School Bus Enforcement

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office and the Maryland State Police at McHenry have each been awarded $10,000 in school bus enforcement grants to be used in Garrett County this year. The grants are part of a $515,000 funding package distributed statewide, according to MSP secretary Col. Thomas Hutchins.

"The most common school bus violation continues to be motorists who fail to stop when the red lights are flashing on school buses," Hutchins said. "It is against the law to pass a school bus operating its flashing red lights, and the minimum fine for such a violation is $550."

The funding is made possible after the Maryland General Assembly passed legislation in 2000 creating the School Bus Enforcement Fund, under article 88B, Section 81. Police departments use the funds to place personnel working overtime on special school bus patrols.

An additional $35,000 of grant finds will be awarded to law enforcement agencies that have the highest number of motorists who are stopped for this violation. The Department of State Police expects to award these funds in January 2006.

Work Begins On Mtn. Lake Park Sewer Project

The town of Mountain Lake Park began work on a major sewer line improvement project on Monday, with an expected completion date of mid-March 2006. According to Mayor Leo Martin, the project will involve the replacement of approximately 15,000 feet of sewer line, ranging from 8 to 15 inches in diameter, and the installation of approximately 75 new manholes.

The sewer line replacement will also require four boring projects, totaling 300 lineal feet or more, which are required in order to replace three deteriorating sewer lines that pass under Route 135 between I and G streets, and one which passes under I Street.

The major impact of the project will be in the following areas: A Street, Allegheny Drive, B Street, Deer Park Avenue, Dennett Road, H Street (north of Rt. 135), Heritage Drive, Oak Street (west), Oakland Avenue (east of L Street), Oakland Drive, Pensinger Boulevard, and Pittsburgh Avenue.

According to Martin, the decision by the town council to undertake this project was prompted by increasing problems with sewer lines backing up and overflowing

MSP Seek Info In McHenry Area Mishap Yesterday

A driver who left the scene of a single-vehicle accident in McHenry yesterday without stopping is being sought by Maryland State Police troopers who are investigating the 12:49 p.m. accident, which injured two persons aboard a motorcycle.

Police are seeking information about a white passenger vehicle – possibly a Dodge Neon – operated by an elderly female, who reportedly turned from Garrett Highway onto eastbound Mosser Road in front of a motorcycle. The motorcycle operator, Patrick O'Lone, 49, Vineyard, N.J., told police that the other driver's actions caused him to lose control of his 2000 Honda Goldwing. The motorcycle toppled over on Lightning Strikes Cause Blazes In Northern G. Co.

Lighting strikes during a storm Saturday night resulted in damages to properties in northern Garrett County, as a garage on Park Street in Friendsville was destroyed and a barn along Pig's Ear Road near Grantsville burned to the ground.

According to Deputy State Fire Marshal Jamie Rodeheaver, the garage fire was caused when lightning struck an adjacent tree. Friendsville fire chief Terry Spear was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, reportedly after sustaining heat exhaustion and dehydration.

Deputy chief Mike Hoover said that Spear and another firefighter, Josh Sines, were blown backward by an explosion, likely caused by a can of paint or some other combustible material. Sines was uninjured, and Spear was treated and released at the hospital.

The garage was considered a total loss. (See photo elsewhere in this issue, with Friendsville news.)

Responding to the 10:06 p.m. alarm with Friendsville VFD were units from the Accident and Deep Creek VFDs, plus the Northern Rescue Squad.

Specific information about the barn fire was not received, which was reported just four minutes

Harman Named Finalist For Md. Teacher Of Year

Michelle Harman, biology teacher at Northern High School, is one of the seven finalists for the 2005-06 Maryland Teacher of the Year, according to the Maryland State Department of Education.

"This outstanding group represents the tremendous dedication of public school teachers across the state who devote themselves each day to improving the achievement of the students of Maryland," said Dr. Nancy Grasmick, state superintendent. "They deserve our respect and our recognition."

Harman's honors over the years include National Board Certification, Maryland Biology Teacher of the Year, USA Today Teacher Award, Elk's Outstanding Teacher of the Year, and the Christa McAuliffe Fellowship Award. She also won two Ray Kroc Teacher Achievement awards and the ISEF Outstanding Educator awards.

She was inducted into Delta Kappa Gamma in 2004, and serves as a regional committee member for nominations. At Northern High, she has been student government advisor, department chair and school improvement team

Livestock Sale Nets Record Total Saturday

A record final total in sales was reached at the annual 4-H/FFA Livestock Sale, sponsored by the Garrett County Livestock Association and held Saturday at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry.

"A total of 248 animals were sold, with a record total of $303,252.95 generated," stated Ann Sherrard, 4-H educator. "The 4-H and FFA members and their families appreciate the encouragement provided by area businesses and individuals who support the annual livestock sale. The sale is the final step in the process that teaches members to select animals, provide for their care, and learn about record keeping."

Young people from across the county presented their market beef, hogs, lambs, goats, chickens, and rabbits.

In response to a survey of buyers from last year, the fair sale had an earlier start time, beginning at 5 p.m. Saturday evening.

Bidders purchased 71 beef steers for an average price of $2.25 per pound. Ninety-five market hogs were sold for an average price of $3.39 per pound. A total of 60 sheep were purchased at the sale for an average price of $3.37 per pound. Eighteen market goats were sold, with an average price of $291 per animal. Meat rabbits brought an average of $300 per pen, and meat birds averaged $200 per pen.

High School Data Released; GC Does Well

The Maryland State Department of Education released the results of High School Assessments (HSA), high school Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP) data, and the preliminary school improvement status of high schools based on the requirements of the federal No Child Left Behind (NCLB) Act this week. Garrett County students have continued to test above the state average, according to the report.

The information, showing test results for the state, school system and local high schools, is available on the state's web site at marylandpublicschools.org.

"Our passing rates for special education are very close to the state averages, and our passing rates for FARM (Free and Reduced Meals) students are well above the state averages," said Dr. Pat Mullinix, coordinator of research, evaluation and information for the local Board of Education.

The results for Garrett County are as follows: biology, 58.6%; government, 73.1%; algebra/data analysis, 58.9%; and geometry, 68.8%.

Students entering grade nine this fall are the first students required to pass the High School Assessments to graduate. Results of the HSAs, taken statewide by students during the 2004-2005 school year, show that 53.8% passed the algebra/data analysis test, 57.6% the biology, and 66.4% the government test. Results of the English 2 assessment will be released after the state Board of Education sets the

Governor Visits Oakland, Drops Off $515,000

Maryland governor Bob Ehrlich made a stop in Oakland yesterday as part of a two-day tour of western Maryland. But he didn't come empty handed. He came bearing "gifts." The governor presented ceremonial checks amounting to nearly $515,000 in state and federal grant funding.

Ehrlich, Oakland mayor Asa McCain, and other dignataries rode down Second and Liberty streets in a horse-drawn carriage to Heritage Square at the Oakland Train Station. The procession was led by the Young Marines and the Southern High School Marching Band. Several hundred residents and visitors were on hand to greet the governor.

Following a performance by the Sportaerobics Team from Brenda's Body Shop on the box car stage and opening remarks from McCain, the governor presented the checks.

"I'm here today to deliver cash," Ehrlich told the crowd. "But, if you think about it, it's actually your cash coming back to this incredibly beautiful historic town."

Some of the governor's funding announcements had previously been reported in The Republican. Garrett County Community Action received $239,975 from the state's Community Legacy grant program. The funding will be used as follows: $25,000 for continuation of a façade improvement program in the county's seven municipalities, $75,000 for Streetscape improvements in the towns, $39,975 to purchase a va-

COUNTRY FEST, KIDS GO TOGETHER – There's plenty of fun for all ages at the annual Country Fest & Auction of the Bittinger Mennonite Church, scheduled for this Saturday, Aug. 27, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry. Julia Bender of Oakland is shown enjoying a pony ride at last year's event, just one of a variety of fun modes of transportation available at the fairgrounds. Other children's activities include a pedal tractor pull at 11 a.m. and an aerial candy drop at 2 p.m. Browsers, buyers, and other fest-goers will have the opportunity to bid on a number of finely crafted quilts and furniture pieces, and purchase a wide variety of other items.

GOVERNOR EHRLICH VISITS OAKLAND – Maryland governor Robert L. Ehrlich Jr., made a stop in Oakland yesterday as part of his two-day tour of western Maryland. Led by a group called the Young Marines and the Southern High School Marching Band, Ehrlich arrived in a horse-drawn carriage at the Oakland Train Station, where he was greeted by several hundred residents and visitors. The governor spoke briefly about his family (his son Drew started school this week) and the beauty of Oakland, before presenting nearly $515,000 in state and federal grant funding to Garrett County agencies and departments. Several of the governor's secretaries and local dignitaries were on hand for the presentation. See story for details. Photo by John McEwen.

Three Suspects Sought After Fleeing Scene

Three suspects who fled the scene of an alleged fight are being sought by Garrett County sheriff's deputies. The fourth individual was arrested and charged.

Police arrived at a residence on Preston Lane late Monday night in reference to a fight in progress involving four individuals. Three fled into a wooded area, leaving James R. Ford, 21, Oakland, behind, police said. He was charged with disturbing the peace and disorderly conduct.

Additional charges concerning the three suspects who fled the scene are pending further investigation, police said.

Columbia Gas Donates To Local Development Corp.

Columbia Gas of Pennsylvania/Maryland has donated $1,000 to the Garrett County Development Corporation, Garrett County Department of Economic Development announced yesterday.

"We are very grateful for the continued support we have received from Columbia Gas of Pennsylvania/Maryland," said Cristine Kepple, chairwoman of the corporation. "Columbia's generous gift will help us continue to fulfill our mission in Garrett County."

The gift will be used to further the corporation's Economic Development Strategic Plan for Garrett County.

The Garrett County Development Corporation is a private, nonprofit entity that also offers low interest loans from its revolving loan funds to Garrett County businesses. Loans are available for new or expanding businesses for real estate purchase, new construction, renovation, and working capital.

Columbia Gas of Pennsylvania is headquartered in Pittsburgh and serves more than 400,000 customers in 27 counties. Columbia Gas of Maryland serves more than 32,000 customers in three counties, according to the company.

Two Arrested After Altercation At Fairgrounds

Two local men were arrested following an alleged altercation at the Garrett County Fair on Saturday, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Michael Chapman, 18, Oakland, and Thomas Bodalski, 18, McHenry, were both charged with second-degree assault and disorderly conduct. Both were released from the Garrett County Detention Center on their own recognizance, according to a jail spokesperson.

In a separate incident at the fairgrounds, Richard Theodore Cox III was treated by EMS at the fairgrounds for a hand injury on Friday evening.

According to the report, Cox was working at the gate and attempted to stop a vehicle driven by Lloyd Wayne LaMastus when the vehicle failed to stop and struck Cox's right hand.

Three Men Face Charges After Oakland Fracas

A Sunday morning fight in downtown Oakland resulted in charges for three area men, according to the Oakland Police Department.

At approximately 10:23 a.m. Oakland police officers were summoned to check on a disturbance at 106 East Liberty Street. The officers arrived to find a fight in progress, and after separating the subjects, arrested Randall Dean Dumire, 45, of Pleasant Valley Road, and Donald Carl Dumire, 48, of East Liberty Street for second-degree assault.

A third individual, Timothy Ray Dumire, 42, of East Alder Street, was charged with disorderly conduct, disturbance of the peace, and failure to obey a lawful order.

The alleged victim, Hillside Drive resident Thomas Dumire, refused medical attention.

Four Injured In Friday Collision In Oakland

Four people were injured in a Friday afternoon accident in Oakland, according to the town's police department. The 1:52 p.m. mishap occurred at the intersection of Fourth Street and Memorial Drive.

Oakland police officers reported that Virginia Ethel Milkint, 83, Thomas, W.Va., stopped at a stop sign on northbound Fourth Street before proceeding into the intersection. Milkint allegedly pulled her 1996 Buick Century into the path of an eastbound 1996 Chevrolet Cavalier operated by Trista Danyelle James, 20, Elk Garden, W.Va.

Milkint, James, a passenger in Milkint's vehicle, Mary Johnson, of Thomas, and a passenger in James's vehicle, Joseph Friend, Elk Garden, were each transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad for treatment of minor injuries. The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

Milkint was deemed to be at fault in the accident, according to the police report, but no charges were filed.

Bicycle Rider Injured After Hitting Vehicle

A bicyclist was injured when he struck the rear right portion of a vehicle at the intersection of Glendale Road and Rt. 219 Saturday, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Ronald Eugene Aronhalt, 53, of Loch Lynn was operating a vehicle southbound on Rt. 219 and was attempting to make a left turn onto Glendale Road and failed to notice a bicycle that was traveling northbound. The bicyclist, Drew Thomas Strout, 38, Oakland, was unable to stop and hit the rear of the vehicle.

Strout was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released. Aronhalt was cited as being at fault, according to police.

Also responding to the 5 p.m. accident were Deep Creek firefighters.

In another incident, Thomas P. Tasker, 25, Oakland, was charged with drunk driving after police observed his vehicle swerving and crossing the center of the road while traveling northbound on Gorman Road near King Wildesen Road early Sunday morning, police said.

After failing field sobriety tests, Tasker was charged with driving while impaired (DWI), DWI per se, driving under the influence, and failure to drive right of center.

Another Double Standard...

Irresponsible and stupid are among the many adjectives one could use to describe televangelist Pat Robertson's suggestion this week that Hugo Chavez, the president of Venezuela, should be "taken out" by the United States. Robertson should be given some credit for his apology made yesterday, but his subsequent claim that he was "misinterpreted," noting that "taken out" does not necessarily mean "assassinated," is downright laughable.

With that said, however, the Robertson comment has once again brought to the forefront one of the many proverbial double standards that exist in America. The media and those on the opposite end of the political spectrum from Robertson's have gone crazy with coverage and condemnation of him for his suggestion, and again, perhaps rightly so. Someone of his stature among ultra conservatives should have known better than to voice such a thing on international television.

Yet something that did not receive a lot of press prior to the 9/11 attacks, and still do not today, is the gatherings of radical Islamic extremists that are held right here in the United States, at which it is common for the speakers to advocate, sometimes to large audiences, death and destruction to Christians and Jews. Such a gathering was held in Oklahoma City in December 1992, prompting one panicked CNN reporter who just happened to stop by the event to make a desperate call to the CIA, telling the agency of the extreme threats being made. But the only response to the reporter was, "We don't know what you are talking about... What are you smoking?"

Even CNN was not interested in a story on that convention. Too political, they told their reporter. Two months later was the first World Trade Center bombing. Even after that attack the reporter tried again with his CNN superiors to do a story about what he had witnessed in Oklahoma City, and it was denied. Too political. Too "sensitive."

In an attempt to defend such gatherings, many play the freedom-of-speech card, citing the constitutional amendment that allows each of us to express our opinions publicly, without fear of legal retribution. However, as precious as this freedom is (particularly to those of us in the media), it has its limitations, one of which is that it is not legal for a person to go into a crowded movie theatre and shout, "Fire!" There are also laws against making terrorist threats and threatening to kill people.

It can be logically argued that this is almost what Pat Robertson did with his suggestion to "take out" Chavez, as his comment could possibly incite events that could result in injury, perhaps death, to people. But if so, then certainly the latter case is far more such a violation; one that did, in fact, have exactly those consequences.

To the Editor:

I would like to thank Josh Custer and Jesse Deniker of Beitzel Corp. and Chuck Rollins, neighbor, for assisting me when my father, Edgar Sines, passed out and fell. Josh and Jesse were driving by in their work truck, and when they saw the situation they quickly turned around and came back to help, and Chuck came right over.

So many times we see people not wanting to get involved. It was good to know these gentleman took time from work to assist us. Thanks, guys. I am sure you will be rewarded for your caring attitude.

To the Editor:

I've noticed that many reporters are writing that the current oil crisis as being caused by "high demand." Then it occurred to me that no one (reporters, the president, Congress, or state governors) has introduced a means to reduce the "high demand."

Here's an idea: If there is a federal mandate that limits the minimum driving age to 18 years old, then a large consumption of gasoline from young motorists "cruising" will be eliminated. Of course, the law could allow for a work permit license (a/k/a bread & butter license) to accommodate young workers. It could also cover things like grocery shopping and education. Well, it's an idea that may offend many young people, but at least it would aid in the reduction of oil consumption and lowering of gasoline prices.

Thank you for taking the time to read my letter. May the price of gas go down, and/or American earnings increase.

To the Editor:

This past week, western Maryland lost a remarkable businessman.

I met Chester McFarland in 1980, and he was one of the hardest working individuals I'd ever met. Over the years, Chester's fruit markets in Oakland, Grantsville, and Cumberland saved western Maryland residents thousands of dollars on their fruits and vegetables. This was because of to his keen knowledge of the industry and his ability to know when and where to purchase produce merchandise.

Chester didn't have any diplomas on his wall, but in my opinion, he had his doctorate degree in innovation, determination, and dedication, a combination which produced tremendous success.

When Chester and his wife Shirley decided to expand into the candy business, it wasn't long before they had a complete variety of candy merchandised to perfection. People from all over the country who visit our area enjoy shopping at McFarland stores, and usually stock up with their favorite candy before returning home.

Chester McFarland was an outstanding, honest, professional individual who generously shared his wealth and knowledge with others without expecting anything in return. I know, because many times I was a recipient of his kindness.

The one word I can think of which described this fine gentlemen is "genuine." Chester will surely be missed by me and all of those whose lives he touched.

To the Editor:

Help! Bring back the mail drop-off at the PO!

For 38 years I have enjoyed the town of Oakland and the services it provides. I was more than shocked to find that a new plan to create traffic congestion has actually been established! While it only affects several hundred of us, it is a major problem and elimination of a convenience which has been so logical!

The drop-off for mail has been eliminated at the post office! It was so convenient to simply go down the street, wait for traffic to clear, slip envelopes into the box, and move on. Now, one must find a parking place, park, and cross the street to mail the letters.

While the theory may be that an accident can occur, how about the parking of a hundred more vehicles just to mail a letter, when a quick stop used to do it? The solution was suggested to drive down 3rd street, turn and go up the alley, and mail letters in the back! Then you must continue up to Center Street where you wait for dozens of drivers who are trying to get onto Route 219!

Many times I have pulled up to the drop-off box and the box was nearly full. Logic would, or should, tell one that many, many people use this simple means to save parking, getting out, crossing the street, mailing, crossing the street, and entering traffic again.

If you are a user of the drop-off box at the PO, please contact the mayor and ask him to please, please let us have this convenience back.

THE GEESE ARE FLYING, THE FLOWERS ARE SEEDING

The Canada geese are indeed flying, right over our house, every day now. The flowers of summer are seeding. In other words, they have passed their vibrant stage and are now sending out their offspring for next year. Gardens are gangly and full of stalks, and the scent of fallen, overripe apples hangs in the air everywhere. And all of it makes me wistful. I can't help it. These things signal the change of seasons, and I'm just not ready to let go of summer. We have such a short warm period here in the mountains. Seems like we just get into the swing of sweating when suddenly the nights get more than chilly and we start dragging the covers back up at about 4 a.m. I used to be much more in tune with the planet, happy to ride the waves of seasonal change, enjoying the gradual transition. But as trite as it sounds, there is no denying that age causes time to fly by too fast. Someone punched the fast-forward button, and I can't seem to put it back on "play." My kids are growing like bamboo shoots, and they are hurtling through school. Seems like the other day when my oldest was first entering the middle school. This morning he went to the bus and headed for the 8th grade, the oldest in the school. My middle boy went to Southern Middle, too, a nervous sixth grader, and my baby, who I think grew about 87 inches this summer, is my last elementary school kid, entering 4th. We had back-to-school night at Dennett Road this week, and we only had one class to visit. What tha...?

Since I am forever slogging along on a treadmill set on FF (Furiously Fast), I do like to stop sometimes and daydream, just for a little while, and gather up the memories of the summer. I know the boys will be adults in such a short while, and these weeks and months of hectic living will be in the past. I think it's important to ponder the days, to stop moving and planning and organizing and stressing for just a little while in order to think.

We have had a pleasant summer in many ways, with some leisurely hours spent in my mom's pool, quiet time at home, and some adventures. We've also had some crises, as all families do, with surgeries and stitches and stresses. But the boys did spend a lot of time pretending, which, in my humble opinion, is essential. We didn't structure the summer to pieces, so they had lots of free time to built forts and be hobbits or super heroes or Harry Potter et al. I don't think kids get enough time to pretend these days. I must have had four or five parents ask me this summer, "So what are the boys in?" Well, they are in my mom's pool, or they're in the back yard playing baseball, or they are trudging up the mountain to Isengard, slaughtering a vicious herd of Orcs. That's what they're "in." Scheduling kids' lives to the minute, filling in every waking moment with some sort of organized activity, is, I think, a mistake. We have discovered this summer that sitting on the front porch with the boys, just talking and giggling, is really good. We don't have to go anywhere or buy anything, or have the boys' birth certificates and shot records handy, or fill out any long forms. We can just sit. And talk. And laugh. And we can do this even as the sun settles in for the evening and the moon slides up. It is okay to relax. It is okay to while away time, especially when you are in good company.

Ah, but the pace has stepped up, as of this morning, with the boys racing around the house, very early (that will end in a day or two), grabbing up their new backpacks, combing their hair (wow), and feeling giddy about the new year. Their dad took their traditional back-to-school picture, which I will compare with the ones he has taken every year and will again wonder at the swift cadence of time. Another wave has crested and we are back in the surf again, with school and soccer and homework on the table, and long easy evenings on the porch passing into memory for now. Was I glad to see the boys go this morning? Well, yes, partly, because they are bored and have taken to beating on each other to pass the time — or just arguing about everything from how far away the moon is to who took the last stinkin' Slim Jim. But on the whole, I want to grab everything and slow it down. I want to appreciate the fact that these days will be gone in the blink of an eye, and I'll miss them.

Hey, you geese, did you have to come back so very soon?

HOMECOMING

Odysseus had camped before the walls of Troy the same eleven years as all the other Greeks. Unlike them, however, it took him another nine years to find his way home. That was time enough for the captain of those many Greek kings, Agamemnon, to have been murdered by his wife and her boyfriend and then to be avenged by his son and daughter who murdered said wife and boyfriend.

Homecoming is ever perilous.

Odysseus, for his part, stole into his own country, disguised as a beggar. He took shelter with a slave who became his accomplice. His son and another slave completed this small force aimed at restoring Odysseus to his throne and bed as lord of Ithaca.

A faithful hound had waited those twenty long years just to give one last yip of recognition at his master before dying on the manure heap in front of the palace, surely a location chosen for the natural warmth which his aged body could no longer generate.

Once inside his own gate, Odysseus was plagued by the startled and loving recognition of his old nurse. She had known him by the scar of a hunting wound which she had dressed when he had been a youth.

To make a long story short, sending an arrow through the eyes of a dozen axe-heads and slaughtering the many well-armed rivals were all nothing as compared with the problem of Penelope. The magic which had allowed Odysseus to outwit a witch, a goddess, sirens and even a wise virgin was inadequate against the wiles of his own true wife. Of all the challenges in homecoming re-winning Penelope was the greatest, and that is perhaps as it should be.

Is there a difference between "home*going*" and "home*coming*?" Some think that going home is impossible. If that sentiment is true, it is also impossible really to go anywhere else either. If one cannot go home, then one is like the shadow of Patroclus' soul, which, as described by Homer, was doomed to wander the earth until his body was given the home of a proper funeral.

My mother and the youngest of my nieces welcomed me at the airport. My grandmother had supper waiting for us. There were two faithful dogs to whimper their recognition and relief that I was home. Even my cat seemed glad to see me, in her feline way.

There were more welcomes, large and small, but none deceived me into thinking that this business of homecoming is not dangerous business. I was gone five weeks less than a year, long enough for the rhythms of life to heal over my absence, and leaving less of a scar in the lives of acquaintances than that of Odysseus' old hunting wound.

There is a difference, I think, between home*going* and home*coming*. It is the difference between the impossible and the difficult. To go home implies a belonging somewhere else. To come home implies a belonging to that home. The belonging may be questioned or challenged, even severely challenged, but it is to claim one's own. Going home is to claim what was once one's own, but which has become merely somebody else's.

The question which had been put to Odysseus many times during his nine years of heading home was, "Who are you?" That isn't "Who are you?" rather "Who are you?" He answered the question not by saying his name, because he might have merely claimed to be Odysseus or – for the gods are tricksters, after all – seemed to be Odysseus.

Over and over, he had to give signs of being truly Odysseus, various signs of wit and might. He lied like Odysseus; he told the truth like Odysseus. Lie and truth were each in turn a sign.

The point was that he had actually to be Odysseus in each situation and to each person. It was that which I sensed in my own homecoming. Was I still who I had been, even though changed in some important way? It is a question for others to answer.

The problem of Penelope was the greatest challenge to Odysseus, but not the last. Another, significant revelation was to his father, Laertes. The old man had given up his place as king. Odysseus finds his father puttering in the orchard. Laertes recognizes his son because he can recite the inventory of fruit stock which they had planted together when Odysseus had been a boy.

About six months into my time abroad a friend asked what I missed of home. I answered, "Family and friends." "Nothing else?" she asked, clearly surprised at the brevity of my list. Perhaps it is necessary to come home before one can know what one had missed.

I had not returned many days before I planted a fall garden. I pushed back the weeds with a spade, and turned the loamy soil which I have tilled a generation of my life. The seeds of turnips, radishes, carrots, leaf lettuce, spinach and red Russian kale have now pushed their way above ground, and I have come home.

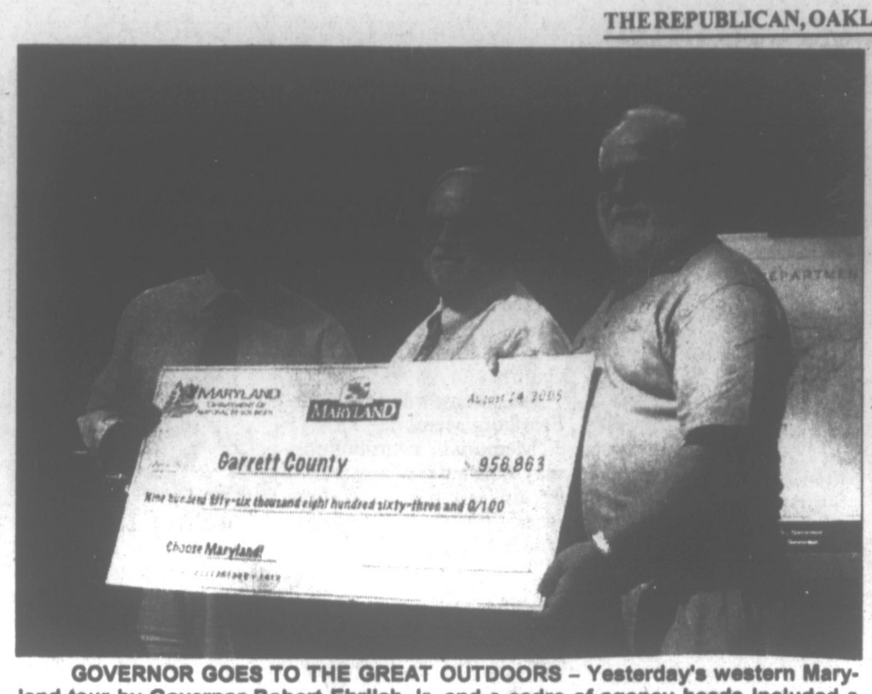
Country Fest & Auction Benefit Slated At Fairgrounds Saturday

The 11th annual Country Fest and Auction will take place from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. this Saturday, Aug. 27, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, where a wide variety of activities will be offered for the whole family. Admission and parking are both free at the fundraiser, which benefits the Bittinger Mennonite Church and the Christian Aid Ministries Mennonite relief agency.

The event will feature sale items including crafts, home baked pastries, homemade noodles and jams, fresh produce, a line of family-oriented "Choice Books", and a gift and card shop. Demonstrations include milking, cream separating and butter churning, basket weaving, chair caning, soap making and quilting.

A furniture and crafts auction will get under way at 10:30 a.m. That auction will feature new Amish-made oak and pine furniture, framed prints, and many home decor and craft items.

A total of 21 queen or king-sized locally made hand-quilted quilts will be on display from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., then will be auctioned off individually beginning at 1:30 p.m. (Note the new time.) The quilt average for the 2004 event was $1,232, with the top quilt selling for $3,000. Most of the quilt buyers were from the Pittsburgh, Washington, D.C., and Baltimore areas.



GOVERNOR GOES TO THE GREAT OUTDOORS – Yesterday's western Maryland tour by Governor Robert Ehrlich Jr. and a cadre of agency heads included a stop at Swallow Falls State Park, where Ehrlich, left, presented Garrett County commissioners Dave Beard and Fred Holliday with a check for $956,863. The funds are a payment to the county for 25 percent of revenues garnered from timber harvests, park day use, and camping on state forest and park lands in the county for the 2005 fiscal year. Each Maryland county receives an annual payment from the state for 15 percent of the revenues garnered from the use of state lands, although in both Garrett and Allegany counties over 10 percent of the land is owned by the state; therefore their payment is 25 percent. The state owns slightly more than 85,000 acres of land in Garrett County. "Every time I visit western Maryland, particularly one of our state forests or parks, I am reminded of the vital role that our natural resources play in the area's economy and tourism," said Ehrlich. "I am pleased that today I was able to personally thank some of the fine people who are working to preserve and protect our wildlife, parks, water, and forests in this majestic part of the state." The governor also saluted the community-wide effort that went into the Crellin Elementary School Reclamation and Redevelopment Project, which has resulted in the reclamation of a former coal tipple and stockpiling station located adjacent to the school. A new playground now stands at the site, and a six-acre outdoor environmental classroom is in development at the same location adjacent to Snowy Creek, which has been recently reclaimed from the impacts of acid mine drainage and will become a put and take trout stream in January 2006.

The family event will include plenty for children to see and do, including a petting zoo, horse and buggy rides, pony rides, hay rides, and the always-popular "Barrels of Fun" ride on a train made from 55-gallon steel drums. A pedal tractor pull will get under way at 11 a.m., and an aerial candy drop is slated for 2 p.m. Wholesome children's videos will be shown throughout the day.

Country Fest goers will have to opportunity to partake of pancake and sausage breakfasts, fresh doughnuts, funnel cakes, hand-rolled soft pretzels, homemade ice cream, cotton candy, chicken barbecue, and a varied lunch menu.

The Yoders, a family singing group from Farmville, Va., will perform in the auction building beginning at 10 a.m., and then at the chicken barbecue pavilion throughout the day.

Sponsored by the Bittinger Mennonite Church, the Country Fest and Auction is the church's annual fundraiser for building programs of the church and its school. In addition, 10 percent of the proceeds are donated to Christian Aid Ministries. Eleven states were represented in last year's attendance of approximately 2,400 people.

For further information, persons may call Country Fest publicist Lucy Maust at 301-245-4564, or visit the event's web site at www.countryfest.org.

Garrett Highway, and O'Lone and his passenger, Katherine Sedgwick, 58, also of Vineyard, were both injured and transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad. The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company also assisted at the scene.

In other state police investigations, an Accident area man and six juveniles were injured in a single vehicle mishap yesterday evening south of Grantsville.

Police said that Dan Beiler, 47, was traveling on Maple Grove Road when he fell asleep at the wheel. Beiler lost control of the 1998 Dodge Ram, which traveled off the roadway and onto the left shoulder, where it struck the embankment.

Beiler and his six passengers were transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene.

No charges were filed in the 5:38 p.m. mishap.

A Pennsylvania motorcyclist who rear-ended a stopped vehicle near Grantsville early Sunday sustained minor injuries and was charged by state troopers.

Steven Donald First II, 19, Salisbury, Pa., was traveling south when his 1986 Kawasaki Ninja struck the rear of a stopped 2001 Toyota 4-Runner shortly after midnight in the 4200 block of Chestnut Ridge Road.

After being flown to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by Maryland State Police medevac helicopter Trooper 5, First was treated and released. The other driver, Colleen Fitzgerald Gore, 44, Herndon, Va., was not injured.

The Northern Garrett Rescue Squad and the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

State troopers charged First with failure to control speed to avoid a collision.

PAUL M. BENSON

Paul McClellan "Tinker" Benson, 84, formerly of Morgantown, W.Va., died Sunday, Aug. 21, 2005, at Heartland of Preston County, Kingwood, W.Va.

Born April 9, 1921, in Terra Alta, W.Va., he was a son of the late Howard and Maude Moon Benson. He was also preceded in death by his first wife, Anna (Reed) Benson, with whom he shared two children, in 1975; his second wife, Naomi (King) Bonham Benson, in 1997; and one granddaughter.

He graduated from Terra Alta High School, class of 1939. He was a member of the Terra Alta Baptist Church. He was a U.S. Army veteran, having served in the South Pacific in New Guinea during World War II. He won the Bronze Star and was awarded the Purple Heart.

He was employed by E.S. Evans Garage in Terra Alta and Benson's Hardware and Supply, Morgantown, and was an insurance adjuster for Nickerson and Company. He retired as a bus driver for the city of Morgantown. While in Terra Alta, he was a Mason and a member of the Order of the Eastern Star and the Shriners.

Surviving are one daughter, Judith A. (Benson) Loughry, Kingwood; one son, John Paul Benson, Morgantown; one sister, Barbara Jean Gifford, the Villages, Fla.; two brothers, James H. Benson, Richmond, Va., and Fred A. Benson, Morgantown; three grandsons; and three great-grandchildren.

A service was held today at the funeral home, with the Rev. Dan Meadows officiating.

LOIS L. BARNETT

Lois L. Barnett, 80, LaVale, died Tuesday, Aug. 23, 2005, at Cherry Hill Assisted Living, Accident.

Born March 14, 1925, in Cumberland, she was a daughter of the late James Griffith Middleton and Eliza (Hughes) Middleton. She was also preceded in death by her husband of 56 years, Lee C. Barnett Jr.; one brother, Ray Middleton; two sisters, Blanch Fearnow and Matilda Campbell; and one daughter, Ann M. Barnett.

Lois was a graduate of Beall High School, class of 1943. She was a 1946 graduate of Allegany Nursing School, Cumberland. After graduating she worked at the Roanoke Veterans Hospital in Virginia in 1947; Suburban Hospital in Bethesda, 1947 to 1951; Baltimore Hospital, 1951 to 1952; Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, in 1952; and Frostburg Community Hospital, where she worked until retirement in 1987.

Lois was an avid reader, who especially enjoyed crossword puzzles and game shows. One of her greatest joys was helping to raise her grandson Eric and spending time with her grandson Kyle.

Lois had a lifelong devotion to her family, and generously took care of those around her. Selfless and caring, Lois always put others' needs before her own.

She is survived by one daughter, Carol Jean Beard and husband Richard, Accident; one sister, May Williams, Swanton; two grandson, Kyle J. Beard and Eric S. Barnett; and numerous nieces and nephews.

Friends will be received at the Sowers Funeral Home, Frostburg, today, Thursday, Aug. 25, from 7 to 9 p.m.

A service will be conducted at the funeral home on Friday at 11 a.m., with the Rev. Earl Williams officiating.

Interment will follow at Frostburg Memorial. Park.

Memorial contributions may be made in her memory to Garrett County Hospice, P.O. Box 271, Oakland, MD 21550.

Friends were received at the Durst Funeral Home, Oakland.

A service was conducted at St. John's Lutheran Church on Tuesday, Aug. 23, with the Rev. Allen Schwarz and the Rev. William Connelly officiating.

Interment was in the St. John's Cemetery.

The family requests that in lieu of flowers, memorials take the form of contributions to the Rod McWilliams Memorial Account, for the care of his children, c/o Miners and Merchants Bank, P.O. Box 542, Oakland, MD 21550; or any Miners and Merchant Bank office.

DWAYNE MARTIN

Dwayne "Big Ed" Martin, 36, Akron, Ohio, passed away Wednesday Aug. 17, 2005, after a short illness.

Born Aug. 30. 1968, he was a son of Roger "Bud" Martin, Oakland, and Dorothy Martin, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio. He was preceded in death by his maternal grandparents, Gertrude J. and Walter E. Baker; paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Martin; and many aunts and uncles.

Ed loved motorcycles, cars, and anything loud – but most of all, having a good time with his friends. A quiet man, but important to so many, he will be greatly missed.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by one brother, Roger of Akron; and one sister, Rhonda (Robby) Roberts of Cuyahoga Falls; three nieces, Alexis Martin, and Madison and Jenna Roberts; two nephews, Luke Martin and Ryan Roberts; two aunts, Sarah Rhoads and Linda Hefner, both of Oakland; three uncles, Fredrick Baker and Roger Baker, both of Oakland, and William Baker of Alabama; two great-aunts, Alena Steyer and Marjorie Baker, both of Oakland; and many friends and other relatives of Oakland and the surrounding areas.

A service was held on Saturday, Aug. 20, at the Hahn-Hostetler-Silva Funeral Home in Barberton, Ohio, with the Rev. Richard Hoskins officiating.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the Portage Lakes Kiwanis Christmas For Kids Fund, 725 Portage Lakes Dr., Akron, OH 44319.

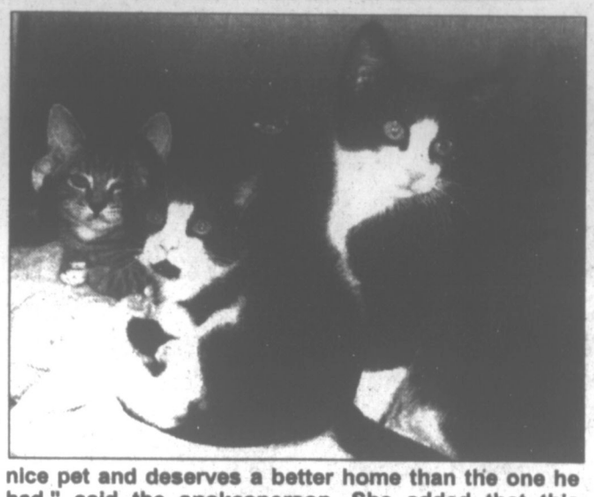
Adorable Adoptables



LARRY, MOE, AND CURLY ARE FULL OF FUN and waiting to be adopted from the Garrett County Animal Shelter. The three young orange tabbies are pictured above left. Also available are two tuxedo kittens and a black tabby, above right. Other colors are available. Below left is another very friendly female tabby that was picked up along Glendale Road. "We hope her owner will reclaim her or that someone will adopt her, as she is not happy being here in a cage," said a Humane Society spokesperson. Also looking for a home is male beagle mix that was picked up along Sanders Lane. Someone apparently shot him with BBs or buckshot. "He would make someone a nice pet and deserves a better home than the one he had," said the spokesperson. She added that this week, dozens of kittens and many dogs were dropped off at or picked up by the shelter. One man brought in 12 kittens from 2 litters. "This is why pet owners have to have their pets spayed or neutered, so they don't end up homeless or with a person who just didn't need a pet, but took it home with them anyway," she said. "Many puppies or kittens are brought to the shelter once they are not cute and cuddly anymore and that is sad. Please consider the time and money it takes to care for a pet before you adopt one." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553.

Nature Connection

by Liz McDowell & Ron Boyer

The almost unbearable heat wave of recent weeks has passed at least for now. The cooler temperatures prompt a bike ride along the Allegheny Highland Trail in nearby Somerset County, Pa. As you pedal along the trail you take in the sights: blue sky, billowy clouds, and colorful meadows. The wildflowers are a mix of both native species, such as blue curls, milkweed, and goldenrod, along with aliens, such as chicory, common mullein, and Queen Anne's lace. These aliens arrived long ago, carried by European settlers who cherished them for food, medicine, and esthetics. Over the years these species have become naturalized, and today are a familiar part of the landscape.

As you travel further along the trail the habitat changes from dry to moist. Now the flowers that you're seeing, like New York ironweed, Joe-Pye weed, and jewelweed, are more typical of a wet meadow. Suddenly you come to a quick stop as you pull hard on your brakes. A patch of bright, magenta flowers has caught your attention. You hope that it's not what you think it is, but a quick check of your field guide confirms your suspicion. You've come face to face with the wildflower called the "purple plague," Lythrum salicaria.

Other kinder, common names for this perennial wildflower are purple or spiked loosestrife. A native of Eurasia, purple loosestrife was first brought to North America in the early 1800s intentionally by beekeepers and gardeners, as well as accidentally in the ballast water of ships. But by the 1890s it had already escaped cultivation, according to the naturalist Mrs. William Starr Dana. In her field guide How to Know the Wild Flowers she writes, "One who has seen an inland marsh in August aglow with this beautiful plant is almost ready to forgive the Old Country some of the many pests she has shipped to our shores in view of this radiant acquisition." Little did she know that in less than 100 years her beautiful wildflower would be considered one of the biggest plant pests in the east and officially listed as a noxious weed in more than two dozen states in New England, the mid-west, and mid-Atlantic regions.

The "purple plague" forms large colonies literally displacing native plants in a variety of wetland habitats, including marshes, meadows, riverbanks, and lakeshores. Purple loosestrife provides no value for wildlife in terms of cover or food. According to biologists, songbirds won't eat its hard, tiny seeds, ducks avoid wetlands dominated by it, and wildlife can't use it for shelter because of its compactness. In addition, its roots are so dense that it chokes waterways preventing recreational boating.

Despite efforts to control it, purple loosestrife continues to spread. Its seeds, the size of ground pepper, are moved easily by water, wind, feather, and fur, as well as by muddy boots, boats, and tires. Pennsylvania and several other states are taking the drastic action to eliminate it by using a biological control agent, an imported beetle whose sole food source is supposedly purple loosestrife.

So remember, just because something is beautiful doesn't mean that it's harmless. Be aware of what you plant in your garden. According to researchers from Cornell University, even "infertile" cultivars of purple loosestrife may produce viable seed and should not be planted. Maryland is trying to be proactive and get it before it has a chance to take-over our natural areas.

If you think you've spotted purple loosestrife in Maryland, please contact Kerrie Kyde, the invasive species biologist for the Department of Natural Resources, by phone at 410-260-8534, or email her at kkyde@dnr.state.md.us. For more information on identifying and controlling this and other invasive species of concern in Maryland, visit www.mdinvasive.org. For details on the negative impacts of exotic invasive species in North America, visit the National Invasive Species Council web site at www.invasivespecies.gov.

BE ON THE LOOKOUT for the "purple plague," another exotic species set to invade Garrett County.

Reports from the Field:

Sophie Najjar, vacationing in the New Germany area in mid-August, was startled from a sound sleep by eerie screams coming from the nearby woods; she learned later that the loud calls had been made by the tiny, eastern screech owl.

Gus Johnson of the Deep Creek Lake Discovery Center photographed an unusual common yellow throat in July that repeatedly struck at a window, apparently a male fighting his own reflection.

Lyn Utrecht of Swanton observed a Baltimore checkerspot butterfly (Maryland's state insect) land on her patch of turtlehead in early July, apparently laying eggs; less than a week later the eggs began to hatch and the emerging caterpillars were munching away.

If you'd like to share your Garrett County nature sightings or if you have questions about the plants & animals that you've observed, e-mail Liz & Ron at info@elkridgenatureworks.com

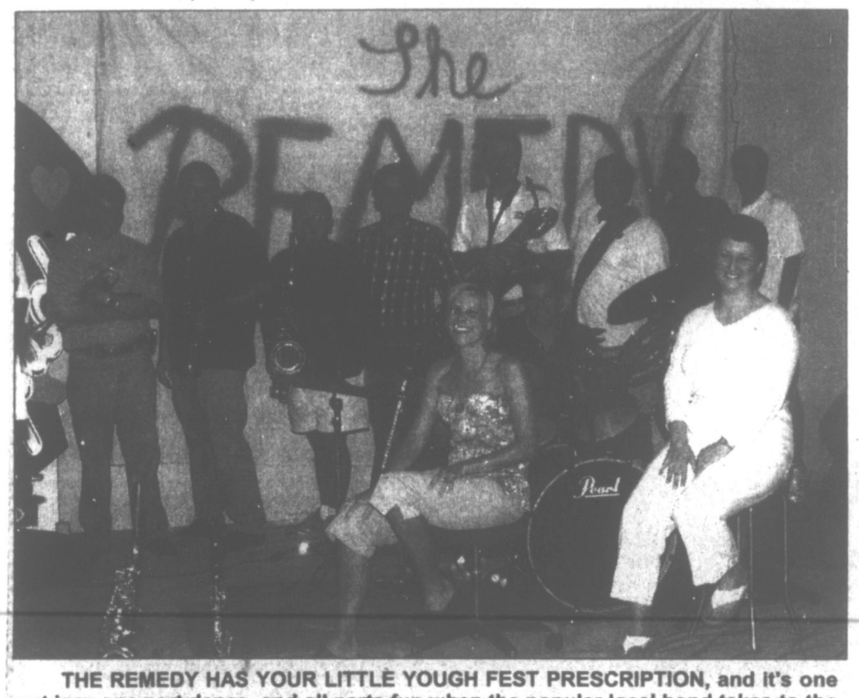
The Arts



THE REMEDY HAS YOUR LITTLE YOUGH FEST PRESCRIPTION, and it's one part jam, one part dance, and all parts fun when the popular local band takes to the stage in a 7 p.m. performance next Friday evening, Sept. 2, in downtown Oakland. The band is shown having a laugh during a break from practice session last night, as seated from the left are vocalist Kim Grimm-Weimer, drummer Chuck Walch, and vocalist Jana Brown. Standing are trumpet players Dave Paolini and Rodney Glotfelty, saxophone and clarinet player Gino Mauricci, harmonica and rhythm guitarist Fred Hazelwood, sax and flute player Greg Was, bass player Bob Browning, lead guitarist and vocalist Jim Jones, and keyboard player and vocalist Monty Pagenhardt. The free concert marks the close of the annual Little Yough Summer Music Festival at the Mtn. Fresh Pavilion stage.

Garrett Choral Society To Begin Holiday Practices

The Garrett Choral Society, under the direction of Julie Turrentine, will begin rehearsals on Sunday, Sept. 11, for the annual Christmas concert. Rehearsals are from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at St. Paul's Methodist Church in Oakland. Singers meet in the Sunday school area downstairs.

The group will be presenting Vivaldi's Gloria as the main focus of the concert, with additional works of traditional Christmas music.

Persons of all ages may join the Garrett Choral Society. No experience is necessary. A commitment to rehearsal attendance is required, Turrentine noted.

The Christmas concert is slated for Saturday, Dec. 10, at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m., and Sunday, Dec. 11, at 2 p.m.

Mountain Thyme To Conclude '05 Penn Alps Series

Founded in 1983, Mountain Thyme includes Pam Curry, Jan Hartstein, Libby Musser, and Linda Workman. The group's members have honed their skills with nearly 20 years of instruction at the Augusta Heritage Workshops in Elkins, W.Va., and the Swannanoa Gatherings Celtic Week in Asheville, N.C.

Mountain Thyme received the Celebrate Women Award from the West Virginia Women's Commission in 1991.

Tickets will be available at the door. There are no reserved seats. Ticket holders should arrive no later than 7:20 p.m. to guarantee seating. Penn Alps is located east of Grantsville along Old Route 40 between exits 19 and 22 of Interstate 68.

More information is available at the web site: www.musicatpennalps.org.

The 2005 Music at Penn Alps series concludes on Saturday, Aug. 27, at 7:30 p.m., with the sounds of folk and Celtic music performed by Mountain Thyme of West Virginia. The program will include old-time favorites and songs from the Appalachian and Celtic folk traditions, accompanied by mandolin, guitar, bouzouki, silver and wooden flutes, upright bass, keyboard, tenor banjo, and autoharp.

Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by season and corporate sponsors and by the support of individuals. The 2005 season sponsor is the Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop. The Western Maryland Health System is the sponsor for this evening's concert.

For information on Music at Penn Alps, reservations, ticket prices, and locations for advance ticket sales, persons may contact Julyen Norman at 301-895-4250. Guests ages 18 and younger are admitted to the concerts free of charge.

MSAC Offering Grant-Writing Info Sessions

The Maryland State Arts Council (MSAC), an agency of the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development, has announced the availability of information sessions to Maryland nonprofit organizations interested in the MSAC Grants for Organizations program. The program is designed for arts organizations which produce and present the arts through public programs and services, as well as for non-arts organizations whose primary purpose is other than producing or presenting arts activities, but that have ongoing arts programs or plan an arts event.

The closest sessions for Garrett County residents will be held at Frostburg State University on Aug. 30 at 6:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. in Room 201 of the Lane Center. For information, persons may call 301-687-4151 or visit the following web site: www.frostburg.edu.

The information sessions will provide advice on organizing information for grant applications, presenting the information in a clear and concise way, building grant writing skills and using MSAC's eGrant system for application submission via the Internet. Printed materials, including tips for writing more effective grants, will be distributed, a spokesperson said.

MSAC encourages both new applicants and current grantees to attend the information sessions in an effort to improve their applications and minimize the need for revisions. The two-hour programs will also provide opportunities for questions and one-on-one discussions with MSAC staff members, the spokesperson said.

The sessions are free, open to the public, and accessible to persons with disabilities; however, reservations are required. To ensure a reservation, persons should contact Doreen Harmon at 410-767-6555.

The deadline for submitting grant applications for fiscal year 2007 Grants for Organizations program is Oct. 6, 2005.

MPA PRESENTING MOUNTAIN THYME – Songs from the Appalachian and Celtic folk traditions, accompanied by mandolin, guitar, bouzouki, silver and wooden flutes, upright bass, keyboard, tenor banjo, and autoharp, will be presented Saturday, Aug. 27, as Mountain Thyme of West Virginia takes the stage at Penn Alps. The members of Mountain Thyme are Pam Curry, Jan Hartstein, Libby Musser, and Linda Workman. See story. This concert is the final presentation of the 2005 Music at Penn Alps regular series, although the Schrock Memorial Concert will follow on Sept. 3, featuring local vocalist Holly Hare.

Something Blue
by Emily Giffin

Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer
St. Martin's Press, c. 2005, $22.95, 352 pages

There are very few rituals in a woman's life as laden with superstition as a wedding. As soon as the engagement is announced, many women dream about someone throwing rice (or birdseed) at her wedding, or tying tin cans to the bumper of the car. Yep, those are more than just cute traditions.

Or how about this one: "Something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue." Even the least-superstitious bride is usually willing to go along with that, just for luck.

Darcy Rhodes would have sneered at those silly superstitions, if her wedding had actually happened. Instead, in the novel Something Blue by Emily Giffin, Darcy has really messed up.

"Spoiled" is definitely what you would call Darcy. All her life, she was the prettiest, most popular girl in the room. Darcy always got what she wanted, including the latest fashions, the nicest apartments, and the hottest men. Everybody loved her, including her plain-as-white-bread, brainy best friend Rachel. Darcy just simply knew that Rachel was grateful to bask in the glow of Darcy's popularity. Girls like Rachel never shined on their own, right?

So Darcy has it all. A fabulous job. A big fat engagement ring on her finger, courtesy of Dex, the best catch in New York. An upcoming wedding that everyone who's anyone will want to attend.

And then Darcy met Marcus.

Marcus was Dex's best friend from college, and one of the groomsmen in the wedding. He was uncouth and sexy, in a rumpled sort of way. Certainly not Darcy's type, but she couldn't help herself. She had a fling with him, just weeks before the wedding.

And then Darcy got pregnant. Dex was surprisingly calm when Darcy broke the news and broke up with him. Maybe it was because, while Darcy was cheating on Dex, he was cheating, too.

With plain-as-white-bread, brainy Rachel.

When Marcus turns out to be a cad and everybody seems to be deserting Darcy and her little "problem," she decides to show them all. She'll go to London and look for her true love there. They'll meet and fall instantly in love; they'll be married, he'll adopt the baby, they'll live in an English estate and everyone will be envious.

Darcy is sure that this is the way it'll happen, just as soon as she meets the right man. But, as everyone knows, no matter how well it's planned, gettin' hitched rarely goes off without a hitch.

It's been a long time since I've read something so fluffy and so much fun. Author Emily Giffin makes you hate Darcy at first, and you really want to see her fall flat on her carefully made-up face. But as the story progresses, you begin to see at least a little goodness in the character, and you can't wait to see what happens to her.

Whether it's something old, something new, or something borrowed, Something Blue is a charming book with a happy ending, and perfect for those end-of-summer weekends when you don't want anything heavy to read.

GLAF HERALDS '06 MIDORI APPEARANCE – The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) has announced that it has been selected to present the world-famous violinist Midori in 2006. The concert date is yet to be determined. GLAF was awarded the opportunity through Partners in Performance (PiP), a non-profit organization founded by Midori with the monetary award she received as part of the Avery Fisher Prize in 2001. GLAF was one of only two presenters in the country to be awarded the opportunity to present a PiP-funded concert featuring Midori in 2006. This week, GLAF is co-presenting Music on the Mountain with the Sprenger-Lang Foundation of Washington, D.C. The major sponsor for the classical music festival is Wisp at Deep Creek Mountain Resort. The classical music series, featuring the Deep Creek Symphony Orchestra, will present concerts on Aug. 26 and 27 at the Lodge at Wisp, starting at 8 p.m. each evening. Tickets are available by calling the GLAF office at 866-345-9738.

passing scores later in the fall. English 2 is both an HSA and an NCLB requirement.

"We expect to see a significant increase in the percentage passing next year when the results are in for the first group of students who must pass the tests," said Dr. Nancy S. Grasmick, state superintendent of schools. "We have updated our curriculum and improved our instruction, and we are confident that our students will be able to meet these tougher graduation requirements."

Results of the high school geometry test, which fulfills the federal mathematics requirement as part of NCLB, show an increase over the previous year, with 51% of students achieving at the advanced and proficient levels, up from 48% in 2004. Geometry and graduation rate, also released today, are two of the factors used in determining if a high school has made AYP as required by NCLB. The state's graduation rate also improved to 84.8%, up from 84.2% in 2004.

This week's release includes a preliminary list of 77 high schools identified for School Improvement based on the geometry and graduation data. (The list is available at www.marylandpublicschools.org/MSDE/programs/schools_improvement/) The schools have a 30-day period during which the local school system can appeal for a review of a school's status. The final list of schools identified for improvement will be released following the appeal process and the release of the English 2 scores in the fall.

member for the past 15 years. She has developed curricula and assessments at the local and state levels and has presented at local, state, and national conferences.

The finalists were selected by a panel of judges from key Maryland education organizations representing principals, teachers, school boards, superintendents, and higher education.

Finalists were measured against a set of national criteria that include teaching philosophy, community involvement, knowledge of general education issues, and suggestions for professional and instructional improvement.

Oral interviews with the seven finalists will be conducted on Sept. 17. The 2005-2006 Maryland Teacher of the Year will be announced Oct. 7 at a gala reception and dinner at Martin's West. The winner will receive Maryland's newly designed TOY (Teacher Of the Year) Award, cash awards, technology equipment valued at more than $40,000, and a new $25,000 car donated by Maryland New Car and Truck Dealers Association, a presenting sponsor.

The other presenting sponsor of the Maryland Teacher of the Year program is the McDonald's Family of Greater Baltimore. Platinum sponsors include Bank of America, Comcast, Lockheed Martin, Northrop Grumman, and the Whiting-Turner Contracting Company.

The Maryland Teacher of the Year goes on to compete for the esteemed National Teacher of the Year Award. The winner also spends the coming year as a speaker and advisor in Maryland. The winner will be honored by the president at the White House next spring, and will participate in National Space Camp with fellow state Teachers of the Year.

INGRAM SKIS TO REGION RECORD – Sam Ingram carved his name into the record books recently by slicing across an Ohio lake to set a new U.S. Eastern Region waterski record. The Swanton resident skied two buoys at 41 feet off, and one more successful buoy pass would have tied the national record. Ingram was competing against 47 of the top waterskiers from across North America in the Ohio Big Dawg Slalom Water Ski Championships on Bellalago Lake. See story.

Local Waterskier Sets New Eastern Regional Record

Swanton resident Sam Ingram recently competed in the 2005 Ohio Big Dawg Slalom Water Ski Championships on Bellalago Lake in Leavittsburg, Ohio, where 47 of the top skiers from throughout the United States and Canada competed for cash prizes. The event was open to waterskiers 35 years of age and older who have not skied in a Pro Tour cash event.

Ingram advanced into the three-day event's final day of competition, and wasn't eliminated until the round of final eight. His tourney performance included a qualifying round run that set a new Eastern United States Regional record of two buoys at 41 feet off, just one buoy shy of the current national record.

Ingram skied 38 feet off five consecutive times during the tournament, and was seeded fifth in the "Sweet 16" head-to-head runoff. From there he advanced to the "Elite 8" by outscoring 12th seed Bruce Butterfield of Houston. The local waterskier was derailed in that round by Mike Dehlinger, who eventually advanced to the championship round where he finished as runner-up to tournament champion Scott Larson of Canyon Lakes, Calif.

Ingram is a four-time Eastern Region slalom champion, and finished third at the 2004 Slalom Nationals and fourth at the 2004 Big Dawg Championships.

CENTRAL GARRETT ALL-STARS TAKE THIRD AT SALISBURY – The Central Garrett All-Stars turned in their best performance ever at the Salisbury 11- and 12-year-old Little League Tournament recently, finishing third in the 17-team field. CAYFL Action Opens For Area Youth Gridders

The Cumberland Area Youth Football League season kicked off Saturday, and the Northern Maddawgs and Oakland Renegades were among the squads that took to the field. The Maddawgs started off in style by thumping the LaVale Lions 39-12, while the Renegades stumbled in a 54-13 loss to the Cresaptown Eagles.

Northern's stunning debut delighted its homefield fans, as the Maddawgs opened with three unanswered touchdowns. Tyler Ireland scored first on an eight-yard run in the opening quarter, then in the second quarter quarterback Patrick Sines rushed for an 18 yard score, Chris Murdock reeled off a 25-yard touchdown run, and Sines connected with Cody Rodeheaver for a 55-yard touchdown pass. LaVale's only answer of the quarter was a 60-yard scoring run by Lion Evan Harden.

The guests got on board first in the second half when Joshua VanMeter ran into the end zone from eight yards out, making the score Maddawgs 27 – Lions 12. It was all Northern from then on, however, as the Maddawgs' Ireland picked off a Lion pass and returned the ball 35 yards for a touchdown, and Murdock scored on a 30-yard run.

The Northern C Team defeated its Lions counterparts by an unreported score.

The Oakland vs. Cresaptown game had a much different result for local fans, as the Renegades fell by a 41-point margin. After two Eagle touchdowns, Oakland scored when Coy Ozias scampered 45 yards for a touchdown near the end of the first quarter. The Cresaptown hosts then turned in four unanswered scores over the course of the second quarter to take a 40-6 halftime lead.

A third-quarter Cole Sanders' touchdown run from seven yards out put Oakland on the board for the second and final time. The Eagles scored twice in the fourth quarter to seal their victory.

Cresaptown's C Team defeated the Renegade C squad by an unreported tally.

"FIRST THIS WAY, THEN THAT WAY" appears to be the lesson Swanton area resident Brad Dugan (right) is imparting to one of his students at a recent waterski clinic on Deep Creek Lake. One of the nation's top waterskiers in collegiate and men's summer competitions, Dugan conducted the slalom clinic for several youth, including part-time DCL area resident Kristy Rossignuolo. Dugan is ranked as the top men's slalom waterskier at Florida Southern College in Lakeland, where the junior is majoring in criminal justice and business. The 2003 Southern High School graduate competes with help of sponsorships from Bill's Marine Service and the Lakestar Lodge.

AC Consumers Enjoy Shooting Clay Pigeons

It was a special outing for some disabled consumers from the Appalachian Crossroads program in Oakland, who spent a day this past week shooting clay pigeons at Lee Brenneman's Golden Meadows Clay Sports farm along Bittinger Road near Accident.

Brenneman, a native of Bittinger who has had his own drywall business in the Deep Creek Lake area for the past 25 years, owns the 400-acre farm, 70% of which is a reclaimed strip mine. He raises cattle, but recently expanded his operation to include the shooting range.

"I have 10 stations with automatic oscillating and wobble-base traps for throwing clay birds, simulating different bird flight patterns, including pheasant, quail, grouse, snipe, and teal," Brenneman said. "The 10 stations give shooters a real challenge, and with 100 birds in the air, that will put even the best shooters to the test."

Assisting Brenneman with the Appalachian Crossroads outing were John Cobb, a Department of Natural Resources reserve officer; and Dale Paugh of McHenry, who teaches hunter safety courses in the area. Cobb volunteered his time to instruct the participants in the art of shooting a bird in the air, while Paugh provided safety instruction and education on the various types of guns and chokes used for different bird flight patterns.

"These folks have a pretty tough time, and I really wanted to give them a good experience," Brenneman said.

Participant Wayne Lewis, who is wheelchair bound, said that the day was a nice departure from watching television.

It was a new experience also for consumers Donnie Tasker and John Keefer, although Keefer has had experience hunting deer.

"It's always nice to learn how to do something new," Tasker said.

Cobb, an experienced gunman, compared shooting clay pigeons to "golfing with guns." He said it's like "painting the sky with the shot."

Appalachian Crossroads provides employment services, activities, support, and training for individuals with developmental disabilities.

Golden Meadows Range can be reached by telephone at 301-616-0169.

SHS Golfers Hoping To Stay Course With Combination Of Old And New

The Southern High School golf team – which recorded five wins against one loss in the season's opening action this week – may have lost two of its mainstays from the 2004 campaign, but the return of four of the top six golfers from last year's roster could bode well for the Rams' chances, according to first-year head coach Dave Martin.

"While we have only one senior with experience, we have those four returning 'top sixers' to use as a foundation to build on," Martin said. "We also have a number of new golfers who have joined the program, and they've been showing some early promise."

Despite the loss of 2005 Maryland State Tournament competitors Matt Skidmore and Josh Lear, this year's experienced Rams are coming off a superb 37-4 season, and therefore know what it takes to put together a winning unit.

Martin listed Southern's probable starting lineup as senior Ivan Stutzman and juniors Joe Albert, Seth Fike, and Ryan Martin. The fifth- and sixth-player slots remain wide open, with one junior, five sophomores, and two freshman competing for those berths.

"Our goal is to win the WMIL, and hopefully place the entire team in the state tournament," stated Martin.

SHS opened its season on Monday at the Polish Pines Course, where the Rams took part in a quadrangular with Fort Hill, Frankfort, and arch-rival Keyser – routinely one of the top teams in the area.

The host Golden Tornado, which always gets an early jump on the campaign, showed that its extra practice and competition time pays off in edging the Rams by just one stroke, 164-165. Fort Hill was third with 173 and Frankfort fourth with 175.

Keyser's Travis Kidwell set the pace for the field with a 37, and the Sentinels' Travis Bothast was second with a 38. Southern's Albert and Fike both carded 39s to share third place with Dustin Turbin of the Golden Tornado. Frankfort's top performer was Travis Corwell, who recorded a 43.

The Rams bounded to the top of the pack Tuesday in a Rocky Gap Golf Resort quadrangular that featured the same field as the previous day's match. The Rams' 177 score bested Fort Hill's 179, while Keyser finished four off the winning pace at 181. Frankfort brought up the rear with a 199.

SHS's Albert took low-medalist honors for the day by carding a 39, and teammate Fike shot a 42. The Sentinels' Bothast and Sam Griffith both recorded 43s, and Keyser's Turbin was second-low individual golfer at 40. Corwell's 47 was low for Frankfort.

The Rams are slated to tee off in their Oakland Golf Course home debut at 4 p.m. this afternoon against Tucker.

Hunter's Shoot Slated At 3-D Archery Range

A "Hunter's Special" archery shoot has been scheduled at the Potomac-Garrett State Forest 3-D archery range for Sunday, Sept. 11, between the hours of 7:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. The charge is $5 per participant, with shooters ages 11 and under eligible to shoot for free in the company of an adult. A class for youths 12-14 years of age will also be offered.

Any archer including traditionalists may register in the hunter class. This class will have a maximum shot of 30 yards. Shooters registered in the hunter class may use a moveable sight, but the sight must be locked in one position for the entire shoot. Hunter class may also use non-moveable scopes and pendulum sights.

Archers may also choose to shoot in the open class. The open class has a 50-yard maximum distance and allows the archer to utilize moveable sights and scopes.

Attending archers will also be able to test fire demo models from several of today's top manufacturers. Backbone Mt. Sport Shop has graciously offered the demo use of these bows as well as a variety of other products including range finders, tree stands, and ground blinds.

The Potomac-Garrett 3-D Archery Range is located at 1431 Potomac Camp Road. For further information, persons may call the headquarters of the Potomac-Garrett State Forest at 301-334-2038 or 301-334-4157.

SPECIAL ARCHERY SHOOT SLATED – A "Hunter's Special" shoot has been slated for Sunday, Sept. 11, at the Potomac-Garrett 3-D Archery Range, with all ages eligible to participate and get tuned up for the upcoming bow season. More information can be obtained by contacting the office of Potomac-Garrett State Forest at 301-334-2038 or 301-334-4157.

Garrett County Fishing Contest Winners Named

The Garrett County Fishing Contest is sponsored by Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

Results for the week ending Aug. 21 are as follows:

Smallmouth bass: 1 lb. 7 ozs., 16 ins., caught by Pat Hall, Oswego, N.Y.

Largemouth bass: 3 lbs. 12 ozs., 18¾ ins., caught by Ivan Lantz, Oakland.

Bluegill: 12 ozs., 9¾ ins., caught by Ivan Lantz, Oakland.

Weekly winners receive a certificate, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. To enter the contest, anglers must take their catches to Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House, 32 Outfitters Way, McHenry. The fishing contest runs from the first weekend in May through the first weekend in October.

Laurel Golfer Takes Western Md. Tourney

Laurel youth Kyle Stough came from two shots behind on Sunday to take the three-day Western Maryland Amateur Golf Tournament by three strokes at the Oakland Golf Club. The lowest score for a club member was a 219 recorded by Oakland resident Matt Skidmore, who tied for second place with C.J. Pagliaro of Fairmont, W.Va.

Seventeen-year-old Stough recorded a one-under par 70 to win by three shots, with a three-round score of 216. He had shot a 75 on Friday and 71 on Saturday. His 70 on Sunday was one of two sub-par rounds for the three-day tournament. The other was an opening round 70 by Bill Troutman, who finished sixth.

Finishing in fourth place with a 222 was Jason Finch, a member of the Oakland Golf Club, and John Blank came in fifth at 223.

In addition to Skidmore and Finch, other Oakland Golf Club members who competed were Scott Finch, Bill Weissgerber, Jeff Orr, Daryl Walters, Bill Saltysiak, Bob Finch, and Rick Welch.

WESTERN MD. AMATEUR GOLF TOURNEY FINALISTS – The Western Maryland Amateur Golf Tournament was played at the Oakland Golf Club recently, and shown from the left are tourney champion Kyle Stough of Laurel, runner-up C.J. Pagliaro of Fairmont, W.Va., and third-place finisher Matt Skidmore of Oakland, a 2004 Southern High School graduate and an Oakland Golf Club member. Of the nine club members who competed in the event, three placed in the top ten – Skidmore, Jason Finch in fourth place, and Scott Finch in ninth place. See story.

later (10:10 p.m.). The structure was fully involved in flames upon the arrival of units from the Grantsville, Bittinger, Salisbury, Confluence, Addison, and Accident VFDs.

A 12x24-foot wood-frame storage building, located at 335 Glade Road near Friendsville, was also destroyed by fire last Thursday; however the structure apparently burned without alerting anyone. It was ruled accidental and believed to have been caused by an interior electrical problem.

DFM Rodeheaver reported that owner Michael Walker was out of town at the time and found the shed burned upon their arrival home.

The Friendsville VFD responded to the 11:15 a.m. alarm, but the structure was reported to be "on the ground" and the fire was out cold.

Sailboat Racing

S-JIBES AND THE BETTER PART OF VALOR
by Dan Muss

Last Saturday was another perfect sailing day, with sun and a breeze from the NW about 5 to 10 knots. The principal race officer (PRO), Gordie Clefton, set a most enjoyable and interesting course, with a mixture of starboard and port roundings.

We started off Poland Run, beat up to the mark off Holy Cross Point, reached across to a mark off Thousand Acres, then beat again up to the mark off Penn Cove. Then it was downwind to a leeward mark off the Deer Haven club and a final beat to the finish, again off Holy Cross.

We got off to a great start at the committee boat and were first around the windward mark. We popped our spinnaker for the short reach and opened a little space between Meehan and us, who did not fly his. We had a good lead going up towards Penn Cove when Meehan took an unfavorable tack over towards the Holy Cross shore. We thought about covering him, but it was still early in the race. It turned out that it was not a question of covering; that was where the wind was. We rounded the next mark in fourth place and had to fight off Kemp on the downwind leg to hold that. Meehan won by a bunch.

The forecast on Sunday was for 10 to 20 from the W and that was right on. Since Sue Case wasn't available, "fearless crew" Marilyn Filemyr and I recruited Phil Hanna as our middle crew. The good news was that we had over 500 pounds of weight on the railing, which was plenty to hold the boat down in this blow. The bad news was that the total of our years was 230, which averages out to 76 plus.

In maneuvering around lots of other boats in heavy air, it's necessary to jibe frequently. I use what is sometimes referred to as an S-jibe. (It's called that because the boat traces an "S" curve during the jibe.) One is traveling directly downwind and one bears off to cause an "accidental" jibe, where the wind catches the sail and flings the boom around. But you keep the helm over so that you are now heading up and the wind then catches the sail before it hits the stay. You then bear off again on your new course. Make sure everyone aboard is clear, as that boom comes over very fast. On one particular S-jibe Phil Hanna lost his balance while he was crossing over and ended up in my lap. After taking a huge wave of spray over our bow we decided that it was too wild out there and we headed home.

So did Meehan and Rissell, but Peters, Kemp, Elster, and Magro stuck it out. Peters got off to a great start and never looked back; he won handily with his stepdaughter, Krista Fidlow, and his step-grandson, Tony Leis, crewing. That was a significant feat since, not only was the wind howling, but neither crew was very experienced.

BOAT TREED NEAR GLENDALE BR. – Thankfully no one was seriously injured in a Tuesday morning accident on Deep Creek Lake, where this boat ran aground near the Glendale Bridge. Natural Resources Police report that shortly after 7 a.m. Cumberland resident Kim Allen Henson, 54, was heading out for a father-son fishing outing with Jared Christopher Henson, 29, also of Cumberland, when Henson attempted to grab a fishing net that had blown out of the vessel and lost control of the vessel, which then ran aground at an estimated 30 miles per hour. The 18' Stratos bass boat, valued at $9,400 with an additional $5,500 in add-ons, was totaled. NRP officers pointed to operator inattention as the cause, but have not filed charges at this time. "This incident sends a strong safety message to all of us," NRP spokesman Cpl. Ken Turner said. "When boaters are out on the waterways they need to be aware of their ability to operate a vessel and to pay attention to all signs and speed limits, safety equipment, and distance requirements." Backbone Mountain is so riddled with misinformation that it cannot go unanswered.

The mistaken belief that wind plants will reduce acid rain, global warming, and other adverse effects of fossil-fuel generated electricity is sadly pervasive among uninformed people, and is exactly the kind of thinking that the slick, out-of-state developers and their lawyers are working hard to perpetrate. While everyone has a right to his or her opinion, in order for it to carry any weight, it must be an informed opinion.

Contrast the letter on the opposite page from Jon Boone, who has taken the time and effort to become knowledgeable about the dark side of wind power, and backs up his opinions with solid facts. The facts are that, even if the mountains of Garrett County become saturated with thousands of wind turbines (a horribly unthinkable but nevertheless quite possible outcome, given the level of irrational thought apparent among our officials), there will be no measurable reduction in global warming, acid rain, smog, or gasoline prices. However, there will be a permanent, major reduction in the enjoyment of living in Garrett County, as these giant structures will take over and transform the landscape in ways that simply cannot be imagined. As has been the case at nearby much smaller windplants, the lives of people living near them will be ruined and all of us will wonder why we did this to ourselves.

Garrett County–Wake up before it's too late!

Morgantown, W.Va.

To the Editor:

The July 28 front-page article about the jailing of a registered sex offender, and the August 11 front-page article about monitoring sex offenders are just reminders of how toothless are our laws mandating monitoring of sex offenders and child molesters.

Maryland Attorney General Curran has also recently garnered wide attention for proposing new legislation for tightening the registry of sex offenders after they are released from prison.

All well and good, but these suggestions only cover offenders after they have escaped out of the proverbial barn door! It would he far wiser to pass the equivalent of what was this year's House Bill 644, which would have decreased the number of "good days" allowed per month during a sex offender's confinement in prison.

It is absolutely outrageous that sex offenders and child molesters, considered far more dangerous to the most vulnerable members of our community than any other type of felon, continue to receive double the amount of good days as most other felons!

Where is the common sense in this? It is counterintuitive, and yet every year the General Assembly fails to pass this legislation; legislation which former Delegate Sue Hecht of Frederick sponsored for years and tried to get enacted to no avail!

Society cries for an end to the revolving door for sex offenders, yet no one wants to make the statutory change to help make this goal a reality!

I've been watching this issue for a decade, and for the life of me I can't understand why our Maryland state senators and delegates keep protecting sex offenders and child molesters, but these are the facts of life!

Don't believe me? Check the Department of Legislative Reference web site to see who voted against House Bill 644, and let your representatives feel your displeasure!

While implementing these legislative changes will not affect policies concerning any prisoner currently serving a sentence for these offenses, we should certainly be able to direct a change in the future handling of these predators!

Douglas Scott Arey
Westover

To the Editor:

Opponents of windpower have distorted facts and resorted to outrageous statements in trying to rouse opposition to our Criterion wind project. Garrett County residents and visitors want answers, not fear mongering.

From the beginning, Criterion has been a carefully planned project that will benefit the region's economy and environment and help meet expected future power demands with a safe, clean, renewable, domestic source of power. When fully operational at 100 mw, Criterion will provide energy equivalent to about 35,000 households' use.

The project will be one of the largest property-tax payers in Garrett County, helping fund county services. It will be built on land owned primarily by local residents–neighbors who are already contributing members of this community. It will generate many millions of dollars in tax payments over the project's life. Our opponents use wind projects in other jurisdictions with dramatically lower taxes as misleading examples. And it will create local jobs–approximately 175 construction jobs at peak and 6-8 permanent operations jobs–and millions of dollars in construction work and purchases for area companies.

The devastating impacts of our dominant energy source–coal-burning power plants–are felt throughqut the mid-Atlantic region. People die and are impaired, animals die and lose vast amounts of valuable habitat from mining and acid rain or mercury deposition, mountains are blown apart in the coal extraction process, and the quality of life is reduced for many thousands or even millions of people downwind of plants. To even remotely equate these impacts to the low impacts of wind power stretches the facts beyond the point of credibility. Tax "subsidy" claims are overblown because every energy source gets tax credits. Nuclear recently got virtually the same production tax credit wind gets (but for a much longer time!), and coal got new subsidies and other help. Nuclear gets more government help than any other energy technology.

We are proud of the benefits the Criterion Project will bring to Garrett County, and we are proud of the positive contribution it will make as a clean and domestic source of energy. As we move forward on Criterion and if you have questions, please call us at 301-334-3761 or e-mail us info@clipperwind.com. We would welcome the opportunity to answer your questions.

Sincerely,
Kevin Rackstraw
Clipper Windpower Development Company Inc.

To the Editor:

In an August 18 letter to you, Teresa Domenick objected to embryonic stem-cell research because it "always destroys a young human life." I agree. As the only scientist in the Congress with a PhD. in human physiology who has conducted medical research at the National Institutes of Health and has a 100% pro-life voting record, I believe that it is both morally reprehensible, but also scientifically unnecessary to destroy human embryos to engage in embryonic stem-cell research. That is why I have introduced legislation (H.R. 3144/S. 1557) to fund research to develop alternative methods of producing the pluripotent stem-cell lines desired for research without creating or harming a human embryo. In a May 26 editorial, The Republican said, "It seems that the Bartlett bill might be a good alternative for President Bush, who is currently sitting in somewhat of a no-win situation."

I voted against the bill that would use federal tax dollars to pay for stem-cell research that destroys embryos to provide raw fodder for scientific research. The Senate is expected to vote on an identical companion bill (S. 471) this fall. I support President Bush's intention to veto this bill. It would be a loss for the country if President Bush does not also have my bill on his desk to sign when he vetoes H.R. 810/S. 471.

In 2001, President Bush decided that taxpayers should not pay to destroy human embryos. He approved federal funding for research on the existing embryonic stem-cell lines. Those stem-cell lines are limited in number, contaminated with mice genes, and won't last forever. That's why Congress is again debating this issue.

Four years ago I attended a stem-cell research briefing by scientists at NIH, who confirmed that it should be possible to take some cells from an embryo without harming it. I have worked since then pursuing alternative approaches to promote embryonic stem-cell research without creating or harming human embryos.

A person is a person, no matter how small. Every single embryo is genetically distinct and uniquely human with the capacity to develop into a baby who could be the next Albert Einstein. One of my grandmothers died from Lou Gehrig's disease, my mother died from Alzheimer's, and my heart breaks when I meet children suffering from juvenile diabetes. That is why I strongly advocate research using pluripotent stem-cell lines that may be derived from several sources, including from embryos without creating or harming them.

Sincerely,
Congressman Roscoe G. Bartlett

To the Editor:

One of the sad phenomena that occurs in the minds of many individuals of oppressed minorities is that they start to believe they are as inferior as their oppressors tells everyone they are. This robbed many poor black slaves, and later those affected by segregation, of their self-esteem, human dignity, and any hope for a future. Robbing someone of these virtues is one of the cruelest things you can do to a person, because their incentive to achieve often becomes paralyzed.

There are individuals in this country who are being oppressed just as other minorities through the ages were: today's mentally ill.

Stigma is usually defined as "an invisible mark of disgrace or dishonor." However, stigma in our culture seems to mean the banishment of people whose conditions are thought to be so fearful that they deserve their fate.

Those with mental illness are victims of social stereotyping and must make a decisive response to our dilemma. We must take risks and move on with our lives. Recovering from a mental illness requires us to endure public and, in some cases, family scorn while we try to heal.

We must continue to fight every day of our lives the universal battle against prejudice. We know all too well that the only thing worse than getting mental illness is having mental illness. We must continue to negotiate our recovery in the face of monstrous discrimination.

Suffering from stigma occurs every time we are shut out, kept out, disregarded, disrespected, and second-guessed because we are considered inferior, less intelligent, or perhaps too "unsanitary" or too "dangerous."

Several years ago, a writer with mental illness wrote a book about what she had to endure trying to find her elusive place in society. She echoes the same question that's on the minds and hearts of every mental health consumer who has had to endure years of cruel, inhumane stigma: "Is there no place left on Earth for me?"

The Depression and Related Affective Disorders Association (DRADA) and The National Alliance for the Mentally Ill (NAMI) of Garrett County will hold a breakfast meeting at Perkins Restaurant, McHenry, September 10 at 10 a.m. Individuals will be responsible for their own meal. The meeting's purpose is to determine, to what extent, if any, meetings should continue in Garrett County. Anyone interested in attending may do so. Please call Joyce at 301-533-0552 for more information.

Governor Visits

cant building in Kitzmiller to be used as a credit union branch office as part of an economic development project, and $100,000 for demolition of the Pritts building in Oakland.

McCain said the new two-story structure at the Pritts building site will house an incubator for artisans and have studio and retail space for them. The top floor will have office space for First United Bank & Trust. The project, which is a public/private venture with the bank, is expected to be completed by this time next year.

McCain noted the recent revitalization of downtown Oakland, thanks in part to the Community Legacy Program. Just a few year's ago, he said, Oakland, like many small towns, had vacant second-floor offices and apartments, and empty storefronts.

Of Oakland's revitalization and the public/private partnership, Ehrlich said, "[it showed] how just a little bit of your tax dollars coming back to you in our older town centers can leverage the private sector dollars that are out there to revitalize beautiful, beautiful places such as Oakland and every other small town and city in the state. So relatively few dollars from the state under the Community Legacy Program, buys beauty all around our state."

Community Action also received $100,000 from the federal Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program. Of that funding, $50,000 will be used to support Garrett County's Housing Rehabilitation Program for low-to-moderate-income homeowners. The remainder will be used to help purchase an apartment building, the old Geisman Hotel in Oakland, for individuals with low and moderate incomes.

The Appalachian Parent Association also received $15,000 in CDBG funds, which will be used to prepare a feasibility study and business plan regarding the expansion of the mailroom business that is operated by developmentally disabled adults.

The governor and division chief John Tewey, Collaborative Supervision & Focused Enforcement Division (CSAFE), Governor's Office of Crime Control & Prevention, also presented $76,940 to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, $49,706 to the State's Attorney's Office, and $33,363 the Dove Center.

State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch said her office's funding would be used for the CSAFE initiative in the Grantsville area to assist the after-school program and to enhance law enforcement presence and programs in the area. Receiving the check with Thayer Welch were TFC Steven LeMay, Maryland State Police; Linda Green, Partners After-School @ Grantsville; Major Gary Berkebile, Garrett County Sheriff's Office; and Grantsville resident Michael Downton, Garrett County Department of Social Services. Not available for the check presentation were Amy Rishell from the Division of Parole & Probation, and W. Dwight Stover, Department of Juvenile Services. Both had other commitments.

Also on hand to assist the governor with the check presentations were Secretary Audrey Scott, Maryland Department of Planning; Secretary Victor Hoskins, Maryland Department of Housing & Community Development; and Secretary Aris Melissaratos, Maryland Department of Business & Economic Development.

During the governor's Oakland visit, Bill Meagher first vice chair of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, presented the governor with a cake in commemoration of the 80th anniversary of the creation of Deep Creek Lake. McCain also presented Ehrlich with an Oakland mug and a framed copy of an architectural rendering of Pritts building site project.

LOCAL RANGER NOTED FOR VALOR – A July rescue effort by Swallow Falls/Herrington Manor seasonal park ranger Shannon Jenkins was saluted yesterday when Governor Ehrlich presented her with a Valor Award on behalf of the state. The Accident resident, who is originally from Luray, Va., was first on the scene of a July 27 incident in Swallow Falls State Park, where two local teenage swimmers were caught up in the current and swept downstream in a rain-swollen Youghiogheny River. With both victims suffering from hypothermia, Ranger Jenkins rendered aid – including maintaining an airway on an unconscious victim and treating her for shock – and assisted in moving the victims out of the canyon to an area accessible by EMS personnel. Ehrlich also presented Valor Awards to South Mountain Recreational Complex ranger Al Preston and seasonal employee Matt Jones, who trekked six miles – with severe storms approaching – to locate and rescue a man who was having serious health problems on the Appalachian Trail.

over the last several years. An inspection of the system by Thrasher Engineering of Clarksburg, W.Va., indicated that large sections of the system, some of which are over 100 years old, are in an acute state of disrepair, subjecting the system to problems of blockage and inflow, or infiltration, of groundwater and storm water.

The project will focus on replacing rather than expanding the existing system, in order to provide consistently dependable service to the community and to protect the Little Youghiogheny River watershed from contamination, Martin explained.

The cost of the project will be approximately $1.3 million, with funding to be provided by a $650,000 Community Development Block Grant from the state of Maryland, a $150,000 Maryland Department of the Environment grant, a $435,000 Maryland Department of the Environment loan, and $105,000 paid by the town of Mountain Lake Park.

Of the $105,000 provided by the town, approximately $70,000 is for the system design and engineering by Highland Engineering & Surveying Inc. of Oakland, and the remaining $35,000 will be paid to the Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. to cover project administration fees.

The loan from the Maryland Department of the Environment for $435,000 will bear an annual interest rate of only .4 per cent, and will be repaid by issuance of a bond. The bond will be retired over a period of 20 years via town sewer use fees.

Because of the scope of the project, Martin said that construction contractor Bryco Bore and Pipe Inc. of Cabins, W.Va., will be using as many as three work crews at a time, with independent inspection services to be provided by Thrasher Engineering. Additional oversight of the project will be provided by the Maryland Department of the Environment and the Engineering, Architecture & Design Services Group of Somerset, Pa.

DCL Property Owners Assn. Elects Officers

The board of directors of the Property Owners Association (POA) of Deep Creek Lake elected its slate of officers for the coming year recently. New president Scott Johnson will head the board as he succeeds Fred A. Thayer, who is retiring after three years of service.

A POA board member for several years, Johnson has served as the association's vice president for governmental relations. He resides along State Park Road with his wife Beth, and is currently a co-owner of Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty.

Johnson has been active with the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club and Big Brothers Big Sisters, and he is congregation president of the Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church and secretary-elect of the Garrett County Board of Realtors. He earned a bachelor's degree in economics from St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn.

In addition to Thayer, several other longtime POA officers are retiring from service. Louis Battistella will replace outgoing association secretary Carole Perez, and William Nickles has been elected vice president for membership and will serve as editor of the POA newsletter The Dispatch, replacing Ted Rissell.

POA officers who gained re-election were first vice president Roger Titus, vice president for planning Katherine Gemberling, and treasurer Tom Myers.

A new board member, Troy Ellington, was elected to a three-year term. Ellington and his wife Betty have resided at Pergin Farm since 1997 and he has resided at Deep Creek Lake since 1985. A retired electrical engineer, Ellington has been active in the community as a member (alternate) of the Deep Creek Lake Watershed Planning and Zoning Commission, and is a member of the Watershed Economic Growth and Planning Analysis Task Force. He has taken part in several Garrett Lakes Arts Festival events.

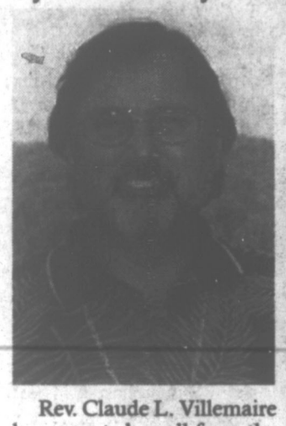
Republican Group To Hold Meeting

The Northern Garrett Republican Women will hold their monthly meeting Tuesday, Aug. 30, at 7 p.m. at Hilltop Restaurant in Grantsville.

The Garrett County commissioners will be the guest panel for the program.

Contributors for the fruit basket are Louis McKenzie, Stella Edwards, Linda Edwards, Gloria Nyheim, and Laura Turner.

Villemaire Named Mission Developer By Lutheran Synod



Rev. Claude L. Villemaire has accepted a call from the West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod Council of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA) to serve as the mission developer for Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church, Deep Creek Lake.

A commissioning and installation service for Rev. Villemaire has been set for Sunday, Sept. 25. The event will be held at 5 p.m. in the Sitzmark Room of Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake.

The congregation invites the community to the commissioning and installation service, as well as worship services each Sunday at 5 p.m., for worship, music, Bible study, and fellowship.

Villemaire and his wife Cyndi currently reside in Accident, having recently moved from the Florida-Bahamas Synod, where he served as pastor of King of Glory Lutheran Church, New Port Richey, Fla.

He has a bachelor of arts degree in history from Florida State University and a master of divinity degree from Lutheran Theological Southern Seminary, Columbia, S.C., and was ordained in 1997. He received mission developers' training in Chicago, Ill., in 2000, and just returned from further training with Sue Green and Judy McCaughey, members of Shepherd of the Hills congregation.

"It is the desire of the ELCA that God will open the hearts of people in the community to respond to the witness of the congregation (and its spirit-filled leader), and that God will help the ministry grow in numbers and faith," said Helen R. Harms, Region 8 mission developer for the ELCA.

October 2004 found the Synod Council of the West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod of the ELCA voting to allow Shepherd of the Hills to organize as a synodically authorized worshiping community and voted to be supportive of the new church as the first mission congregation in the synod since the merger of the ELCA in 1987. Mission status as a developing congregation was determined by the Outreach Review Committee of the national organization of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America in January of this year.

Further information about Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church can be found on its web site shepherdofthehillslutheran.org or by calling 301-387-0400. Messages are returned daily.

Family Caregivers Offered Respite Program At DCL

A group of Garrett County family caregivers were offered a day of respite from their caregiving duties to re-energize themselves in an event hosted by the Garrett County Community Action Committee's Area Agency on Aging (AAA). The group spent the day cruising Deep Creek Lake and sharing lunch at the Wisp.

Funds from the National Family Caregivers Support Program, administered by the AAA, supported the cost of the outing. The intent of the program is to provide respite opportunities for caregivers as well as information and education.

"Respite is essential for caregivers who often become overburdened by their caregiving responsibilities," stated an agency representative. "This program enables the AAA to develop opportunities to help relieve the stress of caregiving."

The agency also works in cooperation with the Health Department and the Alzheimer's Association to provide numerous respite opportunities and educational programs for caregivers throughout the year, including participation in the monthly Alzheimer's /Caregiver Support Group.

Caregivers may obtain information about the National Family Caregiver Support Program by contacting the Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431, ext. 143.

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK LAKE

The following activities have been scheduled for this week at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Further information can be obtained by calling the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067.

Daily: 2:30 p.m. – Monarch Tagging – A naturalist will explain the life cycle of monarch butterflies, then will "tag" a butterfly to keep track of its movements on the way to Mexico (program dependent upon availability of newly hatched butterflies).

•Fri. 8/26: 2:30 p.m. – Canoeing the Meadow Mountain Cove – A naturalist will lead a guided canoe trip on the secluded Meadow Mountain Cove marsh, where evidence of beavers can be seen (90 mins.; $10 per adult, $5 for children 12 and under; must pre-register as space is limited).

•Sat. 8/27: 10:30 a.m. – Historic Brant Mine Hike – Participants will hike along Meadow Mountain to visit an old 1920s mine site (90 mins.; wear appropriate footwear for the rocky trail); 1:30 p.m. – Snakes & Amphibians Alive! – Meet some of the live creatures and learn how to identify poisonous snakes (45 mins.); 7:30 p.m. – Campfire Program: Scales and Tales – Live birds of prey and reptiles will be presented by a naturalist in the campground amphitheater (1 hr.; in case of rain meet in the Discovery Center).

•Sun. 8/28: 1:30 p.m. – Slitherin' up Snakeroot – A leisurely hike that often allows participants to view wildlife, tracks, and plants (1 hr., rocky trail); 7 p.m. – Camper Church – Pastor Don Wilson will lead a service at the campground amphitheater (1 hr.; in case of rain, meet in the Discovery Center).

•Mon. 8/29: 10:30 a.m. – Got Cavities? – Hike around the Discovery Center in search of bird and animal cavities, nests, and dens (45 mins.).

•Tue. 8/30: 8 a.m. – Let's Go Birding – Discover local breeding birds with one of Garrett County's most avid birders, learn how to bird by ear, and listen for distinctive songs on a birding hike (90 mins.; bring binoculars).

•Wed. 8/31: 10 a.m. – Scavenger Hunt – Search for natural objects in a self-directed activity with a prize at the end (45 mins.); 12:30 p.m. – Browsing for Butterflies – Investigate our state park gardens looking for and identifying butterflies, and learn about native plants these butterflies love and ways to improve their habitat (1 hr).

•Thur. 9/1: 3 p.m. – It's Bearly a Hike – Walk through prime black bear habitat, search for scat and tracks, see a possible den site and some favorite foods of Maryland's largest mammal (1 hr.; in case of rain, a slide show on black bears will be held in the Discovery Room).

NEW GERMANY STATE PARK

The following activities have been slated at New Germany State Park. Further information can be obtained by calling 301-895-5453 or 301-746-8359.

•Fri. 8/26: 9 p.m. – Night Hike – Begin with a blindfolded hike to allow eyes of participants to adjust to total darkeness, then experience the forest at night; the naturalist will also attempt to call in a barred owl (90 mins.; meet at the Nature Center).

•Sat. 8/27: 7 p.m. – Scales and Tales – Live birds of prey and reptiles will be presented by guest naturalist Amo Oliverio in the campground amphitheater (1 hr.).

SWALLOW FALLS/HERRINGTON MANOR/ POTOMAC STATE FOREST

The following activities have been scheduled for this weekend at Swallow Falls and Herrington Manor state parks, and Potomac State Forest. Further information can be obtained by calling the parks' office at 301-334-9180.

•Fri. 8/26: 10 a.m. – Edible and Medicinal Plant Walk – A naturalist will guide a hike on park trails, with plant and tea samplings (1 hr.; pre-registration required); 3 p.m. – Beaver Hike – Learn the natural history of beavers on a hike to active beaver ponds, and see numerous wildlife, including birds, amphibians, reptiles, and beavers (90 mins.; meet at the lake house by the canoe docks).

•Sat. 8/27: 9 a.m. – Nature Hike in Potomac State Forest – A naturalist-guided hike in the Potomac State Forest will depart from the forest's office parking lot (1 hr.; registration required and may be made in person at the Herrington Manor office or by calling the number listed above); 10 a.m. – Swallow Falls Scavenger Hunt – Scavanger sheets adapted for various ages will be available in the Swallow Falls office for this self-guided activity with a prize at the end (1 hr.); 8:45 p.m. – Fire Side Chat: What's Lurking in the Water – A western region fisheries biologist will speak at the Swallow Falls amphitheater about the residents of local streams and lakes (1 hr.; in case of rain meet in the Swallow Falls nature center).

•Sun. 8/28: 8:30 p.m. – "Night Sounds of Garrett County" – A naturalist will explain the different night sounds of the forest and attempt to call in owls (1 hr.; meet at the Herrington Manor office).

•Mon. 8/29: 10 a.m. – Junior Rangers – A 2-hr. session for ages 8-14. Jr. Ranger booklets will be distributed, and the group will learn a lesson on weather, do an experiment, and take a hike ($2/person); 1 p.m. – Stream Search – Search for native wildlife in the stream and lake. Meet at the Herrington Manor Concession Building (1 hr.).

•Tue. 8/30: 9 a.m. – Birding on the Blue and Red Trail – Join the naturalist to look for native birds. Binoculars recommended but not required (90 mins.; meet at the Herrington Manor boat launch, not the boat docks).

•Wed. 8/31: 9 a.m. – Tennis Clinic – A clinic with instruction for beginners or intermediate players. Racquets available for loan. Private lessons can also be arranged for another time (2 hrs.; clinic fee is $5 per person; reservations must be made by calling 301-334-3826); 10 a.m. – Cranesville Swamp Nature Hike – A naturalist-guided hike departing from the Herrington Manor office (1 hr.; meet at the Herrington Manor office to drive your own vehicle to the swamp); 2 p.m. – Under the Rocks – A naturalist will present live reptiles and amphibians at the Herrington Manor office (1 hr.).

•Thur. 9/1: 1 p.m. – Amphibian Hike – Hike with a naturalist, and find and identify native amphibians (1 hr.; meet at the Herrington Manor office); 5 p.m. – Tie-Dye – Bring a T-shirt, socks, or bandanna to tie dye in varied colors ($2 per person, meet at Herrington Manor office); 7 p.m. – Twilight Canoe Tour – Canoe Herrington Manor Lake with a naturalist to view wildlife and learn about the lake's history and ecology (1 hr.; $5 per person; pre-register at the Herrington Manor office).

Free Diabetes Classes Slated In Grantsville

The Maryland Cooperative Extension office will offer a free two-part seminar on diabetes and weight management at the Grantsville Senior Center on Oct. 3 and Nov. 7 from 9 until 11:30 a.m. Participants will learn how to manage diabetes through nutrition and healthy eating.

Dr. Jennifer Thorn Bentlejewski, registered dietitian of the Maryland Cooperative Extension, will present detailed meal planning techniques, including the diabetic exchanges and carbohydrate counting. Techniques for dining out, using artificial sweeteners, and understanding food labels will also be discussed.

Diabetes affects nearly 18 million people in this country and is a major contributor to serious health problems such as heart disease, stroke, and kidney disease. Obesity also continues to be on the rise with nearly one in five Maryland adults considered obese, according to the Cooperative Extension.

"Despite these dramatic increases, practicing healthy behaviors such as controlling weight through nutrition and physical activity can help treat and even prevent these health conditions," said a Cooperative Extension spokesperson.

To register for this series, persons may call 301-895-3368. Space is limited, so those interested are asked to call as soon as possible.

WalkAmerica Set At DCL To Benefit March Of Dimes

The third annual March of Dimes WalkAmerica to help save babies from prematurity and birth defects is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 10, at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Check-in and registration begin at 8 a.m. at the Oak Shelter, and the walk will begin at 9 a.m.

Persons interested in forming a team of five or more walkers may do so by calling the Western Maryland Division office of the March of Dimes at 301-722-5818.

Persons who choose to register in order join a team or walk on their own may do so by calling the division office, or calling toll free 1-800-525-WALK, or logging on to www.walkamerica.org.

Teams registered to date are Susquehanna Bank, First United Bank, Miners & Merchants Bank, Civic Club of Oakland, Terra Alta Bank, Railey Mountain Lake Vacations, Garrett Rehab Services, and Team One Auto Mall.

Local sponsors contributing to date are Division sponsor Susquehanna Bank; Gold sponsors Miners & Merchants Bank and Terra Alta Bank; and Silver sponsors Railey Realty, Yellowstone at Deep Creek and WEPCO Federal Credit Union; and Bronze sponsors Team One Auto Mall, Nu-Finish Collision Center, Nu-Way Interiors, and Southern States.

The March of Dimes is a national voluntary health agency with a mission of improving the health of babies by preventing birth defects, premature birth, and infant mortality. Founded in 1938, the March of Dimes funds programs of research, community services, education, and advocacy to save babies. In 2003 the non-profit launched a campaign to address the nation's increasing rate of premature births.

Jeremy Mayfield and crew celebrate Sunday's victory in the GFS Marketplace 400.

GAMBLE pays off

Jeremy Mayfield bets on fuel and comes out a winner at Michigan

By JEFF HOOD
Cox News Service

Brooklyn, Mich.

Jeremy Mayfield, a Nextel Cup driver known for winning in dramatic fashion, struck again Sunday. Mayfield turned a fuel-economy run into an unexpected victory in Sunday's GFS Marketplace 400 at Michigan International Speedway.

Mayfield edged Scott Riggs by completing the final 51 laps on a single tank of gas. The driver of the No. 19 Dodge chose to pit for fuel before the race's final restart.

The Owensboro, Ky., native beat Riggs by 1.974 seconds and finished just ahead of Matt Kenseth, Carl Edwards and Nextel Cup points leader Tony Stewart, whose crew chiefs chose not to top off their fuel tanks on what turned out to be the race's last caution.

"History says this place from Lap 150 on goes green," said Mayfield's crew chief Richard "Slugger" Labbe, who made the winning call. We took a chance on history, and we took a chance on a test we did here when we ran 52 laps, then ran out of gas coming to 53.

"Man, we had a 20th-place car and we robbed the bank."

Mayfield's fifth career victory was as unpredictable as two others, a final-lap bump-and-run on the late Dale Earnhardt at Pocono in 2000 and his run at Richmond last September when he clinched the final spot in the inaugural Chase for the Cup. He moved to sixth place in this season's championship standings after Sunday's race.

"Every race I've ever won has been like that," said Mayfield, who lined up 26th on the final restart before making his charge to the front.

Kenseth, who led nine laps but remains a long shot to qualify for the Chase at 15th in points, was bitter after the race.

"I've always hated fuel-mileage races," Kenseth said. "We've been on the good side of it before, but I hate it.

"I always like the fastest car to win, even if it's not me."

Stewart narrowly avoided disaster on the third lap when his No. 20 Chevrolet made contact with Jamie McMurray's Dodge in Turn 2 of the superspeedway.

The winner of five of the past seven Cup events entering Sunday's race was content with a fifth-place effort.

"We got up to second there, which I was really proud of," Stewart said. "But we just couldn't stay there at the end with the pit strategy.

"It's kind of frustrating to a certain degree, but at the same time we could have all come in and got fuel like everybody else."

Stewart, Johnson clinch spots in Chase

By JEFF HOOD
Cox News Service

Brooklyn, Mich.

A pair of top-10 finishes on Sunday at Michigan enabled Tony Stewart and Jimmie Johnson to become the first two drivers to clinch spots in this year's Chase for the Nextel Cup.

The 10-driver quest for the championship begins at New Hampshire International Speedway Sept. 18.

Johnson, who started last following an engine change during the weekend in his No. 48 Chevrolet, climbed to third with 30 laps remaining in the GFS Marketplace 400. But the Hendrick Motorsports driver was relegated to a 10th-place finish Sunday after a pit stop for fuel with 12 laps remaining.

"It's comforting to at least be in the top 10 in points," said Johnson, who remains second in the season standings, 126 points behind Stewart. "It's a testament to our guys to clinch it with three races to go."

Tough day for Sadler

Elliott Sadler's hopes to reach the Chase were dealt a setback on Lap 83 when he spun exiting Turn 2.

Sadler's mishap collected teammate Dale Jarrett and Ricky Rudd. He lost 11 laps following the incident while his crew made repairs to his battered No. 38 Ford on pit road.

"I don't know what to say," said Sadler, who finished 39th and slipped from 11th to 13th in the season standings, 66 points behind 10th place Jamie McMurray. "I just got loose behind [Kyle Petty] and [Ryan Newman] and it just came around. I think my worst nightmare has come true.

"I've put us in a position where we've got to win the next couple of races to try and get into the Chase."

Jarrett, whose No. 88 Ford suffered minor damage in the incident, returned to the track but finished 34th after running out of fuel with two laps left.

He remained 11th in points, 51 points out of 10th.

Rudd finished on the lead lap in 19th.

Raines comes close to upset

Tony Raines came within six laps of pulling off one of the greatest upsets in Nextel Cup history after he took the lead with seven laps remaining in the No. 37 Dodge owned by Roger Craven and John Carter of Toccoa, Ga.

"Toward the end of the race they told me I was leading, and I thought to myself that if I win this race, it would be the Cinderella story of the summer," said Raines, who finished 31st on Sunday in his debut for R&J Racing.

"We led two laps and put ourselves in a position to almost win a race. I don't know what else I could have done," he said.

Pit stop knocks Earnhardt to 18th

An 18th-place finish left Dale Earnhardt Jr. on the brink of championship elimination after he was forced to pit with eight laps remaining while leading.

"It's frustrating," said Earnhardt, who fell to 16th in the standings, 158 points out of the final Chase spot.

"I hate fuel mileage races where the fastest car doesn't win," he said.

COMMENTARY

NASCAR looks to gain Hispanic fan base

By JEFF GLUCK
Cox News Service

Fontana, Calif.

At first, it's hard to imagine that, at age 42, Adrian Fernandez might have a lot to do with the future of NASCAR.

Sure, his popularity in Mexico is comparable to that of Michael Jordan in the United States. And yes, he is one of the world's best open-wheel race car drivers.

But American fans don't know Fernandez, and he's run exactly one NASCAR race in his life, a Busch Series event at that.

Fernandez, though, could be one of the most important figures in NASCAR history, depending on what happens over the next few months. Hendrick Motorsports has signed Fernandez to drive in four more Busch races this season, and if he likes the results, Fernandez just might stick around long enough to help NASCAR unlock the Hispanic fan base.

But first things first. Fernandez has to learn how to drive a stock car, taking his first steps toward that goal last week during a test session at California Speedway.

It was his first experience in a stock car on an oval track, and his initial laps left him doubting his decision.

"I thought, 'What am I doing here?' " he said. "This is crazy."

Yet it wasn't crazy for Hendrick and sponsor Lowe's to approach Fernandez with an offer to drive the four races after a successful run in March's Mexico City Busch race. That day, Fernandez finished 10th after taking the lead, a moment so loved by race fans that the driver heard their cheers over the roar of the engines.

Describing himself as pretty cynical, Fernandez's public relations representative Drew Brown was moved by the experience.

"When he was walking through the crowd, they started doing soccer chants for him," Brown said. "The hairs on the back of my neck stood up.

"(Taking the lead) was much like when Danica (Patrick) took the lead at Indy."

Hendrick and NASCAR realize that Fernandez could reach out to a previously untapped and lucrative market. Lowe's figured it out, too.

Although Brown said Lowe's has no stores in Mexico, the company is eager to use Fernandez as an ambassador to Hispanics living in the United States.

Fernandez recently had lunch with Lowe's executives, and "couldn't believe how excited they were about the whole thing," he said.

"They could have a market nobody else really has," he added.

So where are all the Hispanic fans now? Fernandez said he believes they're out there, but the majority of them haven't received the message. For example, when seeing his picture with a stock car at a Lowe's store, Fernandez fans might not equate the driver with NASCAR.

"They'll say, 'Adrian doesn't drive this,' " said Fernandez, who finished his Indy Racing League career last year. "They're confused. They don't understand."

If Fernandez is successful Sept. 3 at California, as well as his three other races at Texas, Phoenix and Homestead, the driver may decide to return in 2006 and beyond. Having a bona fide Hispanic star in the Busch Series would thrill NASCAR officials; putting Fernandez in a Nextel Cup car would be the sanctioning body's dream come true.

If marketability and driving talent go hand in hand, Fernandez is already the total package.

"He's good with everybody," Brown said. "He can talk to the CEO as well as he can talk to the mechanic."

Will Fernandez win his NASCAR oval debut? Probably not. But his realistic goals include qualifying for the race and finishing in the top 20 — for now.

"At the end of the day, you have to be successful," he said. "You have to win."

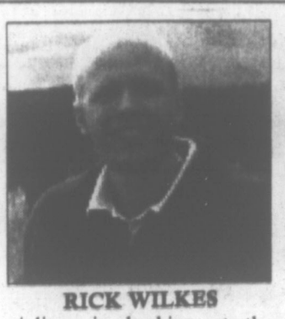
Arthritis Support Group To Meet, Hear Rick Wilkes

The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Arthritis/ Fibromyalgia Support Group will hold its monthly meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 6, at 6:30 p.m. in the Community Services building at GCMH. The topic will be massage therapy and pain control.

Rick Wilkes, a state and nationally certified massage therapist, will be the guest speaker for this event. Wilkes is the president of Thriving Now LLC and will teach several body-centered techniques for reducing pain, stress, and anxiety, with special emphasis on using the body as an energy system.

"We're not just a mix of bones, muscles, organs, and fluids in a sack of skin," Wilkes said. "I will give participants a brief look at the difference between the mechanical/biochemical view of the body and a more 'quantum view.'"

He will discuss Chinese medicine and how it specializes in looking at the body as a field of flowing energy, where disruptions cause emotional pain and physical disease. There will be a hands-on exercise, with touch, with before and after rankings of stress and pain.



RICK WILKES

The program will also discuss massage therapy, its many forms, and how to choose the right therapist.

There will also be an introduction to the energy tapping technique, EFT (Emotional Freedom Techniques).

"I am an advanced practitioner in EFT, and I find that it can often make a huge difference in the emotional side of having a chronic pain condition, and sometimes even clear up or dramatically improve the condition itself," Wilkes said.

There is no charge to attend the support group meetings, and all ages are welcome. For more information, persons may call GCMH Wellness at 301-533-4295.

Many Md. Schools Open This Month; Teachers Sought

Twenty-two of Maryland's 24 school systems will begin classes this month, as the 2005-2006 school year gets under way. Only Somerset and Worcester counties on the Eastern Shore are set to begin classes after Labor Day. Garrett County schools opened today, with a 1 p.m. dismissal.

Statewide, more than 870,000 students will stream into classes this fall, with nearly 80,000 teachers and other instructional staff scheduled to be on hand to help students make the grade.

Below are some of the headlines for the new school year:

•More than 6,000 new teachers were needed for the upcoming year. Several school systems still have numerous openings as the first day of classes approaches.

•The federal No Child Left Behind Act requires that all teachers be "highly qualified" by the end of this school year.

•The first wave of public charter schools in Maryland will open this fall.

Schools begin a few weeks after an independent report determined Maryland's response to the tough standards of the federal No Child Left Behind Act was one of the nation's strongest. The MGT of America/ Council of Chief State School Officers report commended Maryland in 58 separate areas.

"Maryland schools are leading the nation in so many ways," said State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick. "The key for continued success is active support from parents and our communities at large as our students, teachers, and administrators begin the new year."

School systems throughout the state are focusing on continuing the progress made over the past two years, as Maryland School Assessment scores in both reading and mathematics rose in all 24 school systems.

The federal No Child Left Behind Act requires that all students be proficient in reading and mathematics by the year 2014. Although Maryland students showed great improvement between 2004 and 2005, the bar rises on an annual basis. Each year, those academic performance goals become more difficult to reach.

Teacher Shortages Remain

Personnel offices in Maryland school systems are still busy, even with classes ready to begin in a few days. Maryland classrooms are scheduled to welcome more than 6,000 new teachers this fall, and several hundred positions remained unfilled as of early this week. Many of these were in fields facing chronic shortages, such as special education, high school science, speech, and mathematics.

The Maryland State Board of Education during this month's meeting, Aug. 30-31, will look at teacher shortages as it reviews MSDE's annual teacher staffing report.

The Drive for Highly Qualified Teachers

Hiring difficulties this fall are complicated by a provision in the federal No Child Left Behind Act requiring all teachers to be "highly qualified" by the end of the 2005-2006 school year. MSDE data says that approximately 75.3 percent of classes last year were taught by "highly qualified" teachers, a big jump from 2003-2004 when just 66.9 percent of classes featured a highly qualified teacher, but well short of the goal.

"Highly qualified" is a specific term defined by No Child Left Behind. The law outlines a list of minimum requirements both in content knowledge and teaching skills to meet the "highly qualified" status. The law requires teachers to have a bachelor's degree and full state certification, and to demonstrate content knowledge in the subjects they teach. Under NCLB, states decide what is necessary for certification and for determining subject-matter competency.

High School Assessment

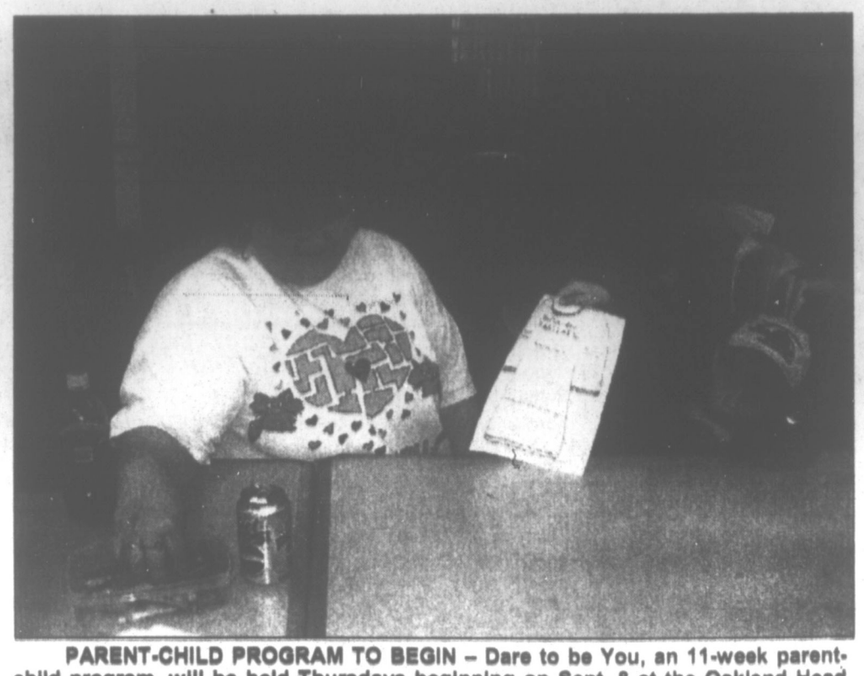
The Maryland State Board of Education last year took the important step of strengthening the high school diploma. This year's ninth grade class (the class of 2009) is the first group of students required to pass end-of-course assessments in algebra, biology, English 2, and government before being allowed to graduate with a Maryland diploma.

A number of students already started taking – and passing – assessments last year. Middle school students taking high school-level courses, such as algebra, took tests last spring near the end of their courses. Students will have as many as three opportunities each year to pass the test, and those who need additional assistance to make the grade will be provided with online tools.

The First Wave of Charter Schools

Seven completely new charter schools will open in Maryland this fall, and seven Baltimore City alternative schools have converted to charter status. Combined with the state's one pre-existing school – Monocacy Valley Montessori Charter School in Frederick – Maryland will have 15 charter schools in operation. Those schools will be serving more than 3,400 students.

The rapid growth of charter schools has taken place over a very brief period of time. Maryland's charter school law was signed in May 2003, and a few months later the state received a three-year, $13 million federal grant to help launch new schools.



PARENT-CHILD PROGRAM TO BEGIN – Dare to be You, an 11-week parent-child program, will be held Thursdays beginning on Sept. 8 at the Oakland Head Start Center. Parents and children between the ages of 2½ to 5 years are invited to participate. Dare to be You includes activities to promote and reinforce skills such as decision making and problem solving, self-discipline, assertiveness, positive communication and social skills, responsibility, role modeling, and self-esteem. Rewards include family meals and a workshop incentive for completion of the program. In the activity illustrated above, Matthew Casteel proudly shows his mom Jessie some of his favorite things. The "My Favorite Thing" activity gives children the opportunity to express their choices or preferences in several areas. Parents model this by expressing their choices at the same time. To participate in the Sept. 8 - Nov. 11 program, parents can call the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7730. This program is sponsored by the Health Department through funding from the Maryland Alcohol and Drug Abuse Administration.

TV PIPELINE

'House' will soon begin its renewed lease

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: I just started watching the show "House" and it has disappeared. What happened? Have they taken it off the air? –Charles Williams, Gainesville, Fla.

A: The Fox medical-drama series – starring current Emmy nominee Hugh Laurie – has been repeating on Tuesday nights, and it will start its second season Sept. 13. If you'd like a thorough refresher of the first year's critically acclaimed episodes, those will be released in a boxed set Tuesday, Aug. 30, by Universal Studios Home Video.

Hugh Laurie

Q: There is an actor on "The Closer" whose last name is Gossett. Is he related to Louis Gossett Jr.? –Kathie McCormac, Thornton, Colo.

A: Robert Gossett, the actor in question on the current TNT show, is a first cousin of Oscar winner Louis Gossett Jr. He also was a regular in the police-detective series "Silk Stalkings" during the 1992-93 season.

Q: I would really love to see some "Spenser: For Hire" reruns with Robert Urich and Avery Brooks. Any chance of that, or can "Spenser" be purchased on DVD? –Barbara Gilbert, Atlanta.

A: Frankly, we'd love it too, but we don't know of any plans for regularly scheduled repeats ... not even on TV Land, which earlier this summer included a "Spenser" episode in a weekend-long tribute to the 50th anniversary of Warner Bros. Television. However, several of the later "Spenser" TV movies that were made for Lifetime – still starring Urich as private detective Spenser and Brooks as his enigmatic comrade Hawk – were released in a boxed DVD set recently.

Q: My favorite show is "Scrubs," but it hasn't been on recently. Has the show been canceled, or will it return? –Loren Clupny, Hermiston, Ore.

A: It'll be back, but for now, it's anyone's guess exactly when. NBC relegated it to "midseason" status for the upcoming year, something the network probably regrets now since the show earned some major Emmy nominations – outstanding comedy series and outstanding lead actor in a comedy (for Zach Braff) – after the fall schedule was set. Especially if "Scrubs" wins one of those honors, expect to see it back the moment any of NBC's other half-hour series shows even the slightest sign of faltering.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

THE SUN – The sun spends the first 15 days of September in the star group Leo; then, in the early afternoon of Sept. 15, the sun enters Virgo, where it stays until Oct. 30. The amount of daily sunlight decreases in September, as the month opens with 13 hours and 3 minutes of sunlight and closes with 11 hours and 48 minutes of sunlight. In early September the sun rises about 6:50 a.m., and sets around 7:45 p.m. In late September sunrises are about 7:10 a.m., while sunsets are about 7:05 p.m. The sun's midday height during September drops from 58 to 47 degrees. The length of twilight throughout the month is about an hour, meaning that the fainter stars fade from view about an hour before sunrise and reappear an hour after sunset. In mid-September, we have about 9.7 hours each night for star gazing. Fall officially begins just before sunset on Sept. 22. At that time, the sun's direct rays cross the equator, moving south. On the first day of fall, the sun rises due east and sets due west over much of the world. During fall, the sunlight hours each day drop by nearly 3 hours in this region, from 12.1 hours on Sept. 22 to 9.3 hours on Dec. 21.

THE MOON – As September begins, the moon shines as a crescent in the dawn sky. On Sept. 3 and 4 the moon hides in the sun's glare. On Sept. 6 the moon reappears as a very sharp crescent very low in the western dusk, and the planet Jupiter will appear just above the moon that same evening. On Sept. 7, the moon will have moved to the left of the brilliant planet Venus, and on Sept. 10 the moon will appear half full (like a letter "D"), the best shape for crater and mountain viewing with binoculars or telescope. The evening moon is full on Sept. 17, shining all through the night as the Harvest Moon, the full moon that lingers longest in the early evening sky for the next few evenings. This extra dose of moonlight was helpful to farmers of old who could gather their crops by moonlight in the early evening hours. On Sept. 21 the moon appears near the bright planet Mars in the late evening eastern sky, and on Sept. 28 the crescent moon is near the planet Saturn in dawn's southeastern sky. As September ends, the moon is a slender crescent low in the eastern dawn.

THE SOLAR SYSTEM – Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine steadily, unlike the bright night stars that twinkle. The brilliant planet Venus shines low in the western dusk. (Dusk is the first hour after sunset.) Appearing near to Venus in early September is the bright planet Jupiter, and as the weeks pass Jupiter will drop lower into the dusk, disappearing in the sun's glare by the end of September. During September, the rising time of Mars drops from 10:45 p.m. early in the month to 9 p.m. late in the month. Look for Mars as a bright-tinted point of light in the late eastern evening sky. The planet Saturn improves its visibility at dawn as its rising time moves from 4 a.m. early in September to 2:20 a.m. late in the month. The innermost planet Mercury is too close to the sun to be seen in September.

THE EVENING STARS – The brightest star is white-blue Vega, shining nearly overhead at dusk. Vega and two other bright stars form the Summer Triangle, the brightest star group now visible. The Big Dipper appears low in the north-northwest. Low in the west is the bright golden star Arcturus.

ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES – The Cumberland Astronomy Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 16, at the LaVale Public Library. Weather permitting, there will be outside telescope observation of the moon and planets. All sky gazers are welcome.

The FSU Planetarium's free public programming resumes on Sundays beginning Sept. 11, with 45-minute programs that start at 4 and 7 p.m. The September program is "Earth – Now and Future," spotlighting the Earth's current problems and its likely future. The Planetarium is located in Tawes Hall, Room 302, with free parking nearby. The free public programs begin promptly (no latecomers admitted), and persons may call 301-687-4270, ext. 2 for directions and further information.

Dr. Doyle writes this column for beginners who would like to identify the brightest starts, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask questions, or get a beginner's guide to the night sky and/or a planetarium brochure, persons may call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270, ext. 4. Doyle hosts "SkyWatch," a brief program on days of the week and sky sights that airs weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM at 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and 96.3 FM in the Oakland area. The FSU Planetarium web site address is www.frostburg.edu/planetarium, and Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.

Fish Fry And Pie Sale Set In Grantsville

The Grantsville Senior Center has planned a Fish Fry and Pie Sale for Friday, Sept. 2, from 4 to 7 p.m. The meal will include "all-you-can-eat" baked or fried fish, baked beans, macaroni and cheese, stewed tomatoes, salad bar, coleslaw, french fries, baked potato, and beverage. Assorted pies will also be available for sale and carry-out.

In addition, the Senior Center is accepting advance orders for freshly baked apple, blueberry, peach, cherry, strawberry, banana cream, coconut cream, chocolate cream, lemon, and pumpkin pies. Proceeds will support the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging Meals on Wheels program.

For more information or directions to the senior center, persons may call 301-895-5818.

Richter Conducting Scientific Research At Susquehanna

Kathryn Richter, Oakland, is spending the summer conducting research at Susquehanna University.

Richter, a biology major, is working with Alissa Packer, assistant professor of biology. The research studies the negative plant-soil feedback between black cherry trees and pythium, a soil-borne fungal pathogen that attacks seedlings surrounding adult trees. They are currently working to compare the species of pythium present in soil from Indiana to soil from the Netherlands.

"The hope is that this research will show differences in the pathogens present in Indiana, where black cherry trees are native, and the Netherlands, where the trees are introduced and are taking over the landscape," Richter said in an e-mail interview.

The project is funded by the Research Partners Program, now in its 10th year. Susquehanna faculty members apply for the funds and serve as mentors to the students who work with them for the summer. The objective of the program is to enhance student learning at Susquehanna by providing students the opportunity to actively participate in a research project on a full-time basis.

Richter will be a senior this fall. She will continue this investigation as her senior research. She is a 2002 graduate of Southern High School and the daughter of Donald Richter and Sheila Edwards.

Jennings Church Plans Hymn Sing

The Jennings United Methodist Church will host a hymn sing on Sunday, Aug. 28, beginning at 7 p.m., featuring the Windy Ridge Hoedown singers.

The church is located four miles south of Grantsville off Route 495 on the Jennings Road.

The public is invited to attend.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

THE SUN – The sun spends the first 15 days of September in the star group Leo; then, in the early afternoon of Sept. 15, the sun enters Virgo, where it stays until Oct. 30. The amount of daily sunlight decreases in September, as the month opens with 13 hours and 3 minutes of sunlight and closes with 11 hours and 48 minutes of sunlight. In early September the sun rises about 6:50 a.m., and sets around 7:45 p.m. In late September sunrises are about 7:10 a.m., while sunsets are about 7:05 p.m. The sun's midday height during September drops from 58 to 47 degrees. The length of twilight throughout the month is about an hour, meaning that the fainter stars fade from view about an hour before sunrise and reappear an hour after sunset. In mid-September, we have about 9.7 hours each night for star gazing. Fall officially begins just before sunset on Sept. 22. At that time, the sun's direct rays cross the equator, moving south. On the first day of fall, the sun rises due east and sets due west over much of the world. During fall, the sunlight hours each day drop by nearly 3 hours in this region, from 12.1 hours on Sept. 22 to 9.3 hours on Dec. 21.

THE MOON – As September begins, the moon shines as a crescent in the dawn sky. On Sept. 3 and 4 the moon hides in the sun's glare. On Sept. 6 the moon reappears as a very sharp crescent very low in the western dusk, and the planet Jupiter will appear just above the moon that same evening. On Sept. 7, the moon will have moved to the left of the brilliant planet Venus, and on Sept. 10 the moon will appear half full (like a letter "D"), the best shape for crater and mountain viewing with binoculars or telescope. The evening moon is full on Sept. 17, shining all through the night as the Harvest Moon, the full moon that lingers longest in the early evening sky for the next few evenings. This extra dose of moonlight was helpful to farmers of old who could gather their crops by moonlight in the early evening hours. On Sept. 21 the moon appears near the bright planet Mars in the late evening eastern sky, and on Sept. 28 the crescent moon is near the planet Saturn in dawn's southeastern sky. As September ends, the moon is a slender crescent low in the eastern dawn.

THE SOLAR SYSTEM – Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine steadily, unlike the bright night stars that twinkle. The brilliant planet Venus shines low in the western dusk. (Dusk is the first hour after sunset.) Appearing near to Venus in early September is the bright planet Jupiter, and as the weeks pass Jupiter will drop lower into the dusk, disappearing in the sun's glare by the end of September. During September, the rising time of Mars drops from 10:45 p.m. early in the month to 9 p.m. late in the month. Look for Mars as a bright-tinted point of light in the late eastern evening sky. The planet Saturn improves its visibility at dawn as its rising time moves from 4 a.m. early in September to 2:20 a.m. late in the month. The innermost planet Mercury is too close to the sun to be seen in September.

THE EVENING STARS – The brightest star is white-blue Vega, shining nearly overhead at dusk. Vega and two other bright stars form the Summer Triangle, the brightest star group now visible. The Big Dipper appears low in the north-northwest. Low in the west is the bright golden star Arcturus.

ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES – The Cumberland Astronomy Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 16, at the LaVale Public Library. Weather permitting, there will be outside telescope observation of the moon and planets. All sky gazers are welcome.

The FSU Planetarium's free public programming resumes on Sundays beginning Sept. 11, with 45-minute programs that start at 4 and 7 p.m. The September program is "Earth – Now and Future," spotlighting the Earth's current problems and its likely future. The Planetarium is located in Tawes Hall, Room 302, with free parking nearby. The free public programs begin promptly (no latecomers admitted), and persons may call 301-687-4270, ext. 2 for directions and further information.

Dr. Doyle writes this column for beginners who would like to identify the brightest starts, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask questions, or get a beginner's guide to the night sky and/or a planetarium brochure, persons may call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270, ext. 4. Doyle hosts "SkyWatch," a brief program on days of the week and sky sights that airs weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM at 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and 96.3 FM in the Oakland area. The FSU Planetarium web site address is www.frostburg.edu/planetarium, and Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.

Richter Conducting Scientific Research At Susquehanna

Kathryn Richter, Oakland, is spending the summer conducting research at Susquehanna University.

Richter, a biology major, is working with Alissa Packer, assistant professor of biology. The research studies the negative plant-soil feedback between black cherry trees and pythium, a soil-borne fungal pathogen that attacks seedlings surrounding adult trees. They are currently working to compare the species of pythium present in soil from Indiana to soil from the Netherlands.

"The hope is that this research will show differences in the pathogens present in Indiana, where black cherry trees are native, and the Netherlands, where the trees are introduced and are taking over the landscape," Richter said in an e-mail interview.

The project is funded by the Research Partners Program, now in its 10th year. Susquehanna faculty members apply for the funds and serve as mentors to the students who work with them for the summer. The objective of the program is to enhance student learning at Susquehanna by providing students the opportunity to actively participate in a research project on a full-time basis.

Richter will be a senior this fall. She will continue this investigation as her senior research. She is a 2002 graduate of Southern High School and the daughter of Donald Richter and Sheila Edwards.

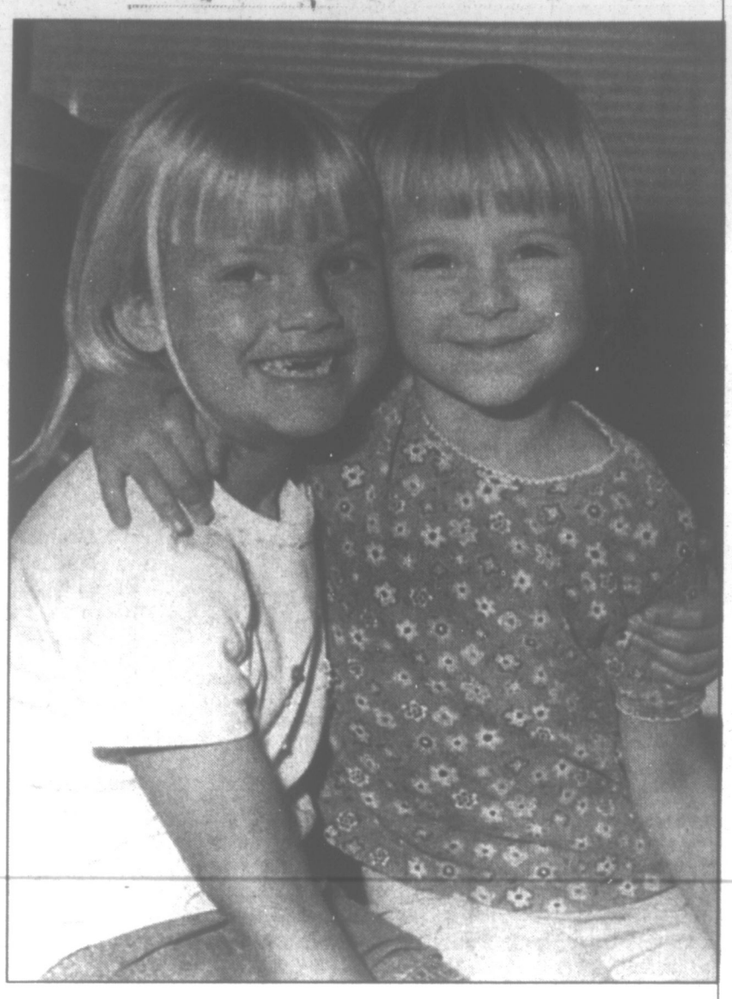
Be Optimistic

Do you know someone who always has a smile on his or her face? No matter what kind of troubles life throws their way, they approach them with a happy heart. People like this are called "optimists", a word that comes from the Latin word "optimus", meaning "best".



Wouldn't it be great to approach the ups and downs of life focusing on the best? Sometimes we can't change anything but our own attitude. No matter what is going on in our lives and in the world, we can always lift up our hearts and focus on heavenly things. That gives us reason to rejoice and be optimistic!

God's Word tells the story of Job, a good man who experienced great suffering. Despite his troubles, Job continued to worship God. He said, "...the Lord gave and the Lord has taken away; may the name of the Lord be praised." (Job 1:21)

With God's help, we can be optimistic. Praise Him this week in your chosen house of worship and focus on the "best" in your life!

One of the most difficult of human challenges can be forgiving those who have hurt us. Our hurt feelings usually incline us more toward revenge than forgiveness. And at times, we may even feel that fairness or justice requires us to punish those who have wronged us, or at the very least, call upon them to give an account of why they have acted in such a way. Sometimes punishment is justified, and sometimes people should be called to give an account of their actions, but that doesn't mean we should not forgive them. On the contrary, until we have truly forgiven someone who has wronged us, we are held captive by the real or imaginary wrong that was done to us; it gnaws away at us, eating us from the inside out. The real and lasting value of forgiveness lies mainly in the way that it allows us to think about this negative event in a more positive way: as an event that called forth mercy and forgiveness rather than revenge and retribution. True forgiveness is an act of God's relations far better than justice or revenge.

Give us this day our daily bread;
And forgive us our debts, As we also have forgiven our debtors.

R.S.V. Matthew 6:11-12

Deficiency Of This Essential Vitamin Is Rare

Vitamin B_6 is a water-soluble vitamin. It plays an important role in the breakdown of proteins and red blood cells. It is also necessary to maintain healthy immune and nervous systems. Vitamin B_6 is found in many foods such as fortified cereals, beans, meat, poultry, fish, fruits, and vegetables. The Recommended Dietary Allowance of vitamin B_6 is 1.5 mg and 1.7 mg for women and men ages 51 and over. While vitamin B_6 deficiency is rare in the U.S., it can occur in people with poor quality diet, and in people who abuse alcohol (due to poor quality diet). Symptoms of vitamin B_6 deficiency are skin inflammation, sore tongue, depression, anemia and confusion.

Vitamin B_6 toxicity has also been reported. Toxicity manifests as numbness and tingling (neuropathy) in the arms and legs. This condition is reported as being reversible when vitamin B_6 supplementation is stopped The Institute of Medicine has established an upper tolerable intake level of 100 mg per day for all adults. Vitamin B_6 is often used by patients taking isoniazid for the treatment of tuberculosis in order to prevent neuropathy caused by isoniazid.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• The world's first commercially produced electronic digital computer, known as UNIVAC, came out in 1951. It weighed eight tons and could perform 1,000 calculations in a single second. That may seem paltry compared with today's computers, but at the time it was the fastest processor in the world. The cost was $250,000 — quite a princely sum in those days — and the first one was purchased by the U.S. Census Bureau.

• Those who study such things claim that a hamster can hold up to half its weight in food in its cheek pouches alone.

• Ronald Reagan, the 40th president of the United States, was also something of a wit. It was he who observed, "Politics is not a bad profession. If you succeed there are many rewards, if you disgrace yourself you can always write a book." He also once remarked, "It has been said that politics is the second oldest profession. I have learned that it bears a striking resemblance to the first."

• Here's yet another item to add to the extensive list of the vagaries of the English language: The phrases "fat chance" and "slim chance" mean the same thing.

• Chewing gum can be hazardous to the health, evidently. An Australian man named Abner Kriller was chewing gum while driving one day, and, as many people do, he blew a large bubble. Unfortunately, when the bubble burst, the gummy mess stuck to his glasses, causing Kriller to run off the road and down a steep hill, killing him instantly.

• The Caspian Sea isn't actually a sea; it's officially classified as a lake — the world's largest. And it's five and a half times as big as the world's second-largest lake, Lake Superior.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Aug. 29, 1533, Atahuallpa, the 13th and last emperor of the Incas, dies by strangulation at the hands of Spanish conquistadors. His execution marked the end of 300 years of Inca civilization.

• On Aug. 31, 1888, Mary Ann Nichols, the first victim of London serial killer "Jack the Ripper," is found murdered and mutilated in Whitechapel's Buck's Row. The East End of London saw four more victims of the murderer during the next few months, but no suspect was ever found.

• On Sept. 1, 1928, Robert Pirsig, author of "Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance," is born on this day in Minneapolis. More than 120 publishing houses rejected the book before it was published in 1974. It became a cult classic, selling more than 4 million copies in the next 30 years.

• On Sept. 3, 1935, a new land-speed record is set by Britain's famed speed demon Sir Malcolm Campbell on the Bonneville Salt Flats of Utah. Campbell and his 2,500-horsepower motorcar Bluebird made two runs over a 1-mile course at speeds averaging more than 301 mph.

• On Sept. 2, 1969, science-fiction television series "Star Trek" airs its last episode. Although "Star Trek" ran for only three years and never placed better than No. 52 in the ratings, the show spawned four television series and nine movies.

• On Sept. 4, 1972, U.S. swimmer Mark Spitz wins his seventh gold medal at the Summer Olympics in Munich. When terrorists struck the Olympic village the next day, Spitz, who is Jewish, was put under armed guard and flown to London out of fear he might become a target.

• On Aug. 30, 1980, Willie Nelson's single "On the Road Again" entered the charts. The song would eventually reach No. 1 and become an American classic. Restless spirits everywhere lived by Nelson's lyrics; "... I can't wait to get on the road again."

Here's the Scoop on Doggie Poop

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: In regard to your article on coprophagia (a compulsion to eat feces), taking the dog for a walk to regulate "go" times is the cure, but picking up the feces will complete the training. Dispose of it properly upon coming home, then give the dog a treat. In this way there is no interruption of the walking, exercising, eliminating cycle. — Deb D. in Rhode Island

DEAR DEB: Thank you! Pet owners who are dealing with the nasty sight of pets eating their stools, take note.

Coprophagia was discussed in a column this spring, with several options being brought up — from nutritional supplements, to training, to sprinkling Tabasco on the stool to deter the dog from eating it. But the best resolution, as Deb points out, is to control when, where and how your dog eliminates. Rather than let it out back to do its business, put the dog on a leash at the same time each day and go out for a walk.

Picking up your dog's stool isn't just a training method, either — it's being a good neighbor. Don't get too grossed out by the thought of it: Special pick-up bags can be found at the pet store. If you're out of these or want to start training your dog right away before heading to the store, grab some plastic sandwich bags. These can be opened around your hand, used to pick up the stool and quickly spun shut.

Some cities and counties provide pick-up bags at parks and in other public areas; keep an eye out for dispensers while you're walking the dog.

by Larry Cox

Q: I have what I believe are original pieces of Americana. I have the Lincoln assassination issue of the New York Herald dated April 15, 1865, and a broadsheet from Ford's Theater promoting Laura Keene and her performance of "Our American Cousin." Who can authenticate them for me? — Bob, Dubuque, Iowa

A: You need a documents expert, and I highly recommend at least two, Phil Barber, P.O. Box 8694, Boston, MA 2114; and Timothy Hughes, P.O. Box 3636, Williamsport, PA 17701. Don't be too disappointed if your documents turn out to be reproductions, since both the Herald and the Ford Theater broadsheet were reprinted years after the fact.

Q: I have several Norman Rockwell Saturday Evening Post covers. Are they collectible? — Susan, Phoenix, Ariz.

A: More than likely. Norman Rockwell is one of our most admired illustrators, and his work is extremely popular with collectors throughout the world. Mary Moline is considered an expert on Rockwell art. She is the author of Norman Rockwell Collectibles Value Guide as well as six other books on related subjects. Her address is P.O. Box 1444, South Lake Tahoe, CA 96151.

Q: I have a small collection of Dixie Cup lids from the 1940s. Should I toss them or try to find a collector? — Steve, Wapello, Iowa

A: Believe it or not, I was able to find two collectors: Leonard Schneir, 184 Sixth St., New York, NY 10013; and Leigh Giarde, P.O. Box 2243, Redlands, CA 92373.

One of my mottos is never, ever throw anything out because there is — without a doubt — a collector for everything imaginable.

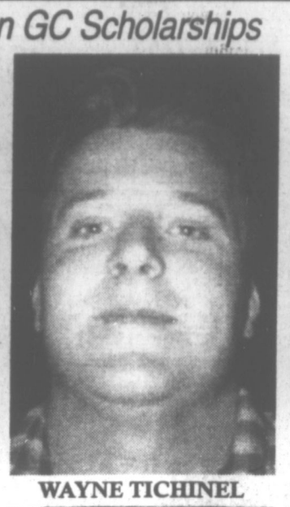
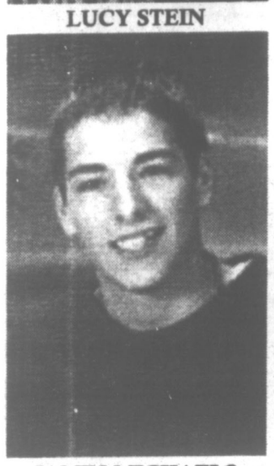
LUCY STEIN



WAYNE TICHINEL

LISA BERNARD



JAMES MICHAELS

TINA OPEL

DANI GLOTFELTY

The Garrett College Foundation has announced the names of six additional Garrett County residents who have been awarded scholarships for the 2005-06 academic year.

Lucy Ellen Stein received the Bill Crawford Memorial Scholarship, which is designed to aid a Garrett County native who is interested in the public service field, such as nursing or journalism. After completing studies in pre-nursing at Garrett, Stein intends to become a licensed practical nurse while pursuing a bachelor's degree in nursing.

A 1978 graduate of Northern High School, Stein is a past treasurer for the Northern High Band Boosters. She enjoys gardening, is a leader in the WOW Rangers Lodge 41 of Grantsville, and is an Avon representative. The Grantsville resident is the daughter of Clarence and Maxine Guthrie. She has two children, Stacy and Kelly Stein.

Wayne Tichinel received the Roscoe G. Bartlett Scientific Scholarship. Enrolling as a math/science major, he plans to earn a bachelor's degree in civil engineering from West Virginia University's School of Engineering. He is an avid cabinet maker, and is a member of Carpenters' Local Union 1024. He enjoys billiards and baseball, and attends services at Mtn. Top Christian Assembly.

Tichinel was nominated to the 2004-2005 dean's list and is a member of Phi Theta Kappa National Honor Society. The 1994 Southern High School graduate is the son of Rodney and Debbie Tichinel. He and his wife Tammy live in Deer Park with children Brooke, Sydney, and Rachael.

Lisa Marie Bernard, who received the Mr. and Mrs. A.P. Boxley III Scholarship, is majoring in elementary education and wants to become an elementary school teacher. A freshman representative with the Garrett College Student Government Association, she also is taking part in an institutional work-study program based in the college president's office.

The 2004 SHS graduate is active in church and enjoys reading and spending time with her family and friends. She is the daughter of Doug and Vickie Bernard of Oakland.

James Allen Michaels was awarded the Arwana Schoemer Art Scholarship, and Aza and Louise Stanton Art Scholarship. After majoring in fine and performing arts, he hopes to become an art teacher or illustrator for children's literature and eventually to have his own art studio.

The 2003 graduate of Southern Garrett High School was very active in the SHS STEAM (Student Tobacco Elimination Among Minors) program, chorus, and honor chorus, and served as president of the National Art Honor Society during his senior year. In college, he was an SGA freshman representative in 2003-04 and SHA secretary the following year. Michaels enjoys drawing, painting, performing, writing, running, and swimming. He is the son of John and Geraldine Michaels of Deer Park.

Tina Marie Opel received the Josh Fike Scholarship, donated in memory of a Garrett College student who was killed in a car accident. Like Fike, Opel enjoys the outdoors and nature. Her major is natural resources and wildlife technology. The treasurer for the college's Wildlife Society, Opel wants to become a wildlife biologist. She enjoys bird watching, outdoor activities and reading.

A 2003 NHS graduate, Opel was a member of the National Honor Society and was a Service Star recipient in 2003. She is also a member of the Happy Hands for Christ Puppet Team and the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church Youth Group. She serves as her church's children's assistant coordinator, and as Bible quiz coach for the Mtn. Top Youth for Christ. Opel also undertook a month-long missions trip to Panama. She is the daughter of Jeffrey and Rose Opel of Accident, and two of her four siblings were recently adopted from Russia.

Danielle Marie Glotfelty received the Wilma A. Calhoun Scholarship. A 2005 NHS graduate, she was active in volleyball and softball, and was vice president of girls' varsity. She is enrolled in general studies at Garrett College.

Glotfelty assisted with a volleyball clinic at Northern Middle School for three years, and volunteered at the Kitzmiller Lions Club fair booth for two years. She enjoys paint ball, four-wheeling, and snowmobile riding. The daughter of Warren and Adrienne Glotfelty, Danielle is the fifth generation of her family to work in the family's Deep Creek business.

Of Your Garrett County Forest Conservancy Board

by Paul Shogren

The July meeting of your Garrett County Forest Conservancy Board featured discussion of the topics listed below.

BIG TREE CONTEST

Garrett Forest Conservancy Board members discussed implementing a County Big Tree contest as being conducted in Allegany County. It was mentioned that Washington County has begun a similar program.

ARBORETA TREE TAGS

Garrett board chairman Chuck Hoffeditz reported he had delivered tree tags to Hickory and needs a list of trees needing tree tags. Tree tags for school arboreta will be available later.

SCHOOL ARBORETA PROTECTION

County forester Ernie Metz revealed that some arboreta trees have been lost in the past to mowing by the summer maintenance crews, so members will meet with the county maintenance director to discuss how to correct the problem.

NRCC INFO DISTRIBUTION

It was agreed to meet with Lynn Bell, high school coordinator, to discuss improved methods to distribute information about the Natural Resources and Conservation Career (NRCC) program to students. Presently, the system is not getting information to interested students.

MFA MEETING DISPLAY

Members discussed the possiblility of developing a two-county logging history display at the Maryland Forests Association annual meeting slated for Friday and Saturday, Nov. 4-5, at Rocky Gap State Park. Individuals and organizations in each county will be contacted to discover what items and photos exist to be used in the exhibit.

FOREST TAXATION/ ESTATE PLANNING WORKSHOP

Both county boards have agreed to conduct a forest taxation/estate planning workshop if a need for one is determined to exist. A letter of interest will be sent to forest landowners in each county to discover their interest in such a workshop.

NRCC UPDATE

NRCC director Steve Resh presented a report about this year's program. He reported that the program is going well and some changes have been made. He noted that 15 of the 36 students in attendance had signed up to obtain college credits through Allegany College of Maryland for attending the course. He also stated he would be interested in working with the course in 2006, which will be observed as Maryland's Forestry Centennial Year.

TOP 10 BENEFITS OF FORESTRY

The Society of American Foresters has compiled its "Top 10" list of the environmental benefits of forestry. The first nine items on the list – "Forestry is Bringing Back Forests," "Forestry Helps Water Quality," "Forestry Offsets Air Pollution," Forestry Helps Wildlife," "Forestry Helps Reduce Catastrophic Wildfires," "Forestry Provides Great Places to Recreate," "Forestry Benefits Urban Environments," and "Forestry Helps Family Forests Stay Intact" – have been noted in previous Barks 'n Bites columns.

The tenth benefit is "Forestry is Good for Soils." Foresters and natural resources managers are dependent on forest soils for growing and managing forests and, to a large extent, forest soils are dependent on resource professionals and managers. Foresters' success in growing forests and producing forest products is dependent on their ability to understand soil properties, and to then match species with soils and to prescribe activities that not only promote forest growth but also enhance and protect soil productivity and prevent erosion.

Adventure Sports Graduate Hiking Across Europe

by Jo Donaldson

Garrett College Adventure Sports program graduate Nick Piotrowski is an assistant trip leader for the "Hike Across Europe," a program sponsored by Franklin Pierce College, a liberal arts school in Rindge, N.H., which is employing Piotrowski for the program.

"The purpose of the Hike Across Europe is to gain personal reflections – a little self-wilderness therapy," said Piotrowski. "I have been hired as an assistant trip guide, which means I am in charge of tending to a flock of 20 students, with one other guide, through Europe."

Piotrowski left Boston on July 26. After a three-day preparation in Munich, Germany, the organizer will lead his group through Austria, France, and finish in Rome, Italy.

The students will be traveling 15 miles a day, carrying a backpack. Each day a new set of the group members will guide the group down the trail using a map and compass.

"After the day's hike, we'll be setting up a giant 30 foot by 30 foot tent for everyone to sleep under, and cooking food for the entire group," he said. Two groups will be going on the trip, but each takes a separate route. Piotrowski may have the opportunity to embark on similar trips every year.

"What I really hope to gain from this experience is the exposure to the wonderful outdoor conditions in Europe," he said. Piotrowski credits his education at Garrett College and assistance from Sharon Elsey, secretary at the Adventuresports Institute, for this opportunity.

"He will be sending me an e-mail describing everything and plans on writing when he can about the trip while in Europe," said Elsey.

Piotrowski was recommended for the position by Franklin Pierce College director of recreation Doug Carty, who also is a graduate of Garrett College's Adventure Sports Program.

Andrew Goad Earns Who's Who Scholarship

Andrew Goad, Mtn. Lake Park, has been named as the recipient of a $2,500 college scholarship from the publisher of Who's Who Among American High School Students Sports.

Goad, who graduated from Southern High School in the spring, was selected for the award based on his academic achievement, participation in school and community activities, and on an essay he wrote. He is now a student at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, studying electrical and computer engineering. He is the son of Pamela and Ronald Friend, Mtn. Lake Park, and Richard and Sherrie Goad, Dover, Del.

Goad is one of 201 students selected to receive a financial award for college expenses this year by the Educational Communications Scholarship Foundation.

The Foundation, funded in part by the publishers of Who's Who, has awarded $202,000 for high school scholarships this year and over $4,000,000 to date, according to a spokesperson.

Overcoming Barriers to Exercise

Let's face it. Sticking to a regular exercise program is not always easy. There are plenty of potential hurdles — time, boredom, injuries, support, and self-confidence. Do not let these issues keep you from exercising. Learn ways to overcome these common barriers to exercise.

Time

Many of us are so busy that we cannot seem to find the time to incorporate exercise into our daily routine. Focus on making the most of your time with these tips:

•Short spurts of exercise spaced throughout the day can offer as much benefit as one longer workout.

•Get up 30 minutes earlier two days a week to exercise, and once you have adjusted, try adding more days.

Boredom

It is natural to grow bored with the same workout day after day, especially when you are going at it alone. It may be helpful to:

•Get social. Join friends, relatives, neighbors, or co-workers for exercise and you can encourage each other to keep going.

•Try a new exercise class or look for a sport league, because learning a new skill challenges the body in a whole new way, and joining a sports league will allow you to meet new people and get a great workout.

•Cross train. Change your routine from day to day. This will keep you on your toes both mentally and physically.

Injuries

Nobody wants to get hurt, but if you are nervous about injuring yourself by exercising incorrectly, try these ideas:

•Consider working one-on-one with a personal trainer. Get a customized exercise program by an exercise professional who can monitor your movements and keep you going in the right direction.

Support

A good way to get support from your friends or family is to bring them along. It might also be helpful to:

•Sign up for a parent-child exercise class; have fun and get in shape together.

•Drop your kids off at the mall and, instead of going home and waiting for them to call, walk laps around the mall, which also saves gas money.

•Plan activities as a family, such as a picnic day at the lake where you can walk, swim, play Frisbee or play on swing set.

Self Confidence

Do not get down on yourself. If you need to, start off by yourself or try one of these ideas:

•Try an exercise video or program on TV in the privacy of your home. As you become more coordinated and fit, you will be more at ease while exercising, and your self-confidence will benefit.

•Purchase home exercise equipment, such as a treadmill, bicycle, or other machine, to get comfortable with using the equipment.

•Sign up for a beginner's exercise class, which start from scratch and teach you the fundamentals.

BICYCLES
by Dr. Thomas P. Sheahen

Q. Why does a bicycle stay up when you're riding it, but fall over as soon as you stop?

The bicycle is one of the earliest examples of a child learning physics, but nobody ever says that's what's going on, so every child who learns to ride a bicycle starts out not being afraid of physics – that comes later in life, toward high school.

A bicycle stays up because of an important physics concept known as angular momentum. There are many other objects that depend on angular momentum as well, but the fact is seldom advertised. A spinning top is another childhood example of this – while it's spinning reasonably fast, it stays up; but when the speed runs down, it wobbles and then falls over. From a physics point of view, both a top and a bicycle are demonstrating the exact same principle.

Almost everyone has a faint memory of when they first learned to ride a bicycle, and the most vivid memory usually is that a parent was right there running alongside with hands ready to reach out in an instant. If you ever find anyone who knew about angular momentum before learning to ride, I'd like to meet him or her. As a child, you learn very quickly that you have to keep moving or else you'll fall over. So why is this such a big deal, a major physics principle?

In physics, a lot of concepts are a very special type of number known as a vector. A vector is a number that has both a magnitude (some amount) and a direction. A force that is pulling you is different from a force that is pushing you, because the direction is different. Force is a vector quantity. A car driving west has a different momentum from a car driving east, even though they might have the same speed. Momentum is a vector, because it has both magnitude (mass times speed) and a direction. In general, vectors tend to resist changing, and you must do something (like exert a force) to get a vector to change.

Angular momentum is a vector, too. It is the product of the momentum and some distance to a fixed reference point. Actually, it is the vector product of those two. Here's an example: If a wheel is spinning, the angular momentum has a direction that points along the axis around which it's spinning. The magnitude of the angular momentum vector is the product of multiplying the mass, times the speed, times a certain distance (related to the radius of the wheel). Any object that is just moving along has angular momentum relative to some fixed position. Airplanes, cars, people walking, birds, baseballs,...all have angular momentum.

An entire bicycle, composed of two spinning wheels, a frame and a rider, has a certain angular momentum relative to the ground along which it's moving. If the velocity of the bicycle is large, the angular momentum will be large too. Slow down to zero velocity and the angular momentum also becomes zero.

The direction of the angular momentum vector is very important. For a bicycle moving along the road or sidewalk, the angular momentum vector points sideways, just like an arrow through the axis of the wheels would point. It is precisely because that vector doesn't want to change, that a moving bicycle tends to keep moving along straight and doesn't fall over readily.

Meanwhile, the force of gravity wants to pull the entire bicycle and rider down toward the ground. If you lean a little to one side, you're starting to let the force of gravity into the act. Gravity tries to change the angular momentum, but can only change its direction. A moving bicycle doesn't fall over, but it bends around a curve in the direction you're leaning. If you ride straight up, well balanced, there is no special reason for gravity to pull you to one side or the other, and so you keep on going straight. In fact, learning to ride a bicycle as a child is mostly a matter of learning proper balance, to take away the incentive for gravity to pull you over to either left or right.

At very low speeds, balance becomes more important. When a bicycle is going very slowly, the magnitude of the angular momentum is smaller, and so the force of gravity can be more effective. If the velocity equals zero, the angular momentum also equals zero, and gravity wins – the bike falls over. Most people just put a foot down to the ground when the velocity drops to nearly zero. There are a few people with exceptionally good balancing skills who can stay up on a bicycle at a very tiny speed.

In all this, I left out several details about vector calculus. When you go out and try to teach a small child to ride a bicycle, you can probably leave that out, too.

Mt. Top Assembly To Host Evangelist

The Mt. Top Assembly of God Church will host guest evangelist Richard Rochkind for a 7 p.m. service on Wednesday, Aug. 31.

An ordained minister with the Assemblies of God, Rochkind has been traveling as an evangelist since 1994. He also served as assistant director and resident dean of men at the Teen Challenge Center in Syracuse, N.Y., from 1988 to 1996.

The Baltimore native was diagnosed as hyperactive at a very early age and spent quite a bit of his childhood visiting doctors, psychologists, and psychiatrists. Rochkind said he has a desire "to minister to those who are lonely, depressed, restless and brokenhearted, those who feel lost with seemingly no direction."

The Mt. Top Assembly is located at 2655 Maryland Highway, next to 84 Lumber. For further information, persons may call Pastor Daniel Winters at 301-334-8422.

Local Electricians, Plumber Graduate From ABC Prog.

The Associated Builders and Contractors Inc. (ABC), Cumberland Valley Chapter, held its Apprenticeship Graduation – Perfect Attendance Banquet earlier this month at the Four Points in Hagerstown.

Recognized were 48 graduates from ABC's 4-year apprenticeship program, including eight local residents, all of whom work for Heilig's Plumbing, Heating, Electric LLC. The electrical apprentices were Jeffrey Baker, Scott Bolyard, Robert Burket Jr., Jeffrey Delaney, Robert Few, Jason Humberson, and Jason Smith. Larry Hileman was a plumbing apprentice.

The four-year program enables students to earn wages while they learn, to work during the day and go to school at night.

"Research shows that apprenticeship training gives construction workers a considerable advantage over those trained by informal means," said Joan Warner, ABC president. "In general, apprenticeship graduates are more educated workers, work more safely than others, more productive, better skilled, work more steadily, learn their craft faster, and are more likely to become supervisors, earn higher salaries, and experience less unemployment."

Length of training is set by the needs of the occupation within the industry. For example, minimum length is set at 2,000 hours of practicum and a minimum of 144 hours of related instruction per year.

The students received accreditation from the National Center for Construction Research, ABC, the Maryland Apprenticeship Training Council, and the Federal Bureau of Apprenticeship Training.

ABC is a national trade association with more than 24,000 firms across the nation, and locally more than 200 employers are members of the Cumberland Valley Chapter, according to the association.

ABC has been providing construction industry-related services to its members for more than 50 years. Membership services include business contracts and referrals, apprenticeships, management education, craft training, a safety hotline, lobbying, employee benefits, and a legal hotline.

To register for the upcoming meeting or to obtain additional information about membership, persons may call Warner at 301-739-1190.

TRAILBLAZERS
by Emily Cosner, reporter

The August meeting of the Trailblazers 4-H Club was held on Aug. 2 at Jenna and Carey Rush's house. Before the meeting, Terri Rodeheaver took pictures of all the members and their parents who would be entering livestock at the fair in order to make ID passes for the fair.

Jenna reported on the Spring Show, and Nicole Pysell and Emma Rush reported on the Livestock Association's rodeo. Sarah Cosner reported on the baseball game that the club attended in Baltimore.

The fair was discussed. Members were reminded that all indoor exhibits were to be entered on Saturday, Aug. 13, and market animals were to be taken in between noon and 5 p.m. on Sunday. The change in the time of the sale from 6 to 5 p.m. was also noted. All members were asked if their animals had been checked by a vet.

The club also discussed selling Cow Patty Bingo tickets, and signed up for times to work the corn booth on Monday at the fair.

After the meeting, a workshop was held, in which the members helped put together the club's booth that would be entered in the fair.

Refreshments were served by the Rush family.

Message from the Dean's Desk — Garrett College

by Dr. Virginia Broaddus
Dean of Academic Affairs

At Garrett College these days, you'll often hear us talking about our teams. Our discussions aren't limited to our athletic ventures – although we're awfully proud of those teams and their successes. Rather, we're committed to teamwork on multiple levels, always with an eye toward working together to create the best sort of spirit on our campus.

As noted, we are, indeed, very proud of our athletes and their successes. We won't soon forget Thea Garland, our women's basketball coach, being recognized as JUCO Coach of the Year, and we're delighted she'll be on board (and on court) this year, too. Nor will I likely forget the great evening I spent last week thanks to Ann Wellham, athletic director and coach of our women's volleyball team. Ann recognized that we had a record seven local athletes from our Garrett County high schools joining our volleyball team, and she honored those young women, their families, and coaches Sue Newton and Linda Wengerd at a special signing ceremony. It was my honor to meet Kayla Nazelrod and Julia Bosley from Southern High School and Jayme Miller, Nichole Kovach, and Danielle Glotfelty from Northern High School, as well as to recognize returning sophomore players Lyndsi Butler and Tabitha Beitzel from NHS. As I reminded the players, they will never, in our eyes, fail, for failure happens only when one gives up or when one refuses to accept hands extended in an effort to help. At Garrett, I noted, multiple hands reach out to help all our students, all of whom form part of our larger "team."

We have, of course, smaller teams, too, that function a bit differently from our traditional athletic teams. For instance, our Adventure Sports division, under the leadership of Mike Logsdon, has a great team spirit supported by assistant professor Terry Peterson, TAY program coordinator Scott Richardson, administrative assistant Sharon Elsey, and now, assistant professor Andy Hershey. Andy, whose master's degree is from Slippery Rock and whose background includes extensive and expert climbing experience and adventure therapy programming, has also worked as a ranger in Yosemite. He brings great experience and energy to a vibrant working group, and we're glad to welcome him and his wife Janelle to our community.

That community is one I'll be celebrating effusively this week as I welcome back our full-time faculty for another great year. This year, the various divisions (or teams) have great leadership in associate dean Phil Rivera (arts and sciences, and education), director Mike Logsdon (ASI), director Lyz Biser (juvenile justice), director Kevin Dodge (NRWT), and director Mike Kilgus (business and information technology). They're joined by Ann Wellham and Dana Shimrock, director of the library, in forming the Academic Council and in leading their respective faculty. Those faculty are, in a word, dynamite, and I constantly remind myself how lucky I am to have them and their expertise, as well as the expertise of our part-time faculty, working with our students.

In fact, I was glad to learn recently that Jodi Fratz, who started at Garrett, has felt very well-prepared during her nursing studies at Fairmont State University. Now in her third year of academic study, Jodi, who was in our Honors Program, tells me that she's doing well (no surprise to me!) and that she's glad she got her start at GC. We, in turn, are proud that she was part of our team and that at least some of our coaching has helped her on her way to a successful career.

In closing this week's message, I'm mindful that teams celebrate good times but also sometimes must pull together to support one another in challenging circumstances. All of us at Garrett thus extend our heartfelt sympathy to Judie Best, one of our long-time devoted part-time faculty, who lost her son Douglas last week. Judie and her husband Conrad are present at nearly all of GC's sporting events, and Judie is known to her students as a great instructor who cares deeply about them and their successes – on and off the court. In turn, all of us at Garrett send our care to Judie and her family during this tragic time, wanting her to know that our team is here for her. That's the nature of life at a place like Garrett: We work together through what is hard and what is seemingly easy, through what is sad and what is exhilarating. Knowing that we have one another for support, encouragement, and cheer makes this small college a winning team in every sense of the word.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Well, my youngest daughter Meredith has gone off to high school freshman orientation, and it is hard to believe that she is now a high school student. Her next to oldest sister, Caitlin, will be in her senior year. Their big sister Claire is back as a sophomore at West Virginia University. So now it is fall back-to-school night with the heat gone with the wind. It is sweater weather now.

My kids are excited about the new step in their lives, but it is much harder for their mother. Lots of mothers whom I have talked to recently expressed how painful the cutting of apron strings is to them also. But you can't keep your offspring safely home forever. All you can do is try to provide a home they would want to return to often.

Back to school is an even bigger event for the teachers. Hard as the students will be working, teachers have a much harder row to hoe.

Cindy Stanton took her daughter-in-law Patty and granddaughters little Alayna and McKenna for a last trip to the beach to visit with Mary Ellen and Steve Presgraves at Fenwick Island, Del. It was the first visit to the ocean for both baby McKenna and big sister Alayna. It was a pleasure to welcome Patty and Alayna as new members of Emmanuel Lutheran Church at Sunday morning's church service.

Sunday morning was the last Sunday that Pastor Pat will preside at all three churches; however, a joint worship service for the parish will be held at Emmanuel Church in Bittinger on Sunday at 10 a.m. We look forward to greeting some old friends again, as Pastor Jim and Norma Mitchell will move into the parsonage and will be preaching the first Sunday in September at all three churches. Pastor Mitchell served as our pastor during the 1970s. One sad duty of his was when he had to preside at my father's funeral. Pastor Jim and Dad were very good friends.

We had two weddings of Emmanuel's members last Saturday. Laura Taylor and Jason Schenk were married by his brother around the Oakland area, and Denny Buckel tied the knot with Eileen Vallarno, formerly of Frederick, at a family wedding at Emmanuel Lutheran on Saturday afternoon. Denny's daughter, Allison Buckel, attended the wedding from Denver, where she resides.

Lesa Whittemore spent several days this past week with her son Gregory at his college in Florida. She returned in time for Maddie's first day of the new school year.

Apparently the couple of good rains we had recently were not enough to completely recharge our water table, at least not enough to start the flow again from the Rock Lodge spring, which I was sad to see.

My Aunt Helen Englar, Westminster, Aunt Dot Quaintance of New York State, and Aunt Betty Hummel and husband Ralph took a ferry cruise ship on a trip to Alaska. The cloud of smoke from the wildfires in the West didn't ruin their enjoyment.

Betty, Helen, and Dot grew up on the family farm, which is a long way from Alaska. Since the passing of their brother Dale, they chose another location for their sibling reunion other than Bittinger. They enjoyed the extra long days, unusual wildlife and birds, the scenery, and, of course, each other. The East Coast aunts enjoyed two visits with niece Elizabeth Hummel.

We have a minor August birthday cluster – my Claire turned 19 on the 17th; her cousin, Emma Bass, turned 14 two days later; and their grandmother, Ruth DiPaolo will have her birthday Sunday, Aug. 28.

I saw a doe with apparently a set of triplets the other day. I think I heard the first real sign of the coming fall when a multitude of geese flew back toward the Peat Bog, and it sounded like they were making plans for a big trip soon.

Lottie Brenneman is a patient in Sacred Heart Hospital and is to undergo some type of surgery this week.

Margaret Hershberger Wagner is still undergoing chemotherapy at the West Virginia University cancer unit. Margaret was in church Sunday, and is not going to let this get her down.

Betty Sacra returned home to Winchester Saturday morning after spending a few days with Ruth DiPaolo and attending the Garrett County Fair.

Marci and Rodney Glotfelty took Robbie to the College Park campus of the University of Maryland on Sunday to begin his sophomore year. He had to go a week earlier as he is in the marching band. Blakely will go next Sunday, and Matthew Bass will be going for his freshman year on Sunday. Torrey Poholsky has also returned to Greensboro College and will be doing some ball playing prior to the start of school.

Asher Glade will be in charge of nursing home visitations this Sunday, Aug. 28.

ANNUAL FALL FAIR

Grace Lutheran Church will hold its annual Fall Fair on Saturday, Sept. 3, beginning at 9 a.m. The fair consists of a variety of homemade soups and sandwiches, as well as baked items and yard sale items. Funds from this event will be matched with Thrivent. Grace Lutheran is located at 251 Maple Street in Friendsville. The public is invited to attend. There will also be free signups for door prizes.

LAUREL RUN CHURCH OF GOD

During the morning worship on Sunday, Aug. 28, there will be a dedication service for the new expansion to the Laurel Run Church of God. A carry-in dinner will follow the dedication service. All are welcome to attend.

RUSH BAPTIST CHURCH

Rush Baptist Church will be having its annual homecoming on Sunday, Aug. 28. It will begin with Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. and worship service at 11 a.m. There will be a covered-dish dinner at the pavilion behind the church after worship services. Later in the afternoon there will be a hymn sing. Anyone wishing to provide special music is welcome to do so. All former pastors, friends, members, and neighbors of Rush Baptist Church are invited to attend.

VOWS EXCHANGED

The wedding ceremony of Jennifer Stout and Jason Artice was held Saturday, Aug. 20, at the Friendsville United Methodist Church. Reverend Galen Bietzel officiated. The bridal party consisted of maid of honor Lena Soft, and bridesmaids were Michele Haines and Hannah Hall, all friends of the bride. The best man was Matthew Wolf, friend of the groom, and the groomsmen were Nick Strawser, cousin of the groom, and Steven Duranko, friend of the groom. Ushers were Patrick Keating and Keith Artice. A reception was held at the Friendsville fire hall and was catered by M&M Bakery.

BACK-TO-SCHOOL BAKE SALE

The Friendsville PTO will be holding a Bake Sale on Saturday, Aug. 27, in front of S&S Market beginning at 9 a.m. Proceeds from the sale will benefit new gym mats.

LIBRARY NEWS

Beginning September 1, the hours for the Friendsville Library will be: Monday and Wednesday, 2-8, Tuesday and Thursday, 1:30-5:30, Saturday, 9-2, and closed Friday and Sunday. The library will continue to be open during renovations. All are invited to stop in and see the quilt fiction display of adult and children's books.

The Ruth Enlow Library board of trustees will meet at the Friendsville Branch Thursday, Sept. 15, at 4 p.m.

KAYAK RAFFLE

A new kayak was recently donated to the town council to be raffled off. The kayak is sufficient for oceans, lakes, or streams, and so stable that one can fish from it. No paddling experience is required to operate. Tickets are available by contacting council person Agnes Lichtner at 301-746-5253. Tickets sell for $3 apiece or 2 for $5. Proceeds from the raffle will benefit the improvement of the town park. The winner will be announced on Tuesday, Sept. 6, at 6 p.m. at the town hall.

VANSICKLE REUNION

The Samuel and Ella VanSickle family reunion will be held Sunday, Sept. 4, at the Macedonia Farm, beginning at 1 p.m.

WOW LODGE 45

Woodmen of the World Lodge 45 met at the WOW pavilion last Thursday, with 30 members and guests attending. Fraternal Coordinator Angie Bain was in attendance. Burton Lytle auctioned the "pigs in the poke." A short business meeting was conducted by President Julia Sines. The annual awards banquet will be held Saturday, Sept. 17, at 6:30 p.m. at the Friendsville fire hall. Persons should note this day, as invitations may not be received in time. Those interested in attending are asked to call secretary Mary Frantz at 301-746-5331.

TO HONOR HEROES

Woodmen of the World Lodge 45 will conduct a special patriotic ceremony to honor the heroes and victims of Sept. 11, 2001, and to salute the local heroes who protect the community.

The ceremony, called "In Honor and Remembrance–Woodmen Salutes America's Heroes," will include recognition of the police officers, firefighters, members of the Armed Forces, and others who help safeguard the community and the nation throughout the year.

Lodge 45 will hold the ceremony on Sunday, Sept.

MOTHER NATURE SHOWED HER FORCE Saturday night when this sycamore tree was struck by lightning. The likely point of entry was a nail with a wire hanging in the tree, said garage owners Espy and Cathy Hook of Friendsville. The route of lightning continued down the tree and into the ground, dislodging a rock at the bottom of the tree and traveling underground into the electric box in the garage. The garage was fully engulfed in flames when a passerby noticed it. The fire was quickly contained by the Friendsville Fire Department. Also responding were the Accident Fire Department, Deep Creek Fire Company, Air Cascade, and Northern Rescue Squad. Friendsville fire chief Terry Spear was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for heat exhaustion. He was treated and released. The garage was declared a total loss. No damage was reported to the house, which stands only a few feet away. Photo courtesy of Lucretia Sines.

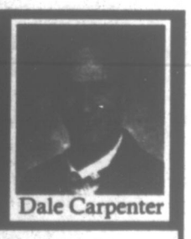
Real Estate Facts by...


Dale Carpenter
NO TAX FOR YOU!

How would you like to sell your property and not pay any capital gains tax on the profit? Sounds like a shady deal, but the IRS created a procedure for you to do just that. It's called a "1031 Tax-Deferred Exchange," and many people have never heard of it. But even small investors with just one property can take advantage of its benefits.

In the most basic of terms, a 1031 exchange allows investors to defer their capital gains tax if they exchange for or purchase another "like kind" property within a certain amount of time. The provision for "like kind" real estate is pretty broad, allowing for the exchange of land, rentals, or business properties as investments or rentals.

The lackluster performance of the stock market in recent times has inspired interest in real estate as an asset, so more investors and realty professionals are learning about these 1031s. Taking proceeds from your sale and putting them into something like bonds hits you with taxes that put a big dent in your returns. Putting your money into another property as your investment defers the tax burden.

Of course, any real estate agent assisting with the transaction would also be working with tax advisers, attorneys and intermediaries to guarantee that all the nuances of the tax code are fully complied with, and that you are completely satisfied with your exchange.

If you'd like to buy or sell your property, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call at the office, or on my cell phone at 301-501-DALE

Connie, darling, we were entwined just like the Bible said we would be. Connie, you were A-B-C- and D. You loved A - angels, B - butterflies, C - carousels and D were your dogs and you cannot forget your grandkids. The day Jehovah God took you he took you very kindly, gently and sweetly. I have thanked Him for that, darling. You were always here for me. You would always make everything OK. Now without you I am lost forever. Darling, I still have the memories. Connie, darling, the tears won't stop. How do I find the courage to say Happy 42nd Anniversary to you "Golden Lady" "Earth Angel."

Love you. Hurry home.

Love Always,
Richard

Bartlett Files Early To "Send A Message" To Voters, Challengers

by Erin Bryant
Capital News Service

COLLEGE PARK — Rep. Roscoe Bartlett, R-Frederick, filed for re-election to his 6th District seat to "send a strong message" to voters and potential challengers, a campaign aide said.

Stronger than the $325,000 fundraising lead he currently holds on the challengers who have already filed. Stronger than the margins of victory in past elections in which Bartlett routinely wins 60 or 70 percent of the vote.

"There was a rumor going around that he was going to retire," said Frederick County state's attorney Scott Rolle, who unsuccessfully challenged Bartlett for the GOP nomination in 2004. "That (early filing) will certainly end speculation."

Bartlett, 79, actually kicked off his 2006 re-election efforts on May 16 when House Speaker Dennis Hastert visited Frederick for a fundraiser. That was followed by a series of open-door meetings in early June, when Bartlett met with residents to discuss issues throughout the sprawling 6th District, which runs along the northern edge of the state from Garrett to Baltimore counties, and as far south as Montgomery County.

"After the kick-off with Speaker Hastert we went ahead and filed for re-election," in July, said Melissa Bartlett, a spokeswoman for her father-in-law's campaign.

Only two other candidates have officially filed to run in the 6th District, Democrats Barry Kissin and Andrew Duck. A third Democrat, Savas Karas, has said he is running, but has yet to file his candidacy.

None of the three Democrats has raised the $5,000 in campaign donations that would require them to file a report with the Federal Election Commission.

Bartlett, by comparison, had raised more than $120,000 in the second quarter of this year and spent more than $53,000, according to his latest filing with the FEC. The report said that, as of June 30, the seven-term incumbent had more than $325,000 cash on hand.

Melissa Bartlett was not apologetic about Bartlett's financial lead, saying successful fundraising is at "the heart of the matter of a political campaign."

"We have a duty to our constituents to prepare for re-election whether there's a strong challenger or not," she said.

In 2004, Bartlett faced a stiff challenge from Rolle, but went on to win 70 percent of the vote in the primary. His general election victory was almost as lopsided, winning 68 percent of the vote from Democrat Kenneth Bosley.

Rolle tried to win over Bartlett's conservative base by citing the incumbent's lukewarm support of the Patriot Act and his stance against the death penalty. He said he realizes now that his belief that voters were ready for a change "was mistaken."

His own FEC report showed that Rolle had raised $5,500 this year, spent more than $6,400, and is currently a little over $18,300 in debt. But he said he has no intention of running again in 2006.

"That race wasn't personal," Rolle said of the 2004 campaign. "He can count me as his most ardent supporter and call on me if he needs my help. Which he won't."

EAGLE SCOUT PROJECT — The American Legion, Grantsville Post 214, and the Sons of the American Legion (SAL), Grantsville Squadron 214, recently presented donations to Mitch Fost, an Eagle Scout candidate from Boy Scout Troop 49. The money will assist him in finishing his community service project, which involves the replacement of the "Welcome to Grantsville" signs on both the east and west sides of Grantsville along Route 40. Pictured above, from left, are Odell Broadwater, commander of Post 214; Fost; and Frank Davis, commander of SAL Squadron 214.

Natl. Orienteering Champ To Design ASI Event Courses

The Adventuresports Institute (ASI) of Garrett College has announced that it has made arrangements with U.S. Marine Corps Col. Robert F. Turbyfill (Ret.) to design and set the competition courses for the upcoming ROGAINE (Rugged Outdoor Group Acitivity Involving Navigation and Endurance), scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 18, at Green Ridge State Forest in Allegany County. A training event for orienteering beginners will be hosted by ASI staffers from. 2 to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 10, at the New Germany State Park lakehouse.

Turbyfill is past national orienteering champion and head coach of the United States Orienteering Team. He was All Marine Orienteering Champion from 1973 to 1976; U.S. National Orienteering Champion in 1973 and 1974; Over-45 U.S. National Champion in 1992 and 1993; North American Champion in 1973 and 1974; Maryland State Champion in 1992 and 1993; and U.S. Trail Orienteering Champion in 2004.

Turbyfill has represented the United States in 10 Orienteering World Championships, and served as the head coach of the U.S. Orienteering Team from 1991 until 1995.

"Bob has instructed orienteering for Garrett College for the past 14 years, and I know him to be an outstanding educator," said ASI executive director Mike Logsdon. "He has the unique ability to compete at the world class level and at the same time to instruct absolute beginners in the sport of orienteering. He will do a fantastic job at designing the Green Ridge course and will make it so both beginners and experts will have fun and be challenged."

Turbyfill currently serves as the chairman of the ASI executive council, a body that meets twice yearly for the benefit of the institute.

The cost of the New Germany training event for orienteering beginners is $5 per person. Pre-registration may be made by contacting the ASI office at 301-387-3330, or via e-mail at avs@garrettcollege.edu. Persons seeking information on the Green Ridge event can obtain information from the ASI office as well.

The ROGAINE Orienteering event, which marks National Orienteering Day, is sponsored by a partnership among ASI, the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, and the Susquehanna Valley Orienteering Club.

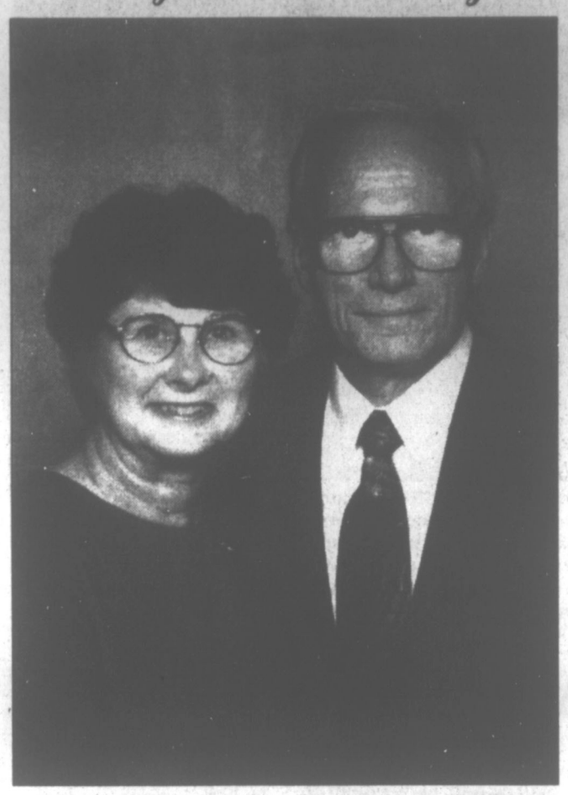
Brownings Celebrate 50th Year



Tom and Juanita Browning, Oakland, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday afternoon, Aug. 14, at the Pleasant Valley Community Center. The event was hosted by the couple's children and their families.

The Brownings were married Aug. 7, 1955, at St. Paul's Methodist Church in Oakland.

They are the parents of four children: Mike Browning, Nancy Lewis, and David Browning, all of Oakland, and the late Brian Browning. They also have seven grandchildren.

Mrs. Browning is a member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church and a bowling league.

Mr. Browning is retired. He is a member of St. Paul's, as well as the Rotary, Masons, Men of Faith, and Methodist Men.

Online Job Seekers Receive Warning About "Payment Forwarding" Scams

Attorney General J. Joseph Curran Jr. is warning job-seekers who post their resumes online to beware of a scam in which they are asked to act as a financial go-between and "process payments" or transfer funds." At least one Garrett County job seeker has been a victim of such a scam.

The usual ploy is that a company is recruiting American citizens to process payments for employees or clients oversees. They are instructed to deposit checks into their own bank account, take a small commission, and then wire the proceeds elsewhere overseas. The checks are later found to be counterfeit, so the consumer loses the money he or she wired.

"Be suspicious of offers of employment that talk about processing financial transactions or that request your bank account number," Curran said.

As an example, the state of Arkansas announced earlier last week that it is investigating a scam in which job-seekers who posted a resume online received an e-mail from "Void Computers Inc.," which said it needed help cashing checks from Arkansas. Check for $5,200 from Turkey were sent in the job-seeker's name, with instructions that the checks be cashed and the money wired to an address in Latvia, minus a 10 percent commission.

The would-be employees were instructed to avoid banks and instead go to a check-casher, liquor store, or similar business. While people in some states were able to cash the checks, the checks were ultimately not honored by Arkansas. Reports of the forged checks have come from individuals in Maryland, among other states.

Curran stated that this is just one example of a number of scams involving fraudulent checks that his office has seen. Curran's office has heard from Internet auction sellers who received a check from a buyer for more than the agreed-upon amount – for example, a $1,500 check instead of $150. The buyer contacted the seller, apologized for the mistake, and asked the seller to send the excess amount back. The seller's bank later informed him that the buyer's check was bogus.

"If you receive a check for hundreds more than the agreed-upon amount, smell something fishy," Curran said. "Insist that the person send a check for the correct amount. You'll probably never hear from that person again."

TERRA ALTA NEWS

ALPINE LAKE

Alpine Lake will be holding its first Bluegrass Festival, "Bluegrass on the Lake," at and around the Alpine Lake Boathouse this Saturday, Aug. 27, from 1 to 10 p.m. In addition, it will be Preston County Appreciation Day.

The show schedule is as follows: 2-4 p.m., From the Hip, modern bluegrass; 4:30 -6:30 p.m., Farm Use, traditional bluegrass and old country; and 7-10 p.m., The Hillbilly Gypsies, hard-driving bluegrass.

There will be a $10 admission fee for adults and $5 for children under 12. Tickets for the festival will be available only on the day of the event at the entrance to the event site. A raffle ticket will be included with each festival ticket purchased. Additional raffle tickets may be bought at the event. Area businesses are donating items for the raffle. Proceeds will be donated to local charities.

Beverages and food will be available at various booths.

As part of Preston County Appreciation Day, Preston County residents will be able to enjoy half-price golf and free use of the pool, beach areas, and miniature golf, as well as free fishing. Residents will have to pay full price for the bluegrass tickets if they choose to attend the festival.

TAWA

The Terra Alta Wellness Association (TAWA) is a group of volunteers from Terra Alta who are interested in improving the overall health of the community, by increasing physical activity and adopting healthier eating habits. Anyone who lives or works in Terra Alta is invited to participate in the monthly meetings, held the third Thursday of the month at 6 p.m.

TAWA started in 2003 as a community health committee in partnership with West Virginia University's "Engaging Communities in Obesity Prevention" grant. Surveys of Terra Alta residents revealed some of the health assets and needs of the community, and an action plan was developed.

Some of the activities that TAWA has supported since then include: a spring and fall "Healthy Family Night Out," with square dancing and live music; sponsorship of memberships to a physical fitness center and for weight management meetings; donation of volleyball equipment (for use by East Preston School and anyone from the community); participation in the Preston County Health Department's Family Life Expo and WVU's "Healthy and Alive: Walk 100 Miles in 100 Days" program; and the opening of a wellness center office, to be used as a resource by all members of the community.

An open house for the wellness center (located in the Fit & Fabulous building along Rt. 7) will be held Saturday, Sept. 17, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Refreshments will be served, there will be door prizes, representatives from many local organizations will be demonstrating healthy exercise and eating activities, and there will be special activities and games for children.

Persons desiring more information about the Terra Alta Wellness Association and the open house may call 304-789-2205.

FLEA MARKET

The VFW Ladies Auxiliary will be holding a flea market this Friday and Saturday, beginning at 8 a.m. at the post along Washington Street.

MOOSE WINGS

The Moose Lodge will be serving hot wings again this Friday, Aug. 26, from 7 to 9 p.m.

An elimination dinner will be held September 10, with tickets costing $35 per couple. Persons may call the lodge at 304-789-5917 for more details. The last elimination dinner netted $1,160 to help Megan Lantz with her medical bills.

The lodge is also holding a motorcycle Poker Run on Sept. 18 to help Chad Armstrong, who was severely injured when he lost control of his bike on Interstate 68 last week.

PANTRY DRIVE

Terra Alta Food Pantry is having a back-to-school drive. School supplies are "desperately needed" by many Terra Alta children. Boxes are located at Gregg's Pharmacy, Fit and Fabulous, and Shop and Save, or items can be dropped off at the Food Pantry, located behind Dairy Mart, between 12:30 and 3:30 p.m. Thursdays.

CEOS MAKES, DONATES COMFORT ITEMS – The Aurora CEOS (Community Educational Outreach Service) members recently spent a work day together making 54 "boo-boo" bears and two "Linus" blankets. These items will be presented to hospitals, ambulances, and fire departments to comfort children in stressful situations. Pictured, right to left, are Ressie Conrad, Dean Sisler, Pat Stemple, Mary Jane Hanline, Wilda Harsh, and Mary Kelly. Also participating, but not pictured, were Janice Tackett, Delores Douglas, and Virginia Martin.

TRACTOR SHOW

The public is invited to Mt. Grove this Saturday between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. to view the old tractors and farm machinery on display. There is no admission fee. Food will be available. This event is sponsored by the Mt. Lions Club.

GNEGY REUNION

The annual Gnegy reunion will be held at the Dale Gnegy Farm, Gnegy Church, on Sunday, Aug. 28. The picnic lunch will be shared at 1 p.m. and there is entertainment planned for both adults and children. Everyone is welcome.

GENERAL STORE OPEN FOR VISITS

The General Store, recently revamped by the Aurora Project, is open on Mondays from 3 until 8 p.m., on Fridays from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., and the first and third Saturday of each month from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Persons may also arrange for a special tour by calling JoAnn Helton at 735-5832.

STEMPLE RIDGE FESTIVAL SET

Saturday evening, Sept. 3, is the date for the Stemple Ridge Festival which will be held from 5 until 7 p.m. at the Stemple Ridge Church pavilion. Barbecued pork, sloppy joe sandwiches, steak hoagies, homemade ice cream, pies, cakes, cookies, and other pastries, will be available. There will also be cake walks and games for kids. A corner cupboard and quilts will be raffled, and comforters and baby quilts will be for sale.

AURORA CEOS

The Aurora CEOS (Community Education Outreach Service) met Aug. 16 in the Aurora Community Building, with vice president Ressie Conrad presiding. Wilda Harsh read a scripture for devotions.

Virginia Martin presented facts concerning the origin, early uses, and types of weaving, and displayed hand woven materials.

The Issues Committee reported its activity completion. The Relay for Life team was reportedly very well supported. The summer reading program at the school was finished, and those who participated were Dorothy Spaid, Wilda Harsh, Ressie Conrad, Dee Douglas, and Virginia Martin. Weeding and planting at the school butterfly garden in August is the responsibility of Mary Jane Hanline and Delores Douglas.

The annual Fall Conference at Jackson's Mill is set for Oct. 11-15. Lesson topics for the coming year were chosen. The Buckwheat Festival exhibit will be prepared by Michelle Moure. It is due Sept. 27. The club is also participating in the presale of car tickets for the Buckwheat Festival.

Mildred Teets displayed a ceramic vase she made, and also a framed poem presented to her husband, Hancell Teets, when he retired from the Monongahela District Soil Conservation Committee.

Ressie Conrad shared secrets for "healing of the heart." Fern Jamison was pig-in-the-poke winner. Next meeting is Sept. 20, with Mildred Teets having the lesson, "Holiday Decorations," and Mary Kelly responsible for devotions. The club invites visitors to their 7 p.m. meeting in the Aurora Community Building.

MT. OLIVET HOMECOMING

This coming Sunday, Aug. 28, is the annual homecoming for those of the Lantz Ridge Community and Mt. Olivet Church. There will be services at 3 p.m. at the church, and a picnic-shared supper will follow at the Lantz Ridge Community Building. Everyone is welcome.

CLASS OF '46 REUNION

The Aurora High School Class of 1946 held its annual reunion at the Mt. Grove Community Building Aug. 20. Those in attendance were Peggy Adams Hauser, Donald and Elizabeth Stemple, Calvin and Betty Myers Knotts, Grover and Nada Kitzmiller Evans, Richard "Dick" Schrock, Bill and Ruby Evans Skinner, Orville and Emma Jean Kight, and teacher, Martha Bolyard.

AHS CLASS OF '38

Members of the Aurora High School graduating Class of 1938 met for a reunion on Aug. 13 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Aurora. Class members in attendance were Virginia Pifer Beckman of Petersburg; Marie Abernathy Martin of Aurora; Eleanor Abernathy Peters of Key West, Fla.; Mildred Bolyard Kraft of Grafton; Mildred Schrock Meyer of Morgantown; Jeri Adams Swan Warren of Uniontown, Ohio; Ellis Teets, Silver Lake; and Bernice Christman DiDio of Kingwood. Their spouses and/or guests were Vivian Ghost, Kingwood; Lelah Cozad Bennett, Grafton; Raymond Peters, Key West; Gloria Peters and Jeanie Sherill, Mooresville, N.C.; Carol Everly of Kingwood; Kim Johnson and Kenyon of Manassas, Va.; Annie Everly; Bobbie Poling of Newburg; Richard Schrock, Aurora; former teacher, Mrs. Freda Simpson Denison of Lady Lake, Fla., and her daughter, Barbara Steyer, Oakland; William Kraft and friend of Grafton; Jeri Swan's daughters, Beverly and Roseanne; and Marie Teets, Silver Lake.

ABERNATHY REUNION

The Dennis and Mollie Abernathy descendants met Aug. 14 at St. Paul's Lutheran parish hall for a family reunion and surprise celebration of Jack and Carol Everly's 40th wedding anniversary which was July 10. There were 35 family members attending.

TEETS-STONER COUPLE WEDS

Melinda Teets and Charles Stoner were united in marriage on Aug. 20, at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren. Officiating at the 2 p.m. ceremony was the Rev. J. Rogers Fike.

Melinda is the daughter of Bruce and Mary Teets, Eglon, and Charles the son of Charles and Loretta Stoner, Oakland. The couple is residing near Eglon.

McWILLIAMS DEATH

Roderick "Rod" McWilliams, 45, of Mtn. Lake Park, died Aug. 19 at Ruby Memorial Hospital, where he concluded his battle with cancer.

Services and burial were on Aug. 23 at St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House.

PERSONAL MENTION

Rhonda and Jeff Lawrence of Manassas, Va., visited last weekend with her parents, Ted and Barbara Stieringer, Aurora; her sister and nephew, Patty and Shane Arbogast, Eglon, and her niece, Shannon, and Mark Ankeny of Reedsville. They all spent a camping weekend at Camp Horseshoe. Patty and Shane spent a week in Soudersport, Pa., with husband and father, Darrell Arbogast, where he is employed.

Louella Fike of Aurora had eye surgery recently at Garrett County Memorial Hospital and is recuperating at home. Her daughter, Judy Highberger of Charleston, S.C., is staying with her mother.

Ardis "Sandy" Teets of Eglon underwent major surgery on Thursday of last week at Ruby Memorial Hospital and is reportedly making satisfactory progress.

Sue Shillingburg of Aurora was an overnight patient for observation at Garrett County Memorial Hospital after apparent respiratory difficulty.

Viola McWilliams returned Sunday to her Aurora home after spending the past several months with her daughter and son-in-law, Lenora and "Bud" Flowers, Oakland.

Carolyn Laurie of Aberdeen, Ohio, is visiting with her brother-in-law and sister, Leroy and Margaret McWilliams, Horse Shoe Run.

Chuck, Emily, and Noah Young left Sunday to return to their home in Martinsburg following a four-day visit in Eglon with her family Tom, Linda, and Sara Lewis.

Teets relatives in town for the Saturday Teets-Stoner nuptials were Brad and Robin Teets, Stroudsburg, Pa.; Naomi Teets of Boonsboro, Md.; Doyne and Bonnie Teets of Winchester; and Jack and Greta Weeks of Warrenton, Va.

Popular Cancer Drug Carries Risks

Breast cancer deaths have fallen sharply, and the anti-cancer drug tamoxifen has played a large role in this. This drug helps prevent the cancer coming back after initial surgery to remove a tumor. Tamoxifen blocks the female sex hormone estrogen. This hormone influences the growth of cells related to female reproduction, such as those in the breast or the uterus. If there is too much estrogen in the system, cell growth can accelerate to the point where tumors start to develop. Given in tablet form, a patient will typically stay on the drug for several years. Often the woman's cancer will be tested to see if it is sensitive to the amount of estrogen in the person's system. If the cancer is estrogen sensitive, tamoxifen is often prescribed.

Surprisingly, women who take tamoxifen run an increased risk of contracting uterine cancer. The drug may also induce symptoms similar to those of menopause, such as hot flashes and night sweats. Other common side effects include vaginal dryness, irregular periods and weight gain. But experts stress that all the studies conducted on the drug so far show that the benefits far outweigh the disadvantages.

Preston County Citizen Survey Being Conducted

The Preston County Visioning Committee wants to hear from Preston County residents. In May, approximately 700 school students in the county were given the opportunity to fill out citizen surveys.

"The input provided by the students was extremely valuable, but now we want to hear from other Preston County residents," said a Preston County Chamber of Commerce spokesperson.

So, this week the committee mailed out surveys to 1,000 residents from throughout Preston County who were randomly selected from the county's voter registration list. Residents who receive the mailing are encouraged to fill out the survey and mail it back to or drop it off at the Preston County Chamber of Commerce by Wednesday, Aug. 31.

Residents who want to fill out a survey but who did not receive one in the mail will still have an opportunity to do so. Surveys are available at the chamber, located at 200½ West Main Street in Kingwood. They are also available at the Preston County Health Department, located at the Kingwood Plaza, Kingwood. There will be 100 surveys at each location.

The survey is also available in PDF format on the Preston County Commission's web site: prestoncountywv.org. Persons who use the online survey are asked to print it out and mail it back to the Chamber of Commerce or drop it off at the office by Aug. 31.

"The Preston County Visioning Committee appreciates and values everyone's input into this important process," said the spokesperson.

For more information, persons may call the chamber at 304-329-0576.

DELEGATE VISITS TERRA ALTA – Delegate Debbie Stevens came to Terra Alta to meet with the Terra Alta Betterment Association (TABA), town council members, and local resident recently. TABA members escorted her on a tour of the town, pointing out current and completed projects since the Community Design Team's visit in 2003. She was shown plans displayed at Town Hall of the community park, Veterans Park, senior housing, and the various other projects that are under way. An informative discussion followed, said a spokesperson. Del. Stevens informed those present of Governor Manchin's priorities for the second session, which include water and sewer and lowering the food tax. Stevens answered questions for the citizens on sewer problems, second home taxes, trash problems, and area clean-up. She said she is against raising any taxes and would rather work to improve the tax base. She did urge people to call the House of Delegates at 877-565-3447 to voice opinions and concerns.

OSM Funds Two Watershed Cooperative Agreement Projects

The Interior Department's Office of Surface Mining (OSM) has awarded funding to two cooperative agreements aimed at cleaning up acid-mine drainage problems from abandoned mines in Preston County.

One award is for $93,804.74 to the Friends of Deckers Creek Inc. Watershed Association under a watershed cooperative agreement. Funds will be applied to correct problems with acid mine drainage at the Valley Point 12 Acid Mine Drainage (AMD) Remediation Project.

Friends of Deckers Creek will also receive $57,808 from the West Virginia Department of Environmental Protection's Office of Abandoned Mine Land Reclamation. The OSM, West Virginia, and Friends of Deckers Creek in-kind contribution of $3,248 will bring total funding for the Valley Point remediation project to $154,860.74.

This project addresses AMD problems arising from an abandoned underground mine at the headwaters of Kanes Creek, a tributary of Deckers Creek.

In addition to the Deckers Creek award, OSM also awarded $99,602 in funding to a Watershed Cooperative Agreement with the Lower West Fork Watershed Association, Preston County. This grant will run through March 31, 2007.

The association's project is also funded by the West Virginia Department of Environmental Protection's Office of Abandoned Mine Land Reclamation, which will fund the major portion of the project with a grant of $230,951. Additional in-kind contributions bring the total cost to $333,553.00.

Remediation of acid mine drainage around a deep mine portal will improve the water quality in both Nixon Run and its receiving stream, Shinns Run, according to the OSM. To accomplish this, new open limestone channels will be built along with a steel slag leaching bed. Water will then progress through an alkaline producing system and then go to a baffled settling pond ending in an aerobic wetland.

West Virginia Department of Environmental Protection's Office of Abandoned Mine Land Reclamation will fund its portion of these projects with monies from its Abandoned Mine Land Grant, which totaled $25,782,136.

West Virginia coal production for fiscal year 2004 was 136,478,537.36 tons.

AURORA PIONEERS
By Michael O'Connor

The Aurora Pioneers had a picnic for the August meeting at the home of Katelyn and Hunter Radford. The meeting opened with guest speaker, Sharon from Mountain Loggers Group, who discussed the Log-a-Load program and how the program's fundraising activities benefit West Virginia Children's Hospital.

Under old business, scheduling of the lawn mowing for Trater Park was discussed. Under new business, project books were turned in. The club discussed the lamb dressing contest at the Buckwheat Festival, with this year's theme to dress up the lamb to be a favorite sports team mascot. They also decided to have the haunted trail again this year in October.

The program involved many club members giving their project presentations. Marissa Bechtel showed the club her steer she will show at the Buckwheat Festival. Katelyn Radford gave a talk about her lamb, and Hunter Radford showed the pigs they will show at the festival.

Leana Cole gave a talk about her pigs. Kristen Stemple demonstrated how to put a saddle on a horse. Brittany Stemple gave a talk about how to do a play. Hailey Rocha showed how to make a healthy fruit snack. Chelece Rinker discussed her poster on the different parts of the pig. Ryan Rocha discussed how to track animals, and Travis Mersing talked about the proper use of a camera.

Of Bears And Bees...

It's disheartening to a beekeeper to go to the apiary and find colonies torn to pieces — the honeybees frantically trying to salvage what is left of their home — and know that a bear is somewhere in the woods with a belly full of honey.

This scene has been repeated over and over again, preventing many beekeepers from practicing their craft. But Gene and Yvonne Durst of Fort Hill, Pa. (just over the state line near Springs), have found a solution by designing a high platform for their bee yard.

It is made of 11-foot-high smooth stainless steel columns, surrounded by a wooden platform and railing. It can hold up to 16 colonies, with room to work alongside each hive. Supplies are raised and lowered using a hand crank lift. The Dursts reach the platform by using a wooden stepladder that pivots, so it is pulled away from the platform using a rope pulley.

So far, the structure has also prevented visits from raccoons, skunks, opossums, mice, and snakes.

The columns were acquired from Gene's brother Mark and Mark's son Mike, of Kearneysville, W.Va. The brothers spent many days building the platform, which has now housed bees for two years.

"We know the bears are sad that they can't get to the honey," Yvonne said with a smile. "So we have a 'crying bench' where they can sit and look up at the beehives, and we even supply them with a crying towel!"

Gene owns and operates Gene's Machine Shop, which is located on their farm.

"Since work there keeps him busy, and since he swells when he gets stung, I'm the one who actually handles the bees," Yvonne explained. "The shop is within hearing distance of the platform, so he always knows when one gets me!"

The brothers remember their father Clarence raising honeybees there on the farm. He died in 1939, but Mark continued the tradition. In fact, Yvonne noted that it is mainly from Mark that she and Gene have learned beekeeping.

"Books and videos help, but there is nothing like having another beekeeper to actually show us how," she said.

Mark has donated all eight of his frame hives. They are all hand-made, some of chestnut that were built by Clarence, and others that were constructed by Mark and his friend, Clifton Funkhauser.

In a woodshop adjacent to the machine shop, Yvonne has restored the older hives and tried her hand at making supers of wild cherry from trees on their property. She explained that super is a 5½-inch deep frame that is set above the 11-inch deep hive body, and is where the bees store their honey.

Their beekeeping adventure began several years ago, when Mark brought two of his colonies from West Virginia. To keep them out of the reach of the bears, he set them on the porch roof of the old chestnut log house that still stands on the farm. The brothers were born there.

Gene and Yvonne began increasing the number of hives by catching swarms, and by New Year's Day of 2004, when they moved them to the finished platform, they had five. By catching more swarms and splitting hives, the apiary now houses 11 colonies.

"That is a lot for a new beekeeper, and the work is sometimes overwhelming," Yvonne said. "But there is always such a wonderful, sweet aroma surrounding me, and I look forward to the honey."

Yvonne's fascination with bees began early in life.

"When I was a child, I was interested in beekeeping, and now my dream is a reality," she said. "I'm so thankful that Gene enjoys them, too. Although it is hard, hot, heavy work, it is a gentle craft, filled with exciting, intriguing elements. Every time I see the queen bee, watch one of the workers dancing, see a furry baby bee emerge from its cell, see them dusted with pollen and heavy with nectar, I am thankful to be learning this very important part of agriculture."

Yvonne noted that catching swarms is one of the most challenging parts of beekeeping, but it is one that she enjoys.

"To stand in the middle of thousands of buzzing bees as they are swarming is a wonderful experience that few will ever have," she said.

She recalled that she and Gene once went to great lengths to capture some bees from high up in their Norwegian spruce trees. He bolted about 25 feet of wooden poles together, fixed a cardboard box at the end, and raised their backhoe up as high as it would go.

"We climbed up in, raised the pole to the limb where the bees were gathered, and bumped the branch with the end of the pole," Yvonne said. "Bees fell into the box, but hundreds took to the air surrounding us. It was an intense situation."

As they lowered the box, they were hopeful that the queen bee had fallen in with the workers. Gene let the backhoe down and moved away, and Yvonne shook the bees out of the box onto white fabric that served as a ramp to their new hive.

"The queen was with them," Yvonne said. "They immediately caught the sweet aroma of the foundation wax inside, decided it was a good place, and marched in. It was an amazing sight."

Yvonne noted that last summer they had two very aggressive colonies.

"But being new beekeepers, we did not know what to do or why it was happening," she said. "When the bee inspector, Duane Hall, visited, he was stung many times. He said that their behavior was probably caused by a mean queen who passed that characteristic to all her offspring. He advised replacing her. We did, and by this spring, the old bees had died, and the new ones are calm and gentle."

Yvonne noted that she is not only harvesting liquid honey this year, but also honey in the comb.

"It sure is good eating, and people tell me that comb honey was their chewing gum when they were kids."

The label she uses expresses her sentiment. It says: "Made by Yvonne's Beautiful Bees."

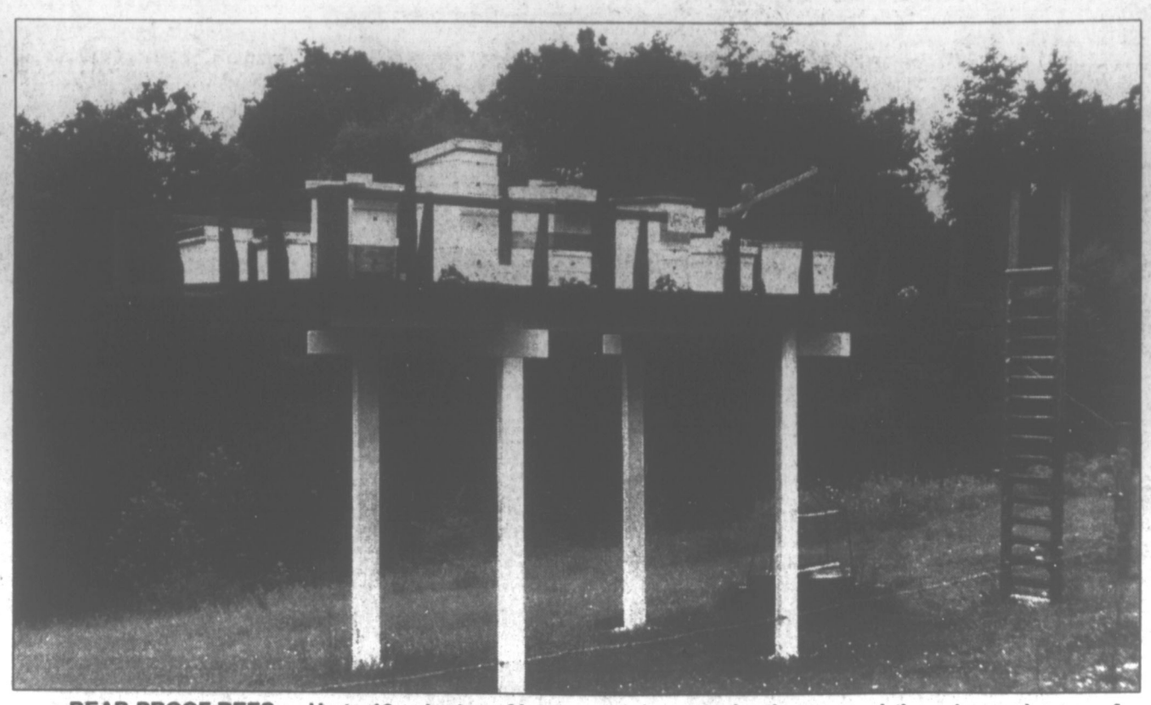
Splitting the hives next spring will create a full platform, which means that Gene and Yvonne will have to let many swarms fly away into the woods.

"That makes me sad, because the colonies probably won't survive," said Yvonne "Honeybees are susceptible to mites and diseases, so beekeepers have to treat. Across the country, thousands of colonies have been lost due to the varroa mite. The mites have become resistant to the chemicals used to kill them. In fact, Mark had 50 hives, and he lost all but six."

According to Yvonne, some beekeepers are using natural substances such as essential oils to combat the problem, and she plans on trying it herself.

She said that she and Gene hope that others will benefit from their experiences.

"We hope that others will build some type of bear-proof bee yard so they, too, can have the pleasures of raising honeybees," she said, "without having to worry about the bears."



BEAR-PROOF BEES — Up to 16 colonies of bees can reside on this special "bee yard" platform designed to keep persistent bears, and other critters, away. It consists of a wooden platform on 11-foot stainless steel columns, and there is ample room for designer/owner/beekeeper Yvonne Durst, Fort Hill, Pa., to maneuver around the hives. Durst is pictured below with some of her "tenants." See story.

Nominations For Soil Conservation Supervisor Sought

Nominations for an appointment to the Garrett Soil Conservation District board of supervisors are being accepted by the Maryland State Soil Conservation Committee.

The appointment will be for a term to expire Oct. 20, 2010, and will fill the expired term of Carl Bender. Nominations should be sent to: State Soil Conservation Committee, Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Room 306, Annapolis, MD 21401.

Any interested individual or organization may submit a recommendation. Nomination forms are available at the office of Willie Lantz, Extension Agent, 1916 Maryland Hwy., Ste. A., Mtn. Lake Park, MD 21550. Forms may also be picked up at the Soil Conservation District Office, 1916 Maryland Highway, Ste. C., Mtn. Lake Park, MD 21550. Nominations should be received by the State Soil Conservation Committee by Sept. 30.

The supervisor must be a resident of the district. District boundaries are the same as county boundaries. Those recommended should be able to attend monthly meetings of the board of supervisors, and have a knowledge of and a sincere interest in proper land use and the conservation of soil, water and related natural resources.

Humidity Relief Is Here For Farmers

Cooler temperatures and lower humidity allowed farmers ample time to work in fields this week, according to the Maryland Agriculture Statistics Service. As a result, snap bean harvest was almost complete with 91 percent harvest. Corn is looking good with 67 percent of the crop in the dough stage and 22 percent in the dent stage. The fourth cutting of alfalfa hay is under way with 23 percent completed. Apples are above average with 40 percent harvested, compared with 21 percent last year and 16 percent for the five-year average. There were 5.7 days suitable for field work.

Fruits were rated in mostly good condition. Apples were rated 1 percent poor, 7 percent fair, 90 percent good, and 2 percent excellent.

Pasture was rated 3 percent very poor, 8 percent poor, 38 percent fair, 38 percent good, and 13 percent excellent, while hay supplies were rated 5 percent very short, 8 percent short, 79 percent adequate, and 8 percent surplus.

Test your knowledge of the honeybees and beekeeping. The answers follow.

1. What do bees do during winter?
2. Name the types of bees in a colony.
3. How long do honeybees live?
4. How far do honeybees fly from the hive?
5. What is a honeyflow?
6. How many flowers can a honeybee visit in a day?
7. What is piping?
8. What is propolis?
9. What is a bee escape?
10. What is bee bread?
11. What is a cleansing flight?
12. Name the honeybee dances, what the dance looks like, and what each means.
13. What is festooning?
14. What happens to a honeybee after it stings?
15. Name the five most well-known races of honeybees.
16. What is swarming, and why does it happen?
17. What should you do when a honeybee buzzes around you, and why?
18. Why are there so many flavors and shades of honey?
19. On a hot summer day, how do the worker bees keep the hive cool inside?
20. What is the best color of clothing to wear when working with bees, and why?

ANSWERS

1. They cluster in the hive and eat the honey they have stored.
2. Drones, which are the males, workers, which are the females, and the queen.
3. Thirty to 40 days, but during wintertime, 3 or 4 months. The queens can live more than 3 years.
4. Some say up to six miles.
5. A time when there is a plentiful supply of nectar that the bees can collect.
6. 10,000 flowers in a day.
7. A series of sounds made by queens. Usually made by a newly emerged virgin queen to elicit "quacking" from queens still in their cell, which enables her to locate and destroy them.
8. Bee glue. A gluey or resinous material collected from trees and plants by the bees and used to strengthen the comb or to seal cracks.
9. A device that permits bees to pass only one way, preventing their return. It is used to remove bees from honey supers so the honey can be collected.
10. Pollen. The bees mix it with various liquids and seal it in the comb to use later to feed the larvae and young bees.
11. Bees do not defecate in their hives, so on a sunny day in winter or in early spring, they can be seen flying about doing their business, and yes, it stinks.
12. The circle dance. The honeybee circles in one direction, turns around, and circles back the other way. This dance tells the other bees to look for new flowers within 300 feet of their hive. The wag-tail dance is a shivering side-to-side motion of the bee's abdomen, while forming a figure eight. The vigor of the waggle, the number of times it is repeated, and the direction she dances while wagging tells where the flowers are in relation to the sun.
13. When many bees are secreting wax, they hang in festoons, or layers. If bees are seen in such a posture, called festooning, they are probably producing wax.
14. It dies. When it stings, the honey bee flies away, leaving the stinger there with some of its insides.
15. Italian, Carniolan, Caucasian, German black bees, and Africanized honey bees.
16. It is when the old queen and some of colony leave to find a new home, the hive has become overcrowded, or a new queen has taken over.
17. Enjoy her music and her presence. Maybe she will land so you can get a good look at this wonderful creature, and then a little shake might send her on. But if you are afraid, don't swat, or she might feel threatened and sting.
18. Because they collect nectar from different kinds of flowers.
19. They fan the air with their wings.
20. White or pastels. Bees are attracted to dark colors, so if you wear them, you are more likely to find them being very friendly. And it is best to wear a veil when approaching a hive of bees, because they often will try to fly into your eyes, nose, mouth, or ears.

Pasture Walk Scheduled in Garrett County

As we wind down another busy summer of planting, fertilizing and harvesting crops, some farmers are letting the livestock help out with the harvest. There has been a renewed interest across the county in incorporating more grazing into the farming operation. Maryland Cooperative Extension in cooperation with the Natural Resource & Conservation Service (NRCS) are teaming up to have a pasture walk at the farm of David C. Peachey on Jericho Road in southern Garrett County. The Peachey family has been rotational grazing their dairy herd for the past couple of years. Dr. Les Vough, State Extension specialist for forage crops with the University of Maryland, along with Elmer Dengler, grassland specialist with NRCS, will be on hand to lead discussions and answer questions about pasture management. The pasture walk will begin at 7 p.m. For more information call Willie Lantz at the Garrett County Extension Office at 301-334-6960.

land. How can you improve the wildlife habitat? What about planting trees, building a trail or cutting firewood? Who can you call for help?

A six-week forestry short course is planned for Thursday evenings starting on October 6 and ending November 17, to help you develop a plan for your property and guide you in sound forest stewardship activities. Sponsored by Maryland Cooperative Extension and the Maryland Forest Service, this course will cover topics such as: assessing your resources, getting to know the people who can help you, developing a forest stewardship plan, identifying trees and shrubs, managing for wildlife, learning about basic forest ecology and management principles, deriving income from your property, reducing property taxes by practicing forest stewardship, and more.

This hands-on course is developed for landowners who have no experience in managing their property. Cost for reference materials, refreshments, and six evenings of training is $50. Registration is limited. The workshop will be held from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Grantsville Sr. Center in Grantsville, Md. To register and get a full program description contact Willie Lantz at the Maryland Cooperative Extension Garrett County office at 301-334-6960 or by e-mail at: wlantz@umd.edu. Registration information is also available on the calendar of events at the University natural resource extension web site www.naturalresources.umd.edu.

A Special Thank You
Allan Reed DeWitt

Words will never be able to express the appreciation that the kids and I owe to our family, friends, and the community.

As we fought through this illness with Allan, there was a burden lifted knowing there were people like Larry Lewis, Dick and Susie Sherwood, Phillip Matthews, all of Allan's co-workers at the Garrett County Roads Dept., Mt. Storm VFW, Oak Grove Church of the Brethren, Sang Run Pentecostal Church, and a special thanks to Clara Fitzwater of Garrett County Hospice. These are only a few of the many people that either called, stopped by and sat with Allan, or helped with the numerous appointments.

As we all deal with the emptiness and the void in our life, remember all the times spent with Allan and also know you will always be in our prayers.

GOD BLESS YOU ALL!

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in all that parcel of land situate in Election District No. 14, Garrett County, Maryland, containing 0.56 acre, more or less, known and designated as Lot No. 24, Section 1, Block A, Piney Mountain Corporation, and described in deed from Piney Mountain Corporation to Harry H. Ramsay and Elizabeth B. Ramsay, husband and wife, dated December 9, 1964, and recorded January 20, 1965, in Liber No. 262, folio 371, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The Complaint states, among other things, that the amounts for redemption have not been paid, although more than six (6) months and one (1) day from the date of sale has expired.

IT IS THEREUPON, this 19th day of August 2005, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, ORDERED that notice be given by the insertion of a copy of this Order in some newspaper having a general circulation in Garrett County, once a week for three successive weeks before the 16th day of September 2005, warning all persons interested in the said property to be and appear in this Court by the 18th day of October 2005, and redeem the property and answer the Complaint, or thereafter a Judgment will be rendered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property, and vesting in the Plaintiff a title, free and clear of all encumbrances.

REAL ESTATE – 12:00 NOON
135.2 Acres +/-

Known as "Lily of the Valley," this is a beautiful, secluded parcel of real estate proudly boasting the true amenities of Garrett Co. It is a very short distance to the bountiful Savage River State Forest & only minutes to nearby Deep Creek Lake and major arteries such as I-68 and Rt. 495. It is a true "working farm" that has proudly been taken care of for many years as shown by the contour strips that circle the hills like lines on a picture. The property is improved by a 2-story, 10-room farmhouse and 2 modern wells. Don't forget about the 2340' +/- of road frontage that borders the very well-maintained county road that opens this property to endless possibilities! If you are looking for a quaint get-away, or an investment this is the opportunity you've been waiting for!

Terms for Real Estate: 5% down day of auction, balance due on delivery of deed! Sale is subject to confirmation by the Personal Representatives, and the ratification by the Orphans' Court of Garrett Co.

DEFENDANTS

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in all that parcel of land situate in Election District No. 6, Garrett County, Maryland, containing 0.58 acre, more or less, known and designated as Lot No. 1, Section 3, Block P, Piney Mountain Corporation, and described in deed from Piney Mountain Corporation to Thomas V. Claybaugh and Olive C. Claybaugh, husband and wife, dated June 4, 1981, and recorded June 11, 1981, in Liber No. 419, folio 506, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The Complaint states, among other things, that the amounts for redemption have not been paid, although more than six (6) months and one (1) day from the date of sale has expired.

IT IS THEREUPON, this 19th day of August 2005, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, ORDERED that notice be given by the insertion of a copy of this Order in some newspaper having a general circulation in Garrett County, once a week for three successive weeks before the 16th day of September 2005, warning all persons interested in the said property to be and appear in this Court by the 18th day of October 2005, and redeem the property and answer the Complaint, or thereafter a Judgment will be rendered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property, and vesting in the Plaintiff a title, free and clear of all encumbrances.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEE'S SALE
6 Callicoat Road, Oakland, MD 21550

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Joanne Eileen Lambert and Russell Eugene Lambert dated July 3, 2000, and recorded at Liber 809, Folio 0380 among the Land Records of Garrett County, MD, default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Sub. Trustees will sell at public auction at Main Entrance of the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., located at 203 S. 4th St., Oakland, MD 21550, on:

September 9, 2005, at 3:00 p.m.

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND, together with the buildings and improvements thereon situated in Garrett County, MD, and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property, which is improved by a dwelling, will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions, and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $11,500.00 by cash or certified check. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. If the purchaser fails to go to settlement, the deposit shall be forfeited, and the property shall be resold at the purchaser's risk and expense. Interest to be paid on the unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received in the office of the Sub. Trustees. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest. Taxes, ground rent, water rent, condominium fees and/or homeowner association dues, all public charges/assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges, if applicable, to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. If the Sub. Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law and equity shall be limited to a refund of the deposit. Additional terms to be announced at the time of sale. Purchaser agrees to pay $245.00 at settlement, to the Seller's attorney, for review of the settlement documents.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF IMPROVED REAL PROPERTY
Friendsville, MD 21531

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Tina L. Sisler dated May 25, 2000, recorded in Liber 806, Folio 503, among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, with an original principal balance of $97,500.00, and an original interest rate of 10.79, default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Sub. Trustees will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett County, at the Rotunda Entrance at the Court House Door, 203 S. 4th Street, Oakland, Maryland, on September 13, 200,5 @ 03:00 p.m. ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND, together with the buildings and improvements thereon located in Garrett County, Maryland, more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust. The property, which is improved by a dwelling, will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind. Terms of Sale: A deposit of $10,000.00 in the form of cash or readily available funds acceptable to the Trustees required at the time of sale. Balance of the purchase price, together with interest on the unpaid purchase money at the rate contained in the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received by the Trustees, payable in cash within ten days of final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court. TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE FOR THE PURCHASER. Adjustment of current year real property taxes will be made as of the date of sale and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. All other public charges or assessments, including water/sewer charges, ground rent, condo/HOA dues, whether incurred prior to or after the sale, and all other costs incident to settlement to be paid by the purchaser. All transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be paid by the Purchaser. Purchaser is responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property, and assumes risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale. If ratification or settlement is delayed for any reason there shall be no abatement of interest. The sale is subject to post-sale audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of the deposit without interest. If Purchaser fails to settle within ten days of ratification, he agrees to pay attorneys' fees in the amount of $750.00, plus costs, if the Trustees have moved to resell the property. If Purchaser defaults under these terms, deposit shall be forfeited. The Trustees may then resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulted purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds resulting from said resale even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulted purchaser. If Trustees are unable to convey either insurable or marketable title, or if the sale is not ratified by the Circuit Court for any reason, the Purchaser's sole remedy, at law or equity, is the return of the deposit without interest. Purchaser agrees to pay $295.00 at settlement to the Seller's attorney for review of the settlement documents. Howard N. Bierman, Jacob Geesing, Carrie M. Ward, Ralph J. MOTOR VEHICLE ADMINISTRATION.
CUSTOMER AGENT I CONTRACTUAL - Job ID # 9916(CSC)

Salary Range: $23,358 - $35,518

Closing Date: September 2, 2005. This position offers NO State paid benefits. This recruitment will ONLY be used to fill vacancies for contractual positions at the MVA Customer Service Center (CSC) in Cumberland, MD. To be considered for a permanent position you must apply once recruitment for permanent positions is opened.

The Motor Vehicle Administration is seeking qualified candidates for the position of Customer Agent I - Contractual for the Customer Service Center. Customer Agents perform a variety of duties such as titling and registering vehicles, licensing and monitoring drivers, issuing identification cards, licensing and regulating vehicle related businesses, enforcing insurance and vehicle emissions inspection laws, investigating for non-compliance with motor vehicle laws and regulations and other customer support functions.

Qualified candidates will meet or exceed the following requirements: One year of customer service work experience (customer service must be the primary function of the position, and must be reflected on your application); Possession of a High School Diploma or GED; Experience using MS Word and MS Excel. Note: Customer Service work experience may be substituted for the required education at the rate of one year of experience for one year of education. TO APPLY for this position, you must submit a DTS-1 application form. You must indicate CAI-Contractual and the Job ID number, for example CAI-Contractual-9916(CSC) on the application.

A full description, requirements (and substitutions) for the position, as well as the application form (DTS-1), may be obtained online at: www.marylandmva.com, or at any MVA location, or by calling the Fax on Demand at 410-424-3050 and selecting option 2.

Applicants are encouraged to apply online. Submit your application, by the closing date to the following address (postmarks and faxed copies not accepted): MVA REU, 6601 Ritchie Highway NE, Rm. 101, Glen Burnie, MD 21062. Attention: J. Polakt - 9916(CSC) or e-mail completed application to mvareu@mdot.state.md.us. Qualified applicants may be subject to reference and background checks.

MVA is committed to complying with the ADA, therefore appropriate auxiliary aids and services for qualified individuals with disabilities will be provided upon request. Maryland Relay Service: 1-800-201-7165, TTY Number: 1-800-492-4575 EOE.

SWANTON NEWS

There will be a sing at the Swanton Community Center this Saturday, Aug. 27, beginning at 1:30 p.m. All are welcome to bring lawn chairs and attend.

The Swanton Community Center will hold a chicken barbecue dinner and yard sale September 10. Dinner will start at noon, and the yard sale will be all day. Everyone is welcome. There is no cost for yard sale set-up.

There will be a sing at the community center pavilion Sunday, Sept. 11, at 1:30 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

Homecoming at Otterbein United Methodist Church will be Sunday, Sept. 18. Sunday School will be at 9:45 a.m., worship at 11 a.m., followed by a covered-dish lunch, singing, and honoring the older members at 2 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

PERSONALS

Bob, Delores, and Debbie Baker, Canton, Ohio, were overnight guests of his mother, Luella Baker on Saturday. They all attended church services on Sunday, and the Bakers returned home Sunday evening.

Weekend guests of Mary June Harvey were her granddaughter and family, Ellisa, Mike, Emily, and Micheala Woodbrey, Shepherdstown, W.Va. On Sunday her grandson and children came to visit. They are Ken, Brandon, Sara, and Nickellis Harvey, Wheeling, W.Va.

Leslie, Tracy, and Anthony Beckman, W. Farmington, Ohio, spent the week with Leslie's parents and brother, Melvin, Dotty, and Andrew Beckman. While here they did some fishing and attended the Garrett County Fair, and on Saturday Dotty had a birthday dinner for Melvin, with Paul and Mildred Harvey, Oakland, joining them for dinner.

Fewer Building Permits Being Issued For DCL

The total number of approved building permits issued during the first seven months of 2005 in Garrett County was down 10 percent compared to the same time period in 2004, permits and inspection chief Jim Torrington, Garrett County Department of Planning & Land Development, told the commissioners this week.

Between January and July of this year, 425 permits for various building projects – such as homes, garages, and sun decks – were issued. Of those permits, 139 were for the Deep Creek Lake area. During the same period last year, 473 permits were approved. Of those permits 183 were at the lake, according to Torrington.

The total number of permits so far in 2005 is also down 3.85 percent compared to 2003, and 2.75 percent compared to 2001.

W.Va. Company Opening New Business In GC

A West Virginia wood products company will be opening a new business at Southern Garrett Business and Technology Park, the commissioners announced on Tuesday. Authentic Woodworking Inc., currently located in Davis, is moving its manufacturing operations to the Maryland Economic Development Corporation (MEDCO) building, located in the park along Rt. 135 near Mtn. Lake Park.

The company will bring its 12-person workforce to the new facility, with plans to add staff as its business continues to grow, according to the commissioners.

"Authentic Woodworking will occupy over half of the 30,000 square-foot space, with production, administrative, and customer sales and service functions based in the new facility," said the company's plant manager Lawrence Gregory. "We manufacture custom wood products for residential and commercial use, including cabinets, moldings, flooring, and one-of-a-

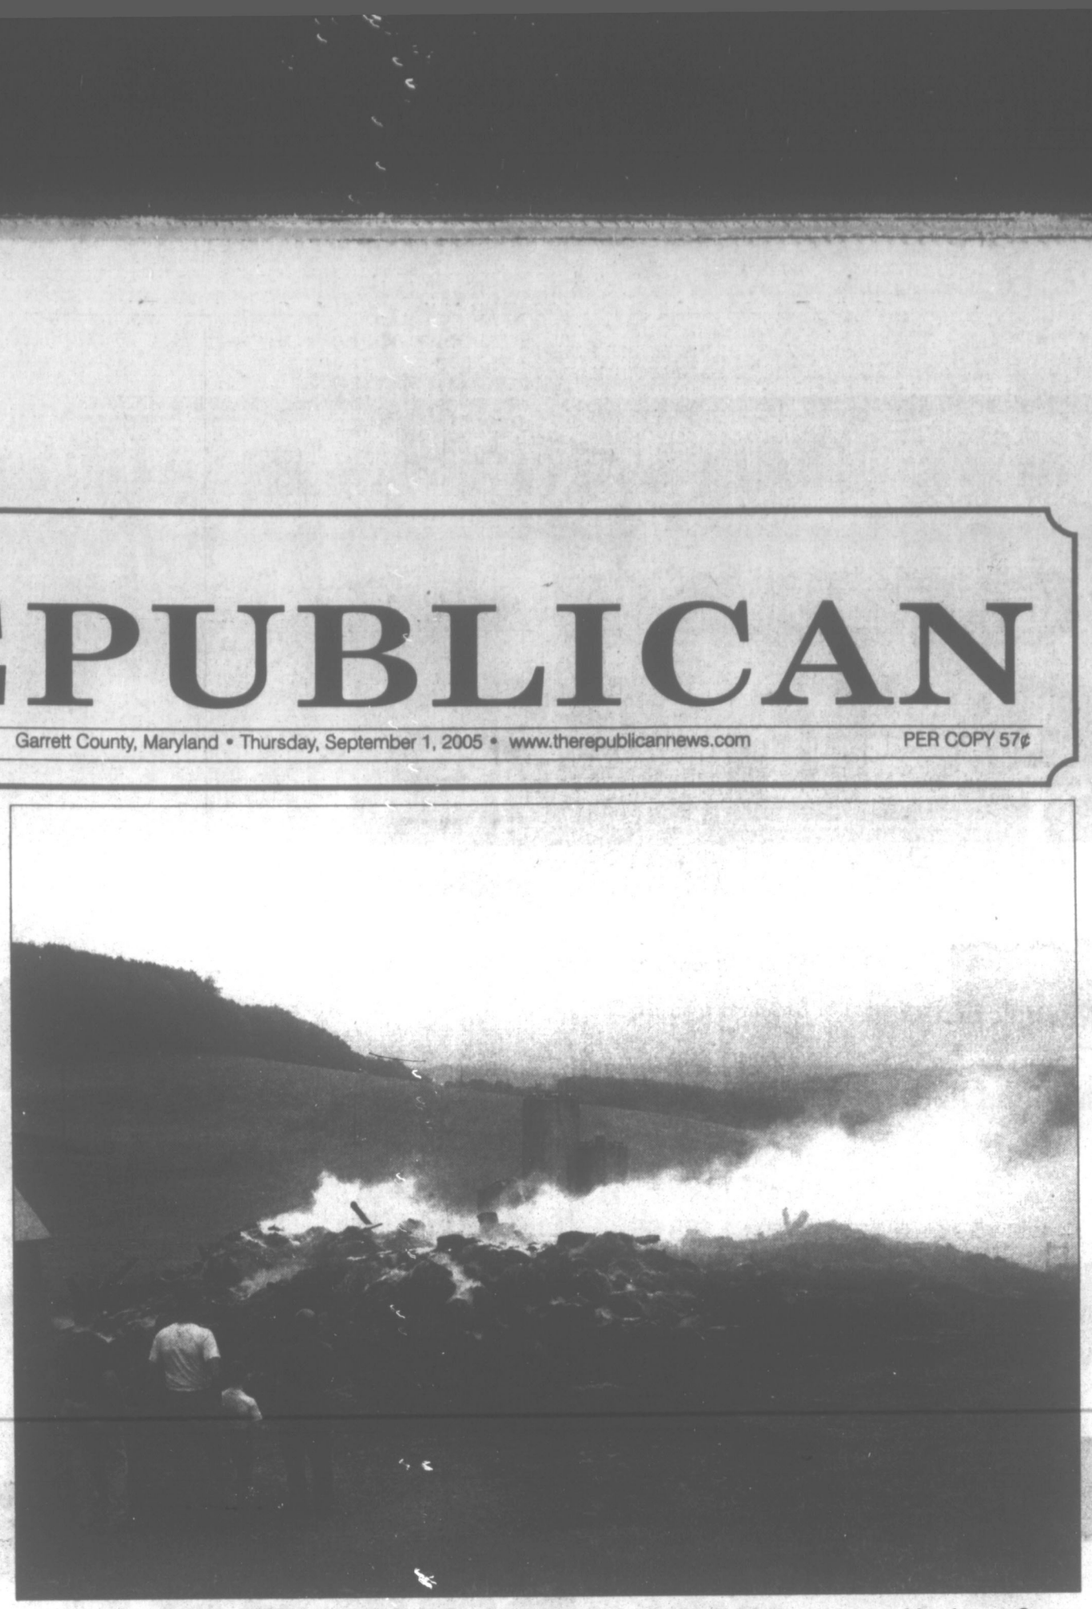
Closing Notice

The offices of The Republican will be closed Monday, September 5, for the Labor Day holiday. News and advertising deadlines remain the same.



PARTIAL SILOS AND SMOKING BALES of hay are about all that remained of a barn in the Finzel area that was destroyed by fire Monday morning. The cause of the blaze, which was battled by about 60 volunteers from a dozen area fire departments, has not yet been determined by fire investigators for the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office, who estimate the loss to be $140,000. The barn was owned by James Carey, whose son Darin is pictured above (far right) with other family members, including Darin's young son Ethan. The fire was discovered by a neighbor, who called 911 at about 8:40 a.m. Fire units remained on the scene for over 5½ hours. See story. Photo by Lisa Broadwater.

Blaze Of Undetermined Origin Levels Barn; Loss Is $140,000

The cause of a fire that leveled a barn in the Finzel area Monday morning has not yet been determined by investigators for the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office, who have estimated the loss of the barn and contents to be $140,000.

Personnel from a dozen area volunteer fire departments were summoned to 17729 National Pike after a neighbor noticed fire in a 44'-by-66' wood-frame barn owned by James Carey and located across the highway from Rt. 40 Elementary School. The initial alarm was sounded at 8:43 a.m., and the structure was ablaze upon the arrival of the first units. It took over 60 firefighters about 45 minutes to bring the fire under control.

According to the report filed by Deputy State Fire Marshals Jamie Rodeheaver and Jason Mowbray, the barn contained nearly 12,000 bales of hay, which were destroyed. Water was shuttled by 10 tanker trucks for about three hours, and a bulldozer and backhoe were brought to the scene to pull out the burning hay so it could be extinguished. Some 22 firefighting units were involved in the effort.

Units and personnel responding were from the Eastern Garrett, Grantsville, Bittinger, Accident, Frostburg, Shaft, Clarysville, Lonaconing, Midland, Deep Creek, Salisbury, and Meyersdale fire departments. Also responding were personnel and equipment from the Northern Rescue Squad, Allegheny Power, and Nathan Walker Excavating. There were no injuries reported.

Rodeheaver and Mowbray estimated the loss of the barn to be $100,000 and the loss of contents to be $40,000.

Susan Carey-Powell, daughter of barn owner James Carey, extended the family's appreciation to all who responded to the emergency.

"We thank the community — all of our friends and family members — for their assistance," she said. "We appreciate all the food and beverages that were donated by Subway, Burger King, Hill Top Fruit Market, Mc-

Residents, Visitors Invited To Kick Off Holiday At Oakland Mural Fundraiser

by Cherie Ross, Oakland Main Street Manager

The first of Oakland's murals is underway! To begin the holiday weekend off with a full evening of fun, the Design Committee is hosting a fundraiser this Friday, Sept. 2, at the mural site to help continue to raise money for this year's and next year's mural projects.

The fundraiser will be held at the Front Page Stage/Sincell Publishing parking lot, located along Green Street, from 5 until 6:30 p.m. DJ Johnny Rock will be there with music and games for everyone to start off the holiday weekend.

There will also be food available on site and at the Mtn. Fresh Pavilion, as well as face painting, pictures with Kim Trickett's Yellow Snow sled dogs, and the launching of our children and youth art project. Admission is free, but a donation of $5 is suggested.

In case of inclement weather, the fundraiser will be held at the Mtn. Fresh Pavilion in the Oakland town parking lot.

Following the fundraiser, the final Little Yough Summer Music Festival concert of the season, featuring The Remedy, will begin at 7 p.m. at the pavilion.

The outdoor mural art project began over a year and a half ago with the drafting and adoption of a town ordinance that allows outdoor art. Members of the Design Committee worked with the Oakland mayor and town council to accomplish this.

Following the adoption of the ordinance, the committee began working with area artists and interested parties to create and implement a plan for the solicitation and selection of mural proposals, locations, and equipment. The theme for the first two murals is "historic."

The first mural currently being painted is by Grantsville artist Dave Diehl, who uses an airbrush technique in his work. It will highlight some of the many people who frequented our area in the late 1800s and early 1900s when the B&O Railroad brought many to this

GC Septic Tank Owners Will Be Billed Next Month

The Garrett County commissioners this week heard a departmental update report from Financial Services director Wendy Yoder. She said her "big news item" concerned the Bay Restoration Fund and its new "flush tax."

For the last several months Financial Services has been trying to determine who owns septic systems in the county and how to collect the tax.

"There is only about one month left to get bills out to septic tank owners," Yoder said. Beginning next month, those owners will be billed $30 annually for each system.

Persons who are on public sewer and water systems in Garrett County must also pay $30 a year. The municipalities and Garrett County Department of Public Utilities began billing their customers in January. A $7.50 flush fee is added to their bills each quarter.

To determine who has septic tanks in Garrett County, Financial Services has been poring over state real estate tax and county assessment records for the last several months.

Yoder said her biggest hurdle now is determining the number of septic tanks at trailer parks and other multiuse facilities. She is compiling a list of the owners of those facilities and wants to be able to send them just one tax bill for all of their tanks.

In May 2004, the Maryland General Assembly and governor approved legislation (Senate Bill 320) establishing the Bay Restoration Fund to generate monies to improve the water quality of the Chesapeake Bay. According to the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE), the bay has experienced a decline in water quality because of an over-enrichment of nutrients, mainly phosphorus and nitrogen. Effluent from wastewater treatment plants and urban and agricultural runoffs are the three major

Gov. Announces Relief Effort; Gives Donation Web Site Address

Governor Robert L. Ehrlich Jr. announced yesterday at a Board of Public Works meeting that Marylanders who want to help victims of Hurricane Katrina can now use www.marylandcares.us to make donations through the Governor's Office of Service and Volunteerism.

"Maryland citizens have a history of stepping up to the plate in a time of crisis," said the governor. "State employees played an integral role in days following Hurricane Isabel, and even lent a helping hand when Florida was devastated by a hurricane in the 1990s under the Schaefer Administration."

The Web link was created to provide an easy-to-remember address that will send users directly to the Governor's Office of Service and Volunteerism Web site, where citizens can find reputable charities and information on how and what to donate.

The Web link is just one of many resources Maryland is using to aid victims in affected states, the governor added. On Tuesday, he authorized the deployment of 100 soldiers from the Maryland Army National Guard's 115th Military Police Battalion to assist Mississippi with its relief effort for Hurricane Katrina. The Maryland Emergency Management Agency has been tracking requests for help from Louisiana, Alabama, and Florida, and matching them with state and local resources in Maryland.

Maryland is sending a logistics team comprising emergency responders from Kent and Charles counties to the state operations center in Mississippi. The Department of Health and Mental Hygiene has been asked to assemble a team of volunteer doctors and nurses to help treat storm victims in Louisiana, plus more than 100 Maryland residents trained by the Central Maryland Chapter of the American Red Cross are already heading south.

"This is just the beginning of the nationwide effort that will occur over the next several weeks and months, said Governor Ehr-

SHS To Collect Dollars To Aid Delta Region

Southern High School students have been asked to save a dollar to be donated to assist with the devastation that has fallen on the Mississippi Delta region. These dollars will be collected during the annual Sept. 11 memorial assembly set for Friday, Sept. 9.

Additionally, a donation of one dollar will be requested from all individuals attending the St. Vincent Pallotti and Southern football game on the same night.

"It is our hope that we can write a check of over $2,000 to the American Red Cross to be used in some way to ease the suffering of hundreds of thousands of Americans," said Tom Woods, principal.

Other members of the Garrett County community wishing to make contributions through this effort may send money to the main office and make checks payable to Southern Garrett High School.

Last winter the school raised more than $2,000 to assist the tsunami relief effort in its "One for the World" drive.

"Once again we are asking everyone to find just one dollar to make the delta a better place," said Woods.

GC Community Action Collecting Relief Donations

The Garrett County Community Action Committee is inviting anyone who wants to make financial contributions to assist with relief and cleanup of communities devastated by Hurricane Katrina to donate to a fund being collected to be sent to the Southern Mutual Self Help Corporation in New Liberia, La.

Community Action president Duane Yoder said that employees and board members of GCCAC are contributing money that will go to a sister organization that has worked with the Garrett County agency for the past 10 years on a variety of projects.

"I know these people, and have absolute confidence in their committment and ability to direct aid to the right places and people," Yoder stated. "I have been in communication with people involved with rural communities in Louisiana and Mississippi, and the problems they face are something I cannot even imagine. These are organizations and people whom we have worked with on rural development projects for many years."

Beverly Beard, who serves as the vice chairperson of the Garrett County Community Action board of directors and who visited the New Liberia organization three years ago, noted that assistance will be directed to small rural communities that are frequently overlooked.

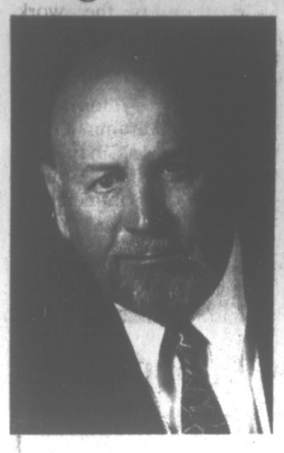
"We want to make sure that any money we raise goes directly to people in some of these poor and isolated areas," Beard said.

Checks can be made out to Garrett County Community Action and mailed to the agency at 104 East Center Street in Oakland.

THE MCGREW HOUSE LIVES – The historic James Clark McGrew house in Kingwood, W.Va., will be the site of a celebration next weekend, as the Society for the Preservation of the McGrew House hosts its annual McGrew birthday event, held every September. A variety of events and activities are planned for Sept. 10 at the house, which is located at 109 East Main Street. The festivities will begin at 9 a.m. and last throughout the day. See story on today's West Virginia page. Pictured in front of the historic structure are George Shaffer and Susan Hardesty portraying James and Persis McGrew. Photo by John McEwen.

GIANT PIECES OF LICORICE? That's what these rubber spacers, or fillers, for the railroad crossing in Oakland look like, and even feel like. The spacers go on each side of the metal rails to maintain proper space between them and the asphalt that will be laid around them. Work on the crossing, which is expected to be completed by tomorrow, has kept a portion of South Second Street closed for the past two weeks. The new crossing promises a much smoother ride across the tracks for drivers. Photo by John McEwen.

David Moe Seeks Md. House Of Delegates Seat



A Garrett County businessman and transportation infrastructure advocate, David Moe, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination as delegate to the Maryland General Assembly from District 1-A in the September 2006 primary election.

This seat is currently held by George Edwards of Grantsville, who has announced he will not run for re-election to this position but will seek election as senator to the Maryland General Assembly representing the western Maryland region.

"I have been and continue to be an outspoken advocate of the Route 219 Oakland Bypass, extension of the runway at the Garrett County Airport, and the Appalachian North-South Corridor Highway Project," said Moe. "I believe the completion of Interstate 68 from Hancock to Morgantown, W.Va., has provided the single biggest economic development boost to the western Maryland region.

"It has made available a safe and efficient access from the major consumer market places of the Baltimore-Washington-Northern Virginia and the Pittsburgh-Ohio areas. Its development is a contributing factor to the booming tourism, real estate and construction industries at Deep Creek Lake and Garrett County."

Moe has resided in Garrett County since 1978 and was employed as an underground coal miner at Laurel Run Mining Company in Mt. Storm, W.Va.

He assisted in the formation of TCI Computer Systems in 1986 with Charles Teets and was its managing vice president. He and his wife purchased the business from Teets in 1991.

In 2003, he closed TCI and retired from the retail business to concentrate on his real estate leasing and development firm, Loren Development Corporation, which specializes in residential and commercial leasing in the Oakland area.

Moe was appointed by Governor Parris Glendening to the Western Maryland Economic Development Task Force in 1998 and appointed by Governor Robert Ehrlich in 2003 to his subsequent Western Maryland Economic Development Commission. On both committees he served as co-chair of their transportation committees.

He has been active in the Garrett County community as a member of the Garrett County Development Corporation since 1993 and president of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce (1995-2000). Moe was actively involved with both organizations when they successfully advocated the creation of a "local business preference" for Garrett County businesses who bid on county government contract opportunities.

Proceeds Of GC Red Hat Gals Calendar To Benefit Dove Center

by Beth L. Bowers

The calendar models are mothers and grandmothers, business owners and volunteers, and are all members of the Red Hat Gals of Garrett County, a chapter of the popular international Red Hat Society. All proceeds from this 2006 calendar will go directly to the Dove Center.

Committee members Betty Rouse (chairperson), Ellen Fritz, Jane Frawley, Nita Roberts, Pat Bobo, Gayle Miller, and Edna Forsyth decided to pursue something that would benefit a women's group.

"We want people to smile when they look at this calendar," said Forsyth. "Our society is all about having fun, and we think that this calendar reflects that."

The Red Hat Society was formed for women wanting to greet middle age with sprit, humor, and style, according to the society's web site. The society is for women over the age of 50 who get together and wear red hats and purple outfits on special occasions called "fun-raisers." The local chapter was formed by Queen Mum Gayle Miller 3½ years ago. She said she decided to try to form a group after speaking to a group in South Padre Island, Texas.

According Forsyth, the society wanted to focus on Garrett County as a whole.

"We wanted to show the beauty of the entire county," she said. "We made it a point to travel to all points in the county and use locations all over the county.

"One of the greatest things while making this calendar was that we got to learn about so many wonderful people in Garrett County. Sometimes we would be laughing so hard and enjoying ourselves so much it was hard to get a shot."

Forsyth commented that the calendar was not only possible because of the willing models, but because of the generous sponsors.

"We couldn't have done this without them," she said. "Because of their generous sponsorships, all of the proceeds from these calendars will go directly to the Dove Center."

The 12 sponsors are Oak'tiques, Pro-Flooring, Curves, Terry Boggs of Railey Realty, Country Garden Expressions, Shaffer Tours and Charters, Patterson Boat Company, Brenda's Pizzeria, the Wisp, Four All Seasons Gift Shoppe, Mountaineer Log and Siding Company, and Shaffer Ford,

The photos were taken by Judy Wilt and design and publication of the calendars was done by Sincell Publishing.

Frawley said she hopes to sell all 1,000 copies of the calendar. "I probably have no business posing for a calendar, but it was so much fun" she said. "And it was for such a great cause."

Planning and coordination of the calendar started in January of this year.

"Edna is the driving force and manager of this project," said Roberts. "She searched for locations, arranged the photo shoots, and was the force behind the production."

The calendars will be available for purchase at various businesses, or by sending a check or money order ($12 plus $2 for shipping and handling), payable to RHG of GC Calendar, c/o Edna Forsyth, P.O. Box 431, Oakland, MD 21550.

The Red Hat Girls meet the third Monday of every month for lunch somewhere in the county.

AGF Youth Salute Event Nominations Being Accepted

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce is accepting nominations for the Garrett County Salute to Youth, part of the upcoming Autumn Glory Festival. Established last year, the recognition is designed to salute outstanding young people in the county.

Nomination forms for the Salute to Youth will be available at the Visitors Center in McHenry, the Oakland Train Station, and at branches of the Ruth Enlow Library. The deadline for nominations is Friday, Sept. 16. Decisions will be made by an Autumn Glory panel.

"Garrett County's future is its youth, but the achievements of youth also exist today," said chamber president Charlie Ross. "That is what we want to recognize. Because of what they are doing now, we can have confidence that these young people will lead well tomorrow."

"Garrett County's Salute to Youth is a new recognition for outstanding youth in a variety of fields," said Oakland mayor Asa McCain. "We will take people's recommendations and open the recognition to students in all areas. People say the youth of today don't accomplish things like they did in the past. That definitely is not true. The young people recognized as part of last year's tribute and those chosen as Autumn Glory royalty are proof that is not true," McCain stated.

Members of the Southern Rams girls' basketball team were recognized last year, as well as state champion wrestlers Scott Wildesen of Southern High School and Casey Kamp of Northern High School. The students performed well academically as well as athletically.

"Young people have played a big part in the Autumn Glory celebrations since the early days," said McCain. "When visitors look around during Autumn Glory they see Garrett County young people involved with, as well as enjoying events. They help serve turkey dinners, set up chairs along the parade route, assist the fire department with Oktoberfest, and work at local booths and decorate floats. Scouts help with parking and other activities."

The Northern and Southern High School bands march in most Autumn Glory parades. Outstanding high school bands from around the region compete in the Western Maryland Tournament of Bands held Saturday at Southern High School football field. Field show competition is sponsored by Southern Garrett Band and Band Boosters.

Saturday's "Autumn Declares God's Glory" musical presentation is the work primarily of young people from Pleasant View Baptist Church.

For more information about the Autumn Glory Festival, persons may contact the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce at 301-387-4386.

Thank You

We would like to express our thanks and deepest appreciation to every family member, relative, and friends who made our 50th wedding anniversary a truly unforgettable and memorable one.
We were really surprised by the party, the many cards we received, and by the friends who have just said "Happy Anniversary."
We have been blessed in so many ways by God and so many loving people.

Sincerely,
Juanita and Tom Browning

"How Can We Help?"...

There are, of course, no words that can accurately describe the devastation wrought on the gulf coasts of Louisiana and Mississippi this past week by Hurricane Katrina. The televised films of the area definitely speak louder than words, but no doubt physically being there is the only way one is able to get a real sense of the magnitude of destruction.

There is no question that the losses from the storm and the cost to rebuild will exceed those of any other natural disaster that has ever hit the United States, with the latest estimates hovering somewhere around $30 billion. We as a nation have faced enormous losses before and have, so far, rallied from every disaster. But one thing that makes this latest one a bit unique is the number of U.S. citizens who are now literally homeless refugees. There are likely tens of thousands of them, whose homes are not just damaged, but completely gone. Their sole possessions are literally the articles of clothing they are wearing right now, and, for some of them, a piece of ground either under water or cluttered with debris.

"How can we help?" is the question so many Americans are asking, and a couple in faraway Idaho interviewed yesterday on public radio have come up with one rather unique answer to that question. Jill Kandrus and her husband plan to "adopt" a refugee family from the flood-ravaged area by inviting them to move into their basement, rent-free, and stay until they can make other arrangements. Evidently word of their idea has spread throughout their city (Idaho Falls), and to date, some 300 other couples/families are making the same offer! Perhaps a government agency would be able and willing to transport the refugee families to the homes of these generous people. (Hmm... It seems that many of us Garrett Countians might be in a position to jump on that bandwagon.)

Certainly the easiest way for all of us to help is simply by sending money, and there is information in a couple stories on the front page of this newspaper today that explain how best to do that. We caution everyone to watch out for the various "charitable" scams that are probably already in the making, particularly on the World Wide Web, and strongly suggest that all financial contributions be directed to organizations such as the American Red Cross, Salvation Army, or one of those suggested in the aforementioned news stories.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Whenever I am out somewhere and I see police officers, if I have a chance to talk to them, I like to praise them and thank them for the job they do for us.

Well, this past Saturday (8/27/05), while driving on Md. Rt. 39, just west of Crellin, I passed a Md. State Police car going in the opposite direction. I hadn't gone far when I looked in my mirror, and saw that he was on my back bumper with his lights on. When we pulled over he told me that I didn't have my seat belt on when he passed me. I told him that, yes, I did, and he saw that I still had it on. He even saw me unbuckle when I leaned across the seat to get the vehicle registration card out of the glove box. But he still said that I didn't have it on.

Well, I could see that I had lost. So I did not argue any further. He gave me a ticket and wished me a good day, and we went our merry ways.

Rest assured, this is one officer who will never get any of my compliments.

To the Editor:

How marvelous is the "theme" of Garrett County's Board of Education: "Knowledge will forever govern ignorance, and a people who mean to be their own governors must arm themselves with the power knowledge gives." James Madison's grand notion, uniting soldier and scholar, farmer and merchant, nonetheless requires a leap of faith and a strong commitment to the better idea, for it is never certain knowledge will prevail. As the Nobel-laureate Richard Feynman often remarked, it is so very hard to "know" about even the smallest of things. In this hurley-burley, attention deficit world, sustained inquiry often falls victim to the palliatives of wishful thinking or the notion that one opinion is as good as any other, as if monsters still await over the edge of the world, or penicillin was ineffectual, or George Washington had crossed the Rubicon in 1492. Or that the wind industry is an effective and meaningful producer of anything other than massive tax sheltering schemes.

The self-serving bleat of those proclaiming they "can do whatever they want with their property," including erecting sky-scraper sized, nuisance-infected wind turbines that will erode their neighbors' quality of life and deface our natural heritage, is an embarrassing reminder of the incivility ignorance produces.

As for Clipper Windpower's well-paid spinmeister, Kevin Rackstraw, a resident of Potomac, Friends of Backbone Mountain would welcome a public debate about his "knowledge." The debate should focus upon the many claims made on behalf of the wind industry along the uplands of the Alleghenies-- with the idea of substantiating them in the spirit of the theme of our public education system.

Jon Boone
Oakland

To the Editor:

Regarding last week's letter from Clipper Windpower's Kevin Rackstraw, I would like to offer the following.

Friends of Backbone Mountain is not an organization opposed to anything but bad ideas. We are not as much "opponents of windpower" as opponents of irresponsible development. We would be glad to meet Mr. Rackstraw in a public debate organized around verifying the many claims the wind industry makes, especially its promises to mitigate the mining and burning of fossil fuels, improve air quality and public health, reduce dependence on foreign supplies of energy, create significant new jobs, local revenues, and taxes, enhance property values for those who live nearby wind plants, eliminate nuisances such as noise and shadow flicker, and preserve the integrity of Garrett County's Heritage Plan, which pledges to preserve the state's highest ridge as a natural heritage resource.

Friends of Backbone Mountain have held two public meetings over the past year to inform residents about the many issues involved in wind plant development. We did this as a public service to educate those who have wish to know more about wind energy development and its assorted consequences.

Sincerely,
Russell Bounds
Friends of Backbone Mountain
Deer Park

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to recent letters accusing the Friends of Backbone Mountain (FOB) of myopia and nimbyism for opposing wind plants. FOB members understand that our reliance on fossil fuels endangers the planet and believe that there are a host of more enlightened solutions to our current predicament (most notably conservation).

The installation of hundreds of wind turbines on our local ridges will not slow global warming nor lower anyone's electric bill – the cost will be higher! Wind turbines produce only electricity. Our ever-increasing energy needs are more than 60 percent automobile and home-heating fuel. Wind power will not reduce the burning of those at all.

Industrial wind energy on Backbone Ridge is not a good energy solution for a variety of reasons: low efficiency rates; lack of storage ability; wildlife, habitat, and viewshed destruction; stray voltage; ice throws; noise; light; abandonment; and the list goes on. Most egregious, however, is how these developments serve as delivery systems for taxpayer dollars to the coffers of large energy corporations.

The business of wind energy is tax shelters, government subsidies, and price controls, as pioneered by Enron, the largest owner of wind developments when it went bankrupt. Florida Power and Light, one of the largest holders of wind plants in the country and owner of the operations in Meyersdale, Pa., and Thomas, W.Va., managed to earn over two billion dollars in 2002 and 2003, yet not pay any federal income taxes during those years. Backbone Mountain should not be desecrated to line the pockets of rich, outside investors while producing a nominal amount of power.

Very truly yours,
Kimberly Connaughton

To the Editor:

I am writing in regard to the appearance of downtown Oakland. I am shocked by the deterioration of the sidewalks and lack of care. If the town is responsible for maintaining the sidewalks, then it is not doing a very good job. If the business owners are responsible for the area in front of their establishment, then I would think the town is still responsible to see that it is taken care of. Whom would I sue if I fell and broke a leg by tripping on the bad concrete or overgrown grass?

Liberty Street is now a thoroughfare and is the worst looking street in Oakland. The crosswalks are unsafe as well and have not lasted long. The downtown parking lot between the museum and railroad station was all grown up with weeds. One call to Mr. Mason's secretary, and it was taken care of the next day. It now looks very nice. Thank you for the response.

I am a graduate of Southern High School and reside in Garrett County three months out of the year. Therefore I feel that I have a say in how bad Oakland has started to look. I sincerely hope that the situation is remedied in a timely a manner as the parking lot was.

To the Editor:

In reading your editorial last week, I got a very strong sense that you were trying to minimize the comments recently made by Mr. Pat Robertson in regard to assassinating the democratically elected President of Venezuela. You did call the comments irresponsible and stupid, but then proceeded to talk at length about inflammatory speeches made by evangelical radical Islamists in this country in 1992. I would contend that in the changed world of 2005, nations with strong traditions of free speech, such as the U.S. and countries of Europe, have come to realize that limits must be set in allowing people to advocate killing and terrorism, and have enacted laws that attempt to balance the freedom to express unpopular views versus the safety of a country's citizens. I believe it is a bit disingenuous to compare Mr. Robertson's comments to events 13 years ago.

You also included what I would term an underhanded disparagement of "the opposite end of the political spectrum" who have "gone crazy with coverage," and "perhaps rightly so." Perhaps? Excuse me. Not perhaps, but as emphatically as possible should the media respond. Mr. Robertson should be roundly condemned by all sides of the political continuum and by all religious persuasions.

Mr. Robertson for me has always been at the pinnacle of sleaze. He has had financial ties with a gold mining company doing business with Charles Taylor, the exiled leader of Liberia who is wanted on charges of war crimes, and personal and financial ties with one of the many sadistic autocrats in Africa, the now-deceased Mobutu Seko of Zaire; he has agreed with those who contend that the crisis of the AIDS epidemic is God's answer to homosexuals, and that the attacks of 9/11 were caused by our lack of Christian behavior in this country. The man should be given no slack for his outrageous and potentially dangerous comments. I can easily see him, given the opportunity, as functioning like one of the radical clerics of Iran. Similar to the fatwah issued against the novelist Salman Rushdie for writing a novel that the clerics deemed irreverent, the proclamation by Mr. Robertson, as well as his past behaviors, are over the edge of decency. How long before he deems citizens of his own country in need of assassination if they do not agree with his radical viewpoints?

To the Editor:

The letter to you in last week's edition of The Republican concerning sexual offenders made compelling points about the need to revisit the laws pertaining to such crime. The points concerning poor policy articulation and lack of execution of current safeguards were also on mark. Calling for the end of the revolving door for sex offenders is well intentioned, and lawmakers and the judiciary could be more determined when it comes to issues of abuse of all sorts.

That said, solutions to the problems of abuse can be found long before incarceration is utilized as a deterrent; recidivism research tells us it is not a remedy. A handful of local therapists have volunteered to treat and have been provided specialized training in the sexual offenders' arena. But, here again, community supports have been deployed and need to continue to flourish so that problem behaviors are diverted early in life, making treatment, except for cases of suspected neuro-psychopathology, rarely required.

While it is important that the community openly discuss the root causes of the epidemic numbers of children who are over sexualized and the growing number of young sex offenders, I do not want to lose focus here, as the good news is, youth development science tells us that large doses of community-wide asset development is the primary key to creating healthy communities and healthy youth. Along with strong bonds to family and community, developing assets through venues like youth leadership training, service learning, after-school programs, and youth leagues which are administered by caring adults in safe and nurturing environments serves as the antidote to many youth offending behaviors.

More and more, prudent communities are concentrating on maintaining vibrant, preferably research-based, models of prevention activities. Not only are these programs demonstrating clear and defendable outcomes, they are also highly cost effective. As a quick example, for the amount of funding typically spent on just three youth in institutionalized care, communities can serve up to 300 youth in after-school programming, or work with 200 families in early intervention home visiting programs, or provide 100 families with wrap-around child care. The point is, while there will always be a small number of children who need and should receive specialized and expensive care, the vast majority of out-of-home placements in communities could be diverted through prevention activities which support families and communities, and funds put to best use as communities have greater latitude to manage and plan locally.

LAYING DOWN MY PEN

"It doesn't get any better than this!" The family gathered around the table eating crab cakes, corn on the cob, tomato gravy and biscuits can evoke such an exclamation. Each of us can remember experiencing that quiet stream of contentment which corresponds to those words.

One does well to observe the boundaries of such experience. Another biscuit could wreck the whole sense of universal equilibrium.

I have had a year of such experiences, my year in Paris, and I have had a year of writing about those experiences.

Speaking literally, of course, it could have been better. St. Anselm tells us that it is God alone who is that than which nothing better can be conceived. I can conceive a better year than the one I have just had, the same year of experiences, for example, but shared with more relatives and friends.

I can conceive of the possibility of having traveled home weekly at warp-speed to catch a movie and supper with my son or to crawl on the floor with my granddaughter saying "woof-woof" to each other while her mother looked on or to have conversations long enough with my eldest daughter for her to say yet again, "I already told you that I am not going to talk about Aristotle today."

Those are samples of what I have experienced since coming home and of what I desperately missed while in Paris. Life doesn't get any better than that either.

All the same, the year in Paris – for all its busyness, and it was busy – had a leisure about it which, in conjunction with extraordinary experiences, produced the best writing of my life. I sensed that myself, but many of you confirmed my own intuition. Thank you for all the kind words which you have expressed to me and, in a sense even more, for those expressed to my editors.

Perhaps I could continue writing at that level though the challenge of it would be daunting. Perhaps I could, that is if I had the continued leisure, but I do not. Part-time ministry, part-time teaching and full-time study, first, for doctoral exams and, then, for my dissertation preclude the lazy morning once a week in which I re-write an eight-hundred word essay several times.

The extra hours that I can eke out of my new schedule go to my children, my granddaughter, my nieces and nephews, my grandmother, my mother, uncles, aunts, cousins and occasionally even for a friend here and there. The pilgrimage of life has many side-altars. The one where I must sacrifice the next year is marked "Ph.D."

Thus I lay down my pen as a journalist, specifically as a newspaper columnist writing – as I like to say – for friends, neighbors and cousins in order to take up my pen as a scholar. Perhaps I lay down the journalist's pen to take it up again in a year, but perhaps never again. Such things we do not know, and it is surely just as well that we do not.

I remember the afternoon early in A.D. 1983 when I literally took up my pen to write about the experience of drinking tea. That was the first of the newspaper columns which were to appear occasionally, then fortnightly and then weekly.

This has never been journalism on a grand scale. I began writing for a county paper. A small city daily took up the column about a year later. Nine years after that – long gone the editors who understood what my column was about – the paper used financial pressures as an excuse to get rid of me. This newspaper then began publishing my work. That was more than 11 years ago.

When I first began writing, every column was created in long hand and then was reduced to typescript on a manual typewriter. In A.D. 1990 I bought my first computer. Four years after that my wife bought the second. A few years later a local corporation gave me a lap-top. Three years passed, and a friend gave me my second lap-top. Computers are getting so cheap that I may even be able to buy the next one myself.

In nearly 22 years of columns I have shared my life: marriages and divorces, life on the farm and in the parish, my thoughts about books, movies, politics, and, most recently, my life in Paris. It has been my aim to discover glorious mystery in the everyday experiences of life.

If life itself has been occasionally glorious, I hope that I have shunned my habitual conceit for the duration of a column in order to ponder that glory with wondering heart and mind.

The time has come to take leave. I do so with reluctance, sadness and profound gratitude to the editors who have believed in my writing and even more to a generation of readers whose appreciation has sustained me in manifold ways along the journey from which arose my journalism.

There remains only to say, farewell.

Third Response To Residence Ends In Arrest

A Mtn. Lake Park resident was arrested when she became argumentative with police after the third time officers had responded to that residence for a reported disturbance in a five-hour period, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Deputies along with Oakland City Police responded to a residence on Water Street early Thursday morning. According to police, after the matter was resolved, several non-affiliated persons at the scene were advised to leave. One of the individuals, Holly Denee Hershman, 19, was asked to leave and became argumentative with the deputies, police said. She was reportedly advised on four more occasions to leave or be arrested for failing to obey a lawful order.

Hershman was arrested for failing to obey a lawful order and disorderly intoxication. She is currently being held in the Garrett County Detention Center awaiting a bond hearing.

Oakland Woman Jailed Following Domestic Incident

An Oakland woman was arrested yesterday following a domestic altercation, according to the Oakland Police Department.

Misty Dawn McMaster, 19, faces charges of second-degree assault and disorderly conduct filed in the wake of the incident at an East Water Street apartment complex. Police reported that they were initially summoned to the apartment at 11:30 p.m. to check on a domestic situation, but after ascertaining that no assault had taken place they instructed McMaster – who had agreed to stay elsewhere for the night – not to enter the apartment in order to prevent another altercation.

A friend of McMaster's did enter the apartment to retrieve some clothing for her, but when McMaster decided not everything she wanted had been retrieved, she entered the apartment herself.

Police officers, who were still inside the apartment speaking to McMaster's husband, reported that she slapped him in front of them. She was immediately arrested, and later released on her own recognizance.

Oakland Driver Loses Control Of Car, Crashes

Maryland State Police troopers reported that a single-vehicle accident Friday afternoon near Deep Creek Lake occurred after a driver experienced a medical emergency and lost control of his car.

Donald E. Skipper, 74, was traveling on Mayhew Inn Road when the accident occurred at 4:04 p.m. near Red Run Road. After he lost control of his 1992 Buick Roadmaster, the vehicle traveled into a ditch. Skipper and one of his passengers, Christopher Kestner, 33, Oakland, were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad. A third passenger refused medical treatment. The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company also responded to the scene.

No charges were filed by the investigating trooper.

In other state police accident investigations of the past week, a Prince George's County man was taken to the hospital after he was thrown from his motorcycle on Interstate 68 Friday.

James Williams, 50, Indian Head, was traveling east near the 12-mile marker at approximately 12:14 a.m. when he tried to merge from the shoulder onto the interstate. He lost control of his 2004 Harley Davidson in an area of uneven pavement, police said.

The Northern Garrett Rescue Squad transported Williams to Cumberland Memorial Hospital.

D. Swiger Named Employee Of The Year By GCCAC

Deb Swiger, Home Ownership and Rehabilitation coordinator, was named Employee of the Year at the Garrett County Community Action Committee (GCCAC) board of directors meeting last Thursday.

"Since 1997, Deb has been very successful in empowering households to achieve the American dream of home ownership," said a GCCAC spokesperson.

Since celebrating its 200th home purchase at the onset of 2005, 18 additional households in Garrett County have made their first home purchases. All the purchases were made through the efforts of Swiger and local lending and federal and state partnerships, which have committed more than $15 million in new home purchases, according to GCCAC.

Swiger oversees Community Action's First Time Homeowner workshops each month, with the assistance of numerous volunteers from its financial, real estate, home building, and legal partners throughout the county.

"Garrett County's home ownership rate still exceeds the national average by 10 percent, while recently being labeled as the least affordable place to purchase a home in the state of Maryland because of its average median income, compared to soaring real estate prices," said the spokesperson.

She added that these challenges emphasize the need for the Home Ownership and Rehabilitation programs.

"Keeping homes safe and secure for seniors is another important role Deb provides to Garrett County," the spokesperson said.

In addition to the First Time Homeowners program, Swiger coordinates the Rehabilitation program, which has assisted 232 households with more than $2 million in home repairs. The rehabilitation work helps seniors live out their retirement years in their own homes.

"Since real estate is one of the most important investments, protecting this investment with home maintenance is necessary," said the spokesperson.

Swiger resides in Oakland with her husband Tom.

For more information about GCCAC and its services, persons may call 301-334-9431.

Oakland Man Charged After Alleged Assault

An Oakland man was arrested following an investigation of an alleged domestic dispute at a residence on Baker Farm Road in the Oakland area Friday, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

William Lyons, 21, was arrested and charged with second-degree assault and two counts of reckless endangerment.

In other police news, Sincle Allen Brown, 42, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested for drunk driving after his vehicle was observed crossing the center line six times in a ½ mile portion of Rt. 560 early Sunday morning, according to police.

A search of Brown revealed a small quantity of suspected marijuana. He was charged with failure to drive right of center, driving while impaired, driving under the influence, possession of marijuana, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Task Force Arrests Two For Marijuana Manufacturing

Two Grantsville residents were arrested for manufacturing marijuana, possession of marijuana, and possession of drug paraphernalia, according to Sheriff Dick Sanders, spokesperson for the Garrett County narcotics Task Force. The investigation is on going and additional arrests are pending, police said.

Cherie Joanne Rettel, 56, and Michael Joseph Hulick, 18, both of Bear Hill Road, were arrested following the execution of a search and seizure warrant. During the search, police recovered 15 suspected marijuana plants, ranging from five to eight feet in height.

The task force was assisted by members of the State of Maryland Eradication Team, Garrett County Sheriff's Office, and Maryland State Police, McHenry barrack.

Adorable Adoptables

THIS NICE LADY NEEDS A HOME – Pictured at left is a spitz mix named Lady. "She lived most of her life with several other dogs outside in a large pen," said a Humane Society spokesperson said. "Her owner had to move, so Lady needs a new home. She is an older dog, but she is very nice. She is spayed, but will probably need her vaccinations and may need to be housetrained. We think she will make a nice pet." Also pictured is a young female tabby, in need of a good home. "Come and meet her and the other many cats and kittens we have here at the Garrett County Animal Shelter," said the spokesperson. At right is a small male 5-month-old cocker spaniel-retriever mix that was picked up in Bloomington and was not wearing tags or a collar. "He is very sweet and is full of kisses and would love to have a home with a family that would take care of him," she said. "He will need to be neutered, vaccinated, and kept from running loose." These and other cats and dogs are available at the shelter and online at Petfinder.com. Only three kittens have been adopted from the shelter since last week. The black Lab mix and dog that had been shot, featured in last week's adoptables, are also still available. For more information, persons may call 301-334-3553.

A memorial service will be conducted in Springs Mennonite Church on Saturday at 11 a.m., with the Rev. Steven Heatwole officiating.

Private interment will be held prior to the service at the Springs Cemetery.

Expressions of sympathy may be directed to the Springs Mennonite Church.

NANCY E. LAYTON

Nancy E. Layton, 65, Grantsville, died Saturday, Aug. 27, 2005, at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland.

Born March 6, 1940, in Frostburg, she was a daughter of the late Lawrence and Clara (McKenzie) Layton. She was also preceded in death by one sister, Emma Louise (Layton) Albright; and two brothers, Paul William Layton and Howard Joseph Layton.

She was retired from Frostburg State University housekeeping department, and was formerly employed at the Princess Restaurant for many years.

Surviving are two sons, Lawrence Layton, Finzel and Eugene Layton, Grantsville; five brothers, Jim Layton, John Layton, Lawrence Layton Jr., and Larry Layton, all of Frostburg, and Robert (Bob) Layton, Salisbury, Pa.; four sisters, Betty Fair, Littlestown, Pa., and Phyllis Deal, Donna Saylor, and Debra Brenneman, all of Salisbury; and four grandsons.

Friends were received at the Durst Funeral Home, Frostburg, where a service was held on Tuesday, Aug. 30, with Father Ed Hendricks officiating.

Interment was in the Layton-Arnold Cemetery, Finzel.

Baltimore Man Receives 20 Yrs. For Drug Charge

A Baltimore resident pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court Tuesday morning to possession with intent to distribute cocaine. Brian Alexander Wright, 31, was then sentenced by Judge Fred Thayer (retired) to 20 years in the Division of Corrections, with eight years suspended.

After serving the balance of 12 years, he will be on probation for four years.

Wright was arrested by Garrett County Narcotics Task Force officers on April 9 when he traveled to Garrett County from Baltimore. According to the state's attorney, Wright was with another individual, who was meeting an informant and undercover officers to sell drugs to them. Wright attempted to flee the scene, but was apprehended by officers, who observed him throw items. Those items were later determined to be plastic bags of cocaine.

In other Circuit Court news this week, John Sabastian Hinkle, 34, Philadelphia, Pa., pleaded guilty to speeding and possession of marijuana. The judge sentenced him to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail and suspended all but two days of the sentence.

Hinkle will be on supervised probation after his release from jail. He was also fined $200 for the drug charge and $50 for the speeding charge.

Hinkle was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in May 2004 after he was stopped for speeding along Garrett Highway near the Oakland City limits. A scan by the Oakland City Police drug-detection dog resulted in a positive alert for drugs in the truck Hinkle was driving.

kind furniture items."

The company will begin facility improvements this month, concurrent with upgrades to electric power and building infrastructure. Authentic Woodworking is planning to occupy the building by the end of September, with a fully operational plant by mid October.

"We are pleased with our decision to relocate our business to Garrett County," said Rene Adam, president of Authentic Woodworking. "The new facility is significantly larger and more modern, with expansion room for future growth. I am very gratified with the cooperation I received from the Garrett County Economic Development staff, as well as the officials with MEDCO, and the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development. This team helped us structure a lease/purchase agreement that supports our growth plans, and allows us to improve service to current and new clients."

"We are thrilled that we were able to accommodate Authentic Woodworking Inc. in Garrett County," said Commissioner Ernie Gregg, chairman of the Board of Garrett County Commissioners. "This high-end custom wood manufacturing business is consistent with the county's plans to focus on value-added businesses that can provide good jobs and continued growth for our local economy."

Training Slated For Non-Profit Board Members

A training seminar for board members of non-profit organizations is planned for Wednesday, Oct. 26, from 4 until 8 p.m. at the Wisp Hotel, McHenry. Residents who are not currently volunteering on a board but who would like to serve are also invited to attend.

It is recommended for the non-profit executive director or lead staff member to attend the session with the board chair or head volunteer and other board members.

An expert trainer from the Maryland Association of Nonprofit Organizations will facilitate the seminar. The purpose of the program is to equip volunteers who serve on non-profit boards with information about the specific roles and responsibilities of the board, legal and social accountability, tools for planning and program evaluation, principles for sound financial management, and effective board development among other topics.

This training is designed to complement individual board orientations by focusing on universal concepts in nonprofit management.

The program is limited to 40 people. Reservations will be taken on a first-come, first-served basis. Cost of the program is $45 per person, which includes a meal and board education materials.

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce will present the program. It is being planned in cooperation with The Greater Cumberland Committee (TGCC) and has organizational support from the County United Way.

For more information, persons may call the chamber at 301-387-4386 or TGCC at 301-722-0090.

Celebration Slated At Historic McGrew Mansion In Kingwood

by Mary Sincell McEwen

The Society for Preservation of the McGrew House in Kingwood will host a celebration on Sept. 10 in commemoration of the life of James Clark McGrew, one of the founding fathers of the state of West Virginia. The preservation society holds a celebration annually at the historic house, planning the event close to McGrew's September birthday. This year marks the 192nd anniversary of his birth.

A variety of activities are planned at this year's celebration, titled Rendezvous in History. One of the main events of the day will be the Order of the Rhododendron Ceremony, held to honor 10 outstanding West Virginia social studies students and their teachers. The celebration will also include a showcase of Preston County craftsmen, musicians, authors, and re-enactors.

EVENTS OF THE DAY

The morning activities will begin at 9 a.m. with breakfast prepared by Joe Bernatowicz and his daughter Joanna. The buffet, including eggs, sausage gravy, biscuits, sweet rolls, and other items, will be open through noon. The cost for the meal is $6 per person.

A Mountain Man Fur Traders Rendezvous camp will run throughout the day, featuring husband and wife team Dennis and Bonnie Bolyard "living the life" of those in a pre-1840s settlement camp. The couple will present a bow and arrow and tomahawk-throwing demonstration at 11 a.m.

From 10 to 11 a.m., a team of two 7th graders who used the McGrew House as their project for the State Social Studies Fair, placing second in the state, will be at the house with their project board. The teenagers, Ali Hollier and Chelsea Conner, will be on hand to talk with guests.

Throughout the morning, crafters will be there with their wares, including Mabel Stiles, quilting; Jane Marshall of Mountain Heritage homemade soaps; Joe Gillispie, antique firearms trader, and his wife Melva, a scrimshaw artist; and Dee Nancarrow, weaver and embroidery artisan.

Local authors Nancy Copney, Connie Cox, and Bill Williams will sell and sign copies of their books; local band JC and the Boys will provide mountain music; and re-enactors George Shaffer and Susan Hardesty will greet people as James and Persis McGrew.

The bestowing of the Order of the Rhododenron upon the top 10 students in the past spring's Golden Horse Shoe test (West Virginia history) will take place at 11:30 a.m. The youngsters will wear Tartan plaid ties to recognize the McGrew's Scottish roots, and will each receive a certificate of merit and a $50 U.S. Savings Bond from Delegate Larry Williams and Senator Jon Hunter. Dennis Bolyard of the Mountain Man Fur Traders will fire the "Barkin' Bonnie Cannon" to announce the commencement of the ceremony.

The evening events will begin at 6 p.m. with dinner at the Preston High School cafeteria. Patrons are required to make reservations and obtain tickets for the dinner, which are $15 per person.

The meal will be a buffet dinner, and as part of the evening, the two 7th graders noted above will give their entire McGrew House presentation.

Guests will also be entertained by the re-enacters Hardesty and Shaffer, as they, portraying the McGrews, will present a short play focusing on the passing of John Peyton Byrne, a native of Preston County and the last Union soldier to be buried in the United States (see separate story). Byrne's siblings were also Union soldiers, but one brother went with the Confederacy and was involved in a number of major battles with the South. Hardesty, who penned the script, said that the theme of the mini-drama "emphasizes the family's division of loyalties between Union and Confederate brothers, yet their ability to reunite and care for one another after the war."

MR. McGREW AND HIS HOUSE

The McGrew house has been restored over the past 15 years to nearly its original appearance. Called "The Pines," it was built in 1841 by James McGrew as a gift to his wife, Persis Hagans McGrew. It was first a rather small, two-story brick structure, but later was enlarged to include much larger living areas, a "conservatory," and a wrap-around porch. It was completed in 1869.

McGrew was born of modest means and apparently never planned to be a politician. However, he was nominated to a number of state and national positions of influence and power, and found himself playing a key role in the founding of West Virginia.

McGrew was in attendance at the 1861 Virginia Convention, where the hot issue of the day was the pending secession from the Union, as the Civil War was at hand. McGrew was ardently opposed to the idea and voted against seceding, but he was of course in the minority. He and his fellow delegates came back to Kingwood to begin the process of forming a new state, breaking away from Virginia. West Virginia was born in 1863, right in the middle of the Civil War.

McGrew went on to serve in the first and second legislative sessions of West Virginia and two terms in the United States Congress. Locally, he was the first mayor of Kingwood. He also chaired the committee to erect the Preston County Courthouse, was the contractor and financial advisor for the construction of the Kingwood Methodist Church, and helped to design the West Virginia state seal.

Each year Preservation of the McGrew House hosts special events in honor of McGrew's life and career. The restored house is the result of years of hard work, as the building was exited by the family in the early 1900s. Over the years it was transformed into apartments, with walls built and plumbing installed. Then it was abandoned for a time, falling in to great disrepair. It wasn't until the 1990s that the Society was formed and the arduous process of restoring the building to look as it did in the 1800s was launched.

The work is continuing, but much has been accomplished. Rooms that had been cut in half for apartments have been returned to their original state, and the walls and floors have been restored based on much research, including letters and notes written by the McGrews themselves. An area that was called the "conservatory" by Mrs. McGrew has been brought back to life as well. One wall of that room was all windows in the 1800s, but the windows had been removed and were stored in the basement. The room had been transformed into bathrooms for the apartments. Now the conservatory is back, with the windows returned to their original locations. While some have been replaced, there are 12 original windows in the house.

Some interesting items on display include a cane that was presented to Waitman T. Willey, another prominent West Virginian statesman, by James McGrew. The cane is fashioned out of olive wood, which McGrew obtained from the Mount of Olives while on tour in the Holy Land in 1881. McGrew and Willey were friends, political allies, and were related by marriage, as McGrew's son William was married to Willey's daughter Julia.

Photography history buffs will be interested to view a crystal clear picture of McGrew taken by the famed Matthew Brady, also on display. Brady was a celebrated 19th century photographer who was initially known as the photographer of U.S. statesmen, but then gained fame by taking (or obtaining) hundreds of images during the Civil War, bringing the horrors of the conflict into the homes of Americans as never before. The effect of the stark photos was traumatic, and Brady's important work soon became tiresome to the war-weary country. He fell from popularity and actually died penniless, and much of his work has been lost. This photo of McGrew is a prized exhibit of the Preservation Society.

One room of the house is dedicated to the work of Bill Williams, who has collected photos and news clippings about Preston County for decades. He is a major donor to the restoration project as well. The exhibit offers years and years of photographic and journalistic history of the local area.

In another upstairs room is an extensive display of veterinarian equipment, donated by the late Dr. Leo Kotchek. Kotchek was a veterinarian in Preston County and was an avid supporter of the McGrew House restoration project.

The Society for Preservation of the McGrew House is a non-profit organization. Its purpose is to promote historic preservation, as well as educational and cultural opportunities. The group is now in the position to accept reservations for persons to utilize the house and grounds for events such as small weddings and/or receptions, bridal/baby showers, birthday/anniversary parties, teas, club meetings, business seminars, and other gatherings. Persons may obtain more information about this or about the celebration on Sept. 10 by calling 304-329-0881 or 304-379-7621.

AMONG THE SIGHTS AT THE MCGREW HOUSE – Any person interested in the history of Preston County and the surrounding area, as well as the birth of West Virginia itself, will enjoy a visit to the McGrew House in Kingwood. A celebration of the house and its owners will take place on Sept. 10. See story for details. The Bill Williams gallery is pictured above, which is a room in the house filled with local history via newspaper clippings and photographs collected by Williams over many decades. The photo below is of Susan Hardesty, local historian, holding a prized possession of the house — a photograph of James McGrew, taken by famed photographer Matthew Brady. Photos by John McEwen.

Military Funeral Conducted For Last Civil War Soldier, Preston County Native John P. Byrne

by Mary Sincell McEwen

A burial unlike any other took place this year, just a few months ago, in Memphis, Mo. The last Civil War soldier was interred there on May 28, his cremated remains having been stored in an urn on the shelf of a California mortuary for some 80 years. The soldier was John Peyton Byrne, who was a native of Preston County and among some of the first men to join up with the Union Army in 1861.

The story of this last Union man receiving the burial rites he deserved is a fascinating tale, first discovered by Byrne's great-great-great niece Margaret Gordon of Minnesota. Gordon was doing research on her family tree and discovered that this particular Byrne had no burial record. Her curiosity led her on a long and enlightening trek that resulted in a proper military funeral for her ancestor.

A FAMILY DIVIDED; THE HISTORY

Cpl. John Peyton Byrne was a grandson of Major Charles Patrick Byrne, the first clerk of Preston County. The corporal's father was Samuel, who was married to Juana Fernandez Hagans, daughter of Joseph Squire Hagans and Mary Fuller. Orphaned early, she was reared by her grandparents, George and Persis Eggleston Hagans. She was a first cousin of Persis Hagans McGrew, wife of James Clark McGrew (see separate story).

Samuel and Juana lived in Evansville, Va., where Samuel was a farmer. They had 11 children, all of whom were born in Preston County, Va., between the years of 1826 and 1848. (West Virginia was not founded until 1863, so Preston County was part of Virginia at the time.) John Peyton was 7th in the family lineup.

The entire Samuel Byrne family appears on the 1850 census in Preston County. Shortly after that was taken, the clan reportedly set out by ox cart for Missouri. They arrived in 1852 and settled in Scotland County.

This was a time of great unrest in the United States. Tension was growing, not just over the issue of slavery, but also over the clash of philosophies concerning states' rights. Where one lived often played a huge part in what side one chose. This fact is highlighted most starkly in the Byrne family, as Samuel and four of his sons enlisted in the Union army, but son Charles, who happened to have been living back in Virginia around 1860, joined the Confederacy. Thus the family was truly divided, as each Byrne soldier saw a great deal of action, fighting on opposite sides of America's only Civil War.

John Peyton Byrne, described in early family writings as red-haired and hazel-eyed, enlisted in the 21st Missouri Infantry in June of 1861 at the age of 21. His father Samuel, who was 64 at the time, joined the Union shortly after, as did his brother Harrison, 29. Lucian and Joseph joined up near the end of the conflict, both with the Union.

STEMPLE RIDGE FEST

This Saturday evening, Sept. 3, the Stemple Ridge Church will be hosting an annual festival at its pavilion. Food is served from 5 until 7 p.m. and includes pork barbecue, sloppy joe sandwiches, steak hoagies, chili dogs, homemade ice cream, pies, cakes, cookies, and pastries of all kinds. There will be cake walks and games for children. Tickets are still available for a corner cabinet and quilts, and there will be comforters and baby quilts for sale. The public is welcome.

PIG PICKIN' DINNER SET

a "Pig Pickin'" dinner will be held at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren on Saturday, Sept. 10, from 4 until 8 p.m. Roast pork, corn-on-the-cob, baked beans, potato and macaroni salads, cole slaw, rolls, beverages, and desserts will be served for donations of $6 for adults, $3 for children 5-12, and preschoolers may eat free. Proceeds benefit the new building fund. All are welcome.

KNOTTS REUNION

The descendants of Peter and Marietta Knapp Knotts met recently at the Lantz Ridge Community Building for the 48th Knotts reunion. A business session and awarding of prizes followed a basket dinner. In addition to door prizes, prizes went to Bib Wiles, eldest man; Leola Robinson, eldest lady; Olivia Saville, youngest child; and Charles and Lurlean Knotts, longest married. Officers will remain Junior Knotts, president; Linda Bachman, secretary and treasurer.

The following were in attendance: Bob and Edna Wiles, Tom and Anita Moats, Kevin and Kathy Wiles, Robbie Wiles, Crystal Reckart, Jeff and Gloria Uphold, Andy and Ben Uphold, Nikki Upton, Junior And Alma Knotts, Gomer and Hope Roth, Melanie

A PROPER BURIAL was held this past spring in Missouri for Preston County native John Peyton Byrne, a veteran of the Civil War who had never received a proper funeral. Through the hard work and dedication of his descendant Margaret Gordon, Byrne was finally laid to rest in May amid great fanfare and reverence of thousands who attended this last Civil War veteran ceremony. Pictured above is the horse-drawn hearse that transported the remains to the cemetery, where Bryne was buried next to two of his brothers, also Civil War veterans. Local historian Susan Hardesty, Kingwood, attended the event and is pictured below left with fellow re-enactors.

Last Soldier

Charles, who had returned to Greenbrier County in what was then Virginia in 1859, joined the 27th Virginia Infantry in Lewisburg.

John P. Byrne's first battle reportedly took place in Athens, Mo., where his brother Harrison was wounded. This was only the beginning for the 21st Infantry, which went on to fight in Vicksburg, in the devastating Battle of Shiloh (Tennessee) and the Siege of Corinth (Mississippi) in 1862, to name a few.

Along with his unit, John P. boarded the sternwheeler William Wallace sometime in 1864. While en route to Vicksburg, Miss., the vessel was attacked by Confederate raiders hidden on a pair of Mississippi River islands. According to the family writings, John P. had the middle finger of his left hand shot off in the fight. Then he suffered a more serious injury to his back, which apparently resulted in some paralysis of his leg. He was hospitalized at Benton Barracks, St. Louis, where he remained on a detached-service status until his enlistment expired in December 1864.

As for Charles, who fought with the Confederacy, his history is noted by his younger brother Joseph in a letter excerpt written from Dudley, Idaho, on Sept. 2, 1916:

"I am the oldest of the three youngest boys of the family, and was 17 at the beginning of the Civil War. Father owned 760 acres of land and we were living on a 320-acre farm in Scotland County, Missouri. The older brothers all went into the Army.... Brother Charles was in Virginia at the time and went with the South, volunteering in the 27th Virginia as a private and in the first battle of Bull Run. After seven color bearers had been shot down, he picked up the company flag and carried it during the remainder of the battle. Was promoted for bravery and become a staff officer. He carried dispatches in nearly all of the important battles of Virginia. Knew most all the Southern generals and was trusted with their important dispatches....

"At the close of the war he had the best record of any man in the Southern Confederacy as a spy; was captured twice but made his escape both times. The last time they marched him between bayonets for two days. He lived with me for most of a year after the war and told me the daring things he did. I think he was the best judge of human nature I ever saw."

The family writings such as this one include many stories of the brothers' adventures and perils. In another missive, penned in 1915 by John Harrison Farnsworth (son of Isaac P. and Harriet R. Byrne Farnsworth, and Harriet was a sister to John P., Lucian, Harrison, and Charles):

"One time he (Charles) carried a message to Stonewall Jackson and Jackson told him to wait for a reply and seated himself on a log and proceeded to write the answer. A cannon ball struck the rail fence nearby, threw rails and splinters all around. Jackson never as much as looked up but wrote away until the message was completed, handed it to him, with the remark, "Why did you jump?" My uncle said he did not have the steady nerve of Stonewall Jackson."

John Peyton Byrne married a young lady from Maryland named Mary Wharton, whom he had met while being hospitalized during the war. The couple had no children, but did adopt a baby boy found in a basket on a train near Redding in Shasta County, Calif., whom they named John Bruce Byrne. Mary died in 1906, and the aging veteran lived with his son for some time after that loss.

His death certificate indicates that John P. died of "encephalitis and exhaustion" on Jan. 20, 1920. The presence of encephalitis might explain his cremation the next day, which was not a usual practice of the day. However, there was apparently no funeral for the veteran, and the urn containing his remains was stored at a Sacramento, Calif., morgue until just this year.

A FAMILY REUNITED; MAY 2005

Margaret Gordon was on a mission. She had discovered, in her extensive search, that her ancestors were not exactly at rest, and she was determined to fix it. John Peyton Byrne, a brother to her great-great-great grandfather, was an honorable veteran and he deserved a proper burial. As it was, earlier this year, his cremated remains were stored away on a dusty shelf in California.

After a great deal of paperwork and special requests, Gordon received permission to have John P.'s remains interred next to two of his brothers in Memphis, Mo. Harrison and Lucian are buried at the Isabella Cemetery in Memphis City, not far from the former family property.

A literal army of re-enactors arrived in the small city for the event, which was planned to be an authentic Civil War soldier funeral. The organizers stressed that the occasion, however, was not a re-enactment, but an actual affair — a funeral rite for the last Civil War soldier put to rest.

As was reported in the Preston County Journal, the special weekend started at noon on Friday, May 27, when a 24-hour visitation began for Cpl. Byrne at the Payne Funeral Chapel. An estimated 1,600 guests viewed the canister holding Byrne's cremains resting inside a hand-made wooden coffin and guarded by a pair of Union sentries. More uniformed guards were posted at the front and rear entrance of the chapel to honor the fallen soldier.

Re-enactors from around the country manned informational booths throughout the afternoon on Friday as guests were entertained on the Scotland County Courthouse lawn. President Abraham Lincoln (re-enactor Max Daniels of Wheaton, Ill.) gave the Gettysburg Address, and presentations were given on such things as the medical conditions in the Civil War. Popular music of the 1860s was also performed by re-enactor bands.

Roger Shannon, a past Iowa state commander for the Sons of Union Veterans, performed a vocal solo, "Going Home," at the service.

Finally, a horse-drawn hearse carried the coffin, which was made by an area high school carpentry class, to the final resting place, and John Peyton Byrne was officially bid farewell.

A short play about the Byrne family will be presented next weekend during the McGrew House Birthday Celebration in Kingwood, W.Va. (see separate story). Susan Hardesty, a local historian and regular portrayer of Persis McGrew, attended the funeral of John P. and was inspired to relay the story to the local community. A high school English teacher, Hardesty said she loves the story of the Byrne family for many reasons, but chiefly because of their story of healing.

"I tell my students that the Byrnes were certainly divided in the Civil War in the worst way, but then in the later 1860s, they reunited and were able to be a family again. It was a good example of how the entire country should have tried to behave in those days of Reconstruction."

[Note: Although the family relocated from this area more than 150 years ago, many descendants remain. Families with surnames such as Byrne, Hagans, and Kerns are still here, and are more than likely related to these early residents. In fact, the publishers of this newspaper are descendants as well, as John Peyton had an uncle by his same name, and this uncle John P. married Mary Ann Ray. Their daughter Eleanor married David Young Morris, and their daughter Lillian Byrne Morris married Benjamin H. Sincell, the second owner of The Republican newspaper and great-grandfather of the current publishers.]

HOST DELEGATE

Terra Alta Betterment members drove Delegate Debbie Stevens on a tour of the town Monday evening. The tour included completed, as well as future, TAB projects. This was followed by a meeting at City Hall, attended by many residents of the Terra Alta area who asked her questions concerning area problems.

TAB members attended Dave Miller's Preston County Farm Day at his farm in Tunnelton. Lunch was served after an educational morning session, which included information and demonstrations on the farm ID program, cattle grading, WVU's quarter horses program, county prosecutor Ron Brown's Paso Fino horses, and a portable sawmill.

PANTRY DRIVE

The Food Pantry back-to-school drive is still on. Donated school supplies can be dropped off at Gregg's Pharmacy, Fit & Fabulous, Shop and Save, or at the Food Pantry, located behind Dairy Mart, between 12:30 and 3:30 p.m. Thursdays.

UMC YARD SALE, DINNER SLATED

First United Methodist Church in Terra Alta will have its annual yard sale this Friday, Sept. 2. Various items will be available, including clothing and household items. Baked goods and hot dogs will also be for sale. Clothing will be in the church fellowship hall and other items will be at the church's street level parking area.

Persons who have items to donate (other than clothing) are asked to make arrangements to drop them off by calling 304-789-2321 to speak to Rev. Daniels or leave a message. Persons may also simply drop off items on the morning of the sale.

First UMC will hold its annual all-day buckwheat cake breakfast on Thursday, Sept. 29, beginning at 5:30 a.m. The meal will include sour-dough style buckwheat cakes ("all you can eat"), sausage, sausage gravy, home-fried potatoes, and beverage. Everyone is welcome.

DINNER SCHEDULED

An elimination dinner will be held Saturday, Sept. 10, by the local Moose lodge. The cost will be $35 per couple. Persons may call the lodge at 304-789-5917 for more details.

The last dinner netted $1,160 to help Megan Lanz with her medical bills.

The lodge is also holding a motorcycle "poker run" Sunday, Sept. 8, to help Chad Armstrong, who was severely injured when he lost control of his bike on Interstate 68 last month.

OPEN HOUSE SET

An open house for the Wellness Center (located in the Fit & Fabulous building along Rt. 7) will be held Saturday, Sept. 17, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Refreshments will be served, and there will be door prizes. Representatives from many local organizations will be demonstrating healthy exercise and eating habits, and there will be special activities and games for children.

Persons desiring more information about the Terra Alta Wellness Association and/or the open house may call 304-789-2205.

LIBRARY NEWS

Recently donating books, audios, pamphlets, and/or periodicals to the Terra Alta Library were Brian Schoolcraft, Lawrence Sypolt, Mary McLaughlin, Albert Ossman, Brandy Kent, Rhonda and Larry Smith, Linda Testerman, Jeanie McGinnis, Penny Kelly, Karl Anderson, Maurice Hoffman, and Cindy Cramer.

The Summer Reading Program was attended by Mary Nolan, who was the highest reader, Malachia Evans, Mercedes White, Allison Strahin, Cassie Fultz, Kassey Strahin, Brandon Streets, Jacob Evans, and Gary Stemple. The theme was "Once Upon a Fairy Tale." Participating in dressing up as their favorite fairy tale character were Cassie as Thumbelina, Kassey as Sleeping Beauty, and Gary as Rip Van Winkle.

A copy of The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night, by Mark Haddon, was given in memory of Mary Burns and Ocelia Jones by Barbara Beerbower.

Eglon Church To Hold Pig Roast

Maple Spring Church of the Brethren in Eglon will hold a pig roast on Saturday, Sept. 10, from 4 until 8 p.m.

The cost is $6 for adults, $3 for children 12 and younger, and free for preschoolers.

In addition to pork, the meal will consist of corn on the cob, baked beans, potato salad, macaroni salad, rolls, cole slaw, drink, and dessert.

Eglon Resident Selected For Pre-Teen Program

Samantha Blossom of Eglon has been selected as a finalist in the Pre-Teen West Virginia Scholarship and Recognition Program slated for this weekend in Charleston, W.Va. The event recognizes girls ages 7 to 12.

A sixth grader at Aurora Elementary School, Blossom has won numerous awards and honors for her academic ability. She also volunteers in her community by visiting nursing homes, serving dinners at the Maple Springs Church of the Brethren, and mowing the Eglon Community Cemetery.

The Pre-Teen state finalists will be evaluated on academic achievement, volunteer service, school honors and activities, personal skills and abilities, general knowledgability, communicative ability, and on-stage acknowledgment of accomplishments. Pre-Teen West Virginia will award over $5,000 in educational bonds, prizes, and awards.

Blossom, 11, is the daughter of Cathi and Doyle Harsh.

Grantsville Mother Of Soldier Killed In Iraq Shares His Story

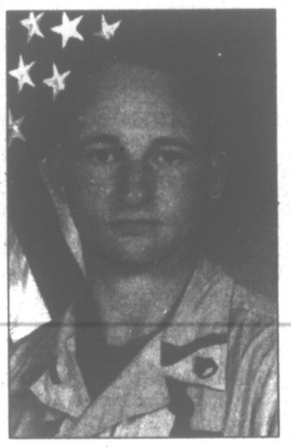
by David Foster

"The secret to happiness is freedom, and the secret to freedom is courage." – Thucydides (circa 460 - 400 B.C.)

For the past 2½ years, the CBS Evening News has a been running an intermittent segment called "Faces of the Fallen," which profiles members of the American military recently killed in Iraq. Late this spring, the broadcast featured the following account:

Murrysville, Pa. – Thor H. Ingraham

Thor Ingraham's unit was involved in door-to-door searches in Fallujah – but his mother only knows that from searching the Internet. Her son rarely spoke about his dangerous missions. "He would only say, 'It's not been a good week,'" Betty Durst said. "I'm sure that's so we wouldn't worry." Ingraham, 24, of Murrysville, Pa., was killed May 8 in Khalidiyah, Iraq, when an improvised explosive device detonated near his Humvee. He was based at Camp Greaves, Korea. Ingraham dropped out of high school after 10th grade but later earned his GED. He took various jobs in construction and at a local concrete company before deciding to join the Army in 1999. Both his parents had also served. An avid reader and animal lover, Ingraham at one point wanted to be a park ranger. He enjoyed the outdoors, camping, and shooting. "He had a wry grin that was very good at relieving tension and smoothing things out when things got a little rough," said his uncle, the Rev. Bill Durst. "And I suspect he used this quite a bit in the military."



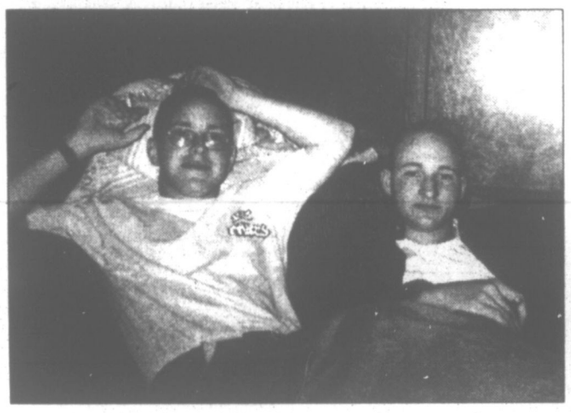
Displayed on television screens in homes around the nation and the world during that narration was a photograph of a young man with a calm, almost shy expression masking a life-loving rambunctious streak.

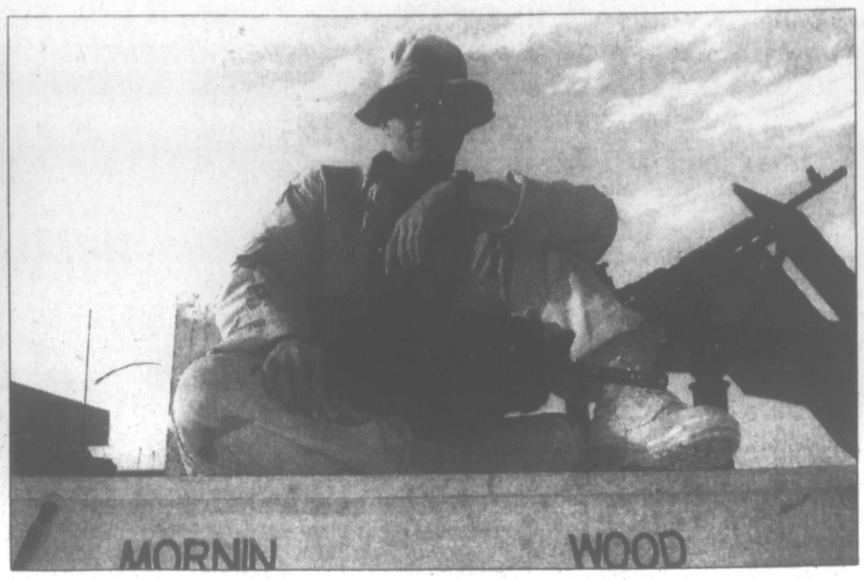
That same photograph hangs in the Grantsville home of his mother, Betty Durst, and stepfather, Jeff Orr.

Staff Sgt. Thor Ingraham – an American soldier from a family line of American soldiers – was killed on Mother's Day, May 8, 2005.

Three months after burying their son in the Grantsville Cemetery, the couple sat for two hours at their dining room table last week talking about their pride in their son and their grief at his loss. The soft-spoken pair also shared their thoughts and reactions to other widely reported views on the war that took his life.

FROM HIS BIRTH AT FORT KNOX, Thor Ingraham was deeply immersed in the military life and the call to duty and selfless sacrifice the service asks of the soldier. Both his parents were in the Army, and shown above are 4-year-old Thor and his mother in 1984 when she was stationed in Germany. Thor and his older cousin John Durst, pictured together below with Thor to the right, two years apart, both joined the Army, and Sgt. John Durst continues to serve today in Iraq with the 3rd Infantry Division. His parents are Jean and Rev. Bill Durst of the Grantsville area, and in May on Armed Services Day Rev. Durst officiated at Thor's funeral at the Grantsville Cemetery, where full military honors were accorded. Thor is buried next to his grandparents, both of whom served in the military.





UNDER A BLUE IRAQ SKY, Sgt. Thor Ingraham posed last year atop a Humvee with his M-16 in his lap. A member of the 2nd Infantry Division whose goal was to make squad leader and be accepted into the Army's elite Delta Force, Ingraham's buddies said he was a valued member of the 2nd Brigade Combat Team because of his flaky humor as well as his fighting ability. "We'd be pinned down by sniper fire, and he'd be cracking jokes," said Sgt. Travis Switalski, who was with Ingraham during combat in Ramadi, some of the fiercest fighting of the war. "He was just a very funny guy." Ingraham and fellow soldier Pfc. Nick Messmer, 20, of Franklin, Ohio, were killed when a car packed with explosives blew up near their Humvee in Khalidiyah as they worked to shut down a known smuggling route along the Syrian border used by terrorists coming into Iraq. "He was a great young man with a bright future who believed in what he was doing, believed in being a soldier, and would have reached the top – no question he would have reached the top," said his stepfather Jeff Orr, pictured below with his wife and Ingraham's mother, Betty Durst, surrounded by mementos of their son at their Grantsville dining room table. "He was great with kids, great with animals, and loved the country. Thor loved life, he loved life. It's a shame he had to leave us, but he's with us every day. I'd just like to ask people to support everybody who's got someone involved in this war, whether they like it or not, because it's important to our country."

Q: Other people are asking this question about their sons, so let's ask it right off – Do you think your son Thor died in vain?

Betty: No I don't...because he believed in what he was doing, and that it was the right thing to do. It wasn't just a job, it was who he was.

Jeff: I agree. He was serious about it, from the day he was accepted into the military, into basic, he was a soldier. He was very dedicated, as his rank will show you from the number of years he was in. He was due for another promotion in a relatively short time.

Do you think your son died for a mistake or a lie?

B: No, I don't believe so. I believe they were justified in going in when they did and doing what they did. I believe there were, and probably still are, weapons of mass destruction there. Just the number of weapons they have found, the large stores, the way they were hidden...I believe if we didn't go over and do what we did that we'd be fighting on U.S. soil at some point.

J: I agree 100 percent. If we don't fight them there, we fight them here. There's only so much we can do on a moment's notice...how many people did we lose in 20 minutes on 9/11? They'll come after us again; they don't like us; we need to get after them on their own soil and not ours.

Was it a lie? I don't think so, I don't think there were any hidden agendas. The president did what he thought was right to protect our country and the freedoms that we have, and thank God there's people like Thor who are willing to give everything they have, including their lives, to protect us.

Do you as parents of a soldier think the real news from Iraq is getting through to the American public? Did Thor write letters home that gave you some insights to compare to what you were seeing on the news, in the papers?

B: I can't give specific examples from Thor, because with me he wouldn't be very detailed or specific. I know from my nephew who was in Iraq during the initial invasion and is back there now, that we don't always get the truth here.

I also know from being in the military myself. I was an Army E5 (sergeant), and served in Korea for one year and in Germany for three years. In Korea I worked with security, handling secret and top-secret documents, and you never heard what was actually going on. So I know we don't hear everything, and I don't know that we should, to be totally frank with you.

J: When Darryl Worley (country music singer) was at the Wisp recently, he told us that he was there shortly after we invaded, and he's been back 3 or 4 times since, and that it is absolutely amazing the difference in the way the country is...in every way. As far as electricity, housing, schools...people are actually happy that Americans are there. That's not what you see on the nightly news. We don't get that story, the newspapers don't seem to want us to know people are happy.

Yes, we're losing lives, and I understand that we're losing lives, and that's not good, but we're going to lose more if we don't lose some.

B: Yes.

Betty, in your own military experience, was Thor with you at any point?

B: Yes, he was 18 months old when I first went overseas and was almost 5 when we came home. That probably played a part in his choice to enter the military. He knew that his dad (currently living in Texas) was in the military too.

The Dursts are a military family, my dad John and Jean Durst, and my grandfather Floyd Durst, were each in the military. My dad was stationed stateside in the Army, and my mother was nurse on a Navy ship. My grandfather was in Europe in World War II, and lost part of his leg in France. Thor also looked up to his cousin John, almost two years older than Thor, who went into the Army 1½ years before Thor did.

In Thor's communications home, what kinds of things would he talk about, and would it be letters, e-mails, phone calls?

B: He wasn't a letter-writer, unfortunately. He got better at e-mailing as time went on. I'd e-mail him and I'd write "Just say 'I'm OK,'" "Just say 'I'm here.'" He was in Korea about a year and a half before he went to Iraq, so he wasn't here stateside. Most of time he'd call when he was in Korea.

When he got to Iraq, pretty much he'd talk a little bit about what they were doing, enough so that I know that they were involved in things like the door-to-door searches, but he wouldn't say specifics, he'd say, "We've been really busy," "I'm sorry I haven't written, but things have been going on." And I'm sure they can't tell you specifics. He'd always talk about coming home, different things.... He had all his bills sent to me and I'd pay his bills, so he'd ask about finances. He was in the process of looking for a car, we'd always talk about cars. You know, normal kid stuff, guy stuff.

Did he ever communicate being especially up? Or especially down? I've read he used humor as a release over there.

B: I don't think I saw that, I don't think we saw that as much as his fellow soldiers did, because he used it as a release. If things got tough...and I'm not saying he was serious all the time, because he wasn't.

J: The one boy we talked to at Ft. Carson when we went to the memorial service said that Thor was the only person he knew who could be shot at and turn around and laugh. I think it was Thor's way of releasing, I don't think it was funny, but he knew he was in the heat of battle, and his way of releasing and not getting tense was to be a joker. I could be wrong...

B: But he never..., I don't think he was down. There would be a couple times when we had talked and they had been particularly busy, and I'd ask him, "Is everybody OK?" or "Have you seen so-and-so?" and he would say he thought they had been wounded, or "They didn't make it." And that was the only time when he wasn't really OK.

There were other times when he was tired, because they'd be up for hours and hours, but he never said, "I wish I wasn't here."

Would he say the other side of that, "I'm glad I'm here," "We're doing good" – how would he address the mission in his own words?

B: He would never say what they had definitely done, at least not to me. When he talked to his cousin John, or his dad, I'm sure it was in more detail than he when talked to me. He didn't want me to worry. The unit had a web site that would try to keep you updated on what they were doing and what was going on. That site would say things like they had been out and had been successful, they had gotten things like weapons and information, that they had had a good day. They never really elaborated.

Would he express support, belief in what they were doing?

B: Oh yes.

In what way?

B: Just different things, saying like he'd wish he'd been there initially when they first went in. Also at one point they had gone into a school and found bombs in the doorways and in the classrooms. He said if they had not been there, it would have been the kids getting killed. That's all I can think of right now.

J: I don't think that a soldier is going to say, "I'm really happy I'm here," because no one's happy to get shot at every day. But a soldier who believes in what he's doing, on the other hand, like Thor, would never say, "I wish I wasn't here." He supported what he was doing – not that he was happy that he was there, but if anybody was going to be there he wanted to be a part of it, because he believed he had the training and wherewithal to do the right job.

I don't think any of them particularly wanted to be there, they'd probably like to be home with their families. But he did believe in it 100 percent.

What would he say about the Iraqis themselves?

B: He'd say most of them were glad to see them, they'd come out in the streets. The children would ask for candy, and they'd give them candy. When they were going through a village, there were always people who said "Thank You," and someone would have an American flag. A lot of times they'd say, "Thank you for freedom."

When you see the phrase "Support the Troops" on the a ribbon on the back of a car or truck, what does it mean to you?

B: It means regardless of your belief, whether or not you believe this is all because of a lie (which it's not), you need to support the troops that are there.

What's the best way to support them?

B: The best way is prayer. We also have to let these guys feel we approve of what they are doing, even if they don't approve of why they are there.

Can you support the troops and not support the mission?

B: As far as people supporting the troops, the guys over there, yes...whether it be sending them care packages or putting a sticker on the back of a car.

As far as the news media, I think as far as if you're doing something publicly that Iraqis or our own troops can see, you have to support the mission. Otherwise they see that it's a country divided, and of course that hurts the troops. So from that perspective I think you have to support the mission.

Do you feel parents of troops – soldiers who have been killed and soldiers still over there serving now – are getting enough support from people in this country, people who may not have a loved one serving in this war?

J: Let me start by saying that we have had tremendous support since Thor's death; condolence letters from everywhere, from the president, one arrived just last night from the mayor and town council of Cambridge, Massachusetts, so support now has been really good.

But I think that people have kind of a little bit forgotten about our mission there and are going about daily life as it was even before 9/11, which was pretty much what triggered our going into Iraq. There were certain people who would see us while he was there and they'd ask us every time, "How's Thor doing, where is he?" and there were other people who knew that he was there and really they just didn't think about it because the war was in the back of their minds by then.

So I think as time goes on there will be less support for troops who are there. I mean, Betty lost a son and I lost a stepson, but we've had tremendous support since then, and we need the support and it's nice, but it's all for him, he's an American hero.

B: All of that is true, but I think that with the majority of people if they don't have somebody over there it's the old "Out of sight, out of mind." People don't think about it.

In what ways can people support families who have troops over there, beyond sending care packages to the troops – I'm speaking of supporting a spouse or mom and dad back home every day – in what ways can neighbors, friends, co-workers support folks with someone over there?

B: I think one of the biggest things people can do is just to let them know they remember. You know, "How's your son?" "How's your husband?" "How's your daughter?" "Have you heard from them?" "Where are they?"

J: Of course anytime you don't hear from somebody who's in Iraq at this point in time it's a good thing, because you do hear pretty quickly when something happens. But I agree with her on that – just be concerned. If you know somebody who has somebody in the military service, just be concerned. It's not going to hurt, it's not that hard.

We're Americans, we're all family in a way. Just ask and be concerned.

Do you see the polarization in this country, pro and con on this matter, as having affected you all personally in your thoughts or interactions with others?

J: I don't know that we've been exposed to anyone who's anti-war, and if we have I didn't know it. I'm sure if you went to a metro area you'd have a different story.

B: I know there are people at work who don't believe we should be there, but they've never..., and even before Thor's death.... We'd have discussions. It would be nothing mean, just voicing opinions, "I know you feel differently, but..." or "I know you have a son over there, but..."

J: The nice thing about our country is that everyone has a right to an opinion and they're free to voice it, and that's why we're a free people. And we're a free people because of the great people who have served over the years.

So whether they like it or not the people who are against the war and voice that opinion are able to because of soldiers who are willing to protect their freedoms so they can do that. Someone has to be willing to pay the price for this country to be free...it doesn't just happen.

As far as being approached by someone negative, I've heard discussions that "these kids shouldn't have to go to war," and I pretty much ignore them because I avoid political discussions. I have my beliefs and I know my opinion is not going to change someone else if they have a strong opinion the other way, and I'm not going to argue about it.

What feelings go through your mind, your heart, your gut, when you turn on the TV and Cindy Sheehan is the lead story, and it's reported that 1,500 protests occurred around the country one night in candlelight vigils in support of her?

B: I don't know, I can't say I get angry because I don't really. I just think it's not something to make such a big deal out of; if she feels she has to sit down there, then fine, but it doesn't have to be the lead story.

About the protesters, I just don't let it bother me, because I believe there's a whole lot more people who realize why it's so important for us to be there.

J: Well, my opinion on that is that there is enough going on in our country that we don't need to focus on one woman who's basically voicing her opinion and protesting out of her freedom of speech. We have those freedom of speech rights in our country – and I'll repeat myself – that her son was fighting to protect.

It makes absolutely no sense at all; the news needs to report the good with the bad, and not make such a big deal about this one person. They need to talk to all the other families. If they want to talk, let's get everybody together. A lot of people have lost a loved one in this conflict...and most of them realize why we're in this conflict, and the media likes to pick up on the bad.

B: And I guess when I initially hear it, like if I'm at work and the news comes on, I kind of walk out in almost disbelief, thinking "You've got to be kidding...why?"

If you could meet Cindy Sheehan, what would you say to her? "Cindy, I want you to know..."

B: First of all, I don't approve of what she's doing, but I understand freedom of speech.

What affects me is that, first of all, her son wasn't someone who went in for an education or because he didn't have anything else to do; he went in and then re-enlisted. Once you re-enlist it tells me you believe in what you're doing and accept what you're going to have to do, especially in this day and age. It's different than it was 10 or 20 years ago when there was no war, there was not any indication there we would ever go to war again. Back then kids went in just to get funding to go to school and things like that, for their 3 or 4 years, got their GI Bill, and got out. I think that's a little different than someone who actually re-enlists, because I think they believe in what they are doing.

I guess mainly I'd tell her that I believe she's dishonoring her son. I think that might have the biggest impact. Nothing you say about the president is going to get through, I mean she's had people speak to her already.

Maybe if it were about her son she would realize it, I don't know. It's her opinion.

I understand she's upset, I understand the hurt and the loss, but I think she's doing a dishonor to her son and to all the other guys who've actually lost their lives, because resort area.

The second mural is going to be done by Mark Stutzman of Mtn. Lake Park. Also historic, it focuses on the B&O Railroad, John Work Garrett, and the old Oakland Hotel.

The committee hopes to do between four and six more murals simultaneously next summer in a mural art event downtown.

The murals are meant to reflect the history and heritage of the Oakland area, while adding artistic eye appeal to currently blank, drab building walls.

Friday night's fundraiser is just the first in a series that are being planned in order to help pay for the works of art on the walls.

The HeART of Oakland (History, Heritage, ART) is the theme of our art project. Children and school age youth can buy entries for $2 each or three for $5. Participants may use crayons, markers, paint, or any other appropriate medium to depict what "The HeART of Oakland" means to them.

From the first round of entries, we will choose a variety of art works from different age groups to transform into items for sale. As this will be an ongoing project, other entries will be selected over time for other fundraising items. Being considered for sale are calendars, note cards, and ties.

All entries will be made into color photocopies to be displayed throughout town to celebrate the artists and their visions of Oakland.

Entries can be purchased at the fundraiser and Little Yough Summer Music Festival concert on Friday night, at the Shoppe at Heritage Square, Mumbles & Squeaks Antiques and General Store, The Book Mark'et, and other locations. You can also get entries at town hall or by calling me at 301-616-3026.

Accident Man Pleads Guilty To Check Frauds

An Accident man was handed a total jail term of 27 months during a recent Garrett County District Court hearing after he pleaded guilty to stealing and forging checks.

Brett Wayne Fratz, 26, appeared before the bench of local District Court judge Ralph M. Burnett, where he pleaded guilty to one count of felony theft scheme and two counts of forgery. The Garrett Bureau of Investigation arrested Fratz in July and August on charges stemming from incidents where he had cashed checks that he had stolen from Friendsville and Accident area residents. Fratz also pleaded guilty to a charge of misdemeanor theft stemming from the theft of a woman's cell phone, which he used to make numerous calls on her bill.

Additional charges of three counts each of felony theft and forgery, seven counts of uttering, and five counts of misdemeanor theft were not prosecuted.

In other District Court news, a Frostburg man pleaded guilty to cocaine possession and was handed an 18-month jail sentence.

Kenneth Wilson Riggleman, 50, was apprehended by Natural Resources Police in January as he was apparently using cocaine inside a car parked in the Savage River State Forest. Judge Burnett handed down a two-year sentence, six months of which was suspended, a $500 fine, and two years of supervised probation. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted.

In the car with Riggleman at the time of his arrest were Trista Kay Riggleman, 22, also of Frostburg, and Nancy Lee Hans, 38, Westernport.

Trista Riggleman pleaded guilty to possession of cocaine and received a one-year sentence, all but three months of which was suspended, and was fined $300 and placed on two years of supervised probation, while an additional charge of drug paraphernalia possession was not prosecuted. Charges of cocaine and paraphernalia possession faced by Hans were placed onto the stet docket.

Roy Norman Cheshire Jr., 26, Oakland, pleaded guilty to two separate charges of marijuana possession and was handed a total sentence of two years, half of which was suspended, and was placed on three years of supervised probation. The charges stemmed from two incidents when marijuana was discovered in his home during searches by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted, as was a charge of contributing to a condition rendering a child in need of assistance, filed by sheriff's deputies in July after he allegedly gave a 14-year-old a marijuana cigarette.

Rick Harold Minnick, 44 Deer Park, pleaded guilty to driving while under the influence (DUI) was handed a one-year sentence by visiting Judge Charles Foos III, while additional charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia and several traffic offenses were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office. Minnick's April 2004 arrest by sheriff's deputies came during a traffic stop in Deer Park, where a suspected burnt marijuana cigarette butt was found in his pocket and a bag of suspected marijuana and a smoking pipe were found in his vehicle.

Karen Christine Morrison, 22, Havre De Grace, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a six-month sentence with all but 17 days suspended, along with one year of supervised probation. Judge Burnett passed the sentence. Morrison was jailed by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force after a search during a May traffic stop on Hutton Road uncovered five bags of marijuana in her luggage.

David Edwin Liller, 43, Friendsville, pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and was handed a 60-day sentence with all but 13 days suspended. His March arrest by Maryland State Police troopers stemmed from an episode of loud and disorderly nighttime behavior in front of the Guardian Apartments.

Brandon Delano Wilt, 20, Md., pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and driving while impaired (DWI) and was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) by Judge Burnett, who handed down a 60-day sentence, all but two days of which was suspended, and was fined $557, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service. Wilt was arrested in March during a traffic stop by sheriff's deputies in Mtn. Lake Park, a search of his car uncovered a smoking pipe bearing burnt marijuana residue.

Wilt faced additional charges of marijuana and paraphernalia possession that were not prosecuted. Those charges were filed by the Narcotics Task Force after a search of an Oakland Motel room.

Seth A. Hughes, 25, Sterling, Va., pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and was handed a 30-day sentence, all but two days of which were suspended, and was fined $257, placed on one year of unsupervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service. His February arrest by state troopers came during a traffic stop on I-68, when marijuana, a smoking device with residue, and a grinder were found in his car. Two counts of paraphernalia possession were not prosecuted.

Ronald Wayne Reckner, 19, Accident, pleaded guilty to misdemeanor theft and received a 30-day suspended sentence, two years of supervised probation, and an order to make a $400 restitution payment. Sheriff's deputies arrested him in March after determining that he had found a key stored outside an Accident residence and used it to enter the locked home in order to steal $1,000 worth of items.

Michael Kenneth Welsh, 30, Cumberland, pleaded guilty to possession of drug paraphernalia and was fined $457, while an additional charge of marijuana possession was not prosecuted. Sheriff's deputies arrested Welsh in December during a traffic stop on Glendale Road, when a search turned up a pipe with residue and a cellophane wrapper containing marijuana.

Mathew Jay Clark, 20, Bruceton Mills, W.Va., pleaded guilty to driving while his license was revoked and was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ), fined $150, and was placed on 18 months' unsupervised probation by Judge Foos. Narcotics Task Force detectives had arrested Clark in March during a traffic stop on Dung Hill Road, where a bag of suspected marijuana and a smoking pipe were found in his pocket. Additional charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia were not prosecuted.

Judge Burnett handed a stet ruling to Joseph Alan Williams, 19, Swanton, who faced charges of trespassing and disorderly conduct filed by Oakland police officers in June. Williams had allegedly entered onto posted property while carrying an axe handle and demanding to speak to a resident.

Grzegorz Chojnowski, 36, Parkville, and Radoslaw Czarnecki, 23, Rosedale, were both handed stet rulings on misdemeanor theft, destruction of property, and disorderly conduct charges. The pair was arrested by state troopers in April after they stole a business sign and mail from mailboxes located along Mayhew Inn Road. Police said they were both intoxicated when they were apprehended walking along the roadway.

Dwight Howard Clary, 27, Accident, received a stet ruling on a destruction of property charge filed by sheriff's deputies in June. He was arrested for reportedly punching out the window of a woman's car.

West Virginia residents Edward Allen Slaughbaugh, 20, Gormania, and Dusty Robert Whitacre, 20, Elk Garden, were both handed stet rulings on possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia charges. The pair were jailed by Oakland police officers in March after a if you talk to the majority of the spouses, or the mothers or fathers, I think you'll find that most of them believed in what they were doing, and that they had a reason or they knew in their mind why they were there.

Probably the thing that upsets me most is that she's using names of soldiers on the crosses that she doesn't even know … or their families. I know that there are several wives from Ft. Hood, Texas, who have filed a lawsuit against her because she's using their husbands' names.

I know she's talked to the president once, and I don't understand what more she wants. I understand that she's grieving, but I still feel she should support what her son did and what the troops are doing.

What she's doing is not the way to do it.

Do you know if Thor's name is on one of the crosses?

B: I've heard that it was, and his father is checking into that. It shouldn't be there, and I know that Thor wouldn't want it there.

J: He absolutely wouldn't want it there. This young man died a hero, as all of our troops have died. They've all died heroes.

I agree with Betty, and the only way to say it is that she is dishonoring her son by making it a protest of this magnitude on the international news so that everybody can see it, including the troops. She needs to think this all out, she's just not thinking clearly.

Of course it hurts, you can see how it hurts here, every day it hurts, but you gotta support the mission we're on here. We can't undermine these guys. They need our support.

Yes or no question: Should President Bush meet with Cindy Sheehan?

J: Absolutely not; she already met with him.

B: No.

If you could meet with President Bush, what would you say to him?

B: I'd tell him, "Stay the course, stay and finish the job. If we leave early they've all died in vain."

J: I think he clearly intends to stay the course, because we pulled out before early and now we're back in. We need to finish the job.

Thank you for sharing your story.

Both: Thank you for letting us tell it.

Maddawgs Mash Southern; Vikes Fall To Keyser

The Northern Maddawgs steamrolled to a 46-15 win over the Southern Renegades Saturday in Pee Wee Football League action, while the Oakland Vikings were downed in a 46-6 loss to the Keyser Mini-Tornado.

Southern got on the board first against Northern when Coy Ozias carried the ball into the end zone from five yards out. The Maddawgs responded a short time later when Tyler Ireland scored on a six-yard run. The quarter ended with the Renegades up 9-6.

Northern exploded in the second quarter, as Cody Rodeheaver romped 40 yards for a TD, Kyle Rosenberger gathered in a 57-yard scoring pass from Patrick Sines, Robert Hill ran 27 yards for a score, and Toby Grove found the end zone from three yards out. The Maddawgs were up 26-9 at the half.

Southern got back on the board in the third quarter when Ozias scored his second touchdown on a three-yard run, but in the final stanza Northern's Rodeheaver scored from five yards out and Jordan Evans carried the ball 19 yards for a touchdown.

The Maddawgs' C Team defeated the Southern squad.

The Vikings' only score came in the second quarter of their meeting with Keyser, when Kurt Gangler hit Tyler Alt with a 10-yard scoring strike.

SHS Girls' Soccer Sets Car Washes

The Southern High School girls' soccer team will sponsor two car wash fundraisers this Monday, Sept. 5 (Labor Day), from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. One of the events will take place at the Susquehanna Bank branch in Oakland, and the other will be held at the First United Bank in McHenry.

Funds raised by the benefits will go to the purchase of warm-up gear for the Ram squad.

HUSKIES, RAMS SIGN WITH LAKER VOLLEYBALL PROGRAM – 'The Garrett College women's volleyball team will have a familiar look to it this season, as the roster includes seven local netters from Garrett County's two high schools. "We're very excited that this year's team will consist of a very talented group of local players, including five local freshmen from Northern and Southern High schools who bring many accolades with them," said Garrett volleyball coach and athletic director Ann Wellham. "They help give our Lakers an opportunity to do exceptionally well this season." The NHS alumni members of the GC volleyball team are shown above, as pictured seated from the left are Garrett College athletic director and volleyball coach Ann Wellham; freshman Jayme Miller seated in front of her parents John and Chris Miller; sophomore Tabitha Beitzel, with her mother Arlene Beitzel; sophomore Lyndsi Butler, with her parents Doug and Sheila Butler; freshman Nicole Kovach, with her parents Mary Fazenbaker and Doug Kovach; Danielle Glotfelty, with her parents Addie and Warren; and Husky volleyball coach Linda Wengerd. The SHS alumni members of the Laker volleyball squad are pictured below, as seated are Wellham, Julia Bosley, with her parents Craig and Todd; Kayla Nazelrod, with her grandmother Patty McCrobie; and Ram volleyball coach Sue Newton. The 2005 Laker season kicks off Wednesday at Pitt Community College, and a season preview – with a full schedule, team roster, and team photo – is forthcoming.

Steelers, Rams Downed In CAYFL Action

The Northern Steelers and the Oakland Rams of the Cumberland Area Youth Football League both lost over the weekend during road outings in Allegany County. The Steelers dropped a 26-7 contest with the defending regular season champs, the Personal Best Patriots, and the Rams were downed by the Braddock Warriors, 26-14.

Northern's Dillon Millen opened the scoring in the Steelers' game by scampering 50 yards for a first-quarter touchdown; however, that and a Millen pass to Teddy Linton for the extra point were all the points the Garrett squad could muster. The Pats' Cameron Butler romped through Northern's defense on scoring runs of 63 and 65 yards en route to 170 yards on just nine carries.

Southern's outing saw the Rams fall to a 26-0 deficit by the end of the third quarter. The Rams' two touchdowns came in the final stanza, as William Eichorn sped 88 yards for a rushing touchdown and followed up with a second TD on a 30-yard run. Melvin Tyson had touchdown runs of 65, 30, and 20 yards for the Warriors as he racked up 160 yards on the ground.
